A movement is now on foot to have a bill introduced in the next legislature to put electric railroads under the control of the state railway commission, in which case citizens will not be entirely at the mercy of a few aldermen.

The state effort will naturally be made by the motor company and all other companies of the kind to defeat a measure of that kind, but the chances of corrupting a large number of aldermen are not so good as buying a little city council, and this project has in the project have hopes of accomplishing the end in view.

NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

Something Further on the Subject of Reduced Bridge Fees.

ONE FACT OF INTEREST CONSIDERED

Question of Whose Property is Assessed Alleged to Determine the Actions of Some of the City Council.

"The article in this morning's Bee stated the motor assessment was about right," remarked a level headed democrat yesterday; "the claim of the aldermen that they don't know anything about the value of the property that they are to assess, excepting what McCabe tells them is all bosh. On the other hand, all they know about what the assessment ought to be from the standpoint of the motor company is what the assessor tells them, but it is very evident that they are dead anxious to accept the word of the assessor on the subject, and the assessor sells his dogs to the motor company at $75 apiece, too."

One interesting and significant fact is the way in which the city council treats other property owners in comparison with the motor company. E. A. Wickham during the past winter completed the erection of a large implement building on lower Main street. It was completed May 1 and is now ready for occupancy. At the last meeting of the Board of Equalization Wickham was properly assessed and entered a vigorous protest against the action of the assessor, who had assessed the building at $6,000. He did not object to the size of the assessment, but he thought it ought not to have to pay the same amount of taxes as he would have done if the building had been completed January 1. He offered to compromise for one-half, and his proposition was the subject of considerable discussion, which, Wickham can stand it better than a good many people. I guess you'd better let it stand, because McCabe is not going to suggest that men who have the enterprise manifested by Mr. Wickham in the erection of such buildings as the one referred to might properly be treated in any other way. But the city fathers seem to have no favors excepting for the motor company, which, as Alderman Nicholson naively says, tend to show that McCabe is the victim of a mistake rather than a burglar. He states that on the evening in question he was somewhat under the influence of liquor, and that he was in the house, where he was found. His attorney, J. J. Stewart, corresponded with Dr. H. H. Keim and R. K. Stove, an insurance agent, and the result was that he was released until next week, when his hearing comes off. Recent developments tend to show that McCurdy is the victim of a mistake rather than a burglar. ALL RECEIVED THEIR MONEY

Depositors of the Nebraska Savings Bank and of Lincoln Frightened.

DEMANDS COMPLIED WITH AT ONCE

Most of Those Involved Were School Children and Their Fears Were Quickly Allayed by the Sight of Abundant Cash.

Lincoln, Neb., May 18.—(Special Telegram to The Bee.)—For several days rumors affecting the solvency of the Nebraska Savings bank at Thirteenth and O streets have been rife, and quite a run was inaugurated Tuesday. It continued all day yesterday, but it was not until this morning that any big rush was made. The usual hour for opening the bank is 9:30, but long before that hour the doors were besieged by a big crowd of depositors anxious to secure their money, and it became necessary to open them an hour earlier.

The bank is one of the designated school depositories, and for the first two hours the chief claimants for their money were school children, whose deposits ranged from less than $1 to $20. All morning and during the noon hour the run progressed, and all persons who demanded their money were promptly given it. At one time the demand became so great that J. H. McClay, cashier of the Columbia National bank, found it necessary to address the crowd, telling them that the money was all there, and that the other banks in the city stood behind the institution, and every dollar of deposits would be paid.

What the Examiner Says. Bank Examiner Cowdery, in speaking of the run that took place at the Nebraska Savings bank, said: "I have looked into the condition of the bank and I believe the bank can pay every dollar of its liabilities. The run was not a run at all. It was a run for the money. The bank is one of the designated school depositories, and for the first two hours the chief claimants for their money were school children, whose deposits ranged from less than $1 to $20. All morning and during the noon hour the run progressed, and all persons who demanded their money were promptly given it. At one time the demand became so great that J. H. There is a nutritive element in ale and beer but it is small—there is the intoxicating effect, too. That is a strong objection. Yet ale and beer are used and benefit health at times. There is another liquid, the active principal of malt. Johann Hoff's Malt Extract. One dozen bottles of it has the same nutritive effect as a large cake of ale or beer. That's an advantage—another, it has not the intoxicating effect of either. It helps digest, creates appetite, makes the weak strong and healthy. Be sure to obtain the genuine. DEFEATED THE CHICAGO PACKER. Conclusion of an Important Suit Involving Thousands at Sioux City. SIOUX CITY, Ia., May 18.—(Special Telegram to The Bee.)—In the district court today the legality of $245,000 worth of notes was established as against W. H. Silberhorn, the Chicago packer. Some time ago Silberhorn and A. S. Garretson of this city entered into a venture to buy $700,000 of the stock of the Union Stock yards at San Francisco. To do this they borrowed $245,000 of the defunct Union Loan & Trust company, for which Silberhorn gave his forty-nine individual notes for $5,000 each. It was agreed, though, that Garretson was to hold half the notes, and that whenever one-half of any note was paid, the trust company was to indemnify him against the other half by surrendering him the note.

The stock yards stock was deposited as collateral for the notes. When it became evident that the trust company was going to default on the notes, Silberhorn and Garretson entered into a contract in compliance with the agreement. Silberhorn had already taken up five notes in full, and brought $245,000 worth of cash to the bank, the contract that he was to pay half on each note.

The court decided that the contract is subject to the issuance of the notes and therefore void. It also refused to order the assignee to deliver the stock collateral in proportion to the amount paid, holding that it should be held to guarantee the payment of all the notes.

Failed to show up in Justice Fors' court yesterday morning when the charge of conspiracy against Miller and his wife were to be investigated, and the case was dismissed. Weeks states that his wife has agreed to leave Miller and come back to live with him, and the hatchet is buried once for all. The case had all the elements of a sensation, and the only thing that prevented it being more sensational was Weeks' unwillingness to use a gun at the proper time.

Want Better Weather. George M. Chappel of Des Moines, connected with the signal service department, was in the city yesterday, accompanied by George W. Hunt of the Omaha weather office, and the two spent a good share of the day looking over the city with a view to ascertaining the feasibility of establishing a station here. The city has already the benefit of the daily weather reports from Omaha, delivered by a special messenger, but the Merchants and Manufacturers association has taken the matter in hand and intends to see if something better cannot be had. They want a station of their own, with a special prognosticator. What the result of the investigation was could not be learned from Mr. Chappel.

DEMANDS COMPLIED WITH AT ONCE

Most of Those Involved Were School Children and Their Fears Were Quickly Allayed by the Sight of Abundant Cash.

Lincoln, Neb., May 18.—(Special Telegram to The Bee.)—For several days rumors affecting the solvency of the Nebraska Savings bank at Thirteenth and O streets have been rife, and quite a run was inaugurated Tuesday. It continued all day yesterday, but it was not until this morning that any big rush was made. The usual hour for opening the bank is 9:30, but long before that hour the doors were besieged by a big crowd of depositors anxious to secure their money, and it became necessary to open them an hour earlier.

The bank is one of the designated school depositories, and for the first two hours the chief claimants for their money were school children, whose deposits ranged from less than $1 to $20. All morning and during the noon hour the run progressed, and all persons who demanded their money were promptly given it. At one time the demand became so great that J. H. McClay, cashier of the Columbia National bank, found it necessary to address the crowd, telling them that the money was all there, and that the other banks in the city stood behind the institution, and every dollar of deposits would be paid.

What the Examiner Says. Bank Examiner Cowdery, in speaking of the run that took place at the Nebraska Savings bank, said: "I have looked into the condition of the bank and I believe the bank can pay every dollar of its liabilities. The run was not a run at all. It was a run for the money. The bank is one of the designated school depositories, and for the first two hours the chief claimants for their money were school children, whose deposits ranged from less than $1 to $20. All morning and during the noon hour the run progressed, and all persons who demanded their money were promptly given it. At one time the demand became so great that J. H.
