

MURDERED HIS YOUNG WIFE

Carlyle Harris Will Be Electrocuted in King Sing Prison Today.

HISTORY OF THE CRIME AND TRIAL

How the Mother of the Victim Pursued Her Daughter's Slayer to the Felon's Cell—Details of the Struggle for Executive Clemency.

SING SING, N. Y., May 7.—Carlyle W. Harris has said farewell to parents and friends and all that is dear to him on earth, and he now awaits the messenger of death.

In adherence to his oft-repeated declaration of innocence, and he has spent the best part of his last day on earth, not in communion with spiritual advisers preparing for the great hereafter, but with pen, ink and paper, reviewing the past and seeking to place himself right with the world he leaves.

After the mysterious agent of death employed by this state to execute the extreme penalty has sent the soul of the doomed felon his way, his words will be spread broadcast throughout the land in his last attempt to establish his innocence in spite of the verdict of the courts and jury.

Getting More Nervous. Harris was a trifle more nervous than usual today. Warden Durston talked with him awhile in the morning, and he seemed to be less cool and less firm in his bearing than during the last few days.

When the conviction came she went into a tirade and there was a terrible scene. But Mrs. Harris remained calm and dignified, and she rebuffed her efforts.

her suspicions and gave him all her thoughts, and he promised to look into it. He was a man of great energy, and he was determined to satisfy the mother of the dead girl.

When the jury retired she sat in the district attorney's office and waited, and when she was called in she went to the court with her husband, without comment.

Potts spoke to Harris. He scouted the idea that there was anything more between him and Mary Helen. He said she was absolutely faithful to him until he had finished his studies.

They were secretly married. Carlyle called for her and the three went to the city hall, where Harris and the girl were secretly married.

He proposed an operation to conceal her condition from the world. She would consent only on condition that May Schofield should not be told.

After Miss Potts got well her mother insisted that Harris should marry her publicly. Harris promised that he would.

The young wife had been complaining of headaches. On January 20 Harris got a prescription from a doctor for a box of pills.

He was indicted on May 13, 1891. He was brought to trial in January, 1892. He had William F. Dawson as his lawyer.

Harris took William F. Howe for his counsel then. The judges of the court of appeals unanimously affirmed the conviction.

Harris made a long speech to the court just before he was sentenced to die on the gallows.

Harris has been in the condemned cell at Sing Sing for nearly a year. He has written a great deal of poetry.

kill, several will probably die and probably more will be injured. We could not report home from the scene of the explosion.

The "Fire Patrol" at the Farnam. "Standing Room Only" was the sign hung on the inner walls of the Farnam Street theater yesterday, and the reason therefor was the opening of the engagement of A. Y. Pearson's "Fire Patrol" company.

The "Fire Patrol" is an admirable play of its class, and it is a story of the good old days, telling the tale of evil against good.

The company is an all round good one. Mr. W. W. Hiltner looks a fine specimen of a man.

The original, graphic and spectacular "Joseph in Egypt" was well received at the Boyd last evening by an audience that filled the upper parts of the theater.

A very unique individual at the present time is a certain notary public employed in one of the county offices in the court house.

That was six or eight months ago, and this is a story of rapid changes.

VALIDITY OF THE LAW TO BE TESTED

While Thousands of Working People Were Refused Admission Yesterday Hundreds of the More Favored Ones Saw the Sights as Usual.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 7.—The rule to close the gates of the World's fair was rigidly enforced today, at least so far as the ticket purchasing public was concerned.

It was a beautiful day, and thousands of workingmen some of them with families went to see the fair grounds under the approval of the law.

The gates to the fair were closed at 10 o'clock, and the thousands of workingmen who had been waiting for hours were turned away.
