MOSHER RELEASED ON BAIL

President of the Defunct Capital National Bank at Liberty.

ALL LOSSES LIKELY TO BE MADE GOOD

If He is Not Sentenced to Imprisonment His Relations Will Provide Sufficient Funds to Settle All Indebtedness.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 2.- [Special to THE BEE.]-At 10:15 o'clock this morning a bond. signed by C. O. Whedon, the attorney and confidential advisor of C. W. Mosher, president of the defunct Capital National bank, and promising to pay to the United States government $10,000 in case Mosher should not appear at the first day of the May term of United States district court, was filed with the clerk of that court. It bore the approval of the district attorney, Hon. Ben Baker, and a few minutes afterwards Deputy Marshal Melick informed Mosher that he was free to go where he pleased. He lingered around the hotel for some time, and at last started in a cab to the southeast, presumably to his home, A petition is in circulation today, and has niready been signed by a number of depositors, praying the court to punish Mosher by fine only, and not to sentence him to imprisonment. This is a beginning of a movement that has for its object the escape of Mosher from any incarceration. It has been authoritatively stated that if the depositors will agree not to prosecute him they will be paid dollar for dollar, Mosher's sister-in-law and other heirs of the Mansfield estate in Peoria having guaranteed to advance $200,000 toward this object. It is thought that amount will cover all deficit found to be due, and not cause the stockholders of the oank any loss.

Will Accept the Offer.

Hon. Ben Baker, United States district attorney, was busy today preparing his affairs so that he can depart tomorrow for California where he and Mrs. Baker will spend a month

Speaking of the Mosher case Mr. Baker Speaking of the Mosher case Mr. Baker said: "Mosher's friends have made a proposition to me which I have seen fit to accept, provided that they act in good faith. In substance it is this: They propose to put up $150.000, and make good the $40.000 of small deposits if the sentence can be made a fine instead of penitentiary confinement. Now the alteration is just this: If we said Now the situation is just this: If we send Mosher to the penitentiary his friends will not make good a dollar of insolvency and the not make good a dollar of insolvency and the creditors will suffer. On the other hand, if we allow them to put up this $150,000 it will almost lift the bank out of the hole and this money will go into the hands of poor people who can illy afford to lose a cent of their hard earnings. I don't feel like taking that money out of their hands. Mosher's friends are willing to pay this amount of money for the reputation of the family and I am inclined to let them do it for it will be just that much for the deposfor it will be just that much for the depos for it will be just that much for the depos-tions that could never be got if we sent Mosher to the penitentiary. But the men who make this proposition must act square in the matter. The actual cash or its equivalent must be depos-ited to the credit of the bank by Mosher's friends or he must go to the penitentiary for not less than five years. not less than five years.

Other Features of the Case

"There is another matter that leads me to wish for the postponement of Mosher's sentence for a few months. Mosher has in-sisted on taking the responsibility entirely upon himself for the wrecking of the bank It would be rash, I think, to rush him off to penitentiary without waiting to ascerthe penitentiary without waiting to ascer-tain if there are not others responsible for the crookedness as well as he. I have left the matter in such a shape, with my deputy, that if Mosher's friends fail to put up the money they have agreed to, then his sen-rence can very well be withheld until the May term of court, and in the mean time we may be able to understand more about the causes that led to the failure of the bank. If Mosher has told me the truth of the bank. If Mosher has told me the truth he is not guilty of so grave a crime, morally, as most people have been led to suppose. He says that the benk lost $100,000 by failvres of smaller banks the very first year of its existence, and that he kept this fact from the knowledge of the stockholdders, for, being president of the concern he did not wish to see it go down and he feared that if he would reveal the true state of affairs the stock-holders would become discouraged and the credit of the bank would be ruined. He cov-ered up this loss as best he could, shifting he securities about so as to make it appear that the bank has a paid up capital of $300,000, when as a matter of fact it had but $200. 000, for the other $100,000 had bee He continued to make the bank pay dividends on $300,000, while he worked with a capital of only $200,000, and finally the strain became or only $200,000, and finally the strain became too great and the crash had to come. Mosher's father-in-law is very rich and he is willing to come to the front with the $150,-000 to save the reputation of his son-in-law. I think that is a pretty high price to pay for a family reputation and when a man is willing to do it I am inclined to think that it would not be right to refuse him the privilege, seeing that the money will go to people who need and aught to have it."

District Court News.

Owing to the fact that the supreme court owing to the fact that the supreme court adjourned until week after next without handing down a decision as to the validity of the drawing of the grand jury, the cases against Lauer and Hubbard, the ex-asylum steward and farm boss respectively, which were set for hearing today, were continued for two weeks.

Got a Change of Venue.

One of the most hotly contested cases over ried in the Lancaster district courts was tried in the Lancaster district courts was today transferred by change of venue to Otoc county. It was one where creditors of the Clay Manufacturing company, which operated the old woolen mills here, sought to rempel the individual stockholders to pay the indebtedness on the ground that they had failed to properly incorporate by publishing articles and making other legal publications in connection with the business. The case was twice tried to a jury, but each time there was a disagreement. Nearly all the prominent business and professional men of the city were numbered among the stocke city were numbered among the stockholders, and the change of venue was granted on the ground that the plaintiff was unable to obtain a fair trial because of their influence and prominence.

City in Brief.

BEFORE JUDGE ELLER.

Legal Struggle for Possession of the Russell Children Still Going On. The fight for the possession of the Russell children broke loose in Judge Eller's court again yesterday afternoon and was continued with all of the old time vigor until the hour of adjournment caused a cessation of hostilities. At the start the court made a ruling to the effect that in the future, or at only the father and the mother should be allowed to see and converse with the children, and that those conversations should be held in the presence of the sheriff.

That was the signal for war and then it broke loose. Mr. Halligan, the attorney for Mrs. Russell declared that Russell had been at the sheriff's residence trying to get the children to make an affidavit to the effect that their mother traveled in a very rapid class and that she was not much of a mother, Mr. Holmes, for Russell, branded the statement as a falsehood, manufactured out of whole cloth.

Judge Eller fancied that he smelled blood and cautioned both of the legal lights, in-forming them that his court was not going to be turned into a pugilistic mill, at least not if he knew himself. This disposed of the matter and the case proceeded on its merits.

Mrs. Russell was the first and only witness examined, as the taking of her testimony consumed the entire afternoon session of the court. She detailed all of the troubles which led to the separation and her removal to St. Paul. Then she told the tale of Russel's neglect and cruelty while they resided in lows and this city, reciting the facts that have already been published. This after-noon she will be subjected to cross-examination by Russell's attorneys.
