GARBAGE MATTERS DISCUSSED

Health Officials Think the Present System Can Be Improved.

Alleged Sensation at a Jewish Cemetery Will Be Investigated-South Siders Will Now Have the Long Desired Park.

The Board of Health has taken the initiatory steps toward the adoption of an entirely new system of disposing of the garbage of the city. The plan is not original and is in vogue in a large number of cities throughout the country, and it Is said to have proved successful and to have given the best of

At the meeting of the board yesterday afternoon Chief of Police Seavey made a motion to the effect that the council be requested to appoint a committee to arrange meetings and visit farmers in Douglas and adjoining counties for the purpose of ascertaining if a plan cannot be hit upon whereby the garbage of this city can be carted to the farmers and disposed of for fertilizing purposes. The chief, in support of his motion, said that it was but a question of a short time until the government would step in and prevent the dumping of garbage into the river, and he believed that the solution to the question of disposing of the garbage lay the question of disposing of the garbage lay in their ability to induce the farmers to use it in enriching their soil. The other mem-bers of the board were in the same frame of mind and the motion was adopted. Chief Scavey read from the St. Louis Republic a half column dispatch, dated Omaha, and headed "A Ghastly Sensation."

The dispatch said that great excitement prevailed in Omaha because of the ghastly manner in which Russian Jews buried their infants in the cemetery in Central park, near Fort Omaha, and that the whole matnear Fort Omaha, and that the whole mat-ter had just attracted public attention. It said that in one corner was a spot twenty-five feet long by six feet wide in which twenty infants had been buried, and then cited burials that have taken place where the remains had been placed in graves not even one foot in depth, and that those resid-ing in the neighborhood had said that in ing in the neighborhood had said that in ing in the heighborhood had said that in some cases infants had been thrown into graves, and their shroud and coffin was but a piece of cheese cloth. Foul and sickening oders, said the dispatch, were continually rising and the health of the entire neighborhood was threatened. The residents were aroused and insisted that the Board of Health take immediate steps to stop the ghastly burials. Dr. Somers was directed to visit the cemerors and investigate to the state of the state tery and investigate as to the truthfulness of the statements contained in the dispatch. The commissioner of health was instructed to inform the Board of Fire and Police Com-missioners of the unsanitary condition of Engine house No 1; also to request the city attorney to prepare an ordinance licensing the business of milk dealers.

The question of flushing the streets, alleys and sewers was referred to Mayor Bemis for investigation and to report with recommen-

The board will lock horns with the Board. of Education and prevent, if possible, the putting into the school buildings of the Smead system of ventilation and dry earth closets. Dr. Somers said the system is not calculated to improve the health of the scholars and is actually dangerous, and that the city attorneys had informed him that the putting in of such a system is a direct violation of the ordinances of the city. The flector was instructed to see that the ordinance in this instance is enforced which nance in this instance is enforced, which means that a halt will be called on the school

Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock the board will visit the city jail for the purpose of investigating its condition from a sanitary point of view. From the jail they will go to the new Presbyterian hospital and take a look they with its condition of the conditio

WILL HAVE A PARK.

Bouth Siders and the Park Commissioners

Yesterday afternoon the park commis sioners met for the purpose of giving the committee of south side citizens an opportunity to be heard regarding a park for the southeast part of the city. The result of the conference is that the board will waste precious little time in acquiring a tract, now that the south siders are agreed upon a site and the new charter confers the power of condemnation, which the old did not. The Clarke tract is the piece of ground that it is pontemplated to acquire, together with small strips of adjoining property. All of the members of the board were present and the south side people had their interests looked after by Councilman Hascall, J. C. Brennan Frank Kaspar, Dr. Hanchett, G. E. Ber-trand, Ernest Stuht, E. J. Cornish, George Schroeder, John Butler and J. C. Brennan. Councilman Hascall spoke for the commit-tee of south siders. He said that a former tee of south siders. He said that a former meeting of the citizens in that part of the city had taken the same action as the gath-ering of last week, and decided that a boule-vard was wanted from Bancroft street to the proposed Sautler tract, and a parkway from the tract to Thirteenth street. What was wanted was a suitable park purchased and improved. There had been considerable dissatisfaction in recard to transferring the dissatisfaction in regard to transferring the $26,000 in bonds from the special to the gencral park fund. Before election the southsiders were opposed to the issuing of the bonds, but had supported the proposition because of the fact that the bond had taken action setting aside $08,000 for the park in the southeast part of the city. The council last year had set aside $100 for for the southeast part had set aside city. The council last year had set aside $101,000 for the southeast park, but that action had been reconsidered. The best method to pursue was to use what funds were available and secure the land for park purposes, with outlets. He thought that the transfer of $26,000 could rest until the board had purchased the land and then that sould be considered. Judge Hascall, was of bould be considered. Judge Hascall was of the opinion that the delay experienced had home no harm and that land could be purhased cheaper.

Councilman Wheeler explained how the kransfer of the $26,000 was made. He said the people had voted $400,000 for purchasing lands for parks, and the $25,000 being the Amount in premiums from the proceeds of the saie of the bonds, and it was necessary to have it placed in the park maintaining fund, so it could be made available.

Dr. Hanchett said it was an understanding Dr. Hanchett said it was an understanding among the councilmen at the time that the Distin and other tracts were purchased that the balance of the fund, $101,000, was to be expended in the purchase and improvement of a southeast park. When the $26,000 was transferred to the park maintaining fund the south siders felt that an injustice had been done and that it was an attempt to dibeen done and that it was an attempt to divert a portion of the fund that should go to the south side. The meeting had agreed to taking the Clarke tract to the B. & M. tracks, and desired an entrance at or near Sixth and Bancroft streets, and an outlet to Thirteenth street. If the land was purchased and the park improved it would immediately leap into popularity. It was expected that the B. & M. would immediately erect a depot there and three lines of stely erect a depot there and three lines of street railway would touch the proposed site. He thought the board should give the south side the park as soon as possible and but a few thousand deliars would have to be but a few thousand dollars would have to be expended in beautifying the tract to make of it a park second to mone in the city.

John Butler said that the proper thing to do is to acquire the seventy-eight acres agreed upon, and under condemnation he thought it could be secured for not to exceed $1,000 per acre. He would like to see a park of 200 or 300 acres down there, and the ground to the river could be turned into a large lake. Ernest Stuht said that Mr. Murray had stated that he was ready to comply with the terms of the contract he had made relative to giving his tract for park purposes.

E. J. Cornish spoke next and suggested that he could make apparent the injustice that had been done the south siders. When the sum of $65,000 was set aside for the pur-the sum of $65,000 was set aside for the pursidering the population and amount paid in lease is that portion of the city. The additional $2,000 was appropriated and had place been transferred to another fund. That amount was relied upon, and if the five new waitable was not sufficient the council could be asked to rescind its former solden and appropriate the $26,000.

Dr. ddiller replied to Mr. Cornish and said that no injustice had been done the south side and no injustice was ever intended. The board had waited a whole year for the south siders to get together and agree upon a site for a park, and when prices were submitted they were so high that the board had said it would wait until the law was secured to condemn. The members of the board have always been anxious to have a park on the always been anxious to have a park on the southeast, and were ready to acquire the property and provide the park.

Mr. Kilpatrick said that he never had any inclination to slight the south siders, and he knew that the other members of the board were in favor of the southeast park.

Dr. Hanchett explained that no criticism had been passed upon any member of the park commissioners, and the diverting of the $20,000 was the work of the council.

Ex-Councilman Kaspar said no criticism of the board was intended. What is desired is that the board should define boundaries so that condemnation proceedings could be commenced.

Mr. Lininger of the board said that he was with the south siders on the park ques-tion, and that he was desirous of seeing a park in that part of the city.

Mr. Millard moved that Saturday morning at 10 o'clock the commissioners and Engineer House visit the Clarke tract and neighborhood, and the members indicate to the engineer what they desire as a southeast park and lastruct him to proceed at once to out line and survey this park and tributary boulevards preliminary to condemnation.

The motion unanimously prevailed, and the committee departed well satisfied. The commissioners decided to go over the proposed north boulevard from Distin to Elmwood Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Burdick & Bailer submitted plans for the reconstruction of the Hanscom park pavillon, which were adopted. The new pavilion will be the same size as the old, and its construction will cost about $8,000. The plans contemplate a double veranda around each side of the building. The first and second floors will each embrace one large room and smaller ones for the use of the cateror. The structure will be far more sightly than the structure will be far more sightly than the destroyed pavilion, and more correctly arranged for the comfort of visitors.

PHYSICIANS CALL IT MURDER

Evidence Introduced Yesterday to Combat the Suicide Theory.

EXPERT TESTIMONY FAVORS CLARA ALLEN

Physicians Allege That Ex-Mayor Miller Could Not Have Fired the Pistol Shot That Caused His Death-Other District Court Matters.

The testimony in the case of Clara Allen, who is charged with having perjured herself during the preliminary examination of Dick Berlin and Charles Hays in police court where they were charged with the murder of the late Mayor Miller of South Omaha, book another turn yesterday. The defense has all along claimed that they would still be able to prove that Miller was murdered and some of the evidence introduced yesterday indicated that their claim was not without reason. The forenoon was taken up by the expect testimony of physicians, whose statements went to favor the theory of the defense.

A grinning skull occupied a position on the attorney's table, while a revolver reposed by its side when Dr. Christy went upon the stand to testify that he was one of the doctors who made the post mortem examination of Miller's hera after his body was disinterred. The doctor had seen any number of gunshot wounds. In making the post mortem examination on the head of Charles P. Miller he found that the ball en-tered the left side of the head in the vicinity of the temple, passing beneath the lobes of the brain, fracturing the internal plate of the frontai bone. He thought that the ball was fired from behind and from above, as the course of the bullet was downward and toward the right, its place of lodgment being about one meh below the point of entrance. In making the examination the doctor found a slight discoloration of the hair, but there was a complete absence of powder marks and burns. This indicated that the pistol was held some distance from the head when dis-

Was Fifteen Feet Away.

Upon being shown the gun found beside Miller's body the doctor testified that if a wearon of that kind, a 44-caliber English bulldog, had been pressed against the temple and fired the edges of the wound would be lacerated and burned and the bones would be marks of powder. From a careful examination of the wound upon the head of Miller the doctor was of the onicion that the Miller the doctor was of the opinion that the ball which did the fatal work was fired from a point at least fifteen feet distant, and that it could not have been held by the deceased.

Dr. Lord, another of the physicians who assisted in making the post mortem examination, testified that he had made a study of ganshot wounds. He saw the point where the ball entered Miller's head. He took off the top of the skull and traced the course of the ball, which was inward and downward, indicating that it had been fired from a point above and baking where Miller. from a point above and behind where Miller was standing. The condition of the wound indicated that the shot was fired from some distance and could not have been from a pistol held in the hand of the deceased. Lanyon Says it Was Murder.

County Physician Lanyon, another medical man who took an active part in the post mortem, testified that he probed the wound and followed the course of the ball. It was from the left to the right and downward, which to his mind fully indicated that it was fired by some person other than the deceased. The bullet entered at the temple and was found at a point on the opposite side of the head, fully three-fourths of an inch below where it entered inch below where it entered.

Practical illustrations of the results of firing pistols at long and short range had been made by the policemen. A piece of cardboard placed close to the muzzle of a revolver, and then the revolver discharged showed a ragged hole with the edges burned Fired from a point one foot away, the pow-der from the pistol embedded itself in the cardboard. The same pistol fired from a distance of two feet filled the board with powder for a space of twelve inches around the bullet hole.

At the afternoon session of the court the At the alternoon session of the court the introduction of testimony was completed and the arguments of the attorneys commenced, to be finished today.

Was Not Miller's Writing.

During the afternoon Fred Griffith went on the stand for the defense. He testified that he was a South Omaha employe of the Pacific Express company. He had been associated with Miller for four years and had seen his writing every day. When shown the signature, "P. C. Rellin," found at the pawnoroker's, from which it was claimed that the pistol found beside the bouy was procured, he was of the opinion that it did not bear any resemblance to Mil-ler's writing. He supposed that Miller was in good health, as he had not heard him complain of bad feelings or pains in his head.

Mrs. Lydia Morse, the mother of Mrs. Miller testifical that Miller, testified that she had resided with the Miller family for a number of years. She knew that her son-in-law was handy with his left hand, but that he always used his right. The left hand, she said, was crippled, in that the foreinger was gone, while the second and third fingers were stiff, the result of an accident which the result of an accident which occurred ears ago. On the day before the finding of the body, the witness testified that Berlin was at the Miller residence four times. At one of the visits, when Miller and Berlin were in the front room and when she was in the kitchen, she heard the two men engaged in a loud conversation, during which she heard Miller bring his fist down upon the table and in a loud voice exclaim, "My God, I can't do it." It was a common thing for men to come to the house, but it was an unusual thing for them to converse in such loud tones of voice. In fact the witness had known of the "order" meeting in that room and there would not a sound reach the kitchen.

Made it "Unpleasant."

After Berlin had left the house on that Monday and after Miller had come into the kitchen, witness had asked him who that man was, to which he had replied, "He is one of the gamblers who are making it un one of the gamblers who are making it un-pleasant for me."

A copy of "Taylor's Medical Jurispru-dence" found its way into the court room, and from it the attorney for the defendant read several pages which treated upon the subject of gunshot wounds, the purport being to show that if a pistol was held close to the body and fired the edge of the wound would be large, torn and lacerated, besides being burned by the explosion of the powder, while if the muzzle of the weapon was held at some distance when the shot was fired, the wound would have clean edges, as if cut by a knife or some other sharp instrument.

Here the defense rested and the state at tempted to introduce the testimony of Dr. Huetson, microscopist at the packing houses to show that after the body was exhumed a portion of the brain was turned over to him for examination, and that he found gunpowder in the tissues, having been carried there by the bullet, owing to the closeness of the pistol to the head at the time when the fatal shot was fired.

To this line of testimony the defense objected, arguing that it was improper, as it was not rebuttal, and should have been called out in the examination in chief. The objection was sustained, and the long drawn out trial was over so far as the introduction
