The High school heating facilities are far from being adequate to the needs, and the beard has so far shown itself unable to devise any means of remedying the defect. A continued season of very cold weather would make it necessary for the work of this work of this department to be abandoned altogether.

"People who make complaints about he quality of the gas we are furnishing just now do us an injustice," remarked one of the employes of the gas company last evening. "There is no deficiency in the quality of the gas, but it is above the standard. Frost in unprotected pipes is the sole cause of the trouble, and if people would properly protect their service pipes instead of growling at the gas company there would be no cause of complaint."

The new quarters of Henry DeLong's Union Christian mission are being fitted up and will be dedicated next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Stephen Phelps of the Presbyterian church will preach the dedicatory sermon, and other ministers of the city will take part in the services. The mission has been endorsed by the ministerial associa tion of this city, and a large attendance is expected at the dedication. Mr. DeLong states that the room will be comfortably heated, and he extends a cordial invitation to every one to be present.

Four cases in which Ed Ward and wife. who live twelve miles east of the city, are defendants, were to have been tried in the district court yesterday, but had to be postponed until this morning on account of the absence of Mrs. Ward. THE DAILY BEE NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

NO. 12 PEARL STREET. | Shooting of E. C. Harris is Still Shrouded in Mystery.

THEORIES THAT HAVE BEEN ADVANCED

Police in Doubt as to Whether it Was a Case of Murder, Suicide or Accidental Shooting The Developments of Yesterday.

The shooting of E. C. Harris became no less a mystery through yesterday's disclosures. The police put in a good share of the day looking up the case, but without making any discoveries that would throw much light on the causes of the rash act. It was thought at first that it might not be a case of suicide at all. The theories of murder and accidental shooting were advanced. A man who formerly worked for Harris stated that he considered Harris a man who might recklessly examine a loaded firearm until it went off, but this theory has but little to recommend it. The path of the builet was from the forehead just above the eye to the back part of the head in an almost horizontal direction, and this would indicate that the weapon was held up to the forehead in the way in which it was thought death would most surely follow. The theory that he was murdered for the purpose of robbery is but little more satisfactory. The men at the office of Russell isfactory. The men at the office of Russell & Co, state that but very little money passes through the office. Nearly all the collections are made in the form of checks or drafts, which would be worthless to any one excepting the one to whom they were made payable. The company did almost no business at all in the city. For several months past almost all the deposits in the bank had been made by the bookkeeper, who also signed most of the checks. The papers on the desk, by which Harris was found, were undisturbed, so that the theory of murder undisturbed, so that the theory of murder seemed to be out of the question.

Theory of Suicide. The theory that it was a plain case of suicide accordingly seems to be the only one that will bear investigation, and the police that will bear investigation, and the police have been trying to solve the mystery con-nected with it and show the cause. So far their efforts have been in vain. It was thought that possibly Harris' business mat-ters were in bad shape, but as thorough an examination as it has been possible thus far to make puts this supposition out of the way. Harris was noted among his business associ-ates for his methodical way of attending to ates for his methodical way of attending to his concerns, and this characteristic was even manifested in the way the papers were arranged upon the desk behind which his unconscious body was found lying. They were piled up with the utmost neutness and regularity. Nor was he regarded as a spend-thrift who would be apt to make inroads on the firm's money to pay his private bills. He drew a good salary and never seemed to be spending as much as he earned. The bookkeeper states that the books are in perfectly straight condition and that a shortage is

The only theory for which there seems to be any ground whatever is that there was a oman in the case. It is stated that he had en in the habit of visiting Omaha frequently, and that he was often seen in company with a woman who formerly lived on this side of the river. What the name of the mysterious woman is or where she lives is a complete mystery. It is thought that if she could be found there might be something ascertained from her which would lead to a solution of the mystery. As stated yesterday, Harris was extremely backward about confiding in any one. Even those with whom he associated most state that they never heard him say a word on the subject of "woman," either in general or in particular. He kept his own counsel with regard to the Omaha woman just as comtely as he did in all of his other affairs He was never considered surly, but when addressed by any one with whom he was thrown into contact he always replied pleasantly. He seemed to be not so much a misanthrope, who was disgusted with mer general, as a man who felt his ability to get along without any close friends.

His Relatives. All of Harris' relatives, so far as known at his end of the line, live at Massillon, O. He was a stepson of J. K. Russell, president of the company for which he was working. Word of the unfortunate occurrence has been sent to the Ohio relatives, but no reply had been received yesterday afternoon. It is expected, however, that a representative of the company of the that a representative of the company will come out as soon as possible to take the management of the business. The mother of the dying man is said to be very old and feeble, and it is feared that the announcement of her son's misfortune will endanger

All day yesterday Harris lay on a cot in the private office on Pearl street, breathing heavily, but totally unconscious. During the morning h is pulse strengthened, and the men who were caring for him felt a few glimmerings of hope. But the improvement was only temporary, for he soon commenced to sink rapidly and at 5 o'clock the beating of his heart could scarcely be noticed. All the morning visitors were denied admittance, but in the afternoon his physician stated that he was beyond all harm from that direction, and the doors were opened to reporters and a few other callers Nothing in the shape of a message was found in his papers, although a search was the correct one, it seemed that the same desire to keep everything to himself followed him even to the brink of the grave. A search at his room in the Grand hotel was equally futile.

The weapon with which the deed was done was taken in charge by Chief of Police Scanlan. It was a new 38-caliber revolver of a cheap pattern, and had apparently been purchased especially for the occasior.

At 11 o'clock last night Harris was still alive, but that was all. His breathing was very much weaker than during the after noon and his pulse was imperceptible. His physician had been there a couple of hours previous and said that he might live some

CHARGED WITH BOODLING.

Deputy Zerbi of the Italian Chamber Will Be Tried for Bribe Taking.

ROME, Feb. 2.—The committee of the Chamber appointed to consider the subject has reported in favor of delivering Denuty Zerbi to the public prosecutor to be dealt with in the courts on the charge of having received large bribes to induce him to support the interests of the Banca Romana in the legislature. The excitement regarding the bank scandals is increasing.

It was reported in the Chamber of Deputies today that Sig. Tanlongo, the imprisoned governor of the Bank of Rome. had given evidence to the examining magistrate against several of the most conspicuous statesmen in Italy. Proof was said to have been found that Taulongo had pro-vided three Italian premiers with money to be spent in the public service. In the last few years these sums had aggregated 5,000,-000 francs, most of which had been spent to strengthen the government in the chamber. Sig. Guleri, after alluding to these reports, asked the government whether or not there was truth in the current report that the ministers had used the funds of the Bank of Rome for election purposes.
Sig. Gioletti answered that he must decline to consider seriously such calumnies and therefore ignore the interpolation. The Marquis de Rudini, who immediately preceded Sig. Gioletti as premier, in a spir-ited speech, defended himself against the suspicion of having received any part of the 5,000,000 francs, said to have been paid to re-cent Italian premiers. He had never, directly or indirectly, he said, received a lira from the Bank of Rome, either for private or public purposes. His hands were as clean as those endeavoring to calumniate him. He courted investigation and hoped that the chamber would institute immediately an inquiry into his official career.

Sig. Tanlongo's papers have been sent to Paris to prevent their coming into the hands of the examining magistrate. It is said that before the removal of them they were offered to the vatican, which was ex-pected to use them against the liberals. The vatican, however, refused the offer.

Sig. Seesa, a lawyer, was arrested here this evening for having acted as intermediary between Deputy Zerbi and the Bank of Rome, from which Zerbi is said to have received 400,000 francs in three years.

MURDERED FOR REVENGE.

Fate Which Befell a Gentleman on an Italian Railway Train.

PALERMO, Feb. 2.-The body of Sig. Nolabartoli, ex-mayor of this city and exdirector of the Bank of Sicily, was found today beside the railroad line near the Aetavilla station. He had been killed by repeated dagger thrusts. Investigation by the police has revealed the fact that Sig. Nolabartoli had started on a railway journey last even-ing. As the train passed Actavilla two well dressed men were seen to enter the car-riage occupied by the ex-mayor. It is supposed that these men were seeking revenge upon Sig. Nolabartoli for some real or fancied wrong, and that when they entered he carriage their object was to kill him.

It is presumed that after he was stabbed to death the body was thrown from the car riage window. The carriage occupied by the murdered man shows evidences of a desperate struggle. There is no clue to the mur-

IMPORTANT IOWA DECISION

Sheriff-Elect of Henry County Naturalized Weeks After Being Elected.

CHIEF JUSTICE ROBINSON DISSENTS

Des Moines City Council Determined to Have

Cheap Water Will Not Be Permitted to Cut Off the Supply.

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 2.- Special Telcgram to The Bee. | -In the supreme court today the case of the state ex rel, Jacob Perine, appellant, against George Van Beek, board of supervisors of Henry county, John Wirtz, auditor of Henry county; the decision of the lower court against appellant was affirmed. Perine and Van Beek were opposing candidates for sheriff of Henry county in 1891. Van Beek is alleged not to be a citizen of the United States, having never taken out naturalization papers. He was born in Holland. It is claimed he concealed this fact, and the certificate of election was given to him as he received the highest number of votes.

He says in his defense that his father was naturalized before he had attained his majority and that he had served in the army and had never doubted that he was a citizen of the United States. He denies all fraud. January 5 he obtained naturalization papers On this day he was required to qualify to his office. The question is, does this make him eligible to office. The subreme court thinks it does and that a man who is eligible on the day of qualification is elizible for election. Chief Justice Robinson dissents. Other decisions are: Thompson and Frederickson against Hefner, Woodbury district, dismissed; White against Dallas county appellant, Dallas district, affirmed; Honking appealant, Dallas district, affirmed; Hopkins appellant against Dineene, Wood-bury district, affirmed; Goldsborough against Pidduck appellant, Harrison district, affirmed; Calahan against Vansant & Dike-man appellant, Allamakee district, affirmed; Lyon & Co. against Callopy appellant, Wood-bury district, affirmed; State against Braskamp appellant, Sloux district, affirmed; Raymond against Krauskopf appellant, Har rison district, affirmed.

Brick and Tile Makers Meet.

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 2-[Special Telegram to THE BEE. |- In the state convention of the brick and tile makers today J. A. Kerr of Ames read an interesting paper on "Mastering the Situation," which was followed by a paper on "Farm Drainage," by Prof. James Wilson of the State Agricultural college, and a paper on "Drainage of Orchards," by Prof. J. L. Budd of the same institution. Among the other papers presented were: By J. M. Stark, 'Drying Brick and Tile;" Robert Good win of Grand Junction, "Manufacture and Sale of Drain Tile." The papers were extensively discussed. The general tenor of reports from the various localities was to the effect that the business the past year was good, both in tile and brick. The tile men were of the opinion that the good sales in their line were partic ularly influenced by reason of the fact that last season was a wet one. They were generally of the opinion that next year would not be as good. The brick men were more confident of a continuous and increasing market.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

"My Jack," a sterling melodrama, will be the attraction at the Farnam Street theater for six nights beginning with Sunday matince, February 5. There is at least one scene in it which is strong enough to carry almost any play. The scene referred to describes a desert where the villain and the hero meet and try conclusions. P. August Anderson is the Greek villain and the manner in which he pleads for life when cornered is quite he pleads for life when cornered is quite moving. There is a great deal of plot and powder mixed up in the piece—also a deadly knife which is supposed to dispose of one of the characters. William Stafford plays the hero nicely. Charley Frew introduces a bit of comedy. Lillian Brainard is the blind widow and Mab'll Florence the girl that's left behind. Every inch of scenery used in the production of "My Jack" is carried by Mr. Sanford in his own special cars. being the most important of our season's Greece points to little more than a broken Parthenon as a memorial of her greatness and Rome has preserved as the gift of her forgotten builders a few shattered columns of the temple erected by Jespasian or a frag mentary colonnade of that which was dedi cated to Saturn. But in Egypt the temples are almost beyond numbering, while the inscriptions upon their walls and columns have preserved a written history contemporaneous with the age of their builders. A wide and inexhaustible field is therefore offered by the Nile temples to the historian, the student of A Nile journey is interesting, instructive, strange, enjoyable; a continuous line of surprises from the Delta to the cataracts, 1,000 miles; it is a long drawn out, double lined, enchanting picture, Cairo, the Egyptian Paris, a whole oriental province in itself with its mesques and minarets, its temples and lovely palaces, its strange schools and facinating streets—a city that one must see with actual eyes, and see without haste.

These are but some of the things of which Mr. Frank R. Roberson will speak and show by his "Egypt and the Egyptians" in the ininger art gallery Saturday evening, February 4.

During a winter's solourn in Egypt he gathered the material which he offers to our citizens through the medium of many beau tifully colored lantern slides. The glimpses of the orient obtained from his recent lectures on India and Japan are
