upon its arrival here. Its appearance within the Grand Crossing yard was the signal for the assembling of all the small boys in the adopt the same caliber for the members of the force. About 9 o'clock the company's waichman returned and the crowds were driven away. But many traces of their visit remained. A piece of chalk in the pocket of a schoolboy had been passed from hand to hand, and the urchins' names were left scrawled all over both gun and bridge.

The big gun left Baltimore April 8 and has been on the road since that time, the trip having been made in daylight and at a speed of from twelve to fifteen miles an hour. It reached Fort Wayne Friday evening and was not moved again until 4 o'clock Saturday morning, when it was started for its final charge of Engineer Frank Leeper, three gou-dolas or empty flat cars, another flat car loaded with the ornaments and tools of the gun, two more gondolas and the caboose, the whole train being in charge of Conductor James Welch. The trucks upon which the gun rested were built by the Pennsylvania com-pany in 1892 at Altiona for this special pur-pose. They were four in number and each supported by two axles with low, compact wheels. From one to another of these trucks was a short bridge of steel fastened in such a way as to allow freedom of motion in passing over uneven tracks; from center to center of these smaller bridges was the great bridge upon which lay the monster

Altogether the weight resting upon the four trucks amounted to 317,000 pounds. Add to that amount the weight of the truck, 64,000 pounds, and the whole formed the heaviest carload ever shipped over the Pennsylvania line. Upon its arrival in the Grand Crossing yard the gun appeared to be in perfect condition. The nuz-zle was closed tightly by a block of wood, around the breech wis a framework of wood to prevent injury to the metal from possible swaying. So carofully had the train been swaying. So carefully had the train been handled that the wood casement showed no mark of violence and not even the paint with which the whole had been coated ap-

John Schardt, Cashier of a Nashville, Tenn.,

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 16.-This afternoon there was given to the public the fact that John Schardt, cashier of the Mechanics Savings bank and Trust company, was short in his accounts from $40,000 to $80,000.

Schardt has not been arrested, though he is in the city. He refuses to talk, saying his attorney will not permit him to do so until he comes to trial. The directors of the bank have been in session behind closed doors all day, and it is impossible to learn anything from them on the shortage. It is said that immediately after 12 o'clock tonight the the bank will make a general assignment, which is now being prepared. It is a case of stealing and effects none of the other banks of the city. Schardt has been cashier about three months; before that he had been teller of the bank and was implicitly trusted. It is stated that the discovery of a prephable short are covered, when a check probable shortage occurred when a check for $4,000 was presented and the teller could find no credits for the amount. Scharat at that time being at home sick, the president and directors were notified and an examination was entered upon with the result of the discovery of the shortage.

Schardt's scheme was to take deposits, enter them up on the pass book and not put them upon the books of the bank. It is also stated that Schardt has confessed to having used $40,000 of the bank's money. He is under bond for $20,000 and carries $80,000 life insurance, which it is also stated has been transferred to the bank. Until the assignment is filed and the directors talk, nothing more definite can be learned.

During the recent financial flurry, caused by the failure of the Commercial National bank, this bank suspended payments for one day. Upon an examination, the directors became satisfied it was sound and re-sumed business. No trouble is anticipated tomorrow with the other banks as they have passed safely through the ordeal of the past few weeks.

Schardt lost the money he took speculating in bucket shops. He was a heavy speculator and lost heavily. He is about 30 years old and has a family. It is understood that the guaranty company which made his bond will have him arrested to-morrow. It is said that Schardt is seri-

Two Colorado Paupers Engage in a Fatal Fight.

DENVER, Colo., April 16.-A desperate fight took place Saturday at the county poor farm between two of the inmates, whose advanced age and physical disabilities would ordinarily render such a thing impossible. Wilfiam Slater is 73 and Michael Lyons is 74 years old. Slater has been at the farm for several years. He was a sufferer from acute rheumatism, which had nearly paralyzed his arms. Lyons has been at the farm since last August. Since going to live there he has suffered a stroke of paralysis which affected his entire left side. One of his eyes was put out by a flying spark years ago when he was a worker in an iron foundry. The men have slept in the same ward and until recently were the best of friends. Their friendship finally came to an abrupt end because Lyons some time ago accused Slater of having stolen a razor from him. Slater denied this and hard feeling existed between the two ever since. Yesterday Slater attempted to con-ciliate Lyons, but instead of doing so only in-creased his ire. Suddenly Lyons drew a knife and, although a cripple, made a sinsh at Slater. The latter, who is also a cripple, at Slater. The latter, who is also a cripple, quickly hit Lyons over the head with his cruten, badly injuring him. Before it could be repeated Lyons stabbed. Slater twice in the stomach. Slater fell helpless, and as he lay bleeding he curses his assailant and swore dire revenge. Slater received two rightful cuts directly over the abdomen, one in the liver. Both men were taken to the county hospital where Slater died today Although Lyons' wound is not necessarily fatal, his extreme age may render it so. He is under arrest.

CORBETT POSES AS A BULLY

The Champion Bruiser Stopped in Omaha Yesterday to Disgrace Himself.

WANTED TO SCARE A REPORTER

His Profanity and Ruffianism Disgusted a Crowd at the Union Depot Last Night-Called Down by a Policeman.

Jim Corbett, the champion bruiser of America, passed through the city yesterday enroute from Chicago to Denver. He stopped at the Paxton for dinner but did not subscribe his name in the register. Whether this was from the fact that he wished to avoid the usual crowd that generally flocks to see a successful prize fighter, or because he was afraid the hotel would inform him that his absence was preferto his company-the Paxton able being a strictly first-class hotel-is not stated. The latter, however, is the likely explanation of his action.

In company with Frank Bandle the sporting editor of Tue Bee met the big ruffian at the depot a few moments before the departure of the train, and after shaking hands the burly bully in his loudest tones began to roast the scribe for the article which appeared in yesterday morning's BEE with reference to the coming of Peter Jackson. "You're a d — nice man," he opened up, glancing around to see whether the crowd was ready to take in the show, and realizing that they were all ready, he continued.
"What did you mean by what you said this morning about my not being willing to fight "i meant just what I said, but that wasn't it," replied the reporter.

"Well, you are a d—— nice man running down the only"—with the accent on the only —"American prize fighter and stickin' up for the nigger, and you are a d—— liar if you say I won't fight him." "I don't know whether you will fight him or not," responded the scribe, "but I can tell you one thing, I didn't come here to get into an argument with you or any other prize

"Well, then, why didn't you tell the truth in your paper. That nigger don't want any of my game. I'm ready to fight him any time, and I'll give you $1,000"—and he reached in his pocket presumably to draw forth the stuff, but happening to recollect that little Brady, the old Omaha newsboy, his manager, had only given him $10 for exhis manager, had only given him $10 for ex penses in Omaha, he drew it out empty, and continued to roar for the benefit of the crowd: "Stickin" up fer a nigger in preference to the only American prize fighter. You newspaper men make me sick roastin' an American fer a nigger. I am, and always have been ready to fight any one. Now my $1,000 goes, if you make a match with the d-d nigger fer me. He don't want any of my game." And he swaggered across the platform and back, swearing and blaspheming like any common loafer.

There were ladies and children standing

There were ladies and children standing around, too, quite a number of them, but that made no difference to the ruffianly bruiser. He could have licked the whole crowd if necessary. He continued this cowardly action until the depot policeman stepped up and reminded him of his surroundings, when he subsided.

Now what are the facts about Corbett's pretensions. In the first place it was never pretensions. In the first place it was never alleged that he would not fight Jackson, but it is a fact that Jackson has been exerting himself by every means within his power to make a second match with this champion rufflan, has posted his money time and time again, reminded him of his claims upon his first consideration by reason of the draw they fought in 'Frisco, and offering every inducement to the chamand offering every inducement to the champion bruiser to cajole him into a second meeting to demonstrate once for all who is the master. But no, Corbett had promised his pa that he would fight no one but Mitchell, and he couldn't break his word to the loving parent. Again Ed Smith, no longer than two weeks ago, in Pittsburg, challenged Corbett to fight him for a stake of $10,000, and as an earnest of his intentions posted a certified check for $2,500 but the posted a certified check for $2,500, but the big bruiser flunked and instead wanted to fight Smith in a bar room or on the street. As to the American press roasting this man Corbett, whenever were they as lavish in extolling the superior qualities of a man—in this case such qualities being confined to the big bruiser's fists—than they have those the big bruiser's fists—than they have those of Prize Fighter Corbett's. But it is his nature. He knows nothing of the common courtesies of life, his only ambition being to pose as a matinee masher and a brutal, ruffanly exponent of the prize ring. In these roles he is an unqualified success, especially the latter, for lam not inclined to detract from the fellow's ability to fight. But like Jackson, Davies and a good many other authori-ties, the writer considers him an arrant bully and coward, judging from his action at the depot last evening.

As a parting shot he exclaimed, "FII get that G- d-d paper tomorrow and read what you've got to say," and promising to endeavor to make it interesting and also to mail him several copies for his fighting scrap book, and for distribution among his friends, the scribe bade him "so long."

After the Race Track Men.

NEW YORK, April 16 .- Peter Delacey, the well known pool room keeper, and his counsel, M. J. Stein, assisted by the old Law and Order society of Union county, New Jersey, have raked up an old law which makes all sorts of betting come under the head of lottery gambling. Under that law, as it was framed both civil and criminal action could be brought by any citizen against violators of the law. Later the law was amended so that criminal prosecutions could not be made under it, but the civil clause of the act still remains in force, although, till now, it never has been tested, except in a few cases against gambling in Ocean county. Delacey thus hopes to make legal matters so hot for the Elizabeth race track that the meeting there will have to be stopped. The same fight will be made against Monmouth park.

Campbell, an extensive sheepman near here, has, however, hit upon a novel plan, which, if it proves successful, will be worth thousands of dollars to the sheep interests of Texas annually.

The scheme is the inoculation of a disease among the pests. In order to do this he re-cently trapped several wolves and peaned them up with a dog which was badly affected with the mange. The wolves soon caught the disease and are now thoroughly covered with the parasites of the disease. They were turned loose and Mr. Campbell expects them to spread the mange among wolves so rapidly that there will not be one of them left in Texas in two years. They live together and the disease will spread rapidly. It is incurable and no animal hav-ing it will breed.

Women, too, dressed variously as they had been occupied Slayers of a California Postmaster Discovered After Many Months. FRESNO, Cal., April 18 .- The mystery sur counding the brutal murder of Willard Good, the acting postmaster at Tarpey, a small station seven miles from here, last October, has been solved and William S. James dressed variously as they had been occupied with kitchen or parlor duties, elbowed their and Thomas Jones, alias "Jack" Jones, are under arrest for the crime. Good came from St. Albans, W. Va. in 1891 and joined his brother at Tarpey.

Jones and James, men of unsavery records, decided to rob the postoffice and Jones stabbed Good to death in the commission of the crime. There were no witnesses, but Jones field and James stayed in Fresno, where stabled Good to death in the commission of the crime. There were no witnesses, but Jones fied and James stayed in Fresno, where he was recently arrested for stealing lay. Finding that he was suspected also of the Good murder, he became frightened and made a confession. Jones has recently been located in Texas, where he has been arrested and is now on the way here.

FEMALE AERONAUT INJURED. Miss Nellie dagle Dashed Against a Building in San Francisco. San Francisco, Cal., April 16. -Miss Nellie Hagle, a female aeronaut, was dashed against the side of a building while making an ascension at the Cliff house this afternoon and sustained terrible injuries. A strong wind prevailed and the balloon while being inflated, escaped from twenty or thirty men who were holding it. Miss Hagle was already on the trapeze and before she could drop or determine what to do, was thrown against the wall with frightful ve-locity. Both legs were broken. The woman dropped helpless to the ground in an apparently lifeless condition. She received internal injuries also, but is still alive and may Infringed on the Copyright. New York, April 16.-A decision has been handed down by Judge Townsend in the United States circuit court in the protected suit of A. C. Black of Edinburgh, publisher of the Encyclopedia Britannica, against Funk and Wannals and the Henry G. Alien company of this city for the piracy of their publication, and it is in favor of the plaintiffs and permanently enjoins the defendants from manufacturing or selling reprints.

The defendants published what was known as the Scribner Encyclopedia. In the Edin burgh edition there were articles which were copyrighted and the same embraced in the American edition, the plates of which were made by photographic process from the Eng-lish edition. It was the production of the copyrighted articles that led to the controyersy.

Judge Townsend holds that the copyright was infringed on and that the injunction must stand against the defendants.

Wyoming Postmuster Arrests Rawlins, Wyo., April 16-|Special Tele gram to THE BEE. |-The United States marshal came in from the north this afternoon having in charge Robert McAuley, postmater at Atlantic, arrested on a complaint made by a postoffice inspector. McAuley has held the office for over twenty-three years and is well known throughout the state. To judge from the marshal's conver-sation the charge appears to be a trivial one for the purpose of securing evidence in other more important cases. Failure of a Texas Banker.

From Bad to Worse

A Complication of Diseases

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cave Strength Just in Timo.

Mr. Isaac Aber Of Vienna, N. J.

"I gladly testify to the following facts: I have been a very great sufferer for the last five years with troubles of the Lungs and kidmeys and the worst stage of Dyspepsia.

I could scarcely cat anything because of the intense pain in my stomach. I was also at one time covered with solt cheum, and my cough weakened me so that I could scarcely walk. I had several attacks of bleeding at the lungs. My breath became so short that I was unable to work and was obliged to give up my business which is that of a mason. I could not even walk about much. So I kept going from bad to worse. I then had an attack of the shingles, which, with all my other complaints, confined me to my room for three months and

Nearly Took Away My Life.

I had heard of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a good medicine, so I bought a bottle. When I had taken it, I found it had done me some good, so I continued till I had taken three bottles. I improved so rapidly that I could walk out of doors, and have steadily gained till I am at work more. The physicians told me five years ago that I would not live three years, and all the neighbors think it a very strange thing to see me at work again. It is the strength given me by Hood's Sarsaparilla which enables me to do it." ISAAC ARER, Vienna, Warren County, N. J. Hood's Pills cure all Liver fils, Biliousness,
