The Judge Hesitating as to What to Do With the Jail Sentences—Ex-Treasurer Hill's Case—Two Election Contests—District Court Callings.

Hill's Plea of Jurisdiction. The defendants in the case of the state against ex-Treasurer Hill, and his bondsmen are again going through the formality of objecting to the jurisdiction of the district court of Douglas county in the matter.

District Court Callings. The State against Callahan is the title of the case occupying the attention of the district court. The defendant is charged with grand larceny.

Hopes of Nebraska Democrats. The immediate future of the democratic party in Nebraska does not appear to be fringed with a rose by any means.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Bride of a Few Months Deserted by Her Worthless Hubby. HE STOLE HER WARDROBE AND PET DOG

Charley Boyer's Plan to Beat the Cowboys to the World's Fair—Printers Elect Officers and Delegates—Reform in the Council.

A beautiful brunette bride of three months, accompanied by her mother, climbed through the window into Julio Fowler's room yesterday morning and asked for a warrant of arrest.

The bride is Mrs. Andrew J. Young. Her story is that three months ago she was married to Young, and that last Thursday she disappeared and she has not seen him since; that he took with him her dresses and a new bonnet, also her little pet poodle. For these things she desired to have him placed in jail and punished.

Young was employed for a long time as a freeman at Swift's. Before leaving he abused his wife in a reckless manner, accusing her of many misdeeds and saying that she should never be seen again upon the streets with the clothing he carried away. Mrs. Young had bought the clothes with money that she had earned herself.

The race starts from Chadron on Tuesday, the 10th, at 6 o'clock. Boyer will be accompanied by the entire trip by Glenn Jones, his trainer. Where it is possible Jones will travel by rail, keeping just far enough ahead of Boyer to make his arrival but to walk, run and rest. Jones will arrange for sleeping quarters and keep his man from showing any signs of fatigue.

THE BLIND BARD.

Will Carlton Admires Her Writings. Shut Out for Twenty Years from Nature's Beauties.

For Years a Helpless Wreck ---Now She is Well. Had to Be Carried About in Stronger Arms.

She Wrote of Her Miraculous Restoration. For nearly twenty years Ida Greenwood, "the blind bard of Michigan," to use her own language, has been shut out from "all the bright beauties with which Nature gladdens the soul and invigorates the mind."

Of her last fascinating story, which was instantly popular with young and old, Will Carlton says: "I have admired it much and can only wonder that one deprived of sight could paint such vivid pictures."

"The Independent calls it 'intensely interesting from first to last.' Ida Greenwood's real name is, as every one knows, Mrs. C. M. E. Gordon. The story of the last few years of her life is almost miraculous.

"For several years," she writes, "I have been, for the greater part of the time, a helpless wreck, caused by nervous prostration and dyspepsia of the stomach and bowels."

"She owes her health today, as do thousands of others, to the glorious remedy first prescribed by Dartmouth's great professor, Dr. Phelps.

"I was so low at the time of commencing its use," she continues, "that I was able to walk but a few steps, having to be carried about in stronger arms like a child. My friends had no hope of my recovering so as to be about again. But two bottles of Paine's celery compound did the work of placing me on my feet again. I have been better for the last year than for many previous years."

"I have a wish that every one in a like condition would try Paine's celery compound. I can not fail to preach its merits, as it has not failed one of the hundreds who have tried it with whom I am personally acquainted. If you wish to use my name in recommendation of the priceless compound you are at liberty to do so. I have been glad to speak of its merits through the 'Open Window,' the organ of the 'shut in' band, believing that a large number could be reached with its benefits."

"I have divided part of my celery compound with my aged husband who was run down and feeble, three bottles relieving him to such a degree that he has been active and busy ever since. This spring I have taken one bottle of the compound and it has apparently driven back another attack of my old trouble."
