Only two days more and then Lent will cast its mantle ever tired belles and beaux, to say nothing of the dowagers who really have kept the social ball rolling since the season began. Ash Wednesday appears above the horizon and Albert will soon have to lay down his baton and the Musical Union orchestra cease from charming; when litera-ture and art, diversified by aesthetic luncheons, history classes and other divertise-ments of the "fast period" will be dragged just loophole left large enough for the world, the flesh and the devil to creep in. There are some who will avail themselve of their overflowing bank accounts and fly to the azure skies and waters of the Mediterranean where Monte Carlo opens wide its seductive doors for a flyer at rouge-et-noir, with the hope that they may return as rivals to "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo." There will be some who will join the ranks of bog trotters in Florida, Bermuda, Jekyll Island and all that vast expanse of our tropi-cal regions, breathing the scent of the palmetto and the pine, receiving invigorating draughts of ozone to help them over the post-

On Tuesday Miss Woolworth will en-tertain at dinner while Mrs. Ulysses C. Mc-Daniel will give an afternoon at cards for Mrs. Leonard. The Assembly will bring out the swells at the Millard and Union Pacific council Royal Arcanum will "trip the light fantastic" at Metropolitan hail.

General and Mrs. Brooke are to be congratulated upon the successful termination of the "Tombola" held Thursday evening at their residence, 511 South Twenty-fourth street, and for introducing to Omaha society a really new form of social entertainment The "Tombola" is a licensed form of lottery Indiginous to France and Italy, where it originated, but for this occasion the game was played under the stars and stripes notwithstanding our well known aversion to anything that has the word lottery attached

Captain Ayers officiated as the auctioneer and, like all auctioneers, made a very neat speech preceding the game, in which he anounced the conditions. One hundred fans were then placed before the captain having numbers on them which entitled the buyer to a prize. Bags containing fifty beans each were given to the seventy guests and these beans were bid on the fans. Of course bidding was fast and were knocked down nderful rapidity and the prizes they drew cure one or more of the coveted fans. prizes were in many instances quite hand-some, although some were very ludicrous to whet the appetite for more fans. After the auction refreshments were served.

Among those permitted to join the lottery Among those permitted to join the lottery were: Captain and Mrs. Ayers, Miss Rodman, Major and Mrs. Worth, Mr. and Mrs. Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Millard, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Redick, Mr. and Mrs. Hull, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barber, Mr. and Mrs. Offutt, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, Mr. and

Cotillon at Forest Hill. The cotillion, with its endless succession of surprises, if the leaders are at all progressive in introducing new figures, the gavly costumed women and the favor-decorated men, presents the one function of swelldom that never grows wearisome Danced usually in the best appointed homes with all the essentials to a happy night, most perfect, no form of social light and

Forest Hill which has echoed with the sound of merry laughter in the days agone but which has been closed to the fashion able world for a time, has again taken on renewed life and interest and the pre-lenten season has been marked by several beautiful entertainments at Mr. Herman Kountze's residence. The cotillon of Tuesday evening, however, was quite the brightest of the sea son's events, given in honor of Miss Kountz and Mr. Charles Kountze. Although some what limited as to numbers, it was all that the most devoted follower of the german could wish. The favors, as one might ex-pect at the home of one of Omaha's leading pankers, were quietly elegant, particularly the dainty vases and baskets of Sevre-ware. The dancing was divided into two parts, Mr. Charles Kounize, a most ca-pable leader, leading alone during the first part, while Mr. Frank Hamilton lead with Miss Kounize during the latter part. It seemed like old times come backeto see Mr. Hamilton "treading the airy measures of the dance" with his old-time skill and ability. Six direct and three indirect figures were danced, the indirect being the fishing figure, tarleton and hand ball, the direct figures and favors were flowers, bonbons, Sevres vases and baskets, eigarette cases and sachet bag. Those dancing were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Will Poppleton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hull. Mrs. Ford's Functions.

Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ford entertained a number of friends charmingly at high five, the only drawback to a perfect evening at cards being the distressing accident which happened to Mrs. B. B. Wood. necessitating her removal to one of the upper rooms, later being taken to her home, where an operation, it is understood, was performed on Friday. Mrs. Wood in walking to the house slipped and fell, fracturing her thigh. in consequence of which the game did not commence till quite 10 o'clock. Mrs. Pater-son won the first lady's prize, a silver butter prong; Mr. Carrier the gentleman's prize J. K. Jerome's "Idle Thoughts of an Idle Fellow" and Ike Marvel's "Reveries of Bachelor." Mrs. Irvine and Mr. Kilpatrick carried off the "boobies."

Sitver and Squier.

A very happy social event was the mar riage of Miss Eudora Squier and Mr. James Arthur Silver, which took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Parmelee on Thursday evening. Miss Squier has been for some years a teacher in our schools and Mr. Silver is a prominent young business man of South

Thursday evening found the Parmelec residence in most delightful holiday attire. Palms, ferns and primroses banked the mantels and embowered the bay windows in which the ceremony took place. Parlor and dining room were festooned with ropes of smilax, making a very pretty scene.

Promptly at 8 o'clock, to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," the bridal procession entered, preceded by Rev. W. K. Beans, the officiating elergyman. Following came Miss Louise Parmelce, a tiny tot, bear-ing the ring, and then the happy pair. The bride looked very quaint and pretty in an em-pire gown of soft ecru silk entraine.

In conducting the service Mr. Beans used he full ritual of the Methodist Episcopa hurch.

With most hearty goodwill the few assembled guests wished the newly wedded pair "Godspeed" and started them amid a shower of rice and old shoes into their nev iife. Mr. and Mrs. Silver went immediately to South Omaha, where they will make their
