EVENTS THAT ILLUMINATED THE WEEK

Assembly Dies with Shrove Toesday Dinners and Card Parties to Which the Howling Swells Were "Expected"-Social Chat.

Already an exodus from Omaha has commenced on the part of those who are classed in the society swim, and more are to follow the leaders this week. The south and its balmy climate holds out inviting inducements to overworked society women and men, while California plays a close second. Until Easter there is little in sight and for the next forty days the howling swells will live in the memory of the past. There is little promised for the immediate future and from present indications the post-Lenten season will not be any more brilliant than that which has just closed. But spring may have an awakening influence over the beau monde and in this thought society rests con-

The Closing Assembly. Lent, and the period of reflection and re trospection which it is supposed Shrove Tuesday ushers in, dawned with the closing of the last Assembly of the season Tuesday evening. While the number of members was not nearly as large as at previous assemblies, still the evening was memorable and fittingly brought the round of social pleasures to an end. The music was excellent, the men and women present were there for the last dance, and the girls looked their loveliest. With these conditions present what wonder that the evening was a red letter occasion in the lives of quite a few society buds, one of whom said that it was really the very jolliest party she had ever

There were a number of beautiful gowns noticed, but what was most surprising was that white prevailed to an unusual extent in the costumes, something that has not been observed at any former function this winter. Miss Woolworth was very lovely in white silk trimmed in chiffon and lace.

Miss Kountze wore a very pretty costume of pink brocade relieved with chiffon. Miss Van Patten, who has won a place in Omaha society by her beauty and accom-plishments, were a lovely white silk trimmed with brown velvet.

Miss Hamilton appeared in a costume of changeable pink with gray silk, with a bertha of lace.
Miss Emily Wakeley wore white silk trimmed with white lace.

Miss Lemist graced a Parisian gown of blue brocaded satin trimmed in changeable pink and blue velvet.

Mrs. Chase wore white silk.

Miss Hubbard's gown was of light green ornamented with white ribbons. Miss Helen Smith wore a street costume of white silk and chiffon.

Mrs. Major North looked very attractive in pink satin and moire stripe silk, the front of the skirt being of white lace.

Mrs. Will Redick were pink silk and pink passementerie.

Mrs. James Woolworth, who chaperoned her daughter, were black silk and lace.

Miss Grace Himebaugh was very fair and pretty in white silk trimmed in violets.

Miss Rodman wore a white empire gown of mull over blue satin. Miss Chandler wore a sweet gown of black Miss Sadie Nash was in white faille.

Progressive High Five Railway.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Garner, 2527 California, gave a charming high five party St. Valentine's night, the house being handsomely decorated with roses and smilax in honor of the occasion. An endless amount of fun was caused by the use of the progressive high five railway ticket, a new form of scoring which has come into use this winter. ticket resembles the ordinary railway ticket in the upper right hand corner, having the number of the car and seat which assigned the player to the table and partner. Down the left hand side were the following stations: South Omaha, Wahoo, North Platte, Denver, Salt Lake, Ogden, San Francisco, Portland, Spokane, Minneapolis, Council Bluffs, Omaha. The winner of a game, of course, indicated which one of the stations be desired to go to and the place was mached. The following printed rules also appeared: This ticket will be void if it shows any alter-

Mr. and Mrs. Borthwick Entertain. A select circle of friends were most delightfully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Borthwick Tuesday evening at their beautiful residence, 808 North Forty-second street. Although so close to the advent of Lent, the popular host and hostess, whose friends are legion, were determined to leave nothing undone that could possibly add to the comfort and enjoyment of their guests. High five was the feature of the evening, the players being entertained at the same time with music rendered by a string band stationed on the stairway. The first and second prizes were awarded to Mrs. G. W. Tribbie, Mrs. Serome Coulter, Mr. E. Perfect and Mr. Jerome Coulter, respectively while Mrs. A. B. Carpenter and Mr. J. Blackman were successful in carrying off the booby prizes; after which a new and very amusing feature was introduced by means of a large grab-bag, in which all those present who had falled to secure first honors were allowed to try their fortune. Much fun was occasioned as the various prizes were brought fourth, but one and all appeared to be contented to find that they were recipients of useful, if inexpensive articles. Ladies' Night at the Wheel Club. Thursday evening the members of the Omaha Wheel club entertained a large number of their numerous friends by a musicale and dance in their club house, 1706 Chicago street. The jolly wheelmen's home was a veritable blaze of light, in which the happy ouples enjoyed themselves as only young people always do. No such charming crows of ladies and gentlemen were ever gathered inside the club's doors before, and the Omaha Wheel club comes to the front ngain with a new record for themselves. This time in a social sense instead of a road triumph. While it is a fact the wheel club boys are perfectly at home in the saddle of a bicycle one must not think that is the only place they shine, for the affair of Thursday night proved differently and no one could have managed anythin better than Omaha's cycling leaders did their

The musical program was a decided feature, and consisted of the following: Miss Bailey opened the concert with a piano solo, "Salut-a-Pesth," which she executed with charming grace. She was followed by the ever and always popular Su-torius Mandolin club (all Omaha Wheel club members) with "Il Trovatore." layed as only they can play it. As usual, hey had to respond to an encore, after which Mr. Harry Burkley sang one of his splendid solos. Ernest Zitzman delighted the audi-ence with a flute solo, which he played ex-ceedingly well, after which Miss Myrtle Coon sang "Springtide" with much effect, responding to an encore with a charming lit tle German love song, her accompaniments being played by Prof. Butler. Prof. Brett, a wheel club favorite, played De Beriot's "Scene-de-Ballet," which he executed in a manner that left little to be desired. Mrs. Brett accompanied her husband on the piano. Mr. Weir came next with a tenor solo entitled "Best of All. with a tenor solo entitled "Best of All." E.
H. Cummings gave the Washington Post
March on his banjo, and was followed by Miss Ina Kennedy, another club favorite, who sang "The Secret," which was well rendered despite a bad cold. The Mandelia club again came forward, this time with Gostzi's "O. Harry Day". For an energy Goetze's "O, Happy Day." For an encore they gave "Serenta," and completed the musical part of the entertainment.

Supper was served at 10:30, after which be parlors were cleared and dancing was indulged in by those who cared for it Billiards and cards occupied the attention of the others, and the festivities kept up until Royal Arcanum Party. A highly enjoyable dancing party was given by Union Pacific council of the Royal Arcanum at Metropolitan hall Tuesday evening. Notwithstanding the extreme cold and the ley sheet that covered the streets, over 150 guests were present, who were amply re-paid for the discomforts and dangers in ven-turing out. Had the spirit of the happy saint the day commemorates graced the occasion it could hardly have been more thoroughly entertained.

ough the party is the last of those origi nally planned by the council for the winter. the series has proved so thoroughly enjoyable to the members and their friends that a fancy dress party after the Lenten season is being widely talked of and the many friends of the council sincerely hope that this will be arranged for.

Work of the Unity Club.

The Unity club of the First Unitarian church of this city is carrying on an extensive literary work in our miast. It is so or ganized as to attract a variety of interests and inclinations, reaching and helping a very large number of persons, sending its upufting influences in all directions.

The entire scheme of work for the year extends from October to April, which includes twenty-four Friday evenings with their fruitful programs. The club works in three sections and each section is distinct in its function, yet united in its main plan. The twenty-four weeks being equally allotted gives eight evenings to each division.

Under Mr. William S. Curtis, the art section labors in a manner at once most pains-taking and enthusiastic. By means of cuts, casts, etc., as well as through carefully pre-pared papers, read before the section, they are working toward a higher appreciation and comprehension of art.

The history section, under the leadership of Miss Rene E. Hamilton, is studying the Reformation. To cover the period of the Reformation in eight evenings necessitates the most careful outlining and concentr upon phases of the subject to be brought prominently forward. See-bohm's "Era of Protestant Reforma-tion" has been adhered to as a text book. From the fall of feudalism and all old things that furnished the soil which gave this new creature birth, its progress has been faith-have, besides entertaining and enlightening their audiences, proved that a prophet some times gains honor at home.

Mr. Thomas Kilpatrick is president of this trifold club, Mrs. E. B. Perrin is secretary, Miss M. H. Read is treasurer, while the leaders of the sections are its vice presidents.

Adelphian Literary Club. This club is passing through its third and most popular season. It has devoted itself this year to a peculiarly American program. Beginning with the study of American independence it has studied successively her colonies, her early statesmen, her political parties, her literature and her art. The current topics for the fortnight are reviewed upon each evening and form an interesting and instructive feature. This club is not large enough to require a room of huge dimensions for its sessions and meets usually in the pariors of its members homes. The program for the remainder of the year is not yet entirely mapped out, but one evening will be given to the discussion of the subject, "How Far Should Suffrage be Extended to Women!" and another to "The Millionaires of America and Their Gifts. The recent public evening given by this club to its friends at the Lininger gallery on the subject of American art gave pleasure to the large audience and attested the strength of the club. The officers are: President, C. P. Halligan; first vice president, Dr. Williamson; second vice president, Mrs. Williamson; secretary, Miss M. L. McAra; treasurer, William Ure. The members are: Messrs. H. A. Westerfield, F. Pugh, Dr. J. M. Akin, Dr. A. H. Heppler, J. C. Clark, Misses B. Finley, A. Boyd, McCulloch, Mary McCulloch, Sara Finley, A. Vandals in the White House.

A Washington correspondent says: Two or three weeks ago when Mrs. Russell Harrison and her little daughter Marthena, who had been ill with scarlet fever, left the white house and went to a hotel to give the health officers a chance to fumigate the quarters they had been occupying, they left a lot of personal effects in their rooms. There were a number of pieces of valuable bric-a-brac, a new gilt clock, which had not been taken from the original case in which it was shipped to them, some beautiful pieces of cut glassware, a chest full of wearng apparel, a brand new leather hat box, in which was a new hat, some jewelry and all those little things of beauty which a woman will collect in her private apartments. Mrs. Harrison also left in the wardrobes a number of goods which she wanted fumigated. It seems that the health officer sent to the apartments vacated by Mrs. Harrison and her child the dog catching force at the city building. They tore out the carpets, draperies, etc., and piling them in a heap applied the torch. They even went so far in their destruction as to pry up a part of the floor in an adjoining ballway and found under it a small iron safe or chest fastened with a Yale lock, containing no one knew what. This was left in the custody of what. This was left in the custody of Major Pruden, the executive clerk. Mr. Russell Harrison called at the health the personal effects of Mrs. Harrison and his daughter, and was told they had all been destroyed. He asked to see a list of the articles destroyed and found that it con-tained only the sheets, blankets, pillows, and a few other articles of bedclothing belonging to the government. What had become o Mrs. Harrison's effects could not be learned. Why the clock, jewelry and clothing were taken was a mystery. There were also books taken and a lot of memoranda kept by the president's late wife. Mr. Harrison has made a demand for the missing goods, and the health officer has instituted a search.

The Webster Card Party. The high five party given Monday evening by Mr. and Mrs. John L. Webster was one of the pleasantest events of the pre-Lenten season.

The rooms were decorated with la France roses and hyacinths, while the score cards reminded one of the near approach of St. Valentine, each having some verse written upon them, and a color sketch of minature sweethearts. There were six prizes awarded, the first ladies' taken by Mrs. Cudahy. It consisted of a Dresden bon bon dish. The second prize, won by Mrs. Hermance, was a cut glass salt cellar and spoon. Dr. Connor was given a silver penknife for being the most skillful gentleman. The second, a book, was taken by Mr. Coutant. Consolations were presented Mrs. Coutant and Mr. Brad-

In Ghostly Raiment Arrayed. Mr. and Mrs. William P. Durkeo, 4320 Burlette street, were quietly engaged at a game of cards, Tuesday evening, with two or three friends, when a loud rapping at the door brought the little party up with a start. Mrs. Durkee opened the door, to be followed in by a dozen or more figures in chostly raiment clothed, sheets and pillow cases being pressed into service to furnish the necessary uncanny raiment. After a half hour's jolly fun the visitors threw off their raiment, re-vealing Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Mr. Bonnell's Plans for the Display of the State's Agricultural Exhibit. Cutcago, Ill., Feb. 18 .- [Special to Tits BEE. |- Mr. John C. Bonnell, the designer of Nebraska's agricultural exhibit at the World's Columbian exposition, has submitted a brief outline of his plans for the display. It will consist of a superstructure having a ground area of 40x50 feet and a height of from seventeen to twenty-three feet, according to the general building rules of the fair. An eighteen inch wall will suround the space, supported by columns rest-ing on pedestals of finely finished wood. The columns will be constructed of glass, through which beautiful designs in Nebraska grains will be shown. The walls or sides between the columns will be arched, combining both the Moorish and the Gothic styles of architecture. The "Stoffets" will each have a depth of nine inches giving an equal amount of space to the Moorish and Gothic arches.
