IRRIGATION IN NEBRASKA

Nearly a Million Broad Acres Have Been Already Reclaimed.

ONE DITCH THAT IS FORTY MILES LONG

That Canal Will Water Fifty Thousand Acres -Ten Thousand Already Under Cultivation The Story of Results Achieved by Ditching.

Many people know in a general way of irrigation enterprise in the west but few probably know in detail what is being done in this state to redeem its arid lands or what the practical effects of the first experiments in that direction have been. Mr. G. J. Hunt, who gave up a legal practice to engago in irrigating enterprises, is interested in one of the most important undertakings of the kind in Nebraska and in conversation with a BEE representative offered many instructive facts and figures drawn from his experience. Said he:

"The people in the eastern portion of the state cannot realize the wonderful transformation that has already been wrought, and the work has only begun. Nearly 1,000. 000 acres have been reclaimed in this state within the past two or three years, and other canals are projected for the present year which, when completed, will water more than that number. There is a wonderful and growing interest being manifested both in this method of farming and this character of investment. Within a few years an agricultural empire will arise within the arid belt where but recently the cattle baron held undisputed sway."

"What are the limits of this arid belt and how much of Nebraska lies within it?" "It is bounded by the 100th meridian on the east, the Pacific slope of the Rockies on the west, the British Dominion on the north and the Gulf of Mexico on the south; or, about 1,300 miles east and west by 1,200 miles north and south.

Location of the Arid Belt.

"A line drawn along the 100th meridian on the east would throw about two-thirds of Nebraska within this belt. But that portion lying immediately west of this line for a distance of 150 miles, or as far west, say, as the junction of the North and South Platte rivers, is within what is termed the 'subhumid district, or where enough rain falls in the course of the year to mature a crop, but it isn't evenly distributed; that is, a great deal of it falls early in the spring and late in the fall and very little during the growing season, to which fact are due the re-peated drouths that have proven so disas-trous to the farmers of that section and for which reason they raise a fair crop about once in five years and a third of a crop about every three years, and during the balance of the time their labor is unrequited and their mortgages are defaulted." "Can all the land within this area be irri

No. There is not water enough for onethird of it. Omitting Alaska, it comprises one-half the total area of the United States. It is estimated that about 350,000,000 acres can be irrigated. Outside of this region, the total number of acres in the United States that are productive is 285,000,000. Now, one acre irrigated will produce from four to six times as much as an acre of the very best soil anywhere within the rain belt, and when this vast area is reclaimed and cultivated its agricultural product will be at least six times as much as the total yield of the United States today. When our deep harbors are completed and the Nicaragua canal astructed this area west of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers will feed Europe. It opens a vast field to the immigrant.

"It will afford," continued Mr. Hunt, "homes to 30,000,000 of farm dwellers. The tendency in every irrigated district is to small farms and intensive cultivation—a farmer of forty acres being able to raise more than the best farm of 160 acres in the rain belt can be made to produce.

Irrigation Solves the Problem.

"There is no other occupation on earth, outside of farming," Mr. Hunt went on, "that brings as much comfort, prosperity and certainty as this system of farming does to those who work by it. The element of uncertainty is removed and agriculture is given the certainty and exactness of a scientific industry. The farmer reaps, as he sows. He knows at the beginning of the season not only that he will raise a full crop, but that his yield will be four times as much as he could expect from the best field in Illinois, and of such quality as to insure him the highest market price. He also knows that there will be no rain to retard his work; no mud to keep him from market and no storms to delay his tarvest."

"Is irrigation very extensively practiced at the present time?"

"Yes; to an extent little dreamed of by

"Yes; to an extent little dreamed of by Americans. The fact is, the United States has the largest cultivable area on the face of the globe where crops can be matured by rainfall. There are very few nations that do not resort to irrigation, and many are en-tirely dependent upon it. Two-thirds of the agriculture of the globe at the present time is dependent upon it."

In speaking of the effect on the price of land consequent upon the construction of an irrigating canal through it, Mr. Hunt said it depended on the latitude and the character of the products.

"The horticultural lands of California and "The horticultural lands of California and Arizona, where the yearly product of fruit per acre is worth from $500 to $2,000, cannot be considered in discussing the value of farm land lying east of the Rocky mountains; but when you can take such farm land, which, without water, is practically worthless or only valuable for pasturage, and by watering it make it yield from $25 to $125 per acre per year, you can estimate its value. The farmer, of course, doesn't figure as does the merchant or capitalist on a per cent basis of farmer, of course, doesn't figure as does the merchant or capitalist on a per cent basis of the yield. Taking the average selling price, from the completion of the canal until the community is settled, the figures range from $15 to $150 per acre, the latter, of course, being the price in the older communities, after improvements are constructed, or, in other words, from three to five years after the canal is completed." five years after the canal is completed."
"What are the products usually grown in

"All that are cultivated in eastern Ne-braska and some additional ones-wheat, rye, barley, oats, corn, flax, broom corn, beans and potatoes, and the king of crops under ditch—alfalfa. It is the hardiest and least expensive crop handied and the farmer can count on each acre of it being worth to him from $75 to $100 per year. It seems only to thrive in dry climates and requires a good flooding after each cutting. It is the crop for western Nebraska, for there is to be found the fluest grazing land in the world, and as only a small per cent of it can be watered the rest will never be cultivated but will remain pasturage, so the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach by the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach by the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach by the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach by the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach by the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach by the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach by the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach by the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach by the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the farmer unter the ditch adjoining will reach be the ditch adjoinin seed his ground or a larger portion of it to you are interested?"

"Where is the enterprise located in which you are interested?"

"In Cheyenne county on the south side of the North Platte valley. The canal is overforty miles long and irrigates about 50,000 acres of fine land. The land was all entered by settlers as early as 1885, when they thought it could be cultivated without irrigation. The canal was completed last year and most of the settlers remained until then, though many of them were compelled to leave long before, but have already begun to leave long before, but have already begun to return.

"We have about 10,000 acres, about one-fourth of it already under cultivation, with laterals constructed, etc., and we expect to procure tenants or purchasers who will cultivate every acre of the remainder this year. The same natural conditions that make it arid also make it mild and free from the expension of the conditions of the conditions are supported by the conditions of the condition and also make it mild and free from the extremes and sudden changes so common here. Of course, they have some snow there, but unless the storm of January 31 reached there they have had no snow this winter. There is no frost in the ground and the farmers have been plowing all winter. Many of them are sowing wheat, and while we are looking in the subcellar of the thermometer for the mercury they are working every day in their shirt sleeves with weather as mild as October."

Why is it that people use Salvation Oil? Answer: Because it is the best liniment.

STOCKMEN CONCERNED.

Pass Question Up-Cut Rate on Packing House Products. A meeting of the transmissouri freight rate committee, representing the Neoraska referred to the committee, but the only one of general public interest is this: "To pass | week men free both ways on account of live stock shipments when destination of shipment is a point on the Missouri river."

This custom is now being followed by all the roads hauling stock to South Omaha or Kansas City but the Nebraska members of the committee desire a formal decision on the point to avoid future contingencies that may arise. The Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley railway has given notice of its intention to establish a rate of 13 cents on packing house product from Sioux City to Kansas City which will also require the careful consider ation of the committee. The rate at present is 18 cents, with a 10-cent rate from Omaha to Sioux City on carload. While this rate, if made, will not affect South Omaha shipments the consensus of opinion is that Mr. Morehouse will have to go it alone if he desires to make a rate favorable to Sioux City and the chances of its being adopted by the committee are very narrow Railway Notes.

A one-fare rate has been made by the Chicago reads for the inaugural ceremonies March 4, which will undoubtedly be ac-cepted by the reads west of the river. The rate to Washington as made for the inaugration from Chicago is $17.50 round trip.

W. F. Currie, who succeeded Alex Greig as traveling auditor having charge of the exclusive offices of the Burlington, also succeeds to the title of "dean of the corps." He is assisting Mr. Greig in checking up the city office in

E. A. Mudgett, ticket agent of the Bnrlington in San Francisco, is in the city tak-ing his first vacation in five years. "There has not been a day this year," said Mr. Mudgett, "that I have not had fire in my grate, with coal a cent a pound. I feel the cold, although 32 ≈ is the lowest we have had this scason, more keenly than I do this bracing Nebraska atmosphere. Although San Francisco is a lovely place to live I have profound regard for the east, and even with snow on ground and the mercury hunting the shadow of the bulb I feel better than in the climate of the Pacific coast, queer as it may be."

How it Became Popular.

When people find an article much superior to anything of the kind they have ever fore used, they are almost sure to tell their friends about it, and especially if they know of some friends needing such an article. Dealers also soon learn the true value of their goods, and when they have an article of unusual merit they will almost invariably mention the fact to their customers. This accounts in a great measure for the large sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Here is an instance: W. L. Needham, a promi-nent citizen and business man of Orrsburg, Mo., has been selling Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for several years and recommends it to his customers, because in his experience it has proven to be the best for colds, croup and whooping cough. He says it is the most popular medicine that he handles and gives the best satisfaction. 50 cent bottles for sale by all druggists.

Croup at Plainfield, N. J.

My boy, five years of age, was recently taken with a severe attack of croup and I thought sure I would lose him. I had seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised and concluded to try it, and am happy to say that after two doses he was relieved and slept till morning. He had another attack the next night; I gave the same remedy and a prompt cure was effected. I feel that I cannot praise this remedy too highly.—L. B. Mulford, '8 Park avenue. Plainfield, N.J. Chamberlain's Cough Ramedy will not only consequence. Cough Remedy will not only cure croup, but will prevent it. If freely given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. Several doses are usually required. There is no danger in giving it freely as it contains nothing injurious.

Superintendent Fitzpatrick Will Go East to Study School Methods. Omaha will be represented at the annual meeting of school superintendents by Superrailroads, will be held at the Paxton hotel | intendent Fitzpatrick. The convention will this morning. Eight propositions have been , be held at Boston, beginning February 21, and Mr. Fitzpatrick will start east next

> Speaking yesterday of the meeting of the superintendents and the subjects to be discussed, Mr. Fitzpatrick said: "The National Teachers association has become so large that it is almost unwieldy and for this reason I look upon the superintendents' organization as being the more profitable of the two. Those of us who attend from the west will make an effort this year to bring the con-vention to Cleveland next year. There has always been a tendency on the part of east-ern men to oppose the idea of holding the convention even as far west as Cleveland. Eastern school men seem to think that they have but little if anything to learn from the west and most western men are equally willing to confess that they have much to learn from the east and so by almost universal consent we have been meeting from year to year in eastern cities. As a matter of fact. I have found some of the most advanced and wide-awake school men of the country in charge of western schools. I think the best schools I have yet seen in the United States are the schools of Indian apolis. I regard the schools of Toronto, Can. as being ahead of anything on the continent During my absence this trip I expect to visit the schools of Washington, Baltimore, Bostou and several other cities. It is by the constant rubbing against the different methods and systems of conducting schools that superintendents keep from crystalizing and fossilizing. No man is smart enough to see the best methods of doing everything without the assistance of other minds engaged in a like occupation. I am particularly anxious to investigate the kindergarten system of the Boston schools. There may be several very commendable features of the work that are better understood there than elsewhere and what we want is the than elsewhere and what we want is the very best."
