AMUSEMENTS.

An Evening with Sheridan. Miss Marie Wainwright began her farewell engagement in Omaha last evening at the Boyd, presenting "The School for Scandal." From the announcements, theatergoers were induced to expect a very notable 'production" of Sheridan's chief work, and those who "assisted in front" last evening were not altogether disappointed. It was a presentation eminently spraiseworthy, but as there were patches on the beauties who uved and loved "when George the Third was king," so all was not perfect in this latest revival of Sheridan as seen at the Boyd. There was no attempt whatever made at properly setting the comedy. The screen was there, to be sure, and the portraits of Charles' ancestors were there, but every other article of stage furniture and furnishing was an anachronism that must have offended the eye of each critical onlooker. It were wise hereafter to cut Joseph's speech anent the new arrangem of 'is library, unless the scene be set to fit it; last night the lines sounded ridiculously. This is the only notable fault to be found with Miss Wainwright's production as seen

It possesses many notable excellences. A fine reverence for the text of the comedy is evident, which cannot be too highly praised, when Elizabethan and Georgian verbal when Elizabethan and Georgian verbal spades are so frequently and exasperatingly emasculated to tissue wrapped agricultural implements on the stage. There are one or two "gags" introduced by Moses and Crabtree, but it would seem impossible to convict an actor of the enormity of that too prevalent offense against his author and art, and the fact is passed. The dressing of the comedy would be flawless were Mrs. Candour and Lady Sneerwell bepatched, as they should be.

The performance last night had remarkably few weaknesses. Miss Wainwright's Lady Teazle is an artistic gem worthy to be set beside her Viola. In feature, dress, Lady Teazle is an artistic gem worthy to be set beside her Viola. In feature, dress, bearing and speech it was admirable. While following broadly the traditional lines limned by the great actresses whose Lady Teazles have carned place in the portfolios of histrionic appreciations, Miss Wainwright's performance has an individuality all its own and delightfully distinctive. Her slight variations in the quarrel scene must be characterized as improvements, and even her "Forgive me, Sir Peter," in the denoument of the screen scene only the hypercritical might cavil at. Her gowns deserve columns of description, and only a poet could do justice to that fan she flirts, of feathers that have caught the paling of feathers that have caught the paling yellow that glorifies the apple sky when the September sun has just sunk below the level line of western prairie horizon. Miss Wain-wright's Lady Teazle has the fine "air" necessary to adequate presentation of high comedy; at the end of the screen scene sho evinced a tendency to modernize the charac-ter, intentionally disregarding, mayhap, the fact that "The School for Scandal" is an artificial comedy, and the greatest of all artificial comedies, in which "sentiment" itself is an affectation—but the purist is not popular, and the critic is sincere in saying he has never seen a better Lady Tenzle, taken all in all.

he has nover seen a better Lady Teazle, taken all in all.

The company supporting Miss Wainwright is a fairly capable one. The Charles of Mr. Ingersoll and the Joseph of Mr. Hartwig are entirely satisfactory. Mr. E. Y. Backus is eminent in the cast as Sir Oliver, and Mr. Bruce's Moses is adequate. The Crabtree of Mr. Percy Brooke is not the Crabtree of Sheridan. Trip is one of the best parts ever written for a young actor, but Mr. Cecil Magnus has not yet mimed its meanings, or he fails to express his conception. Mr. Burnham in fairly sufficient as Backbite. The ladies all acquit themselves well. Miss Kate Blancke speaking the speeches of Lady Sneerwell especially well, and in the perfect spirit of Sheridanian comedy.

And now as to Mr. Hill's Sir Peter, it is unsatisfactory. Even given his own conception of the character, his expression is inadequate and woefully ineffective. He follows the old, old tradition of Sir Peter, but fails of consistency even there. Mr. Herman Vezin in 1870 or 1880 revolutionized the till accepted reading of the part, and did to irresurgable death the notion that sentility in a drab cost (and only one in all his wardrobe) was the boon companion of joily Sir Oliver, both of an age, and the galiant heart of 50 who induced a boarding school miss to elope with him. But it was an evening with Sheridan and the perfect theater goer can get much pleasure in witnessing his best loved works, even where each and every characterization is on the level that meets the measurement of the highest standard. And he could certainly enjoy many more such productions as Miss Wainwright's of "The School for Scaudal."

DEFEATED THE CHAMPION

Splendid Score Made by Omaha's Expert in a Hard Race for Glory.

GREAT SHOOTING MATCH THIS MORNING

Frank Parmelee of Omaha Kills Ninety-Eight Birds of a Possible Hundred, Beating America's Champion, J. R. Elliott Easily-The Score.

A crowd of several hundred sportsmen assembled on the Omaha shooting grounds across the river this morning to witness the 100-live bird shoot between Frank S. Parmelee of this city and J. A. R. Elliott of Kansas City, the holder of the American Field cup and champion of America. As THE BEE has claimed for several years past, Parmelee is one of the greatest all around trap shots in the world, if not the greatest, as he is equally good on live birds and targets, either single or double.

DAnd yesterday he didn't do a thing to the champion, only beating him hands down by the magnificent score of 98 to 91, out of a possible 100. What makes the local man's performance more remarkable is the fact that his score has been equaled only five or six times in individual matches and sur-passed but three times. E. D. Fulford has a record of 100 straight birds, and so did the late Al Bandle. Captain John Brewer has killed his 99, and that is the extent of record above Parmelee's.

The weather this morning was all that could have been asked, barring a trifle too much frigidity. The sky was overcast with somber clouds readering the light admirable, and the wind, while quite stiff and sweeping transversely over the grounds from the northwest, was not too heavy to interfere materially with the flight of the pirds. Each man furnished the others birds, Elliott having his lot expressed here from Kansas City last night. They were a fair lot of good flyers, but were somewhat hampered by the cold.

The conditions of the match were 100 birds, 31 yards rise, American association rules, for $100 a side. George E. Hughes of Fonda, Ia., was mutually agreed upon as referee and S. G. V. Griswold as official scorer for Parmelee and W. T. Irwin of Kansas City for Elliott. Parmelee used a 7% pound Greener, with three drams of E. C. powder and an ounce and one-eighth of No. 7 chilled shot, while Elliott used a 74-pound Greener with three and one-quarter drams of E. C. powder and an ounce and an eighth of No. 7½ chilled shot. Parmelee killed his first fifty-four birds straight, and in the whole shoot missed but his 55th and 91st birds; while Elliott missed his 6th.9th, 12th, 41st, 46th, 56th 64th, 65th and 84th birds. Parmelee's greatest straight score was 54 birds, and Elliott's 27. Parmelee used his second barrels 49 times and Elliott 41. Three of Elliott's lost birds fell dead out of bounds. The use of the second barrel, however, is no criterion to go by as to the efficacy of each man's work, as both used it frequently as a mere matter of safety. Parmelee was in great form, while Elliott showed too much anxiety to win. As to the merits of the men on general grounds, the score is the best in-dication to go by. The Kansas City parties offered 2 to 1, and not a few of them went home broke, or at least badly bent. PARMELEE.

It seems that there are two sides-as is usual in such matters-to the story of the trouble between the Second Infantry Base Ball team of Fort Omaha and the Non-parells of this city. The manager of the former writes as follows:

former writes as follows:

FORT OMAHA, Neb., May 26.—To the Sporting Editor of THE BEE: There has been a little trouble about the grounds on which the final game of our series with the Nonparells should be played. The agreement I made with Mr. Shanahan was as follows: We were to play a series of three games for the championship of the city. The first on the Nonparell grounds, the second on our grounds and in event of each club winning one game the choice of grounds was to be decided by int. Shanahan refuses to toss for the third game and will only play on his grounds, so we called the deciding game off. The soldlers did not wish to play on the Nonpareli grounds unless they lost the toss, in which event they would have gladly fulfilled the engagement.

event they would have giadly fulfilled the engagement.

I see in this morning's BEE a challenge from the Convention Base Ball club for a game tomorrow (Suhday) for $25 a side, to be played here. Please accept this challenge for me through your valuable paper. I wish to express the thanks of the Second Infantry Base Ball club for your kindness in writing such excellent and impartial reports of the games played, and I regret most heartily that circumstances have arisen which compel us to forego the pleasure of playing the third game with the Nonparelis.

INTERESTING TESTIMONY PROBABLE

One Side Likely to Accuse the Other of Attempting to Confuse the Jurymen by an Old Trick.

OTTUMWA, Ia., May 26 - Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-A large-sized sensation developed in the Neise trial today. While the physicians who made the second post mortem examination were on the stand they were shown the pieces of the skull brought into court as the detached pieces of the dead woman's skull. They declared that only one piece of her skull was taken out of the coffin and the pieces exhibited belonged to two different skulls. Neither the state nor defense charged the other with tampering with the skull, but it is evident one side or the other proposes to make the accusation and when they do it will go a long way in solving the problem of Neise's guilt. The defense produced some strong rebuttal testimony concerning Neise's character. Neise wept this afternoon for the first time during the trial. Important Supreme Court Decision.

DES MOINES, In., May 26 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-An important decision was rendered by the supreme court today regarding police court fines, being in effect that a convict if able to pay cannot avoid paying a fine by serving a term of imprisonment. The case was that of Wilour F. Willis against Martin Frelan, appealed from Woodbury district court, and the decision of the lower court is reversed. The plaintiff was arrested and fined $10 and costs by the defendant, police judge of Sioux City, for frequenting a bawdy house. Willis had put up a certificate of deposit in lieu of bonds and the police judge ordered the flue paid from the certificate and balance re-turned. Willis then elected to take the jail part of the sentence instead of paying the fine. He was not coaffined, but upon the re-fusal of the police judge to surrender the certificate brought action in justice court to recover the whole of the certificate. The case went to the district court and judgment was secured against defendant police judge as prayed. The supreme court now reverse the decision, holding that Willis had the right to pay the fine to avoid imprisonment but had no right to go to jail to avoid paving the fine. The judgment against him might be satisfied either by collecting the fine or imprisonment, but the court was to be the judge of which method to pursue.

The supreme court today affirmed the decision of the lower court in the celebrated Lyon county bond cases. Action was brought by the tax-payers of the county to enjoin the payment of $120,000 county bonds issued at a time when the constitutional limit of taxation was but $71,876. The supreme court holds the bonds are all void and that the only remedy of the bondholders is to bring action in equity against the county. The fact that part of the bonds were issued for refunding purposes and that part were for making county improvements can not be considered in this case.

Fighting a Telephone Company. FORT DODGS, Ia., May 26.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The lowa Union Telephone company and the city council are engaged in a merry war at Newell. The company has always maintained a toll station there. A short time ago it informed the citizens that if they wished the station continued they must pay the company a round bonus. The citizens looked on this as a bluff and refused to comply. The company promptly took out its instruments. Now the Newell city council has passed an ordinance taxing each pole of the telephone company $5 a year. If the tax is not paid September 1 the poles will be chopped down. More Trouble Over Saloons.

of North Platte were in Omaha yesterday looking up matters of interest to the Grand Army of the Republic of Nebraska. They were conferring with railroad passenger agents with regard to rates and accommo tions for the Grand Army excursion that will pull out of Nebraska early in September enroute for the annual encampment of the Grand Army at Indianapolis. It is the intention to make arrangements to take in the World's fair on the same trip, and the indications are that it will prove to be a very popular excursion "If crops are good in Nebraska," said Judge Church to a Bee re-reporter at the Mercer hotel, "I will not be surprised to see 2,500 Grand Army men go to the encampment. We have 30,000 old sold-iers in Nebraska, and if they are prosperous this year they will go as they have never gone before on account of the double at-traction. It is entirely too early yet for us to know anything about the rates that we shall be able to get, for the railroad companies are considerably unsettled as to the business themselves, but we shall consider no proposition that does not include the the World's fair trip."
