In Buying Shoes

THE BEE.

It is proper to take into consideration several things. You want ease, durability, sometimes a little elegance, and the benefit of all the improvements that have been made in the shoemaker's art. To get these you want to go to a reliable dealer who has no old stock to put on you as alleged bargains, but bright, new, clean goods, made this spring by the best manufacturers in the When you come down town to see the circus parade today, just step into Clint S. Byers' new shoe store and see if you don't find all these and anything else you want. And bargains, too, nothing but bargains; no job lots, but genuine new goods right up to the June styles.

Removal Sale.

To reduce a stock preparatory to moving July 5 to No. 10 Pearl street, Miss Ragsdale offers all millinery goods at a great reduction, 337 Broadway.

BEE NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

Sequel to a Sensational Robbery of Three Years Ago.

One of the Robbers Who Despotted the House of John Metcalf Apprehended by Lincoln Authorities - The Story of the Crime.

ARREST OF A LONG-SOUGHT CROOK

On the 25th of August, 1890, the house of John Metcalf, three miles east of Council Bluffs, was entered by three burglars, who overpowed the inmates of the house, and while one covered them with revolvers the other two ransacked the house and secured $300 in each and nearly $700 worth of diamonds, so Mrs. Metcalf claimed. The robbers then decamped, and from that time managed to keep out of the public gaze. During the melee, however, Mrs. Metcalf grabbed the mask from the face of one of the fellows, and identified him as a man named Baxter, who had been a frequent vis-itor at the house. In spite of the work of the special detectives, who were put to on the case, nothing ever came of it Yesterday morning Chief Scanlan received a telegram from the Lincoln authorities stating that Baxter was incustody there, awaiting an order from here. A telegram was immediately sent in reply asking that ne be kept in jail until a requisition can be obtained. Since his disappearance it is stated that Baxter has served a term in the penitentiary for another crooked transacon, but managed to keep dark until after

A PERFECT COLD STORAGE PLANT.

Wheeler & Hereld's Inauguration of a New and Important Enterprise.

To be transported from the glare of a June sun, the turmoil of busy streets and the roar of a gale driving dust and not air at the rate of forty miles an hour, into the frigidity and profound silence of the arctic regions is a novel and somewhat delightful experience. It is an experience that has been impossible in this part of the country until the present summer, when Messrs. Wheeler, Hereld & Co. put into use the first modern scientific cold storage plant. Last fall these enterprising and public spirited gentlemen concluded to increase their big plant on East Broadway by the addition of a general commission business. Doing everything with a care and thoroughness that has given them deserved prestige in whatever they have undertaken, they begin by the erection of a first-class cold storage plant that combines in its principals of construction the perfect refrigerator of today. The building was finished during the winter, and while the temperature was away sclow zero it was filled with 500 tons of ice. Yesterday a BEE reporter went through the building and stood for a few moments beneath this mass of superincumbent ice. Through the thick walls not a sound pene-The air was as dry as that in a garret, unlike that of ordinary icehouses where everything is recking with moisture. The sand on the brick paved floor was dry and powdery as the dust on the street. The temperature has stood for the past four months in all parts of the storage room at 35, the degree found by scientific experi-ment to be the best for the preservation of all kinds of fruits and vegetables. The temperature can be regulated at will, reduced to the freezing point or raised to any desired degree. This is accomplished by the per-fect system of ventilation, which makes the big building a gigantic refrigerator, with dry cold air circulating constantly through all parts of the storage room. This room has the capacity for storing at one time ten car loads of perishable stuff, and can be increased to twenty-five if necessary. Mr. Wheeler, whose especial pet and pride the plant has been for its inception, spent more time in perfecting the plans, obtaining the very best approved principles, than was con-sumed in the erection of the building itself. For weeks at a time he was investigating with the architects, Messrs. J. C. & W. Woodward, and when the plans were ready to place into the hands of the contractors, they embraced the best results of modern scientific research and experiment. Some of the results already obtained are of scientific interest. Four months ago a carload of lemons was put in. An objection arged heretofore against cold storage fruit has been that it would not hold up when taken out. Three weeks ago boxes of the lemons were taken out and exposed to the ordinary temperature of grocery stores and private pantries. They were as fresh as when picked from the tree when taken out and not a speck of decay or a tendency to soften has been discovered since their removal. Oranges and other fruits have shown the same satisfactory tests. Strawberries have kept for weeks without the least appreclable injury. These results are superior to any yet obtained. The temperature is such while not damaging the fruit, decay cannot start and the dryness of the air crests it if already started. With such facilities as these for handling and preserving perishable edibles the firm is better prepared for general commission business than any other competitor, and from this time on the men who compose it will bend their energies to make it the same success that has characterized other busi ess enterprises in which they are engaged. They have in their employ some of the best commission men in the west, and they will nake Council Bluffs a center for this kind of business as it now is of many others. Their field will be western Iowa and Nebraska. Dealers will have the assurance at the start that the goods they consign will not be permitted to spoil while awaiting a favorable market, and that the goods the receive will be delivered in original fresh-Mr. T. J. Clark, who is widely known as a commission man, will represent the firm on the road, and Mr. H. F. Wilkinson will have the general management at the house.

Time was when this ex-cuse worked, but it is so thin now that the average citizen can see through it, and the threats of the collector do not interfere with his nightly slumbers to any great extent. The action of the council in instructing the city attorney to commence action at one against the poll-tax collector to recover against the poll-tax collector to recover 10 per cent of his collections which he retained contrary to law is likely to leave the office without an incumbent before long, and may even result in the abolition of the office en tirely. The present collector has announced his determination not to work for less than 20 per cent of his collections, and he even went so far as to keep that amount wack, when he made his report to the city council, thinking that the council would let him dis-obey the plain provisions of the law rather than make any trouble about it. The abo lition of the office would not do any particular harm to any one. At present the collector scurries around to get enough to keep him in chewing tobacco and a few other luxuries of life and lets it go at that, while the city, for whose benefit the office was sup-posed to have been created, is compelled to go into a law suit with a man who has absolutely nothing at stake, before it can get what rightly belongs to it.

Sweeting-Oliver.

St. Paul's church was the scene of a brilliant social event last evening, the marriage of Miss Mary E. Oliver to Mr. Arthur Burgoyne Sweeting of Chicago. The ceremony took place at 8:30 o'clock, but before that hour the church was thronged with the friends of the bride. The organ, under the skilful touch of J. H. Simms, breathed forth the beautiful wedding march from "Lohengrin," to the strains of which the bridai party entered the church and proceded to the chancel, where Rector E. J. Babcock was awaiting to pronounce the words which hould make them one.

The bride was dressed in heavy white crystal silk, with slippers to match, and tulle veil. Her only article of jewelry was a pair of diamond earrings, a present from the Miss Maud [Oliver, a sister of the bride, ariss Maint Officer, a sister of the order, a cited as maid of honor, wearing a gown of silk mulle over white silk.

The bridesmaids were Miss Sweeting of Iowa City, a sister of the groom, and Miss Grace Gleason, dressed in lavender mulle over white silk, Miss Nellie Zurmuehlen and Miss Georgia Bennett in white silk mulle. Each one of the party carried a large bouquet of carnation pinks, with the exception of the wide, who carried roses.

Mr. Frank Sutcliffe of Chicago acted as best man, and the ushers were Messrs. Marion Welsh of Omaha, E. C. Shepard and Louie Zurmuehlen of this city, and E. E.

Hastings of Omaha.
All the decorations of the church were lavender and white, the chancel having been transformed into a bower of bewildering beauty, in which these colors predominated with smilax, palms and hot house plants in the foreground. While the ceremony was was being performed the well known ballad "O, Promise Me," by DeKoven, was softly played on the organ. At the conclusion of the ceremony the party left for the resi-dence of the bride, on Park avenue, where immediate friends were allowed to pay their respects. Mr. and Mrs. Sweeting left of the night train for Chicago, where their fu ture home will be. They will take an extended trip through Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa before settling down,

How a Prominent New Yorker Personated

Eulalia's trip up the Hudson Monday recalls the true story of Celonel George Bliss's personation of the prince of Wales on a similar occassion During the prince's visit in this country, says the Springfield Republican, it was arranged that he should go up the river by boat from New York to Albany, where he was to be received in state by Gov. Morgan. Col. Bliss, who was then on Morgan's staff, was sent to New York as the Gov ernor's official representative to escort the royal party to the capital. The whole population of the country along the river turned out to see the youthfu heir to the British throne, and at every town and village that the boat passed the banks were crowded. At one of the landings sombody brought on board a number of copies of the London Times and gave them to the prince. They were later than any he had seen, and he immediately went to the cabin to read As the boat approached the next town, Wales was politely requested to come on deck and show himself, but he absolutely refused, and continued to read his papers. The committee in in charge were beside themselves with distress and embarassment. Finally it was suggested that George Bliss sho personate the prince, and Lord Somebody was sent down to ask the approval of royal highness. promptly back that the prince would be delighted to have Col. Bliss take his place. So the colonel went forward and to the highest part of the deck and gracefully waved greeting to the people on the shore, all of whom went home happy because they had seen the future king of England.

PAPILLION'S RACE MEETING

Successful Start Made in the Face of Unfavorable Weather.

HORSEMEN DISSATISFIED AT A RULING

Claim that Bay Medium, Who Took the First Race, Should Have Been Disqualified for Running-Base Ball and Speed Ring.

The Papillion races opened up yesterday afternoon under very favorable auspices, there being a crowd numbering possibly 500 in the amphitheater and quarter stretch. The track, which is located in the old fair grounds, is a half mile, with long stretches and short turns, a poor track at the best. The weather, while clear, was extremely disagreeable, a hot, suffocating wind blowing strong and continuously in the horses' faces on the home stretch. Despite these drawbacks, however, the crowd seemed to enjoy the sport. There was a good field of horses, and had the judges been strictly onto their job, there should have been some firstclass racing.

The judges were W. H. Dudley and Paddy McGrew of South Omaha, with George W. Swigert as starter.

The first event on the afternoon card was the three-minute trot, purse $200. There were six starters in this as follows: Captain Haskins, Hessie Woods, Belle Wheeler, Bay Medium, Anna C. Forest and Indiana, Belle Wheeler being the Kinney brothers entry of this city. The favorites were Hessie Woods and Bay Medium over the field in the pools. After four scorings the horses got off, with Bay Medium in the lead, running fast befour scorings the horses got off, with hind and trotting in front, a gait he main-tained all through the race. As a matter to be expected, he not only finished first, but distanced Hessie Woods, Anna C. Forest and Indiana. At the carnest solicitation of a large majority of the spectators Starter Swigert, just before the second heat, an-nounced to the drivers that it was a trotting and not a running race. This had suffi-cient effect to cause Bay Medium's driver to pull his horse into second place, but notwithstanding this position he was set back last by the judges for running. In the next two heats the judges expunged the good work done in the second by awarding both heats to this running horse, he finishing first in both, giving Belle Wheeler the flag in the third.

After the race a protest was filed by the wners of the horses shut out and affidavits signed by a majority of the horsemen pres-ent and forwarded to J. N. Stiner, secretary of the American Trotting association, at Chicago, setting forth that Bay Medium did not trot a lick in the whole race, which fact was absolutely ignored by the judges. Invertigation among the interested horsemen developed that it was not the purse at stake that actuated this general remonstrance, but the fact that the trotting horse industry should not be abused. Summary: Indiana dis Time: 2:464, 2:474, 2:464, 2:58.

Two Other Races. The second race was quite an interesting affair, but Kansas made a bad mistake in finishing the last half and the boy in the sulky could not get her settled until the flag dropped in her face. Fieldmont won in three straight heats. Summary: The second heat was the fastest ever trotted or paced over this track.

The final event was a running race, half mile and repeat, purse $100. There were six entries, all of which started. The bangtails got a good sendoff. Honest John took the lead, all well bunched excepting Red Light, who wasn't unhitched from the post quick enough. He was muffled and blindfolded and couldn't run high-low. To the surprise of everybody, Fred S, who has been grinding an ice cream freezer for Ed B. Pretty Fight at New Orleans. New ORLEANS, La., June 8 .- Jack Daly of Wilmington, Del., and Owen Harney of this city fought tonight in the arena of the Cresent City Athletic club before 12,000 people. The weight was 126 pounds give or take two pounds. The fight was second to the prettiest ever seen here—that of Tommy Warren and Cal McCarthy ranking first. Daley outclassed Harney in weight height and reach, though the home man outpointed his opponent by his quickness of hands and feet. In the ten rounds fought Harney was down in the first, third and ninth rounds and would have been counted out in the ninth but for the gong. The seconds of Harney threw up the sponge early in the tenth round to save their man from further punishment. Daly escaped unburt, while the defeated man was somewhat

A Busband Traced Through a Pension. Two years ago a woman in Michigan applied for a pension, averring that her husband had died in a confederate prison. On searching the records, however, it was found that the man was living in a village near Asheville, N. C. Moreover, he was himself drawing a pension for disability. While a prisoner during the war, he and his captive comrades were visited by philanthropic women of the neighborhood. Among those was a susceptible young weman, who fell in love with the soldier from Michigan. After his release, instead of going home, he married the southern girl and cast his lot with her people.

The pension bureau in investigating the northern "widow's" claim found that her delinquent husband was a man very highly respected in his community. He owned a large store, and was an enterprising, public spirited citizen. The pension bureau could not stop hi pension. The officers could only notify the deserted wife that her husband was alive, and tell her where he could be found. Whether the woman hunted up her husband and exposed him, or determined to live without him, is not known. Chappie's Little Joke.

CRIME IN HIGH PLACES! It is not strange that some people do wrong through ignorance, others from a failure to investigate as to the right or wrong of a matter. But it is strange, that individuals and firms, who are fully aware of the rights of others, will persist in perpetrating frauds upon them. High-toned, wealthy manufreturing firms will offer and sell to retail merchants, articles which they know to be infringements on the rights of proprietors, and imitations of well known goods. We want to sound a note of warning to the retailers to beware of such imitations and simulations of "CARTER'S LIT-TLE LIVER PILLS." When they are offered to you, refuse them; you do not want to do wrong, and you don't want to lay yourself liable to a lawsuit. Ben Franklin said "Honesty is the best policy"; it is just as true that "Honesty is the best principle."

RARE, RIPE OLD WHISKY. Limited Stock of the Finest in the World. S. H. Ford has opened a wholesale liquor store at io. If Pearl street, Council Bluffs, and has put in No. If Pearl street, Council Bluffs, and has put in a large and well selected stock of Wines, brandles, whiskies, etc. It is a fact worthy of moniton that Mr. Ford is the fortunate possessor of nearly forty harrens of the finest whisky in the United States. In 1880 he bought seventy-five barrens of Kentucky C. F. C. Taylor whisky, and it was not until about three years and that he placed the goods on the market. Of this stock he has left about forty barrels, and experts all pronounce it absolutely the finest whisky in the country: He sells it mainly to families for medicinal use, as it is too costly for the regular trade. It is worth over $10 per gallon. There is not another brand of such whisky in the U.S. His stock of brandles and wines comes from the amous Loland Stanford vineyards in California and have a high reputation for cellence and purity.
