WANTS THE LAW ENFORCED

Congressman Caminetti of California on the Geary Bill.

HE INTERVIEWS PRESIDENT CLEVELAND

In the Opinion of the Congressman the Law Will Be Enforced-Visit of the Chinese Minister to the State Department.

Washington, D. C., May 17.-Congressman Caminetti of California had a short conference with the president this morning and left the white house feeling assured that it was the intention of the president to see that the Chinese restriction act was enforced. Mr. Caminetti denied that it would take anything like the sum of money that has been mentioned to enforce the act, for the reason that those Chinese entitled to remain would have secured their certificates at their own expense and that those against whom the law is really aimed will be frightened out of the country the moment an honest attempt is made to enforce it. Mr. Cammetti is of the opinion that what additional money may be needed will be voted at the next session of congress and he fears no repeal of the law.

Reports from forty of the sixty-three internal revenue districts show that 35,304 Chinese have registered. No reports have yet been received from the Pacific coast dis-

President Cleveland Disapproves the Findings of a Court Martial.

Washington, D. C., May 17.—The findings of the general court martial, convened at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., for the trial of Captain W. A. S. Johnson, retired, have been received, and the recommendation in the case is disapproved by President Cleveland. The court martial was presided over by Colonel James W. Forsyth of the Seventh cavalry, and Captain Sydney W. Taylor, Fourth artiflery, was judge advocate. The general charge against the officer was conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, to which there were several specifications. Each specification gives a case in which Captain Johnson became indebted to persons or banks, which indebtedness he failed to pay. The second and third specifications state that he also duplicated his fications state that he also duplicated his pay accounts. The third specification, the only one on which he was found guilty, states that Johnson assigned and transferred to H. Forbes & Co. of Boston, his pay account and claim for pay for the month of January, 1803, and also assigned and transferred his salary for the same month to the Central National brink of Springfield, Mo. The accounts were presented for payment by both National bink of Springfield, Mo. The accounts were presented for payment by both assignees on the same day and because of the double assignment and presentation payment was refused and Secretary Lamont ordered Johnson's pay for the month wholly stopped. The court finds him guilty of the third specification only, and, on the general charge, "not guilty," but "guilty of conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline." discipline."

The court sentenced him "to be reprimanded by the reviewing authority."

The following is Secretary Lamont's order in the case: "In the foregoing case of Captain W. S. Johnson, retired, the findings on the first and second specifications and upon the first and second specifications and upon the charge and sentence of the court are disapproved by direction of the president. In private life, a person tried and adjudged guilty of assigning property as collateral and then collecting and appropriating its avails to his own use, or of transferring for value received, the same property to separate persons, would be subjected to severe and humiliating punishment. That a court martial, composed of officers of rank and experience, should so lightly regard similar offenses, here fully established and found, is a reproach to the service and the proceedis a reproach to the service and the proceeding is in marked inconsistency with the duty of protecting and maintaining the high sense of personal honor which has long characterized the reputation of the army.

The recent refusal of the Russian consul at New York to countersign the passport of a Jewish woman, whose husband is an American citizen, on the ground that his government forbade him from doing so, is said to be the underlying reason for the reported protest. The justice that succeeds BEST in meting out even-handed equity to all that are brought before him must be a well-read man as well as a wise man. To get a deep insight into human nature, he should study his Shakespeare in conjunction with his Encyclopedia. In the course of his duty men come before him in every one of the seven ages depicted by Shakespeare. The cultivated justice will know that the idea of the world being a stage and the division of life into seven ages, did not originate with the great poet. In the old play of Damon and Pythias we have: "Pythagoras said that this world was like a stage, whereon many play their parts." In the Treasury of Modern Times, 1613, is a division of the life of man into seven ages, said to be taken from Proclus, and it appears from Brown's Vulgar Errors that Hippocrates also divided man's life into seven degrees or stages, though he differs from Proclus in the number of years aliotted to each stage. Dr. Henly mentions an old emblematical print entitled, The Stage of Man's Life Divided Into Seven Ages, from which he thinks Shakespeare more likely to have taken his hint than from Hippocrates or Proclus. Shakespeare used the same idea more than once in his plays. Not only will the severe-eyed justice fine plenty of "wise saws" in the Encyclopedia Britannica, but he will also find abundance of "modern instances."
