

BLAMES THE BARBER FOLKS

Delay in Paving, Caused by the Beard Injunction, Discussed. CITY ENGINEER ROSEWATER'S PLAIN TALK

He Says the Asphalt Paving is Responsible for Having All Paving Tied Up—Reasons for the Beard Injunction in Court.

The paving question is still far from being settled, and the prospect of the ultimate tying up of all paving now under contract, and the districts ordered paved, is among the possibilities. The supreme court was the first to set the ball in motion by its decision in the Beard case.

City Attorney Connell and City Engineer Rosewater are probing the matter to the bottom and hope to get at the seat of the trouble. The Beard decision has mixed things up wonderfully, and if Mr. Connell's construction is correct all of the proceedings looking to the paving in the majority of the districts will have to be done over again.

Not Ready to Act. The Board of Public Works is letting matters rest until it is definitely understood what is best to be done. There are a few districts that have not been dragged into the controversy, but the contracts will not be drawn up until such a time as an agreement is reached.

Seeking a Settlement. Councilman Howard, Stiel, Parker, Thomas, Edwards and Hasall, met a number of the Park avenue property owners yesterday, with a view to coming to some understanding of what might be considered an equitable settlement of the old indebtedness of $83,000, created by opening of that thoroughfare, some years ago, from Half Howard to Farnam street.

NERVOUS EFFECTS OF CATARRH

A Disease That Attacks Nearly Every Part of the Body, Carrying With It Misery and Danger. Mrs. Ellen W. Ogden lives with her husband at 132 N. 10th street, Omaha. This lady is of the nervous type and has devoted much time and mental effort to literary work.

MRS. ELLA W. OGDEN. "For years I have been a great sufferer from catarrh of the nose and throat. In fact my life had become almost unbearable because of my throat. My nervous system was so affected that at night I would toss upon my bed, without sleep, sometimes for hours. Then from exhaustion I would fall asleep to start up quickly and find my heart had so become a pulsating ball of fire that I could hardly get my breath and my limbs had become almost paralyzed. In this condition my friends prevailed upon me to consult Dr. Shepard. I was so weak that going to the office was all I could do, but I thank God that after eight weeks' treatment I can truthfully say that I am substantially better. I feel it in all my ways and know that my health is rebuilding on a solid foundation. I sleep well—a wonderful change for me. I have no more snoring spells and my youthful vigor and energies are now returning. In a short time I believe I will be perfectly well."

is what seven men out of ten are looking for; a post-office—a foreign mission—a secretaryship—a presidency—some even aspiring so high as to wish to become aldermen. Failing in these, they'll take anything so it's a "snap." Men have been known to prey near starve to death waiting for a "snap" rather than go to work and get a dollar by good hard licks.

suits today. Our buyers in New York struck a man with a good many more cheviot suits, and not quite as much money, as he needed. They had the money—and they "struck a snap"—We place these suits on sale today—three full lines—elegantly made up—single and double-breasted—in blacks and blues—at so much less than they're worth that they'll be "snapped" up by good judges as quick as they see 'em.
