UNION PACIFIC WILL FIGHT

Chartered by the Government, it Will Oppose State Control.

WILL TAKE MAXIMUM RATES INTO COURT

General Manager Holdrege Predicting Disaster, Just as Iowa Managers Did-Fresident Clark Surprised by the New York Meeting.

There were glum and sour visages about the various railroad headquarters yesterday and the only subject heard discussed was the passage of house roll 33, or the maximum rate bill, Clerks wondered what effect it would have upon their salaries, yard men and track men saw in its passage a rejuction not only in working hours, out in wages, while heads of departments generally refused to talk upon the subject because no action had been decided upon to meet the problems growing out of its passage.

Before it is known how seriously the bill will affect the railroads and in what special cases the rates will have to be lowered to conform to the spirit and letter of the law, the rate clerks of the various rainroads in Nebraska will have to compile a new rate sheet and this means untold work on the part of the rate workers.

The Union Pacific was not as active as other railroads in opposing the bill, and it will depend on its relations with the government to evade the new law. It is intimated that this corporation will go into the courts at the first opportunity and fight the statute. General Manager Holdrege of the B. & M. in an interview with a Bez representative man interview with a Bris representative yesterday tried to make a case against the bill in the following manner:

"There is no doubt in my mind but that house roll No. 33, if put in effect, would cripple the business and manufacturing interests of Nebraska and would be of no benefit to the farming community, which it is intended to help. The loss to the railroads of Nebraska on incoming freight would amount to a large sum. They would be forced, in order to make a living to advance the in order to make a living to advance the rates on outgoing shipments, principally upon grain; they can in this way earn considerably more than upon the present basis of rates, but the effect would be detrimental to the farming and general interests of the state, as the railroads of the state are not now making a reasonable return upon actual value. If the law should be enforced they will of course be compelled to advance their rates on these outgoing shipments, and the local rates from factories where the law will local rates from factories where the law will permit an advance. "The bill contains such glaring constitutional defects, however, that it would hardly seem probable that the governor can approve it, or, if he should approve it, that the railroads can ever be compelled to put the rates in effect. The local rates which would be materially advanced include wheat to Nebraska flour mills, canned goods from the many canning factories, shipments from vinegar, pickle and paper factories, also the product from the important sugar factories that have been located in this state and from the Kearney cotton factory. The product of the latter mill would be advanced from Kearney to the Missouri river from 20 to 41 cents per hundred.<sup>27</sup>

PRESIDENT CLARK SURPRISED.

His Official Fate in the Hands of George Gould.

Owing to Mr. S. H. H. Clark's hatred of anything that savors of toadyism the employes about Union Pacific headquarters gave little show to their feelings when the president of the company put in an appearance yesterday morning and began looking over his mail that had accumulated since his departure for St. Louis some days ago.

Better than he has been for some time past Mr. Clark at once attacked the mass of correspondence with genuine pleasure, seemingly, and his stenographer was kept as busy as a nailer trying to catch up with the work. The presence of Mr. Clark at headquarters being noised about, it was not long before paid their respects to a man who enjoys the greatest honor ever accorded a railroad magnate, that of being president of over 15,000 miles of trunk line and representing two important systems in the development of the country.

Chatting with a representative of The Bee, Mr. Clark said: "I don't believe there was ever a more surprised man than I was on the day I received Mr. George Gould's telegram announcing that he had withdrawn my resignation from the board of directors of the Union Pacific. I was sitting at my desk in Missouri Pacific headquarters when the wire came, and the shock was so sudden and so great that it took me quite twentyour hours to recover from it.

"Not a word had been said to me about such a contingency happening. I supposed it was finally and mutually settled as to who would succeed me, but when George Gould's telegram came it was like a clap of thunder from a clear sky. Of course, knowing the reason for the hasty action on Mr. Gould's part and recognizing that something had to be done quickly, I can easily understand how it came about and of castly understand how it came about and of course acquiesced, as Mr. Gould is today the largest individual holder of Union Pacific stocks. Time was when Mr. Ames was the largest holder, but he has reliaquished some of his stock,

"As to the policy of the road, it will remain as now, strengthening the system wherever we regard it as essential and necessary. I shall not be in any great haste to move my family to Omaha and will not think of it for several months yet at least. In fact, I shall make haste slowly in that direction.

"Of course, I am glad to be back among my old friends and hope that the transfer to Omaha will be mutually beneficial. Beyond this I have nothing to say that would interest the public."

For a week past the Union Pacific has been unable to get trains through to Portland on account of terrific floods on the Idaho division of the system in the Snake river country. Bridges have been carried away and landstides have been of almost dail occurrence. Wednesday, however, the road was able to resume business, the tracks being clear and all the bridges in repair. It had been four days since trains were able to get through to Portland, a series of circumstances largely interfering with the passage of trains. When everything seemed clear on the Idaho division and trains had been started toward Portland a washout on the Pacific division again hung up traffic to the general disgust of everybody in the service and out. However, traffic has now been re-sumed and officials believe all the difficulties

Mrs. J. W. Mackay, wife of the "bonanza king," and a party of friends went through Omaha yesterday curoute to San Francisco in the private car "Corsair." Yesterday a telegram from Mr. E. L. Lomax, who is attending the meeting of the Western Passenger association, announced that the Sante Fe had interposed objections to making World's fair rates on the ground that the lines west of the Missouri river had not agreed upon a basis of rates. This objection it is understood means that the Sante Fe is determined to enter the trans-Sante Fe is determined to enter the trans-continental field and make a big bid for World's fair business. Gustave Landmann Awarded $3,500 for Lost Fingers.

Gustave Landmann worked in the factory owned by Abraham Rossenbery and for a time he was the boss of one of the planing machines. One day he slipped his hand over the knives of the machine and the result was that he is now shy several fingers. When he lost the fingers he sued the owner of the mill for $15,000, alleging the imperfect construction of the machinery. The suit came on before Judge Davis Wednesday and that night it was given to the jury. Yesterday the twelve men returned a verdict in which they found that Landmann was entitled to just $3,500 of Rossenbery's money. Clementina Brown has filed a petition in

ONE JOB THAT NEVER CAME

South Omsha Man Has a Complaint Against J. B. Smith.

HE APPEALED TO MAYOR BEMIS FOR HELP

Because Prosecutor Cochran Refused to Prosecute-Council Blaffs Partners Quarrel-An Alleged Fremont Hog Thief Arrested - In Police Circles.

Another case is reported against J. B. Smith, the expert accountant who has been accused of obtaining money from young men and girls who were seeking employment under a fletitious representation that he would secure them good positions. The latest victim is O. C. Page, a young man who lives at 2709 I street, South Omaha. Page went to Smith's office in the Sheely block on February 24 in response to an ad vertisement offering a situation as bookkeeper at $55 a month. Smith then said that he could have the position for him March 20 if he would take instructions from him during the intervening time.

After some conversation Page paid Smith $10 in advance for his instructions and $1.50 for material and received a receipt for the money together with a written guaranty that he would procure him the situation at that he would procure him the situation at the prescribed time or pay him back his money. The time elapsed some time ago, but Page is still unable to get any satisfaction either in the way of a situation or cash. After he had paid Smith the money the latter said that it was possible that as he had not had any previous experience he would have to give him some assistance during the first month, for which he would charge him $5 and that the month after Page should pay him another $10 for the position.

Page says that he has tried in vain to induce Smith to get him the promised situation or to refuad his money. Smith promised to give back the money several times, but failed to keep his agreement. When Page asked him to tell him where the position was in order that He might go and see them himself Smith also refused to give him them himself Smith also refused to give him any information.

The case was brought to the notice of City Prosecutor Cochran, who refused to file a complaint although he had some weeks ago issued a warrant for Smith's arrest for an exactly similar offense in which Miss Clara Randall was the complaining witness and Smith settled the case by paying Miss Ran-dall back her money and the costs of suit. Mr. Page then took his case to Mayor Bemis who sent for the prosecutor and endeavored to enlighten him as to some of the duties for which he was appointed.

PARTNERS FALL OUT.

One of Them Arrested for Carting Off the Goods.

A telephone message from Council Bluffs reached police headquarters yesterday afternoon asking that two men giving the names of Cady and Melcher be arrested at once for carting away a wagon load of cigars and tobacco. Detectives Savage and Dempsey arrested the men on suspicion shortly afterwards. In an hour or so a man named Deitch showed up at the jail and told his story of how the prisoners had loaded up a lot of cigars and taken the stuff to Omaha. All of this time Cady and Melcher were not saying Captain Mostyn advised Deitch to go back to the Bluffs and swear out a warrant. Into the Bluffs and swear out a warrant. In-stead of doing that Deitch went up to Ju-lius S. Cooley's office on the roof of the New York Life building and gave the "judge" twenty-five big round dollars to act for him and recover the property which he claimed had been stolen. This was a snap for Cooley, and he trotted to the jail at a Nancy Hanks' gait. He dashed up to the captain's office and demanded to see "a prisoner office and demanded to see "a prisoner named Deitch." "Are you sure that's the man you want to see?" asked Mostyn.

Cooley was sure, but on referring to a memoranda found that it was Cady that he was after.

Cady was brought up, and Cooley kindly goods were returned. This the prisoner consented to, and the pair went up into the There Cady changed from a lamb to a lion and proved very quickly that he and Deitch were in partnership and that he had only brought to Omaha what property belonged to him. Of course the judge discharged both Cady and Melcher. Cooley hastily left the court room, still clinging tightly to that $25.

PORK IS HIGH.

Robert McIntyre Accused of Taking Advantage of the Market.

Detectives Savage and Dempsey yesterday arrested Robert McIntyre, who is wanted at Fremont for grand larceny. Mc-Intyre is one of a gang of stock thieves who have stolen thousands of dollars worth of nogs from the Bay State Cattle company during the season.

The ranch of the Bay State company is located near South Bend, Neb., and is owned by Swift & Co. During the season the com-pany has missed large numbers of hogs from its droves but was unable to locate the thieves until recently. It finally got on the track of the marauders and four of them are under arrest. Two were arrested at Fremont, another at Columbus and the fourth and last of the gang was run down by the Omaha detectives.

The phenomenally high price of hogs this year has rendered the work of the thieves very remunerative and they are supposed to have made a small fortune during the winter. They would manage to separate a drove of hogs from the main drove and drive them away to some out of the way station, from which they would ship them to South Omaha or Chicago and sell them at a handsome profit, considering the price at which they secured them.

For Sunday Liquor Selling. Several violators of the Sunday saloon law were up for trial in police court at the afternoon session yesterday. The complaints were filed upon information of the officers who have watched the saloons for the last few Sundays.

The cases against Sophy Dallow, 1014 Chicago street, and Louis Dlubalo, were dismissed, the judge holding that the evidence was not sufficient to convict.

Chris Jensen and Adolph Brandes did not fare so well, and the court will withhold its decision until the 11th, at 2 p. m. Prosecutor Cochran felt very sore be cause he lost two of the cases and threw the blame on the police, whom he said made much stronger reports to the chief of police than they were willing to swear to under oath. Told in Paragraphs Sylvester Harris, an 8-year-old colored boy who has been arrested a dozen times for small offenses, was run in again yesterday and is liable to go to the reform school.

Detective Vizard yesterday recovered a suit of clothes stolen last summer from Jo-seph Schmit, 1910 Harney street. A soldier of the Second infantly is suspected of the The local police were informed yesterday by the Lincoln authorities that they had arrested a couple of thieves with a quantity of plander, which they were trying to sell. Among the lot was a fine, large, red silk table spread with a border of flowers and fringe, and supposed to have been stolen in yesterday afternoon with the hearing of the case against Henry Schonfeld for selling obscene books. Andre Berka fined the de-fendant $100 and dosts. Messrs. Swartz, Crane and McKeirey, arrested for being implicated, were discharged, as there was no evidence against them.

Yesterday afternoon Detectives Savage and Dempsey sawithree men standing at the corner of Tenthrand Dodge streets, and from their general appearance the officers spotted them as "marks." As soon as the tectives started to cross the street the trio broke and ram as hard as they could toward the river. Near Eighth street they separated, but each of the detectives had a man picked out and followed him. The result was that two men who haven't been out of the penitentiary long are again pacing a prison cell. Their records will be looked up, and the police hope to "cineth" them for being vagrants and suspicious characters if no more serious charge can be made to stick.
