secretary Morton's Investigation of the Weather Bureau Distasteful to Him. Washington, D. C., April 22 - Mark W. Harrington, chief of the weather bureau, in a letter to Secretary Morton, protests against a continuation of the investigation into the management of the bureau under the charges made by Assistant Attorney General Colby and the notice given to him thereof. It was expected that Mr. Harrington would meet General Colby today and arrange the details for opening the investigation upon the charges promulgated early in the week, as the result of the iminary inquiry made by direction of the meteorological bureau. In his letter to Secretary Morton, however, Mr. Harrington objects to the manner in which the charges were brought to his attention, claiming that he is entitled to an authoritative notice from the secretary of agriculture of the charges against him, and that he cannot properly onsider as authentic such charges as he has "had notice of through the public press and otherwise." He says further: "May I venture to say without disrespect that their retention until you feit authorized to assume them would have prevented my exposure to an unjust and unserupulous attack, a reply to which my position unde it impossible." Mr. Harrington objects to General Colby on many grounds and responds seriatin to the charges presented, denying the statements that are made therein and defending his management of the bureau. Secretary Morton was asked if he would say anything in regard to the letter of Chief Harrington. He replied: "General Colby is acting just as a master in chancery in this matter. He takes testimony, sums it up and makes recommendations. Most assuredly he will continue to conduct the in-

ARBOR DAY.

Secretary Morton Talks to the Employes of the Agricultural Department.

Washington, D. C., April 22.-Arbor day was properly celebrated by the employes of the Agricultural department today. A majority of them assembled in the grounds, where, after a speech had been made by Assistant Secretary Willets, a white oak tree was planted in honor of the secretary of agriculture. Secretary Morton being called on for a speech responded in part as follows: "It seems to have been my fortune to have furnished to mankind a new sort of anniversary. All other forms of inauguration day treated of something that had passed away and honored those who were dead, Arbor day tooks to posterity. The children in our schools should be taught the value of the tree of life as connected with all animal life. because we understand that if there should be an intermission of a single summer's growth and no foliage, flower or fruit came to the earth, when autumn came there would not be one single living, breathing animal on all this vast globe of ours. The independence of animal and vegetable life is constant, ever existing. Therefore, when we boast of our wonderful powers over all natural laws, all natural things, and declare man's animal superiority to the vegetable kingdom, we must remember this victory of ours is only for a day, for tomorrow we die, and the roots and tentacles from this tree send down all these forces into the very graves where we rest and our tired forms repose, in order to take up everything that there is of us materially and reconvert us to the use of the vegetable world. All the men standing about, all those hearts beating here today, only a few years since were parts of the vegetable kingdom and only a few years hence we shall again be parts of flower, forest and fruit. It is an endless, everlasting chain of circles in which we appear, first in the animal and then in the vegetable world. It seems to me that a tree and a truth are the two longest lived things of which mankind has any knowledge. Therefore it behooves all men in rural life sides planting truths, to plant trees behooves all men in public life to plant economic and political truths, and, as the rees grow from small twigs to grand overspreading oaks, so the smallest organic truth, even as we have seen in the last year, can so grow as to revolutionize the government of a great republic. I say, then, we should all plant trees and plant truths, and let every man struggle. that when we shall all have passed away we shall have carned the grand epitaph which we find in St. Paul's cathedral in London. You remember Sir Christopher Wren was the architect of that won iron consummation of beauty in building; and there among the heroic dead of England's greatest heroes upon land and sea repose his remains. On other tombs are marked word of eulogy, fulsome sometimes always in tense; but upon the sarcophagus where Sir scribed only these simple words:

"Si Quarcis Monumentum Circumspice."-"If you seek my monument, look around you." So every man, woman and child who plants trees shall be able to say, on coming, as I have come toward the evening of life, in all sincerity and truth, "If you seek my mon ument, look around you."

There was a sort of informal recognition of Arbor day yesterday in the pub-lic schools of Omaha. At some of the buildings, where the Board of Education has prepared plans for improvement of the grounds, the children were not at liberty to plant, as they would in all probability not have done the work in conformity with the plans, but at other places there were a num-ber of trees planted. The Eighth grade class at the Lake school planted the usual tree and had the usual exercises. The literary exercises in connection with the day at all of the schoole were of a very interesting character. Papers bearing upon the utility and growth of the various kinds of wood were read and the little folks showed that they were enthused with the spirit and purpose of the holiday.

FREE GOLD IN THE TREASURY

Offers Received Yesterday Aggregated Over $4,000,000.

BACK TO THE $100,000,000 STANDARD

Bankers Come to the Relief of the Treasury Department -Secretary Carlisle States What Will Be His Policy-A. Brighter Prospect.

Washington, D. C., April 22.-The gold reserve depleted yesterday is intact today, offers aggregating over $4,000,000 having been received and accepted by the secretary this morning. Secretary Carlisle said he did not think, justice to those who were disposed to supply the government with gold, that their names should be published, and for that reason alone he did not think it wise to state names and places from which the offers came. Mr. Carlisle stated that the treasury would continue the policy of paying out gold on treasury notes, and that at an early hour yesterday, when it seemed that the reserve would be encroached upon he notified the treasurer at New York to continue paying these notes. He was, therefore, at a loss to understand how any uncertainty prevailed in the public mind as to the action of the department in the premises.

Had a Balance in Its Favor,

When the day closed the Treasury department had to its credit slightly over $700,000 in free gold. It is expected that this will be increased Monday, as there is a disposition shown by western bankers to help the treesury swell its gold balance. Several banks in New York, too, are stated to have turned in gold for greenbacks. There is a better feeling, temporarily, at least, and the fact that no bad result has occurred by dipping into the greenback gold reserve, leads to the belief that none will occur, if it is found necessary to repeat the proceeding. It is anticipated here that more large shipments of gold will be made next week. In case the shipments are made there is nothing to indicate that Secretary Carlisle will not do as he did yesterday, viz: invade the gold reserve to meet all demands. The expenditures, so far this month, have been heavy, exceeding the receipts by over $2,000,000. This has had the effect of reducing the net eash balance in the treasury, which today is $24,905,000, and of this amount $10,500,000 is in subsidiary coin and $11,000,000 in national bank depositories.

Exaggerated Stories.

The exaggerated stories which gained circulation last flight and were widely pub-lished today to the effect that at the cabinet meeting during the afternoon President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle had had a serious misunderstanding, which might lead to the resignation of Mr. Carlisle, are officially denied by members of the cabinet and officials of the Treasury department. The relations which exist today between Secretary Carlisle and the president are said to be as cordial as they have ever been.

What the future policy of the treasury may be regarding finances, is still a matter of conjecture, for a definite course has not been decided upon. The department will wait for developments, and, as, emergencies arise, it is believed, will be fully able to meet them. The administration feels confi-dent that the present financial insecurity is temporary, based on an exaggeration of con-ditions, and it has no fear that there will be a panic or that the national credit will be

The most reliable information as to the position of the president and Mr. Carlisle and what occurred at the cabinet meeting yesterday is that there existed between them simply a difference of judgment as to which policy was the better one to be followed. Secretary Carlisle believed that the law justified him in stopping the payment of gold for the treasury notes of 1890 and considered it best to follow this course and keep the gold reserve intact. As far as his interpre-tation of the law is concerned he was upheld in his opinion by Secretary Gresham and President Cleveland pointed out that there was nothing which compelled the govern-ment to keep the gold reserve in its entirety except for the redemption of the legal ten der notes. It then became not a question of law and discretion, but of policy, and it was finally decided that the gold reserve should be utilized to meet the demand for gold shipment. The stories of trouble in the cabinet are One result of the gold scare has been to cause a good deal of quiet discussion among the statesmen left at the capital of the necessity for an extra session of congress. It is undeniable that some of them feel that such a session is probable and at an earlier date even than that predicted by Vice Presi dent Stevenson, namely, September next. That date was fixed in contemplation of the ressities of tariff legislation, but in treatment of such great financial questions as are now before the administration it is argued that the element of time becomes of superior importance. Authority to Issue Bonds.

There is a question as to the authority of the secretary of the treasury to issue bonds under the present circumstances, although the decided weight of opinion lies in favor of the proposition. It should also be borne in mind that if the secretary decided in the affirmative he is still bound to issue bonds of the old rates, namely 4, 4½ and 5 per cent, instead of the 3 per cent bonds it is said to be possible to float. In this connection, and as evi-dencing the secretary's feelings in the matter, it may be recalled that on February 18 last, when Senator Sherman sought to secure the inclusion in the sundry civil ap-propriation bill of a paragraph authorizing the secretary to sell these 3 per cent bonds for gold, he said that he, with the other members of the finance committee of the senate, had consulted with Mr. Carlisle. Said Senator Sherman then: "While he (Carlisle) hopes and expects that no continupon to sell bonds to maintain the reserve now required by law, he thinks the very fact of having the power to sell a 3 per cent five-year bond would probably enable him to void the necessity of selling the necessity of selling bonds. could not, in order to maintain the reserve, sell them or any other kind of bonds, except those just named, 4, 4% and 5 per cent bonds But no secretary of the treasury ought to be required to issue that kind of bonds when the credit of the government of the United States would enable him to sell 3 per cent

If Mr. Carlisle is still of the same mind it is argued that congress will soon together to enact the necessary legislation to enable the administration to assume the responsibility of assuming the questionable authority for the bond issue. Of course once the session begins, it is assumed by those who discuss the matter that congress will feel obliged to deal not only with the question of the gold reserve, but also with the financial conditions which, in some quarters, were asserted to have caused the present state of affairs; which, in plain English means the operation of the Sherman silver

News to the State Department.

Washington, D. C., April 22.—No informa tion has reached the State department of the rejection by the Austrian government of Mr. Max Judd as consul general at Vienna, as reported in last night's dispatches. There is one feature of the dispatch that tends to east a doubt on the story. That is the statement that when Minister Grant was in-formed of the decision of the Austrian government he replied that "another consulgeneral would be appointed who would be a Jew. but not of former Austrian allegiance." It is almost incredible that he made such an undiplomatic remark, even if he possessed information in regard to the president's purose in case it becomes necessary to make a hange in the office.

Secretary Gresham, when shown the Vienna dispatch, said he had received no in-formation on the subject, and was inclined to doubt the accuracy of the dispatch. If Mr. Judd had been denied his exequator, he (the secretary) did not know it, and he was confident that Mr. Graut did not make the statement attributed to thim. So far as he knew the appointment of Mr. Judd was not Peculiar Case Occupying the Attention of a Maine Court.

Augusta, Me., April 22.-In the circuit court today a case of unusual interest was that of Evelyn Rowe vs Robert Rowe Mrs. Rowe brings action for divorce on the ground of refusal to provide her suitable support. Mrs. Rowe appeared to accept this view of the origin of the child according to her answers to the counsel, and seemed to think her husband was doing what he considered his duty in looking after the child, according to his faith. New York, April 20, The governors of the Coffee exchange failed to give today their decision in the matter of the refusa. of Assignee Sherman of T. M. The trade is still feeling the ill effects of the disastrous attempt of Leo Kalebach of Paris to corner the product. His failure has been formally announced abroad. In this city he not only carried down Barr & Co., but leaves besides a legacy of unpaid commission bills, margins not made good, etc., etc. One con-cern familiar with his former exploits in Egyptian and Panama securities and his operations on the Paris bourse says his offee speculations caused a loss running up into the thousands. From a financial stand-point the Kalebach experiment was an unfortunate one for this country, for the reason that it has led to excessive imports of coffe at considerably higher prices than those now ruling, which must be settled for in gold. The stocks of coffee of the world have not been as large as they are now since 1888.

IT DEPRESSED THE MARKET

Bad Effects of the Failure of the Pennsylvania Iron and Steel Company.

CLAIMS MADE BY THE FIRM'S OFFICIALS They Say the Present Embarrassment is Only Temporary, and that the Company Will Come Out All Right

-Paid Their Men.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 22.—The failure of the Pennsylvania Steel company has depressed the iron and steel trade, and it is the belief in financial circles that the embarrassment of that large concern is but the forerunner of lesser failures in the same line. The stock of the Pennsylvania Steel company, which yesterday was offered at $100. with no bids, was today offered at $80. None, however, was sold.

At the offices of the company in this city today nothing could be learned beyond the fact that the statement of assets, liabilities, etc., were being prepared and would be ready for distribution early next week. Who the heaviest creditors are is as yet unknown, but it is said a New York firm is heavily involved. Philadelphia banks hold large quantities of "iron paper" and the failure has affected many of them. The paper of the Pennsylvania Steel company has always been regarded as gill edged, and the sudden failure of the concern pro-duced a slump from which there has not and will not for some days be a recovery.

The report that the Pennsylvania railread is involved in the embarrassment is not iven credence.

James M. Swank, secretary of the Amerian from and Steel company, while admitting hat the present condition of the iron trade was a bad one, said today that there was no doubt that the Penrsylvania Steel pany's embarrassment would only temporary. He said there was tremendous capital behind it and it would recover with autious and judicious management. Swank further said that the precarious con dition of the iron market was not so badly felt by the company as the drain on its resources, due to the increase of its plant. In a Good Condition.

York, April 22.—Stephen W. Bald win, manager of the Pennsylvania Steel company in Wall street, said today that he was positive that the present trouble of the company would be only temporary and that the company would come out all right and speedily. He knew that a large offer of assistance had been made to the company, and that it had been declined. The trouble was due entirely to the money stringency due entirely to the money stringency. The president of the company had advised the stockholders to hold on to their stock. Mr. Baldwin said that he was a stockholder and that heads of departments held stock in the company. The main part of the company's business is in a very flourishing condition, he continued, and will go right on under the receivers; there were more orders on hand now than can be filled. Regarding the large expenditures at Sparre Point, Md., amounting to $8,500,000, he said that they represented not only the manufac turing business, but an entire town of 3,000 or 4,000 persons, with houses built and occupled by the workingmen, a magnificent Bessemer plant, four blast furnaces and a well equipped ship yard. The labilities are held by strong parties. There is an immense amount of material on hand, which will be worked up as fast as possible and turned into money to pay those liabilities. The com-pany employes about 7,000 men.

Paid Off the Employes. Harrisburg, Pa., April 22.-Over $100,000 were distributed among the employes of the Pennsylvania Steel company at Steelton today. It was the largest semi-monthly pay roll in the history of the plant and the prompt payment of the men restored confidence in the ability of the company to re-cover from its present embarrassment. There was a brief run on the Steelton bank, but when Cashier Snavely paid every check presented without delay and stated that the pank would remain open until 5:30 this evening to accommodate all who came, the run ceased. General Manager Felton and Assistant Superintendent Tenny declared there was no occasion for despondency. The general manager said the appointment of reupon the improvements now under way a Steelton. Mr. Felton said the business at Steelton was never in a more prosperous and encouraging condition. "We have all the work we can do." he said, "and orders are still coming in. I see nothing but the brightest prospects for the immediate future."

LAST YEAR'S IRON TRADE.

Annual Report of the American Iron and Steel Association. PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 22.—In the annual report of the American iron and Steel association, which will shortly be issued, Secretary Swank gives a general review of the domestic iron trade for the last year. It can be truly said that our iron and steel industries were prosperous in 1892." he says and the lack of prosperity was conspicu ously shared by the farmers of the west and the cotton planters of the south. Thus far in 1893 there has been a noteworthy im provement in western corn and southern cotton, while the prices of most iron and steel products are lower now than they were at the end of 1892. The general financial situation in this country and in Europe in 1802 was not favorable to the building of new railroads, and hence was not favorable to ur iron and steel industries."

The secretary gives overproduction as the rincipal cause of the iron and steel depression and says in February and March of this year there were slight advances in the prices of Bessemer pig iron and Bessemer billets, while other prices, notably of southern pig iron, are weaker now than cember. Then Bessemer pig iron and Besse mer billets are lower, he concludes, in April than in March.

GRAND FORKS IN DANGER.

High Water Threatens to Inundate the North Dakota City. GRAND FORKS, N. D., April 22 - The river has risen two feet since yesterday. The water now stands only four feet lower than the grade of the business streets. Warm weather is melting the snow and the outpour of the tributaries are all bringing the water up to the general level of the city. Fires or heating purposes in the basements of all the business blocks are now extinguished.

Trains arrived this morning from the east and south only one hour late. The ice is breaking up in the Red Lake river above this point, but has not moved out. The water is nearly up to a level with the bridge. The east side au-thorities have taken precautions to raise the bridge by means of jackscrews to ac height of several feet above its present evel. If this can be safely done the bridge may yet be saved, but if the ice in moving should strike the framework of the bridge nothing could save it. The present stage of n the river is forty-three feet above low water mark.

WANT THEM QUARANTINED.

Kansas Farmers Object to Unloading Texas Cattle in That State. Estronia, Kan., April 22.—The farmers and cattle dealers of the southwest part of this (Lyon) county, are considerably agitated over the shipment of a trainload of Texas cattle to this city where they were to be unloaded and driven through the county to a range about fifteen miles southwest of this place. The farmers, in considerable numbers have assembled here to prevent it, and if the attempt to drive the serious trouble will undoubtedly grow out of it. There are 500 head now here and 16,000 head more on the road. Cattle from the same locality which were shipped here a year ago spread the Texas fever, causing the farmers thousands of dollars loss, and before they get through with this new lot the farmers say they will compel the cattle to be shipped back to the southern line of the state and there quarantined. Bank Officials Indicted.

ITALY'S RULER NOISILY REMEMBERED

Sailors from the San Francisco Again Defeat Crews from the Entire Fleet -The Order in Which the Vessels Will Sail.

FORTRESS MONROE, Va., April 22 .- Bang! bang! bang! bang! bang!!! went the guns of the Italian war ship Ætna at 8 o'clock this morning. The heavy cannon of the fort re-schoed its boom, boom, while all the gans of the ships in the fleet tried to see which could make the most noise. The hull of every vessel was wreathed in a halo of white smoke. The explosions came fast and heavy and the air became thick with the white and gun powdery vapor. At the same moment the ships began o blossom out in variegated flags until they were as brilliant as the rainbow. At the mainmast of every ship the gaudy colors of the Italian flag caught the breeze and floated side by side with the colors of the other nations. From mast to mast and from bowsprit to stern stretched the long ropes, gay with showy signal flags. The scene today was the most gorgeous and resplendent yet represented in this memorial gathering of the ships of the world.

In Honor of Humbert.

All this glory of the ships was in honr of King Humbert's wedding anniversary. Of ourse the Italian flag ship was the center of the celebration. The captains of the foreign men-of-war, especially of the Germans, came ashore this morning and bought huge nunches of roses and other flowers for Admiral Magnaghi. The sailors were given liberty and came ashore for a good time, while the admiral himself was pulled to the wharf for the purpose of writing with his own hand a cablegram of congratulation to his sovereign. At noon there was another interchange of salutes. At 6 o'clock the saute was repeated for the last time and the ships were undressed.

There was a friendly rivalry at noon between the men on the Blake and the Kaiserine as to which could fire twenty-oue guns in the shortest space of time. The Blake von by a few seconds.

The fantastic attire of the ships was not the only thing to give piquancy to life at Fortress Monroe today. Secretary Herbert arrived this morning upon the Dolphin. It was fully 10 o'clock when the white hull of the president's yacht was sighted far to the east, and with the knowledge that the secretary the knowledge that the secretary was on board the gunners at the fort and fag ships were ordered to their places. The graceful bow was headed for the center of the channel between the American and British ships and as soon as it was abreast of the eastermost vessel seventeen dull, rumbling sounds and clouds of smoke came from the fort. Instantly the guns of the Dolphin replied, and then as the pretty vessel passed down the line it was thunder ously greeted. As each one of these salutes had to be answered gun for gun the Dolphin kept up a continuous fire from the moment she entered the fleet until she had reached the outermost end.

Not in it with Our Tare.

Again the flag of England went down today before the red, white and blue. A dozen barges from nearly all the ships in the harbor started today in a race for the international trophy offered by the citizens of Norfolk, a handsome sliver vase. Somewhat sore over their defeat last Wednesday, the Britishers speat the day yesterday in selecting a crew that should carry off the wife. ing a crew that should carry off the prize. It looked for a while as if they were to win. The course was a mile and three-quarters.
With three-quarters of the distance covered the Britishers were in the lead. As the end of the course opposite the San Francisco was neared, the San Francisco crew which was a close second, gave a magnificent spurt and amid a yell that ran ike an electric current along the line of American ships, passed their English rivals The Chicagos bent their backs and quickened their stroke, so that they were second in the race, just behind the San Francisco, with the Englishmen third. The Germans, with their pennant trailing in the water came in fourth and the Dutchmen in their quaint boats were next. The other foreigners came trailing in a long procession. The San Fran-cisco's men have now won six races since the rendezvous began. It is the gossip of the naval officers that the events in New York next week will lack all the social brilliancy which is so delight-ful here. The week which closes tonight has been a charming introduction for the foreigners to the social side of American life and they will leave here on Monday with genuine regret. Order of Sailing of the Fleet.

Admiral Gnerardi today arranged the order of the combined fleet as it will sail to New York and appear in the review. The port column will be headed by the Philadel-phia, the flag ship of Admiral Gherardi, commander in chief; the Newark, Atlanta, Sat Francisco, Bancroft, Bennington and Balti nore of Admiral Benham's squadron and the Chleago, Yorktown Charleston, Vesuvius and Concord of the second, or Admiral Walker's squdaron. Then will follow the Argentine cruiser, the Ninth of July, under command of Rear Admiral Howard, the Holland man-of-war Van Speyk, Captain Arriens; the two German vessels, Kaiserin-Augusta and Seeadir, under Captain Bushel, with the Minantonomah bringing up the At the head of the starboard column will be the British fleet, with Vice Admiral Hopkins as commander-in-chief, and consisting of the Blake as the flag ship, the Australia, the Magicienne and the Tartar. Russia will come next with Vice Admiral Kosenakoff commander-in-chief, in the flag ship Dimontel Donskio, and the Gen-eral Admiral and the Rynda France will follow with Rear Admiral de Libran as commander-in-chief in tho flag ship Arcthuse, and the Hussard and the Jean Bart following. Italy will come next under Rear Admiral Managhi with the Ætna and Giovani Bausan. Spain follows, under Rear Admiral Gomez Y. Lone, with the vessels—the Infanta Isabella. Reina Regente and the Nueva Espana. The rear of the column will be Brazil with a rear admiral as commander-in-chief in Avquidaban and accompanied by Tiradentes and the Republica. At sunset, colors on all the ships were owered and saluted with twenty-one guns in honor of the wedding anniversary of the king and queen of Italy. Secretary Herbert remained on the Dolphin during the day and this evening he gave a dinner to the flag officers of the fleet.
