

EASTER IN SHOW WINDOWS

Handsome, Seasonable Exhibits by Many Omaha Merchants.

DRY GOODS DISPLAYS ESPECIALLY NOTABLE

Dot Dealers in Clothing, Furniture, Jewelry, Millinery, Shoes and Other Goods Had Attractive Windows—Many Pretty Features.

While the first robins are twittering a joyous welcome to the budding season and the grass blades are springing to the warm embrace of April breeze and sunshine, the feminine souls long to follow nature's example and bedeck itself with such captivating creations of spring attire as shall excite the admiration of one sex and the envy of the other.

Beautiful Fabrics Prettily Displayed.

One of the most attractive Easter displays in the city was seen at the building of the Morse Dry Goods company. Here were displayed an endless variety of Easter goods and spring effects, arranged with excellent taste and artistic beauty.

The display of choice spring effects embracing the latest styles in novelty silks, laces, fans and parasols and the newest shades in kid gloves, including the very popular "handkerchiefs" and "handkerchiefs" and other material.

For Men, Women and Children. The People's Mammouth Installment has a well arranged display in his window.

One of the prettiest show windows in town was that of C. S. Raymond, the jeweler. His attractive window did not consist of a display, but in the tasteful manner in which the articles in the window were arranged.

There were few windows in the town more beautiful or attractive than those at the front of the Frank Wilcox company's shoe store on Douglas street.

The problem of moving prevented Mrs. Benson, who keeps a millinery shop at 212 South Fifteenth street, from entering with her usual enthusiasm into the Easter display business.

For Man's Delight. The Nebraska Clothing company at Fourteenth and Douglas streets crowded an attractive display into its window space, and made the most of it.

usual, a very fine display of jewelry and other articles. The arrangement of some of the most costly ornaments upon a snowy white bed and pyramid and cross decorated with white beads, the handiwork of Miss Oude Kirk, deserve special attention.

The Doney & Stone Furniture company displayed in its windows numerous articles of furniture, beautiful in design and in the unique pattern of a cane-bottom chair, made of polished wood, with pretty metal ornaments at the back, and numerous pieces of solid and costly furniture, upholstered with embossed leather, were the most noteworthy articles.

The great social event of the season was Bliss' grand millinery opening at the newly new store, 1314 Douglas street, last week.

Bliss has had many fine displays, but the last week's display was without exception the finest ever held in Omaha.

One thing noticeable in Bliss' millinery is so many beautiful styles and the low prices. They will continue all season.

Local Celebration of Regalim, the Feast of the Passover. With the fainting rays of Friday's setting sun the feast of passover was ushered into the Jewish community.

It is one of the first and greatest of the three annual feasts (Regalim) devoted by Moses, at which every male Israelite was sacredly bound to make a pilgrimage to the sanctuary of the Lord.

Before the downfall of the sanctuary and Jewish exile, a lamb was slain on the fourteenth day of the month, and its blood sprinkled on the doorposts of the house.

At the Harney street temple services were held Friday evening at 7:30. Owing to the celebration of the festive supper Rabbi Franklin was unable to attend.

The Russian congregation held its services at 1211 Douglas street. Mr. A. Wolinsky officiated as cantor.

MORE ABOUT WATER POWER

Opinion of an Omaha Wholesale Merchant Who Has Seen Its Growth.

Mr. Hoagland, Who Has Just Returned from Gothenburg, Has a High Appreciation of the City and Its Fine Water Power.

Learning that George A. Hoagland, the wholesale lumber merchant, had recently paid a visit to Gothenburg, a BEE representative called at his office and had the honor to receive an interesting talk that was his opinion of that city and its water power.

Mr. Hoagland was not in, but Mr. Foy stated that Mr. Hoagland had expressed himself to him in regard to the fact that there are several water power enterprises there, and that the faith in the city was strengthened by each visit he made there.

Mr. Foy further stated that he had been surprised to find that the method of obtaining and utilizing the water, it was a very simple matter and the power possible to be obtained was obvious to any one even slightly familiar with works of the kind.
