NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

Judge Deemer Passes Upon the Railway Garnishment Cases. DECIDES AGAINST THE DEFENDANTS

The decision interests the people of Nebraska and Iowa—Judge Fox's Decision Sustained in Every Point—Two Fresh Plattsmouth Attorneys.

The most important item of business transacted in the district court yesterday was the decision rendered by Judge Deemer in the Plattsmouth railway garnishment cases.

The decision concerns the people of both Iowa and Nebraska, and wipes out the court docket fifteen suits at one fell swoop. It will be remembered that upon the original trial of the suits in Justice Fox's court two attorneys from Plattsmouth were fined for contempt of court, the contempt consisting in an affidavit in which they stated under oath that in their belief the court was non compos mentis.

This was but an incident in the trial, but when Fox finally heard all of the evidence and decided in favor of the collection agency of Sioux City and against the railway men whose accounts had been bought up by the agency, it was referred to the two attorneys as an indication that the decision of the court had not been according to Hoyle.

The case was taken up to the district court upon a motion for a writ of error. Yesterday Judge Deemer decided the case, sustaining Fox in every point of his decision, and mentioning incidentally that the two Plattsmouth lawyers got no more medicine than was good for their constitution.

THREE DAYS OF OPERA. Manager Dohany Can Secure the Famous Andrews Company if Sufficient Season Tickets are Subscribed For.

For some time Manager Dohany has been negotiating with the Andrews Opera company with a view of giving a season of first-class grand and comic opera.

He finds he can secure this company for three nights, commencing June 23, and for a matinee, but the company's representative declines to place it for so long an engagement unless there is a guaranty that at least a portion of the extraordinary expense will be met.

While Mr. Dohany believes there is little risk in assuming this obligation, he proposes to make assurance doubly sure by having the public subscription for season tickets, instead of when he took his seat on the evening when the new council held its first meeting, but the court overruled him and the defendant's demurrer was sustained.

Judge Deemer practically put a quietus on the aldermanic aspirations of the republicans of the Third ward, and especially F. O. Gleason, yesterday morning by a little decision rendered in the case that was commenced by Gleason to have Alderman J. Hathaway ousted from the office he now holds.

The decision was to the effect that the petition had been filed before Hathaway had taken his seat as alderman and that, as there was no objection to that time, the petition must fall to the ground. C. G. Saunders, the attorney for Gleason, contended that Hathaway's term of office commenced when he took his seat on the bond, instead of when he took his seat on the evening when the new council held its first meeting, but the court overruled him and the defendant's demurrer was sustained.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Councilman Still in Session When the Clock Struck Twelve.

THE FUEL GAS FRANCHISE DISCUSSED. Gas Inspector Gilbert Makes a Lengthy Report—It Causes a Discussion—Councilman Saunders Endeavors to Explain—A Division of Sentiment.

The council last evening considered the fuel gas franchise that is asked for by the Omaha Fuel Gas company. The members listened to the report of Gas Inspector Gilbert, who went to Mayville, Ky., and made a test of the gas manufactured there by the same process it is proposed to put in here.

It was a lengthy communication from the representative of the company, setting forth the beauties of fuel gas, and claiming for it a solution of the fuel question. Councilman Saunders, who has given the matter much thought and attention and is enthusiastic in support of the proposition to give the company the franchise it seeks also spoke at length.

Notwithstanding the enlightenment given on the subject, it was nearly midnight when the council adjourned, and the members were as far from reaching a conclusion as they were several hours previous. The trouble was that the information was not in harmony, and that too many conflicting statements were made.

Gas Inspector Gilbert and Mr. Saunders failed to agree, and the former pronounced the whole thing an impossibility, while the Fifth ward alderman assumed exactly the opposite position.

Mr. Munro was called to the chair when the council went into the committee of the whole. A lengthy communication from the company was read, giving the history of fuel gas and pointing out the many benefits it would confer upon the people of Omaha if manufactured here.

Clerk Groves started in to read the franchise granting a franchise to the company. He was interrupted by Mr. Jacobsen, who wanted information touching the whole matter.

Mr. Saunders repeated the history of the Mayville plant and had made inquiries there. Every body was pleased with the gas and spoke highly of it. The party had been in the city for three months for fuel purposes. The result of his investigations were perfectly satisfactory, and he was fully convinced that the gas would solve the fuel question in Omaha.

In Chicago the natural gas is furnished 25,000 consumers at 50 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, the price being 25 cents per cubic foot. The gas here would make an average charge of 40 cents. If the company was willing to accept the franchise fixing the price of the gas to the consumer at the rate of 200,000 in a plant, the city had nothing to lose, and would not be affected in case the gas could not be furnished at the prices named.

If the company was willing to accept the franchise fixing the price of the gas to the consumer at the rate of 200,000 in a plant, the city had nothing to lose, and would not be affected in case the gas could not be furnished at the prices named.

If the company was willing to accept the franchise fixing the price of the gas to the consumer at the rate of 200,000 in a plant, the city had nothing to lose, and would not be affected in case the gas could not be furnished at the prices named.

Gas Inspector Gilbert's report was then introduced, and he made tests at Mayville, and the first time 20,000 cubic feet of gas was made. Figuring up the air that entered the gas, at the following rate: cost for fuel gas, 75,000 cubic feet of gas showed that the temperature of the air, he found that 39,000 feet of air had entered the gas, and that the whole mixture was 75,000 cubic feet of gas. The cost of the mixture was 75 cents. The cost of the gas was 75 cents. The cost of the gas was 75 cents.

Mr. Gilbert was requested to explain verbally before the council regarding the tests, which he did. He then explained how the tests were made. Also that he found a harmless looking pipe that carried oil to the generator, but it did not run through the meter and was used to deceive. It required four times the amount of oil and double the amount of coal to manufacture 1,000 cubic feet of gas.

Mr. Gilbert said it was impossible to furnish gas of a good quality for 30 cents a foot. He considered that the people who were interested in the franchise had been gulled into believing something that is worthless. Mr. Gilbert drew from his pocket an agreement with Harris, the owner of the patent, which he had never seen before. He said that the stock by surrendering some of his patents on manufacturing of fuel gas. He pronounced the Mayville plant as being a fraud, and he would have been very peculiarly interested, yet he said, he believed it wrong for the company to claim to furnish gas at such a low figure, when it cost so much, and he denounced the effort as a fraud.

Mr. Jacobson wanted no hasty action, and thought that it would be wise to wait until the plant was completed, and that if Burlington is in operation before the franchise is granted.

Mr. Saunders made another strong plea for the granting of the franchise, and though "roasted" Harris, the patentee, whom he called a fraud, and asserted that he had never seen the patent, and that he was a member of the company. He criticized Mr. Gilbert's report, called attention to the fact that the gas was not pure, and claimed everything good for it. He said the company would agree to have in operation by June 1, 1894, a 3,000,000 cubic foot plant, and if it does not produce 400 heat unit gas it is not to be operated, but if it does ten miles of mains shall be in operation by the first of October.

Mr. Wheeler didn't propose to vote away any more franchises until he was convinced it would be a public benefit. From the information he had looked very much as if there was fraud. He read extracts from a couple of trade journals pronouncing the Harris system a fraud, and in one the Mayville plant was particularly referred to.

Mr. Prince wanted a test made in Omaha, and he was not ready to vote away a franchise, which he thought existed in this case. By agreement the whole matter was referred to the committee on judiciary, with the gas inspector, city engineer and city attorney for further investigation and information.
