L. A. Devine has just returned from an extended trip through the east, in the course of which he has had interviews with a large number of manufacturers. He finds that a feeling of unrest is pervading manufacturing. circles all through the east, a feeling that the necessity of the hour for them is to moveout into the west, where they will be closer to their trade. This is no new thing, but the manufacturers have been postponing taking the first step toward a change of base on account of the cost of making the move. They are beginning to see, however, that the day is not far distant when they shall have to pull up their stakes and strike out for the setting sun regardless of expense.

One thing that has always been thought to be standing in the way of Council Bluffs and Omaha as manufacturing centers is the lack of convenient, cheap coal. This, Mr. Devine says, is not the drawback that it is commonly thought to be. He ran across one large factory in Illinois which was located so close to a coal mine that a chute was run from the mine into the engine room of the factory through which the coal could be brought for use. And yet the chute remains idle, for the proprietor of the establishment states that although coal can be brought and laid down for 80 cents a ton, he cannot afford to use it. Crade oil is used for fuel alto-gether, and brought, as it is, in huge tanks, it is found to be a cheaper fuel than coal, Not once during his trip did Mr. Devine hear a question asked as to the facilities of Council Bluffs for furnishing coal. This is a point that may well be looked into by the enterprising leaders of the Merchants and Manu-

Somebody Used a Corkscrew. Council Bluffs enjoyed its first Sunday under the new rule that the Omaha officials have adopted, closing the saloons, both front door and back. While it could not be truthfully said to have been a howling success, the way in which half drunken men and women flocked to the eastern bank of the Missouri leads to the belief that howling may be looked for before the summer is over. The saloons here run wide open, although the proprietors are careful not to allow anything to take place in their establishments on Sunday that is likely to result in a strict enforcement of the law. Still, every one that wants to can get all he wants to drink on Sunday as well as any other day, and the consequence is that Council Bluffs is destined to become the haven of delight for many thirsty people from Omaha in the future unless the officials of that city recede from their position or the mayor of Council Bluffs and the control bluffs. # DAILY BEE NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

Organization of the New City Council Will Be Effected Tonight.

CANDIDATES FOR THE CITY CLERKSHIP

Four Candidates in the Field and Every One Has a Backer Among the Democratic Members-Conjectures as to the Lucky Man.

The new city council will hold its first meeting this evening. The new aldermen will take their places, the mayor will read tils annual message, and another year's work will be entered upon. One of the interesting features of the meeting will be the balloting for a city clerk to succeed A. J. Stephenson. There are four candidates mentioned prominently, J. H. Mithen, R. N. Whittlesey, G. M. Wilson and L. Zurmuchlen, Jr. Some of the friends of the latter state that he is out of the race, as he is saving up for two years ience, when he expects to be a candidate for the democratic nomination for county recorder. He is mentioned, however, and has never publicly denied his candidacy. There are five democratic aldermen in the city and each one has his favorite candidate. They held a caucus yesterday afternoon at the office of one of the number with a view to finding out what the chances were for fixing up some sort of a deal by which a nomination may be cade tonight. Of course the meeting took since behind locked doors and the details of what was done are not known, any further than that at the hour of adjournment they were no nearer a solution of the difficulty were no heaver a solution of the difficulty than at the beginning. As one of the gontlemen said, there were three or four things that could not be decided until today, but they hope that by might be agreement will be reached. One thing that is causing the delay is the absence of J. J. Hathaway, who has been to Ohio, but was expected home yesterday. On his failing to show up it is supposed that he will be home this morning without fail. When a compromife is reached, if it is reached at all, it is pretty certain that if it is reached at all, it is pretty certain that the lucky candidate will have made a posi-tive acreement as to the man who is to be his deputy, and that the clerk and deputy will belong to the opposite and eternally warring factions of the city democracy.

DOING SOME FIGURING.

Agitation of the Free Bridge Proposition

Since the public meeting at which the initial move was taken toward securing a free bridge between Council Bluffs and Omaha was held, the matter has almost dropped out of sight, not on account of any dying out of the interest, but because a good deal of the work now on must from the nature of the matter in hand be carried on quietly. The leaders of the movement are seeking to find out what a bridge of the kind wanted will cost. A meeting of the committee of 100 will be held early this week, at which stees will be taken toward securing an estimate from some competent engineer as to the exact cost. This can only be told after a survey of the ground and a careful calculation of the probable cost of materials and labor. For the present an approximate estimate is all that is available. A gentleman who has had considerable experience in bridge work and is in every way compelent to judge states that a bridge can be built across the Missouri on Farnam street, with all necessary approaches, for considerably less than the present motor bridge cost. He places the cost at ₹425.000. the difference being caused by the better lay of the land on the east side of the river for approaches. This is about 8 per cent of the assessed valuation of the property in Council Bluffs, but only a little over 1 per cent of the combined assessment of the two cities. A small tax per annum for three or four years, or a stifl smaller tax and the issuance of bonds running ten or twenty years will provide a free bridge for the two cities, at a price which will hardly be feit by the tax-payers, while the cities' business interests will receive a benefit that will be infinitely beyond what it costs. The free bridge scheme is here to stay, and the wideawake citizens in whose hands it is will not drop it until traffle between Omaha and Council Bluffs is entirely unrestricted at the hands of private corporations. A meeting of the "Cosmopolis club," as the organization of citizens has been dubbed after Dr. Washington Gladden, will be held at the court house next Saturday evening to hear reports from the committees, one of which was to take a general oversight over the matter, and the other to confer with Omaha citizens with a view to uniting the efforts of the public spirited citizens of both places.

"I suppose," said one of the leaders of the movement last evening, there are lots of people in Council Bluffs who, if the motor company should suddenly wheel around and agree to give us a 5-cent fare and to pay the city and the property owners for their pav-ing, would be in favor of dropping all further efforts and letting the motor company con-tinue to operate as at present. That is one point we must guard against. What we are really starting out to do is to get hold of that motor line and let the city run it. In the ourse of the next twenty years it will bring a million or more dollars into the pockets of : few capitalists, which ought by all rights to go into the city treasury as the city has given the company by far the most valuable thing in its whole stock, that is, the fran We must work in this direction from whatever moves we make should have that end directly in view."

ervice the Christian church meetings-in Temple hall will be terminated on Thursday evening. In every respect the meetings have been successful beyond the expectations of the church people and the brilliant pastor. During the time the membership of the young organization has more than doubled, and the Sunday school has grown from a small gathering of children into an aggressive organization of nearly 200. Yesterday at the morning service the hand of fellowship was extended to twenty-one new members, and in the afternoon six were haptised. No pastor in the city has succeeded in awakening a deeper and more lasting interest in church work. The church, on account of its phenomenal growth is now concount of its phenomenal growth, is now con fronted with the necessity of erecting a ne burch building, and this will be done during

Mr. Alien's sermon last evening, addressed to an attentive audience that filled the ball, to an attentive audience that filled the hall, was an eloquent plea for church union. Christian union. His argument was founded on Christ's prayer, 'Neither pray I for them alone.' He maintained that Christian union was desirable, possible and probable; that it was in accordance with the thought and spirit of the day, Christendom, divided as it is today, cannot preach the go spel of Christ as He hunself preached it and meant it to be as He himself preached it and meant it to be preached. Missionary work cannot be car-ried on successfully until all missionaries each the same truths in the same words. The world can never be evangelized until all hurches teach and preach the same words The Japanese government will not permit the many new sects of prosecute their missionary work, and there has grown up what might be termed a Japanese church. God help us to termed a Japanese church. God help us to establish an American church on the same universal lines. The essential condition of all churches is union. Less than seventy-live years ago this union movement started and today the welkin fairly rings with the call for Christian unity. Among the great modern energies and agencies that are pushing this forward is the Young Men's Christian association and the Women's Christian Temperance union. They are spreading throughout all churches and all Christian lands. Another powerful magnifying factor was the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, aiready numbering nearly 1,500,000 members. He believed he would live to see the day when God's people should be one. He believed there was an ideal church, where the essential was unity, the non-cessential liberty and in all things charity; a church whose foundation is Jesus Christ, which shall say: "We shall speak where the bible meaks, where the scripture is allont we are say: "We shall speak where the bible speaks, where the scripture is slient we are silent." We need not be afraid to have the bible read and understood. We need not be afraid to place it on the knees of every one and teil them to mold their lives upon their understanding of it. "In every church every influence that is being exerted is being exerted for good, and I bid them god-speed. I am determined, as Paul said, to know nothing among you but Jesus crucified. I have not tried to exalt any creed, but I

I have not tried to exalt any creed, but I have tried to exalt Jesus Christ." After the close of the meetings a reception will be given the new converts, probably on Friday evening, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Metcalf, on Bluff street. Speaking About the Clerkship.

The city council will hold its first meeting tomorrow evening, when the mayor will deliver his annual message and the newly elected aldermen will take their seats. One of the interesting features of the meeting will be the balloting for city clerk. The contest between the various candidater for this position has been a very warm one, extending over all the time that has elapsed since the election, but now it seems to have narrowed down to three rivals. J. H. Mithen, R. N. Whittlesey and G. M. Wilson. All three are well known in the city as staunch democrats. Mithen and Wilson having served under ex-County Auditor Hendricks and Whittlesey being a newspaper man of de-cidedly democratic proclivities. The selection of any one of them will result in the business of the city being carried along in the correct way. Each one claims the earth, but which of them has the first mortgage on the fence around it will propably appear later on. It has been thought that the five democratic aldermen would get up a contest among themselves and so perhaps prevent the election of any one for the pres-ent. They are to hold a caucus this after-noon, at which it is likely the much vexed question will be decided, however. A democrat who claims to have knowledge of what goes on on the inside stated that Mithen had the inside track and would probably receive three of the democratic votes. If the present plan is followed out, and the five aldermen agree to stand by the decision of the caucus this afternoon. Mithen will come up smiling, unless the prophecy of the democrat above referred to turns out to

Yet the Piano Rattled. J. Mueller sold a piano some time ago"to a family hving in the city. Some of the payments were made, but after a time the purchaser became dissitisfied, and when the collector called around one fine day for his money he found the justrument all bundled up ready to be taken away. The purchaser told him that he had decided to make no more payments, and that he might send his wagon around for it kny time. Tak was useless; the piano rattled like a hallstorm on a slate roof, whenever any one tried to get sweet melody of "Migrie Murphy" or the "Moonlight Sonata" out 'f it. So the instrument was carried back in disgrace to the store, the back of it was opened and an investigation was made in order to find out, if possible what was the cause of the rattle. Among the things found cause of the rattle. Among the things found tying on the strings and under the strings and woven in and out among the strings were eight large curtain hooks, to links of a curtain chain, a large brass picture frame knob, a photograph, two pieces of sheet music, a bundle of old newspapers, a choice assortment of buttons and a small brass cuspider—all going to make up as good a beginning for a junk shop as one often runs across. And still the piano rattled.

Marshmallow caramels at Driesbach's. "ROMAN AGGRESSION."

Catholicism as Viewed by the First Christian Church Pastor, If any of the large congregation which asembled last evening at the First Christian church were in doubt as to the position Rev. T. E. Cramblet would take in discussing the subject, "Roman Aggression" that doubt was dispelled, for he asserted posttively and emphatically that the Roman church should be called on to halt. His sermon, he said, was not directed against any particular adherent of the Ro-man Catholic church, for he had many warm friends who were Catholles, but against the Roman clergy, and particularly against the Jesuitical energy. He did not object to the church as a religious organization, so long as it kept within the bounds of religion. The religious element was with it, however, of minor consequence, the leaders giving more attention to matters political than to matters spiritual. Were it right he would wish it godspeed, but it was not the true church of Christ. On the contrary it was, if not the greatest, one of the greatest creations Its aggression was not prompted by re ligious zeal, but by a desire to obtain political and physical control of all lands. This it boped to accomplish in the United States by veral means. The first was by immigra on. It was making special efforts to send Catholics from Roman countries to America It was trying to break down our institutions, chiefly the public school system. It knew very well that where the public school thrived the "trash" in the catechism, as he expressed it, could make no headway. Where the people were educated Catholicism was powerless. The public school, therefore, was to be the barrier to the further striving to undermine the institution. it supported parochial schools. But why? Simply out of necessity. There was a demand for schools, and the church felt that it must supply a system of education. Let the public schools be destroyed, and the pare chial school would soon cease to exist. Rome was a fee to enlightenment. Where Romanism held sway, there was illiteracy Look at Mexico, where only 7 per cent of the population could read and write; or at Spain where the ratio is but thirteen to 100; or to Italy, the home of the church and the residence of the pope, where but twenty-one persons in 100 could read or write.

Another way in which the church was eeking to gain the ascendancy was by political power. A chairman of one of the late national conventions protested to the pope that the church was altogether too active in politics and was largely a political organizaion. The pope in fact urged the importance f active political work on the part of his ollowers. The church was making herself elt more strongly in politics than any other

A third method of gaining power was by he acquisition of property. The church owned three-fourths of the property of Italy and was obtaining rapidly large possessions in this country. It was, moreover, strengthen ng itself in a military way. It had in some ing itself in a multary way. It had in some places arms secreted and was giving instruc-tions in military tactics. Americans should be on their guard. La Fayette, a Catholic, had said that if our liberties as a na-tion were ever destroyed they would be destroyed by the Catholics. The Jesuits were a dangerous class, and their "devilish-ness" ought to be expelled. Their oath was directly in conflict with good government. It required obedience to the church even where the interests of the government were jeopardized. The civil law was binding only o far as it was consistent with the man dates of the church. In several the clergy-was exempt from trial by civil

The people should be firm and allow no in ermeddling with their public institutions termeddling with their photo a fight to the church had a moval right to have parochial schools, but it had not a moval right to demand public foods for sectarian purposes. We lic funds for sectarian purposes, needed a free press and free speech he feared, was not forthcoming, and most of all, we needed a confederation of all Protest-ants into one body. We were called "war-ring sects," and this was used as an argu-ment against us. We should throw asite all creeds and unite into one body with Christ is our head. Success was assured, for it was a fact that the protestant—church converted 500 persons whereothe Catholic churches onverted ten. Let Christ alone be the light and our cuide, and Roman aggression would be quickly checked.

George E. Hunt, Local Forecast Official, SCHEME TO SINK A SHIP.

Dynamite Bombs Scattered Through the Hold of the Cyrus Wakefield. New YORK, March 19.—The fact has just come to light that just before the ship Cyrus Wakefield sailed for San Francisco on Friday morning two dynamite bombs were found in her hold. In consequence of this two officers of the ship refused to sail on her and remained in New York, positive in the belief that there is some scheme afoot to sink the craft before she reaches San Fran-The first case of bombs was found two weeks ago, when the ship was loading, be tween the limber streaks on the port side of the ship, with planking laid over it. The dynamite was in an iron cylinder, from the end of which protruded a banch of matches. A piece of sandstone was suspended above the matches, in such a position that once at sea, the plunging and rolling of the ship would cause the sandstone to sway against the matches, thus igniting them and causing the dynamite to explode. This discovery caused no little apprehension among the officers and crew of the ship, but as there was no address on the case, or any clew as to how it came to be in the ship, apprehension was alloyed and the work of loading con-tinued and the incident soon forgotten. Just one week after the first bomb was found consternation was created among those on board the Wakefield by the finding of a second bond. This was on Thurslay last, the day before the ship was to sail. The bomb was like the first and was found in about the same part of the ship.

On the finding of the second bomb, Captain Morton refused to go to sea on the Wakefield and another officer also refused. Another captain willing to take the ship out was found and on Friday she put to sea.

In Chicago he was em-ployed as confidential bookkeeper by Smith & Webster, a big plumbing supply company. He stood high in the estimation of his employers, and great was their surprise when he failed to appear at his accustomed desk on the morning of February 24.

An examination of his books revealed a shortage of nearly $25,000 and small amounts received by Mordaunt during the past year were unaccounted for. Mordaunt says that ae is innocent of the charge against him. He

he is innecent of the charge against him. He will be taken to Chicago. No money was found on Mordaunt.

PLANS OF PRISONERS EXPOSED.

Massachusetts State Penitentiary Carefully Searched for Contraband Articles.

Boston, Mass., March 19.-The work of earthing the workshops and cells at the state prison is practically finished, and it is said that the convicts will be put to work to morrow. No firearms have been found, but enough other contraband articles have been found, it is said, to fill several bushel Among these are shugshots, billies, steel saws, knives and a steel hook attached to a seven-inch wooden handle. In Convict Booth's cell was found a complete plan of the north wing and wall facing the river and railroad tracks, with distances carefully noted. Other evidence of collusion with friends on the outside has also been found, but the warden declines to disclose the nature of it.

In a corner of the iron foundry scarcely twenty feet from the mouth of the tunnel through which several men escaped to this sewer not long since, was found another tunnel in process of construction, its presence being concealed by a piece of sheet iron placed over the hole.

CRIME in high places! It is not strange that some people do wrong through Ignorance, others from a failure to investigate as to the right or wrong of a matter. But it is strange, that in-dividuals and firms, who are fully aware of the rights of others, will persist in perpetrating frauds upon them. High toned, wealthy manufacturing firms will offer and sell to retail merchants, artieles which they know to be infringements on the rights of proprietors and imitations of well known goods. We want to sound a note of warning to the retailers to beware of such imitations and stimulations of "GARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS." When they are offered you, refuse them; you do not want to Next week the great Fanny Davenport is do wrong, and you don't want to lay yourself limble to a law-suit. Ben Franklin said "Honesty is the best policy" it is just as true that "Honosty is the best principle."

SHELVER ISLAND, N. Y., June 6, 1891.

THE ATHLOPHOROS COMPANY: Gentlemen-Six years ago I was attacked with neuralgic rheumatism (following a long term of sciatica) in my right arm, and for nine months suffered all the "torments of the d--." Was completely helpiess. My arm, from shoulder blade to the ends of my fingers, was completely paratyzed. Finger joints were swollen and enlarged out of shape. I employed many of the best doctors in New York, where I then lived, but had better have thrown my money in the street. They did me no good. I tried every "sure cure" for rheumatism I could hear of (and there are many) to no purpose but to spend money. I had tried so many remedies with no benefit that I was completely discouraged, and had come to a perfect conclusion to try no more, but give up and die, as it was possible to live with the agony I was in. I chanced to pick up a leaf of your advertisement in some circular, which struck me favorably, and unknown to my family or friends I would try one more remedy, and if a failure no one should be the wiser for it. I got a boille of Ath-lo-pho-ros, ved to be a godsend, for I had not taken it three days before there was a great improvement. I had less pain and could lift my arm a little without taking hold of it with my left hand. In one week's time I could handle my knife at meals and dress myself-which I had not done for nine wratched months. I took one bottle, when I could lift my hard to my head. One other bottle made a complete cure. I did not think my flager joints would ever return to their normal state, but they did in the course of six months. Well, from that time to the present I have been a talking and walking advertisement for your house. B. IRVING. Yours truly,
