Failure to Award the Lincoln Viaduct Contract Causes Trouble.

BOTH SIDES MAKE MANY CHARGES

Temporary Inability of the Milwaukee Bridge and Iron Works to Secure Competent Nebraska Bondsmen Defeats the Company.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 25 .- [Special to THE Bur. ]-After all the matter of the viaduct contract has not been settled. After the Board of Public Works had yesterday notified the Milwaukee Bridge and Iron works that the contract had been awarded them and would be signed just as soon as the bond was turned in, the council overturned the whole thing and thereby created a great rumpus. Today there are whispers of boodle on both sides. "Both sides" refers to the Leavenworth firm, which has had its representative here ever since the opening of the bids, and the Milwaukee company. The Milwaukee people were awarded the contract at the meeting Tuesday night and given three days in which to file their bond. It was not until yesterday, however, that they discovered their bondsmen must be resident freeholders of the city of Lincoln. The agent hurried to the American Exchange and First National banks and secured them as sureties, but they required an indemnifying bond. This could not be secured from Milwaukee in time for last evening's meeting of the coun

When this fact was reported to the council a number of the aldermen began raising technical objection to the final awarding of the contract to the Milwaukee company. claiming that as it had not filed its bond the time required by law, it forfeited its award and the check of $1,000. This led to a big verbal row, and the matter was dis-cussed pro and con for over an hour. A motion to adopt a report filed by the Board of Public Works extending the time for filing the bond until Tuesday was defeated, as was motion to lay the matter over until that Representatives of the Burlington, who were anxious to have work begun at once, offered to put up a bond then and there, and proceeded to get the necessary signatures. There were not quite enough, however, and summoning a carriage Superintendent Bignell started after Bank Presidents Burnham and Harwood, but while he was absent the council by a vote of 7 to 5 adjourned. The disgust which was apparent when the carriage rolled up and its occupants found the council had dissolved, speedily melted into indignation and later into a number of sul-phurous expressions. The Burlington peo-ple claim the Milwaukes contract is $10,000 better than the Leavenworth, and that a combination exists for the purpose of freezing out the Milwaukee people and awarding the contract to the Missouri Valley Bridge and Iron Works of Leavenworth. The matter will be fought over again next Tuesday.

Fields in Fine Condition. NORFOLK, Neb., March 25 .- [Special to THE BEE.]-Wednesday evening this section was visited by the first electric storm of the season which was followed by a heavy rain. afterward turning to snow and yester. day a genuine Dakota blizzard raged. The ground is well soaked and in fine condition for spring work. Fall wheat looks fine and the acreage largely increased over preceding years, the press drill being largely used. The Norfolk Beet Sugar factory is making oreliminary arrangements for putting in what is known as the Steffins process, the object of which is to utilize by reducing to sugar the strups from which the sugar is produced. It bids fair to be a very profitable accession to the art of sugar making. The cost of putting in the additional machinery will be about $100,000. The acreage of beets cultivated in this vicinity this year will be greater than ever before. Farmers who have heretofore planted will increase the number of acres this year.

This season bids fair to surpass all former ones in Norfolk's improvements. There will e $100,000 spent on the sugar factory. Alexander Bear has already plans for the erection of a 70-foot front business block, W. Y. Huse, editor of the Daily News, will build a large brick business block to be occupied by himself. Although the traveling auditor does not handle a cent of money and is held only responsible for the accounts of the agents, Reed has been in the habit of borrowing money from the agents, generally giving them an I. O. U. or due bill for the amount borrowed, which bill for the amount borrowed, which he asked the agent to carry as cash until he could lift the tag. In some cases he did not even write I. O. U., but simply said: "Due, $600." This tag the agent carried as eash on hand, although distinctly against the printed instructions of the company as to advancing money to traveling auditors and others unless so authorized by the head of the auditing department. Yet the fact of a superior officer, as the traveling auditor was, asking for money and giving as an excuse "that it was to be used in the service of the company." carried a force with it that all the printed instructions in the world would not

President Clark's Leave Taking. Previous to his leaving for St. Louis Mr. S. H. H. Clark took goodbye of every one whom he knew in the Union Pacific general offices from the janitor up to the general manager. All the evening on Friday he held a levee in his rooms at the Millard, and many of the citizens of Omaha availed themselves of the opportunity of calling upon him and telling him how sorry they were to see him go. His office at headquarters shows no desks are closed and an air of neatness per-vades the place. There are no papers scat-tered about, and everything is in readiness for his successor to step in and begin busi ness. Even the rallroad trimmers will shortly remove Mr. Clark's pictures from the wails to make room for the counterfeit presentiment of the new man at the helm.
