EXCELLENT RACING NOW IN PROGRESS

Yesterday's Program a Fine One and Today's One of the Best Cards Ever Shown Here-What the Roadster Club Offers.

The first regular summer racing meeting given under the auspices of the Gentlemen's Roadster club was inaugurated at the driving park yesterday afternoon in the present of a crowd that was a disgrace to the city. Despite the fact that one of the best fields of horses ever assembled on any course in the west was on the grounds, horses of national renown, representing almost every state and prominent stable in the union; despite the fact that the day was a grand one, barring the wind; despite the fact that the Second Infantry band, one of the finest organizations west of Chicago, was on hand and filled the air with its delicious and masterly strains; despite the fact that the management consists of men prominent in Omaha's commercial and social realm, and despite the extraordinary general favorable conditions, there was little better than a handful of people in the stands and the quarter-stretch to witness an afternoon of insgnificent racing.

Is any one within an hundred miles of this oint so asinine as not to know that this is not a roadster matince, but a big, first-class, thorough racing meet? At the least calculation, taking the exhibition of yesterday as a basis to build upon, there should not be a soul less than 5,000 people within the park's gates this after-noon, when a racing card will be presented that never had an approximation here be-fore. It is due the good name of the city fore. It is due the good name of the can and the state, their breeding and stock in terests, as well as their reputation for sta-bility and prominence, that they turn out. But more than all it is due the gentlemen who have devoted time and money to afford the city and surrounding country such a healthful and exhilerating interval of recreation and sport. Good Weather and Fair Track.

The day was an exceptionally fine one for the pastime, that is if about one half hour along some time after 2 o'clock, when a wind and dust storm arose, is expunged. The sky was overcast with masses of fleecy, scurrying vapor which rendered the flerce rays of the sun less burdensome, and a de lightful breeze sweeping in fitful gusts ove the park from the west making a seat in the stands or in a carriage in the quarterstretch a genuine pleasure. The track was not in the best of condition, being dusty and some-what "cuppy," but the general form of affairs was such as to justify some creditable performances at the hands—or feet, rather of gallant steeds in competition. It was the best afternoon's racing held here for many a

The judges yesterday were: J. D. Dadisman, G. C. Metcalf and Walter Phelps, all of Omaha; with George Swigert as starter and Henry Homan, Billy Hughes, C. E. Morrell and Harry McCormick, timers, and Clarke Redick as the very attentive, and efficient clerk of the course

Promptly at 2 o'clock the bell summoned the horses to the track for the first event, the 3-minute trot, purse $400, with every man on a byke. The entries for this were as

Bay Medlum, b. g., J. N. Lancaster, Junction City, Kan.; Lady Gay, ch. m., F. S. Nickle Plate's Race.

After three scorings the horses got off well in line for the first heat with Belle Mc-Gregor setting the pace. She led by a couple of lengths to the three-quarter pole, Cricket, D. D. and Hessie Woods following in order. On the third quarter Charlie Boggs forged up to fourth place, and Bay Medium, the favorite, to fifth. There was a hoss race down the stretch between Belle McGregor, Cricket and Belle Wheeler, Fred Young with the little bay mare holding the van without any excessive effort, and pass-ing under the wire in the splendid time of

On the second heat the bunch got away on the sixth attempt, with Belle McGregor in her old place. There she continued to the half, where Nickle Plate moved up fast and at the three-quarter displaced Belle, winning the heat in 2:29, with Bay Medium sec-ond, Crickett third and others as per sum-

Swigert sent the field off at the third trial with Charles F showing the way, leading the mile with Hornpipe, the favorite, a close attendant. The balance made a very pretty procession to the end. Time: 2:25% For the second heat they got away speed; ly, with a good start. Charles F cut out the work again, with Hornpipe close upon his hoels all the journey, the majority well back. There was but few in the crowd capable of the push Charles F put on, as he recled off the mile in the remarkable time, considering the half mile track, early season and big field, of 2:2034. This is the best mile ever trotted by a 4-year-old in a race in Nebraska.

Charles F. showed his capabilities by capturing the third heat and race. He piloted all the way into the stretch when Good Time challenged him for a race home. He got it—a hot one to the wire. Good Time getting under first by a neck, although he was deprived of his victory by reason of a break twenty yards from the goal, his driver not taking him up as he should. Maple Leaf sprang to the front, and while hard pressed by Teil Tale the whole distance, passed first under the wire. For some reason, however, unknown to any of the dis-tinguished gentlemen in the top loft, the race was given to Tell Tale. There could hardly have been a mistake that Maple Leaf was in first, but Tell Tale had his nose well up on her shoulder, and the judges may have falled to distinguish between the two. It was an exciting and spirited dash and was made in 1:18. Tell Tale first, Maple Leaf second, Signal third. Keystone, Mike Whiting. Petticoat, Harry Hercules, Fred S and Nellie F also ran unplaced.

James J. Corbett occupied the boards at the Farnam Street theater last evening. A crowded house greeted the professor of pugilistic science. The mantle of Edwin

Booth, or even a remnant of John McCul-

Corbett as an actor. He knows it. So does the public. Curiosity to see the man whose

"terrific left" knocked John L. Sullivan off the pedestal of fame, is what draws the crowd. However, Corbett is improving as an actor. He is graceful and his facial expressions are good, but his voice was not built for histrionic use. As "Gentleman Jack" he does the best he can and fills the part quite acceptably. He is a greater suc-cess and more refined as an actor than other

Charles H. Stacey was placed on trial in Judge Fowler's court yesterday afternoon, charged with committing a criminal assault upon Minnie, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mohr. Attorney Kaley appeared for the state and Attorneys Edgerton and Bayless for the defendant. Mohr took the stand and repeated what his daughter had told him of the assault, which is alleged to have been committed on the night of June 6. Upon cross-examination the defense brought out the statement from Mohr that at one time he had served a term in the penitentiary. Minnie, the victim, said that on the night in question Stacey got into the bed she was occupying and committed an assault. She said Stacey held his hand over her mouth. Dr. Solomon testified that an at-tempt had been made. Mrs. Mohr testified as to what her daughter had told her of the assault. At 6 o'clock only a portion of the evidence had been introduced. Getting Ready for Vacation. WEDDINGS YESTERDAY.

A. Whitmarsh, Omaha.

Herbert-Lemist. Rare it is that so beautiful a bride goes forth into the nurried state as Miss Mary Maxwell Lemist, who exchanged marriage vows yesterday at high noon with Arthur Henry Charles Herbert of New York City, eldest son of the late Captain Charles James Herbert of Her Majesty's grenadier guards, Muckross Abey, Lakes of Killarney, Ireland, a name famous in the military and social life of the United Kingdom since the days when James was king.

Trinity cathedral was embowered in flowers for the occasion, hydrangeas and palms being used in profusion throughout the chancel and upon the altar, with here and there large vases of peonies, those emblems of June days, to add their touch of color to the scene. And the presence of a host of the bride's young friends, the groom being a stranger to Omaha's swell set, made the ceasion a memorable one among the leader Previous to the arrival of the oridal party

Mr. Thomas J. Kelly played several numbers from the books of the tone poets, a fitting prelude to the Mendellssohn march, which has marked the line between girlhood and womanhood for so many years. Shortly after noon the wedding party ontered the north transept and marched up the main aisle, the ushers leading the pro-cession; Messrs, W. G. Doane and Edmund M. Fairfield first, then Mr. Clifford Smith and Mr. Arthur Guion. Miss Woolner, the maid of honor, walked alone, followed by the fair young bride, Miss Lemist upon the arm of her father, Mr. H. T. Lemist. At the chancel the groom and his best man, Mr. Russell Lemist with the officiating priest, Dean C. H. Gardner of the cathedral awaited the coming of the bridal party. Never has a bride looked more levely than dld Miss Lemist on this occasion. She were an exquisitely trimmed empire robe of heavy white satin, trimmed with point applique, the beautiful veil of the same material falling from the head, where it was held with lilies of the valley. She carried an immense boquet of bride roses. Miss Woolworth, tall and handsome, were a dainty India silk mulle garnitured with valenciennes lace, a white chip hat trimmed with white satin ribbons, completing a perfect maid's costume the simple to lette being heightened by the white parasol which Miss Woolworth carried ornamented with American beauty roses.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Lemist, 518 South Twenty-sixth avenue, where covers were laid for fifty of the bride's young

The gifts from the groom to the ushers The gifts from the groom to the ushers and best man were scarf pins, consisting of two hearts outlined in pearls, surmounted with a crown of pearls. To the bride Mr. Herbert gave a lovely necklace of pearls and emeralds. Besides her outward attractions, of form and feature. The bride is rarely accomplished and a universal favorite in Omaha society as was evidenced by the Omaha society, as was evidenced by the number of handsome presents showered upon her and the regrets so generally exressed that she is to make her home so far way from the central west. Mr. Herbert is well known in the sociel circles of New York, being a member of the engineering corps of the Board of Paolic Works, a member of the Calumet club, etc. At 4:30 Mr. and Mrs. Herbert left for Chi-cago, where they will do the "White City" pefore returning to New York, their future

Lacy-Heller. The Metropolitan club was the scene of a very pretty wedding-last evening when one of Omaha's prettiest girls, Miss Ella Heller, became the wife of Mr. Arthur Laev of Milwaukee.

The ceremony was performed in the north parlor of the club. Rev. Dr. Franklin officiated. The time honored ceremony of the Jewish church was used on this eccasion. Shortly after 8 o'clock the weading pro cession entered the parlors. Two little flower girls, Louisa and May Heller, led it. They were followed by the bride, escorted by her father, Mr. Loopoid Heller. Then came Mrs. Laev and the groom, followed by the father of the groom and mother of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heller, Mrs. Bergman and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Grotte, Mr. Marks, Miss Rose Ginsberg and and Mrs. Sinar of Milwaukee.

After the ceremony, which was particu-larly impressive, a wedding dinner was served in the dining room of the club, where toasts were given and telegrams of congrat The beautiful bride wore a magnificent princess gown of bristol silk trimmed in point lace, with a bertha of point applique, her exquisite veil of applique lace being fastened to the head with a wreath of orange blossoms.

Louise Heller was in white crepe trimmed with lace and ribbons. Her sister May were pink crepe trimmed with chiffon. Following the banquet the young people danced in the ball room of the club and seemingly enjoyed themselves, though the night ingly enjoyed themselves, though the night was insufficiably hot.

The guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Laev, father and mother of the groom; Mr. Harry Marks, brother-in-law of the groom; Miss Rose Ginsberg, cousin of the groom; Mrs. S. TRYING HARD TO SECURE A CONVICTION

Evidence Introduced Not of a Very Damaging Character Against the Defendant-Great Interest is Being Manifested in the Trial.

New Benford, June 14. - The old court house where Lizzie Borden's life hangs in the balance was again thronged today, largely by women, who are more persistent in demanding admission than men.

City Marshal Hillard of Falt River was the first witness today. He testified as to his search of the premises and of his con versations with the prisoner. The feature of the marshal's testimony was the description of the scene when Lizzie Borden was first told that she was suspected of the crime. Mayor Coughlin was present at the time. He told the family that they had better remain within the house for a few days as there was great excitement on the streets. If they were annoyed by crowds of people gathering about the house they should no tify him or the city marshal and they would be protected. Lizzie Borden then asked why that was necessary, and wanted to know if anybody in the house was suspected. Mayor Coughlin said he was sorry to say it but the truth was she herself was suspected. The mayor asked Lizzie where she was when the affair happened, and she replied that she was in the barn looking for lead sinkers for her fish line. Emma spoke up and said: "We have tried to keep it from you as long as we could." Lizzie said: "Well, I am ready to go at any time."

Cross-examined, Marshal Hilliard admitted that the search of the Borden house was thorough and that the defendant gave him all articles asked for and spoke frankly of the suspicion against her Mayor Coughtin of Fall River was the next witness. Mrs. Hannah H. Gifford, a dressmaker, estified that she had made dresses for the Bordens. One day Lizzie Borden, who had come to have a dress made, told her not to call Mrs. Borden her mother, because "she was a flean, good-for nothing thing." Lizzie had said that she did not have much to do with her and did not even cat at the same table with her unless absolutely necessary Annie M. Borden, cousin of the prisoner a gray-haired woman, was next called. She had gone to Europe with Lizzie in 1890. Upon returning to America Lizzie had said that she was sorry the journey was over be cause she did not want to go home where it was so unpleasant for her. Hannah Reagan, matron of the police station at Fall River, testified she had the prisoner in charge at one time. August 26 Emma Borden went to see her sister. matron was in the toilet room, and, hearing loud talking, listened and heard Lizzie say to Emma: "You have given me away, Emma, but I don't care-I won't give in one Emma said, "Oh, Lizzie, I didn't!" Emma stayed some time with her sister, but there was no more talking. When Emma left nothing was said, and goodbys were not even exchanged. On cross-examination Mrs. Reagan denied she had told reporters that the story she re-inted was a lie. Mr. Jennings cross-examined Mrs. Reagan when the court reassembled after recess. She was asked if she had told any reporter about the quarrel between the sisters. She said she had not, but that she had characterized the matter as a quarrel when re-porters called upon her and asked her if there was any truth in it. She said Rev. Mr. Buck asked her to deny that the story of the quarrel was true. "Did you ever say that the story was not true!"

"I did not."

Sho was asked if Rev. Mr. Buck had come to her with a paper for her to sign, denying that the story was true. She said Rev. Mr. Buck had asked her to sign the paper, and said it would heal the relations which at the time existed between Emma and Lizzie.
"I said I would go down stairs and ask Marshal Hilliard about it. I went down stairs and spoke to the marshal about it. He told me to go to my room and said that whatever story I had to tell, I should tell in court. He said he would attend to the busi-ness and told Dr. Buck to attend to his busi-

Eli Bettes was called. He was a drug clerk who was called to testify that Lizzie had tried to purchase prussic acid from him. But before he could go on and tell that there was an objection to it by the de-fense. Mr. Moody said that what the commonwealth wanted to show by Mr. Bettes was that some time during August 3, the day before the murder, Lizzie Borden went to a drug store and tried to purchase 10 cents worth of prussic acid. She said she wanted it in order to clean a scalakin sacque. "It is not used for such a purpose," said Mr. Moody, "Mrs. Borden nad seen Dr. Boven and told him that she was a fraid she had been poisoned. Lizzle Borden was in a murderous mood at the time."

The assistant district attorney quoted from a number of authorities to maintain his from a number of authorities to maintain his position. When Mr. Moody finished his argument ex-Governor Robinson began. He contended that as to anything previous to August 3 there was nothing in the testimony except that given by Mrs. Gifford.

Was she then in a mur lerous mood!" Mr. Robinson asked. There has been nothing shown here as to that which rises to the dignity of proof. The buying of the prussic acid is an innecent act. There is nothing to show the least tendency to malice toward Mr. and Mrs. Borden." The court decided the evidence competent and would be admitted.

IF YOU WORK IN JUNE.

If You Are Tired and Worn-out, Use! Paine's Celery Compound.

Paine's celery compound has been more talked of, discussed, prescribed, in quired into, than any other remedy of the century.

No medicine ever had such testimonials. It has made thousands of tired and worn out men and women well.

Paines' celery compound builds up the shaken nerves. The nerves regulate the blood supply through the body. Upon their action depends health and happiness. It is the nerves, then, that are to be attended to. Nerves out of repair result in loss of sleep, irritability, lassitude-which are the beginning of a heat of ills. Paine's celery compound robs the nerve centers of irritability and by supplying abundant nutrition to the nerve tissue secures healthy action. Paine's celery compound makes life easier in the summer. When one has to work through the hot days and finds sleep hard to get at night, when the used up brain gets no time for repair, nothing refreshes and reenimates like Paine's celery compound. It is food for the brain and nerves. For all diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system it is a true specific, and is generally prescribed by physicians. It is not a patent medicine. It is the most remarkable remedy that the scientific research that this country has produced. Prof. Edward E. Pheips, M. D., LL, D., of Dartmouth College first prescribed what is now known the world over as Paine's celery compound, positive cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism, seriously injured by a falling wall this morning. They were working on a scaffold de-molishing the old postoffice, when the wall fell, burying them. all nervous diseases and kidney troubles. For the latter, Paine's celery compound has succeeded again and again where everything else has failed.
