Emma Berner, whose husband is well known in business circles through the west. Mrs. Berner has made well-earned affluence to the truth of the following remarkable statement before George H. Wiley, Esq., notary public:

When I commenced using Paine's celery compound I was nothing but skin and bones, and so nervous that any slight noise would scare me and make me tremble. Since then I have used one dozen bottles of the compound, and as a result weigh 110 pounds. All my nervousness is gone. I sleep like a top, and my appetite is good. My disease was female weakness, and an ovarian tumor. If any lady suffering as I did will please write to me, I will answer her.

A simple vegetable remedy that has power to cure that dread disease, paralysis, must easily conquer all disorders of the nervous system.

Read the following from Mrs. Lizzie Shaffer of Stauffer, Ind. I was afflicted with spinal paralysis, neuralgia of the heart and rheumatism so that I was unable to get up.

My daughter has suffered with catarrh for 11 years, caused by impure blood. I tried many doctors and everything advertised, but nothing helped her. My druggist thought Paine's celery compound would help her, and she is now taking her fifth bottle.

There are thousands who have not yet recovered from the effects of the grip. Let them follow Mrs. Clara A. Butterfield's example, and Paine's celery compound will keep them well and strong.

Elizabeth Stahley, a most estimable lady of Troy, N. Y., tells how Paine's celery compound made her well. She says: "At times my head ached so that I could not see. It seemed as though I would die, and death would have been a relief from my misery. Nothing helped me, until I saw in a paper that Paine's celery compound was for sale. I bought a bottle and had a single headache for weeks; my appetite is good, I sleep well and I feel as though life were worth living."

Her druggist told Mrs. Votaw of Salem, O., that Paine's Celery Compound was the best spring medicine. He knew whereof he spoke. She writes: "In the spring my blood seemed thick and impure and I was generally out of health. My skin was rough and my face all broken out, so that I was a sight to be held. The use of Paine's celery compound relieved my blood and gave me a clear complexion. It is far ahead of sarsaparilla and the ordinary spring medicine I have used before."

One of the most estimable women in Watertown, South Dakota, is Mrs. B. C. Crabtree of Lynn, Mass. "I believe Paine's celery compound is a most valuable medicine for nervous prostration. I suffered very much for a long time with the above disease, and was about giving up all hopes of recovery. I then saw something that I could not get. For ten days and nights at a time not an hour's sleep. I was suffering terribly from pain over my eyes. My business went without proper attention, and, in fact, I was fast going all to pieces. About three months ago I commenced to take the celery compound, and today I can sleep as well as I ever could in my young days. It is truly a most wonderful remedy for nervous prostration. Every family should have the remedy on hand."
