for the appointment of the receiver he alleges that James N. Brown, the president one of the board of directors, have practically secured control of the affairs of the extravagant in their expenses, keeping offices in both New York City and Omaha, and both Brown and Clark are drawing large salaries for doing nothing. He further charges that they have used the employes of fendants to bring into court the company's books, by which he hopes to show that the cted the commissions on collections of mort-gages, bonds and trust deeds without accounting therefor to the company. He claims that Brown has bought claims against the company at a discount and then obtained from the company payment in full for the claims without making any accounting. He alleges that Brown is a member of the banking firm of James N. Brown & Co. and that Brown has been trying to transfer the goodwill of the Anglo-American Loan and Trust company to the other company with which Bicycle Stolen. Robert Jensen, a young man who works for Wollman, the jeweler, had a wheel stelen Friday evening. It was standing in front of the store, locked with a chain, and Jensen was store, locked with a chain, and Jensen was inside the building. When he went to look for it was gone, chain and all. It was re-covered yesterday morning. A little daughter of F. A Slichter, who lives on Lincoln avenue, went to a neighboring barn, which was empty, and climbed up into the hay mow to play. She discovered the bicycle secreted in the hay. It had been taken to pieces in order that it might be carried up the stairs easily. It was identified by Jensen as the one he had lost. There is no clew as to the theft.

An attempt was also made to steal one of Perrigo's wheels Friday night. Some one broke the chain and lock that fastened the covering of the coal hole leading into the cellar at 103 Pearl street, but was evidently unable to get into the room above, where the wheels were kept.

Stands the Test of Investigation.

Secretary Allen of the Perpetual Maturity Bonding company has returned from an extensive trip on business connected with his company. "Nothing succeeds like success," said he, "and the Perpetual is succeeding wherever it is known, and it is known wherever the people have heard of the Declaration of independence. Our principle commends itself to all thoughtful men and women, and it is only to people of education and intelligence that we are most anxious to submit it. Through our agents we make it a point to get the consideration of the best men in every community, and our books will show that we have been successful in this. very We have bankers, merchants, lawyers, physicians and men who have the ability to comprehend the principle upon which our company is founded. The fact that the majority of them have taken more than one bond each is the best evidence that they have approved after they have investigated. There is getting to be a great deal of repugnance to the idea that a man has to die to realize the benefit of little savings he puts by as an insurance, and the people are getting weary paying millions of dollars in salaries and pensions to ex-insurance officers. We are anxious to afford every facility to all for a full and thorough inquiry, confident that when we can get

In this circular Mr. Lanphere makes a proposition to the holders of advance payment certificates. He offers to allow them accommodations at the hotel for the full amount that each certificate holder has paid in, provided that each of said certi-ficate holders remain at the hotel double the length of time origi-nally contracted for under the Cadwallader regime. If the patrons aforesaid cannot remain double the time mentioned, they can receive full face value for their certificates by influencing some friend to accompany them and patronize the hotel for a period equivalent to the original time contracted for by the certificate holder. In either event the certificates will be receivable at full face value, otherwise they will not be accepted except at 50 per cent valuation, according to the circular issued a few days ago by the Aldine Hotel company. Mr. Lanphere announces that the comple-tion of the construction of the hotel on June
