Testimony of Witnesses Who Saw the Original Draft.

REMARKS OF THE DECEASED TO FRIENDS

Specific Instructions Given by the Testator to One of the Proposed Executors with Reference to Carrying Out the Will's Provisions.

LINCOLN, June 15 .- [Special to THE BER.] -The deposition of N. S. Scott, one of the executors of the will of Dr. Turner, the various complications connected therewith having been set forth in the columns of THE Bue, was read this morning, despite the very vigorous objections of the contestant's unsel. The deposition was to the effect that Dr. Turner had showed him the will in a crude form, and had afterwards conferred with him as an attorney in the preparation of the will. It also set up the bequests of the alleged will exactly as claimed in the petition of the proponents.

William Clark, the other executor, was also examined despite objections of counsel that he was an interested party. He said that some time in 1889 Dr. Turner had told him he had been named as an executor in his will, and inquired if he would serve. He consented to do so, and the doctor asked him to see that the provisions of the will were strictly carried out, as he had reason to believe that his sons were not in sympathy with his benevolent intentions. He had also had other conversations with the deceased, the last one several tions with the deceased, the last one severa months before his death. The doctor gave specific instructions as to where he left the will and said that the valise in which it was contained would be given him by Mrs.
Rootham, the doctor's housekeeper. Mr.
Clark was absent from the city at the time of his death, but when he returned Mrs.
Rootham gave him the letter left for her by the doctor, in which he had given directions for her to hand the will to Mr. Clark, and nformed him the will was in the possession of W. J. Turner. Mr. Clark said he had had several conver sations with W. J. Turner respecting the will, and had requested him to bring it down and turn it over, so that it might be opened and the proper proceedings taken, but it was not brought, Morris Turner being out of town on several occasions when the request was made, and at another time W. J.

Turner said he was too busy because of a recent fire at his store. After a while he was informed of the alleged burglary at the residence of W. J. Turner and the disappearance of the valuable papers from the value in which they had been contained. The knowledge was imparted to him the day afterwards by W. J. Turner. They had ad-vertised for the papers, but had never re-covered them. Witness had had Captain Scott recite the provisions of the will from memory. These he had reduced to writing, and were the same as contained in the will sought to be probated.

Hussey Murder Case.

The jury was finally secured in the Hussey murder case this morning, and the taking of testimony begun. The coroner, Dr. Crim, and Dr. Giffen testified that the bullet which killed Moore passed through his intestines and pierced the spleen, and that medical skill was unavailing to save him; that death was the result of the bullet wound. The only eye witness of the affair who was captured detailed the circumstances surrounding the affair and the queer actions of Hussey. The attorneys for the defendant expect to prove that he has been insane for the past eight years, and that he suffered for years from a fail in his youth, running away from home several years ago when steps were being taken to incarcerate him for a vicious assault with a hatchet upon his mother. The court allowed a number of lepositions setting up these facts to be in troduced in evidence, over the vigorous ob-jections of the state's attorney.

As to the Vinduct Matter,

The entente cordiale that has been doing usiness between the city, the Burlington and Union Pacific railways and the viaduct contractor shows visible signs of wear and tear—all as a result of the injunction pro-ceedings brought to compel the viaduct to be halted and the streets placed in its former condition. A special meeting of the council was called last night to take some action in the matter, but a quorum was not secured. Mayor Weir prepared a notice to serve upon the contractor today that under no circumstances would the city assume any liability for any part of the cost of construction or the material, but Superintendent Bignail, who has been very anxious to secure the erection of the viaduct got him to with hold serving the notice, which would cause instant cessation of the work, and stated that in his belief he could get the railroad companies to reconsider their previous determination not to pay any money as they had agreed to do. Nothing has yet been heard as to his mission. To Compromise with Delinquents.

The state board, especially constituted to settle with delinquent county treasurers, comprising the members of the State Banking Board, met this afternoon to consider a proposition to settle the indebtedness of Carl Korth, the defaulting treasurer of Pierce county, who turned up $35,000 short some time since. Some of the misappro-priated funds belonged to the state, and his bondsmen wanted to settle, it is said, for 75 cents on the dollar without interest. John P. Hayes of Norfolk appeared for Korth and the bondsmen. The board concluded that as the bondsmen did not evince any disposition to put up the amount of the defalcation it could effect no settlement. Suicide of an Aged Lincoln Citizen. S. G. Julian, formerly an inmate of the asylum, but who has been under restraint at his home at Thirtieth and Clinton streets for several months, wandered away from ome last evening.

Late this afternoon the dead body of the old man was found by several boys who were out hunting about a haif mile southeast of Wyuka cemetery. He had secured a piece of thick wire, tied one end to the limb of a tree and made running noose into which he inserted his head and swung off. He was ut 60 years old and since his release fro the asylum, some seven months age, made his home with his sen, T. B. Julian, at Thirtieth and Clinton streets. He had evidently been dead for several hours. Coroner Crim was called and the remains taken to local undertaking rooms. It is probable no inquest will be held. Julian was at one time well to do. City in Brief.

The contests instituted by R. B. Graham, republican, and A. E. Hargreaves, fusion, against A. H. Weir, fusion, and A. D. Burr, republican, respectively for the offices of mayor and exciseman, were begun in the county court this afternoon. The first witness called for the ex-city clerk, D. C. Van Duyn, who testified as to the precautions taken to protect the ballots from being tampered with after they were given into his pered with after they were given into his custody. The hearing will probably last several days, and the entire 5,700 bullots cast for mayor and excisemen will be recounted.

Miss Clara Orquist of Colon, Neb., who came to the city last evening to visit the family of a Mrs. Brown, at 627 South Eleventh street, had a hair-raising experience while en route from the depot in a hack. The horses became frightened and ran away, throwing the driver off. After marrowly missing a collision with a street car and grazing several telephone poles the carriage was brought to a stop at E street,

John Hewitt, and was followed by an elaborate reception and ball at the Funke residence. The young people have gone east

Referring to the installation of Mr. North into the office of collector, Mr. Spaulding said: "I think that it is hardly probable that Mr. North will take the office until the testified as to the use of prossic acid. The defense vigorously contests every point of the prosecution's testimony, which went to show that the acid was not used for other than medical purposes and was unsuitable for cleaning furs, the purpose for which Miss Borden said she wanted it. Finally the court excluded all testimony in regard to the purchase of prussic acid. The commonwealth rested its case here. Opened for the Defense.

After the recess Mr. Jennings opened the show the previous spotlessness of the prisoner's character and the absence of intended purpose or opportunity. The prisoner sat with her face buried in her handkerchief during the counsel's plea. After distinguishing circumstantial from direct evidence and illustrating the dangerous character of circumstantial evidence, he said every link in the government's claim. he said every link in the government's chain of evidence must be proved beyond a reason-able doubt, including motive, weapon. exclu-sive opportunity and intent. The defense would show that no blood was found upon her; that the relations between father and daughter, which excluded the motive for killing him, and the motive to kill the mother alone, would not be enough for the govern ment to claim that the same person killed both. He claimed that the weapon had not been connected with the defendant. Ex-clusive opportunity would be negatived by showing that other people were around at the time of the murder; that others entered the barn before the officer, who testified that its floor was covered with dust, and that the burned dress was covered with Mrs. Mary J. Lewis, aged 27 years, who died yesterday with consumption, was buried this afternoon. Rev. George M. paint and was not worn on the day of the Brown conducted the funeral exercises in the Methodist Episcopal church. The de-ceased leaves a husband and five children.

During the opening Miss Borden covered her tearful eyes with her handkerchief. Martha Chagnon, a pleasant little French girl, was the first witness for the defense. On the night preceding the Borden murder she said she heard a noise about 11 o'clock at night. It sounded like pounding on the Borden fence and lasted five minutes Marion Chagnon, mother of Martha, confirme 1 her daughter.

Saw a Mysterious Stranger.

Charles M. Gifford and Uriah Kirby both swore to having seen a strange man on the steps of the latter's house near the Borden residence at 11 o'clock the night before the murder. Gifford said the man seemed asleep. Witness shook the man and his hat fell off. Witness then went into the house. The man did not seem to have been drinking. He had never seen the man before or since. Mark Chase of Fall River, a former member of the police force of that city, swore that about 10:50 a. m. of the day of the murder he saw a buggy standing in front of the Borden house. In the carriage was a man with a brown hat and a black coat. He had never seen the man nor the buggy before.

Dr. Benjamin H. Handy of Fall River testified that he went by the Borden house on the morning of the murder at 9 and 10:30 o'clock. "I saw a medium-sized young man, very pale, with his eyes fixed on the side-walk research the search He walk, passing slowly toward the south. He was acting strangely. In consequence of his appearance I turned in my carriage to watch him as he went by. I have a faint idea that I had seen him before."

Mrs. Delia S. Manley said she saw a young man attired in a suit of white standing at the Borden gate. That was about 9:45. She had not noticed the young man when she first came along. when she first came along.

Walter P. Clevens, at the time of the tragedy, was a reporter for one of the Fall River dailies. He was called to the stand by Mr. Jennings. His testimony was the most important for the defense that had come out up to this time. He went to the Borden house on the morning of the tragedy in the regular course of his business. He through the grounds and out to the barn. "While I was in there," he said, "I heard three persons walking about in the upper part of the barn."

Policeman Medley, it will be remembered, had sworn that there were no traces of foot-steps in the dust on the floor of the barn loft when he went up there to make an investi gation. The witness said that he did not see Medley about and remained in the barn only a moment or so.

Herman Robinski, an ice cream peddler, was called. He said he went by the Borden house in his wagon on the morning of the "What did you see?"

"I saw a lady come out of the barn and go to the stairs at the north side of the house." "How did she go?" "She was walking slowly," answered the witness. "She went in under the stairs."

"Did you see her go into the house?" "I don't know about that." Caused a Sensation.

Then Robinski caused something of a sensation when he answered these questions:
"Did you say anything to anybody about this? "Yes."
"Whom?"

"Policeman Mullaly."
"What did you tell him?" "I told him all about it." "Did you tell him what time it was when you saw the woman?"

"Yes."
"What time was it?" "It was after II o'clock." "How much after?"
He was not sure about that, but he knew it was after 11 o'clock. The person he saw was not she. Robinski said he had sold things to Bridget Sullivan and knew her Two boys then testified who visited the Borden barn just after the murder and walked all around the loft. The jury retired at 4:48, while counsel argued the admissibility of evidence of Joseph L. May, who found a man covered with blood near Steep Brood August 16, who, talked about the Borden murder. The ques-tion was reserved until morning and the court adjourned. Invite Their Enemies. Major French has issued the following invitation: "The Salvation army of Omaha will have an ice cream cool-off on Saturday evening, June 17, at their barracks, from 5 to 7 p. m.

For the Glorious Fourth. Омана, June 14.- To the Editor of THE BEE: I saw in last night's BEE an article on Independence day. Now I think the time is short to start in and have a rousing Fourth of July celebration, but nevertheless if the patriotic citizens will put their shoulders to the wheel, we still have time to make preparations for a celebration long to be membered. And I will further say, do away with style for that one day. The reason I mention this is that last year I had over 200 men's names down who promised to march as "Sherman's Bummers," and when the time came only about twenty ap-peared, and the reason was that I told them all they would have to wear such clothes as we wore when we marched through Georgia, and then they flew the track because they wanted to wear flue uniforms. Now, Mr. Editor, if Omaha will turn out, she has the material, and we can show the children of the present generation just how these sol-diers looked at the grand review in Wash-ington in 1865. Ali I would ask is that the young men lay aside style for one day and take part in the parade.

Why Are they Wanted?

Because they never spoil nice desserts.

Because the cakes, puddings, creams, etc., are made to please the most refined taste. Because they are extracted by a new method, from the true fruit, so that each has its own natural and distinctive character. That is why Dr. Price's Delicious Flavoring Extracts, Lemon, Orange, Vanilla, etc., are wanted. To the connoisseur the difference between them and the common Flavoring Extracts is so great that it cannot be expressed in words. A trial will prove their superior excellence.
