Desperate Struggle with a Demented Prisoner in the Plattsmouth Jail-Several Prisoners Seriously Injured-Other Nebraska News Notes.

BEATRICE, Neb., Jan. 29.-[Special to THE BEE.]-The 3 year-old child of Scott Balderson, living on South Bluff street, West Beatrice, died yesterday from the effects of being badly scalded a day or two previous. The mother had gone out of the house for a few moments, having only a short while before put a kettle of boiling water on the stove hearth, and the little one thoughtlessly caught hold of the handle of the vessel, caus ing it to upset, throwing the scalding con-tents all over her and frightfully scalding her. A helpless sister of the child saw the accident, but could render no assistance, and it was sometime before the mother re-turned. In the meanwhile the injured child suffered the most intense arony, her fiesh all over the lower part of her body being liter-ally parboiled. She lingered until yesterday afternoon, when death came to her relief.

The affairs of the company were shown to be in the most prosperous snape, and it is the intention to largely increase the output of the establishment this season. The Gage County Agricultural society has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Emil Lang, president; C. G. Dorsey and C. N. Emery, vice presidents; C. F. A. Bartling secretary and A. W. Bradt, treas-urer. The society contemplates disposing of the present grounds in the northeast part of the city and combining with the Linden Tree Park Driving association grounds, a short distance west of the city limits. The plan meets with popular approval, as the present grounds are almost inaccessible because of the distance from the city during fair times and which has seriously militated agains the success of the fair since the grounds have occupied their present location. The board occupied their present location. The board will meet again next Saturday, February 4.

CONGRESSIONAL FORECAST.

Disposition of the Anti-Option Bill Promised

This Week. WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 29.-The most notable event of the week in congress will probably be the disposition of the auti-option bill in the senate. By an agreement, the final vote upon the bili will be taken at 3 o'clock Tuesday. It will then, in all probability, be sent back to the house with its many amendments, an entirely different measure from the original Hatch bill that passed that body

The first two annual appropriation bills are on the calendar of the senate, the army bill and the fortifications bill, and it is expected that the District of Columbia appro riation bill will be added to the list early in the week. It is the expectation of the man agers to also patch up the Cullom bill changing the interstate commerce bill to meet recent decisions. As introduced, this bill contained the important "pooling" clause, which was afterward stricken out by the committee on a very close vote, and it is possible that an effort will be made when he bill is under consideration in the senate restore this provision to the bill. The house leaders intend to keep at work on the appropriation bills to the exclusion of all other business. As soon as the sundry civil bill is passed, the general deficiency, the consular and diplomatic, the military academy, the pension and the postoffice bills all of which are now on the calendar, will be taken up, probably in the order named and ent over to the senate.

There should not be much delay in passing the first of these bills, unless an attempt to exploit the condition of the treasury should involve the house in a general financial debate. The pension and postoffice supp.y bills are quite likely to be the subject of con-siderable discussion, owing to some radica changes in methods proposed by the former tion.

bill and to heavy increases of appropriations proposed by the latter bill. The passage of these bills will leave only three of the appropriation bills unacted on by the house. Two of these bills, the Indian and the agricultural, are expected to be re-ported before these measures now on the calendar are out of the way. The naval bill should follow close on their heels, its delay having been due to a desire to know the condition of the treasury before commencing the construction of additional war vessels. The separate order for the Andrew-Cate banking and silver purchase repeal bill which the committee on rules has agreed to report, may be brought in during the week but it is not intended to call it up until the morning of the day on which it is to go in peration-February 9-so that this fight is off for more than a week.

NEW TREATY WITH SWEDEN.

Nearly Every Class of Criminals Will Be Reached in the Future. WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 29.-The presi dent has sent to the senate a new extradition treaty with Sweden, recently negotiated. Among other things the treaty provides that each government shall deliver up ersons charged with or convicted of the following crimes within the jurisdiction of one of the contracting parties and seeking asy-lum in the territory of the other: Murder, attempt to murder, manslaughter, arson robbery, forgery, counterfeiting, embezzle ment, larceny, receiving stolen property, or taining property by false pretenses, fraud by bailee, banker, agent, factor, trustee or di-rector, member or officer of any company made criminal by the laws of both countries, perjury, rape, kidnaping, abduction, willful destruction or obstruction of railways, which endangers human life, crimes at sea and crimes against laws of both countries for the suppression of slavery. Neither of the contracting parties shall be sound to deliver up its own citizens. A criminal shall not be surrendered if his offense be of a political nature, or if he proves the requisition for his surrender has been made with a view to try to punish him for a politi-cal offense, or for an offense committed prior to the making of the treaty; or if the act has been barred by limitation according to the laws of the country to which the quisition is addressed. The decision of the uthorities of the government on which the lemand is made or which may have granted the extradition, shall be final. No person surrendered by either party shall without his consent, freely and publicity granted, tried for an offense committed prior to extradition other than that for which he was delivered, until he shall have had an opportunity of returning to the country from which he was surrendered. All articles seized which were in pos-ession of the person to be surrendered at the time of his arrest, whether being the proceeds of his offense or material as evidence of the crime or offense shall so far as practicable be given up when extradition takes place. The treaty is to take effect on the 30th day after the day of exchange of when it takes effect the treaty of March. 1860, shall cease to be in force, except as to ets committed prior to that day.

BILLY AUSTIN IS LOCATED Missing Engineer Found at the Poor Farm

by a Bee Reporter.

HE HAS FORGOTTEN HIS IDENTITY

Believes Himself to Be an Old Friend-Strange Hallucination of the Man-Parallel for the Remarkable Case of Judge Clarkson.

Could the grave have given up its dead the friends of William Brensley Austin would not have been any more surprised than they were yesterday when they learned that he was an inmate at the county poor farm, and that he had been a ward at that nstitution for nearly two weeks. William Brensley Austin, better known as Billy Austin, was one of the oldest stationary engineers in the city, and was considered one of the best. He came to Omaha some eighteen years ago and for a long time was the head engineer on the Tiger, a boat that perated between the head waters of the Missouri river and St. Louis. Then he went cast and drove a locomotive on the Eric road but not liking railroading he returned and again found employment upon a steamboat, all of the time keeping his eye on Omaha. After the town grew to such an extent that steam plants were brought in, he quit the river and went to running stationary machines, working for ome of the best firms and corporations in the city. During the latter years of his resi-dence in Ornaha he has made himself quite famous by writing for magazines which de-voted their space to discussing the applica-"The Sliding Valve," was copied exten-sively both in this country and in Europe. When the association of stationary engi-neers held its national convention in this city engineer of the building, giving him full charge and control of the steam and heating plant. In this capacity he served until the latter part of the year, when without giving any notice, he tendered his resignation, which was accepted by the city council on Decem-ber 6. On that evening, after eating his supper, he bade his wife and two boys goodsupper, he dade his whe and two boy's good-bye, but on his overcoat and left his home in the north part of the city, saying that he was going to attend the council meeting. He did not return that night, but as there was a blizzard the members of the family did not cel uncasy, thinking that he had remained n the city

He did not return the next day, and his riends were notified. Search was instifriends were notified. Search was insti-tuted, but it was fruitless. Austin had dis-appeared as though swallowed up by the earth. For days this search was continued by the members of the family and by the members of the secret orders to which he belonged. Finally when it was discovered that no trace of the missing man could be found he was given up for dead, the opinion being that he had wandered away in a fit of temporary insanity and possibly had been drowned in the river. With public opinion holding that view of the case, nothing more was thought of the matter until yesterday when Tug Bgg located Austin at the count poor farm, where he has been since January 18, and where he is known as William Brens

Arrested and Called Insane,

The blotter at the central police station shows that near the hour of midnight on December 6, Officer Kissane was patrolling South Thirteenth street, below Farnum, and as he was making his rounds he met a man who acted in a peculiar manner. The indi-vidual was arrested and taken to the city jail, where he gave his name as William Brensley. He was booked as having "snakes," and the city physician was called. After making an examination the doctor decided that the man should be sent to the county ail. The next day he was carted up the hill ind locked in the county jail where he conjail. tinued to be an inmate until January 18. when the insanity commission passed upon the case and ordered the patient to the county poor farm, holding that he was in Yesterday morning THE BEE learned of the facts as above stated, and a reporter at once visited the institution, asking to be allowed the privilege of seeing Brensley Superintendent Mahoney ushered the man in the parlor of the county building, and after shaking hands, the remark, "How are you, Austin?" was made. Austin stared vacantly around the room for a moment and in a manner that indi-cated that reason was completely dethroned. responded: "I don't know you and I guess that you are on the wrong track this time. He Faintly Remembered Austin.

There is no reason why they should ery for Recovering her composure to some extent, Mrs. Austin asked : "William, don't you-know me?"

Austin looked her straight in the eyes and said: "I can't say as I do though you look some-thing as Bill Austiff's wife did the last time that I saw her, but that was years ago. No, madam, I can't say as I recognize you." One of the intlejups went up to his father and putting his arms around his neek m.

and putting his arms around his neck m uired Papa, don't you know me?

The poor man put the little fellow from him, and carefully ascrutinizing his face, answered: "You look something like Bill Austin's boy did the last time that I saw him, but that was yours and years ago." Once more he looked at the boy, and smiling said: "Yes, you are Bill's boy, but you have changed so that I would hardly know you." It was apparent that the man's mind had wandered, and all attempts to restore his reason were discontinued. The wife and her two little ones retraced their steps homeward, their every act in-dicating that they were deeply bowed down with grief, though there was a hope in their breasts that the insanity was but temporary and that in time the husband and father would again be the respected citizen that he had been in the past.

Only as Billy Austin's Friend.

During the afternoon Walter B. Stark, the engineer of The Bgs building, called upon Austin, hoping that he could held an intellisame old story. Although Austin had known Mr. Stark for years he failed to ree-ognize him, and when asked. "Don't you re-member me!" the insane man looked off into space and then inquired: "The name,

'My name is Stark, Walter B. Stark," answered Tun Ban engineer. "Seems to me that' have heard that name

"Seems to me thab! have heard that name some place," said Austin, as he dropped his head and went into a brown study. "Yes, now I have it; you was a friend of Bill Aus-tin and I have heard him speak of you." Dr. Brevoort, the house physician at the poor farm, states that he has given the case considerable attention and that he is satisfied that Austin is much better than when he was admitted to the housital He when he was admitted to the hospital also states that he is of the opinion that He he is kept quiet that before many weeks his reason will come back as suddenly as it went away. The doctor declares that the case is exactly of the Clarkson type and that the most that is needed is quiet and rest.

Resubmission Might Have Been Adopted

but the Prohibitionists Were Too Active-Representatives of All Parties Well Pleased.

PIERRE, S. D., Jan. 29.- [Special to THE BEE]-The skirmishing for position in the prohibition fight is over, and from this time out it is open war. The resubmissionists have from the beginning held the key to the situation by controlling the committees, and they have deferred the struggle on the floor until they were assured of enough support o pass the bill. When the legislators first crived in Pierre there was an apparent majority of one or two in each house for resubmission. But the prohibitionists organized their campaign shrewdly, and in a few days the preponderance appeared to turn their way. They did their work through committees in either house, and thus pre vented jealousy. Every night saw a consuitation at which notes were compared and the ground gone over carefully. A few recruits were made and the leaders became confident of success. They began to be more open in their advocacy and to press forward threats of what they would do in case the republicans granted resubmission. But by the end of the second week they found the tide turning against them. Thei recruits began to become doubtful and cold. They summoned back Mrs. Cranmer, who They summoned back Mrs. Cranmer, who had left, and Mrs. Simmons, the vice president of the Women's Christian Temperance union. On their return they found the senate lost to them and the house still close They attempted to recover the lost ground but it was too late.

Agreed on Local Option.

Agreed on Local Option. The resubmissionists meanwhile had been working hard and successfully. The argu-ment of the situation was with them and they plied it continually. Their plea made an impression. They showed that as a mat-ter of party policy, of fairness to the people of the state and ordinary political honor re-submission could not be gainsaid. Finally to make assurance sure and to show that they were not extremists, they agreed to make the amendment not simply to throw aside prohibition, but to substitute for it local option by cities and towns. Should the present bill past hose cities and towns which present bill pass those cities and towns which wanted saloons, that is those towns where as now prohibition is not enforced and can not be may have the saloons, while those towns which do not want them will do without This is a measure of justice and must appeal to the sense of fairness which underlies the American system of rule by the majority is not the old country local option which caused so much dissatisfaction, but municipal local option, which has proven a great success wherever tried. There is no question whatever that a great majority of the people of the state will favor it. It is a most happy solution of the contest.

The light will begin Monday and will be mushed to a finish. The amendment comes in the form of a joint resolution requiring but one vote in each house and can thus be put through in much less time than a bill. There is a safe majority in each branch for it and unless some unforseen accident hap-pens it will be passed before many days go by.

Battle with a Lunatic.

PLATTSMOUTH, Neb., Jan. 29.-[Special to THE BEE.]-A demented man was captured three miles southwest of this city yesterday and brought in by two farmers. After being examined by the insanity board he was taken to the city jail. He was very quiet until the prisoners began making preparations for dinner, when all of a sudden he became very obstreperous. Grabbing a knife in one hand and a table leg in the other he created a panic among the other prisoners. The result was the prisoners were badly disfigured having several gashes cut in their heads Jailer Tigh was soon on hand, but a desperate struggle occurred before they could get the best of the unfortunate man. A stream of water was turned on him and during the turmoll the lumatic had a gash cut in his head nearly six inches long.

Old times were talked over, the poor fellow continually declaring that he was William Brensley, and that in his younger days he knew William Austin, "but," he continued, "the poor fellow is dead now. He was a good friend of mine and we were raised boys together, both having the same godfather William Brensley. He took the name o William Brensley. He took the name of William Brensley Austin and 1 the name William Brensley

When asked how he happened to get into the poor house, Austin declared that on the night of December 6 he came to the city over the Union Pacific on his way to Memphis, where he was going to take a position on a Mississippi river steamboat. He stopped off at the depot and was on his way up town, when he was met by three men, who robbed him of $40, a watch and his overcoat, and then ran away. Since then he states that every one has pro-nounced him insane, but he declares that he is not, and that he is kept in the institution that the relatives of Austin may secure some valuable property that was left to him in treland upon the death of his father. Upon every subject except the one regarding his connection with Austin he talks as rationally as any man can, but when that is brought up he declares that Austin is dead and that he is William Brensley. County Agent Mahoney said that when the man was first taken to the poor farm and placed in the insane ward he thought that he looked familiar, but as he insisted that his name was Brensley, he paid but little attention to the matter, as new insand patients are placed in the institution every tay and not having been well acquainted with Austin he did not recognize in him an one that he had ever known.

sumcient number of populats support him.

While this apparent fight which could in a moment be resolved into complete harmony is going on in the republican party there is the florcest kind of a battle in progress in the democratic column. Now the least able and worthy of the democratic nominees has succeeded by threats and cojolery in gathering about him a sufficient number of legis-lators to control a caucus. He has repeatedly endeavored to have a caucus held but the members opposed to him refuse flatly to go into one. The other democratic candidates, Holliday, Corn and Beck say-little, but are working like beavers to draw from New some of his strength. Republicans generally concede that a democrat or populist will be elected and the better class are anxious to have the matter settled soon, though the politicans care little how much the struggle s prolonged as every day is weakening the democratic party in the state. The populists alone are united and are in a position to solve the question at any time when it suits them and when the democrats unite upon a candidate acceptable to them. They do not want New as he is supposed to be the Union Pacific candidate. They are averse to Beck and Baxter, both having been in sympathy with the invasion. A se are having lection of Corn or Holliday, who are in the field, or of Thompson or Beckwith who are not avowed candidates would suit them. Several ballots are expected to be taken to morrow.

ADY WAS ELECTED.

Kansas Republicans Make a Discovery That Will Disappoint the Democrats.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jun. 29 .-- The republicans have just learned that they elected an United States senator in the joint session of the two houses last Wednesday. They claim that none of the members of the populist house were legally sworn in and consequently had no right to vote for senator; that the state senators, including the populist members of that body, together with the members of the republican house, constituted a quorum of the joint convention; that Adv received sev enty-seven votes, or a majority of the quorum, and that he was, therefore, elected mator Mr. Ady will be furnished with credentials signed by Speaker Douglass of the repub-lican house and by each of the republican senators, and will proceed at once to Washington to claim the seat row occupied by Senator Perkins and to which the populists claim to have elected Judge John Martin, emocrat. The republicans expect that the United States senate, having a republican majority, will give Mr. Ady the seat.
