Presence of Mind Displayed by an Old Lady in an Eucounter with a Tramp.

HER GOOD USE OF A CONVENIENT AX

Vigorous Repulse of a Night Prowler's Advances-A Hard Spruggle with the Intruder Pemale Persistency and Pluck Successful-

An old lady who lives on Fifth avenue just west of the court house, has been mentioned in the newspapers once or twice and has beome a familiar figure in the city on account of a little peculiarity which manifests itself in her keeping the codin in which she expects to be buried, as one of the main, and, in fact. almost the only ernament of her little house. She had an experience a night or two ago in which she showed a presence of mind and a grit that would have done credit to one very much younger. She was sitting in her room about 11 o'clock when she heard a tap at the door. Thinking it was one of her neighbors come to see how she was fixed for the night she opened the door, when she found it was a man who demanded admittance. She tried to shut the door in his face, but he was determined to enter. After a hard struggle, however, she managed to shut and lock the door, and the unwelcome visitor proceeded to the window on the side of the house, which he raised and was in the act of clambering in when it e old lady picked up an axe which happened to be convenient, and went for him. He read the handwriting on the wall and left before the axe did any damage, and when the danger was all over the old lady took advantage of the prerogative of her sex and screamed for help. Her neighbors rushed in, but there was no need for their assistance. grit that would have done credit to one very for their assistance.

Cook & Whitby's Circus.

Cook & Whitby's English-American circus was in the city yesterday, and the experience it had was sufficient to verify the belief that people will go to a circus though the heavens fall. A good share of the heavens fell during the afternoon and it was very threatening during the entire day, but that fact did not hinder thousands of Bluffites from hunting up the show grounds near the corner of Avenue C and Twelfth street and taking the children along with them. The show, as a show was eminently satisfactory, but the best thing about it was the strict discipline exercised over the attaches, the management doing its best and with good success, to prevent any objectionable actions on the part of the employes. There were no particularly new features, but were no paracularly new reatures, but everything that was done was well done and struck a responsive chord in every young America, and old America, too, for that matter, who was present. The tight rope walking and the daring aerial leaps were about the best that have ever hoose witnessed in Council Bluff. been witnessed in Council Bluffs. At the conclusion of the entertainment there was a baileon ascension, and the spectacle of a man being jerked up into the air for the distance of a quarter of a mile or more and then cut-ting loose and drifting back to earth on a parachute was a most interesting one. There was also a concert given, at which some very good mind reading was done. A woman, blindfolded, was put through a number of difficult tests, the one most highly enjoyed by the audience being her sizing up of the character of R. N. Whittlessey, a local newspaper man. It was done so accurately that Mr. Whittlessey himself was obliged to admit after it was all over that he would have had no difficulty whatever in recognizing himself a block away, even though he had never had an introduction.

MRS, HOLMES DEMANDS DAMAGES,

Main Street Motor Accident Results in $20,000 Law Suit.

Ella P. Holmes, wife of E. F. Holmes, who was killed in the collision between a Main street motor car and a Burlington freight train, and administrator of the estate of the deceased, commenced an action in the district court yesterday to recover damages from the motor company. In her petition she recites the particulars of the tragedy and charges the company with gross negli-gence in not providing proper rules requiring trains to stop before making a rallway crossing, but leaving it to the discretion of the motorman, who was not only incompetent but whose attention was so fully taken up with the management of his machinery that he could not have formed a correct idea of the danger, even if he had been competent to do so. She demands a judgment of $20,000 demands a judgment of $20,000 against the company.

Alderman Casper at the Fair. Park Commissioner Casper is enjoying himself hugely at the World's fair. In a personal letter he says: "For the benefit of you who intend to visit the fair I would like to say a few words. First, the fair is good; second, there are no thieves or cut-throats as many think; third, the rates of living are reasonable. I am stopping at the Eureka hetel. It's a good home, well-cooked meals, etc., and the rate for room and board is only 82 a day. It is nicely located at 7053 Adams avenue, one block west of Parkside, on the Illinois Central, five blocks from the World's fair grounds and one block from street cars running directly to the grounds. From the city depots one takes the Illinois Central suburban train to Parkside, which makes it very convenient for all purposes."

SWEDISH LUTHERNS.

They Celebrate the Three Hundredth Anniversary of the Augsburg Confession.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., June 9 .- Thousands of Swedish Lutherans, who have come from all parts of the United States, are here to attend the jubilee services of their church. The event commemorated is the adoption of the Augsburg confession by the council of Upsolather 300 years ago. of Upsolather 300 years ago. Today is the jubilee day proper, as it was on June 9 when the final decision was reached by the Swedish legis-lature which made the historic land of Thor and Woden a Protestant country. The services are being held in a large tent on the campus of the Augustana college and seminary, no hall of the colege being large enough to accommodate the crowd, which is expected to be fully 15,000 by today.

A great drawing card to this mon-ster celebration is Rt. Rev. Bishop Knut Henning Gezeilus von Scheele, one of the most distinguished theologians of northern Europe, the first bishop from Sweden who has ever visited the Swe lish churches in America. Everywhere he has been received with open arms by his countrymen since his arrival in New York, but nowhere has he met such en thusiasm and such an ovation as in Rock Island. A large number of prominent Swedish Lutherans are on the ground.

PAPILLION'S RACES CLOSED

Second Day of the Meeting Sees Some Very Good Sport.

DRIZZLING RAIN MADE THE TRACK HEAVY

This Interfered Only with the Time-Another Kick on a Kansas Horse's Peculiar Gait-Base Ball and Speed Ring Results.

The crowd at the Papillion races yesterday afternoon was about the same as was in attendance on the opening day. The drizzling rain had left the track very heavy, but considering this drawback the time made in the respective events was remarkably good; doubly so when it is taken into consideration that the track is twenty-one feet over length and egg-shaped on the turns. This was the last day and the judges were H. H. Martin and Bob Green, Swigert starting again. The first on the program was the 35 trot with the following entries: Ossic, Ferguson Wilkes, Clarence L, Governor Riddle, McCormick and Countess. Countess won the first heat in 2:32, distancing Ossie and McCormick, Governor Riddle second and Ferguson Wilkes, with the redoubtable Beardsley and his telescopes in the seat, third. The second, third and fourth heats were taken in rapid "suction" by Governor Riddle in 2:82, 2:311/4 and 2:381/4. Summary: Governor Riddle..... Clarence L ...

And if any one thinks the Tekamah party hasn't got a pretty likely piece of pacing hoss flesh, his foot slips, that's all. The third was the half-mile and repeat run, purse $75. Mike Whiting, as was the run, purse $75. Mike Whiting, as was the case the day before, set the pace from post to finish, with Frank Clapp second, and Fred S running a good third after a fall on the back turn. The second heat was also taken by Whiting, Fred S took second place, and could have won had the jock rode him out. His owner objected to his splitting the heats as he has several barrels of ice cream heats, as he has several barrels of ice cream to freeze between this date and that of the Roadster meet here next week, when he expects to drag off a few simolions. As was noted on the opening day the judges ignored the fact that the horse Governor Riddle, owned by Lancaster, did a large amount of running behind, which seems to be a feature of the Junction City. Kan., man's training. The judges may not have observed Governor Riddle's tactics, but it was palpable to most all of the horsemen present.

On the whole the meeting was quite a financial success, and will doubtless lead to much better things next year. Speedy Mile at Latonia.
