HAD EXPOSED THE BALLOTS

Some Sensational Evidence Introduced in the Lincoln Mayoralty Contest.

WEIR OBJECTS TO A RECOUNT

Interested Parties Had Too Many Opportunities to Change the Result as Indiented by the First Canvass-Testimony on the Subject.

LANCOLN, June 16 .- [Special to THE BER. ]-Some sensational testimony was sprung today in the mayorality contest inaugurated by Graham against Weir, and more is promised by the Weir men. Weir is opposing the motion of Graham to have a recount of the votes on the ground that some skullduggery has been indulged in, and that the ballots were allowed to remain exposed in the council chamber from 12 o'clock on the night of the canvass until noon of the following day, where any one could have gotten They also assert, but not in court, their belief that the Bohanan fire, a block from the city hall, that night, was set by some one who desired to get a chance at the ballots and wanted all the firemen who usually sleep in the building away from Ex-City Clerk VanDuyn was the first wit-ness called. He said he was routed out of bed at 3 o'clock, the morning after the can-vass by S. M. Melick, a Graham partisan, who said that there was going to be a con-test over the mayorality, and suggested that he take better care of the ballots. He that he take better care of the ballots. He accompanied Melick to the Windsor hotel, a block from the city hall, but didn't go over, as everything looked all right from there. He spent two hours at the hotel, and at 5 o'clock went over. He didn't think anything had been disturbed, but didn't know. The ballots were placed in a gunnysack the next afternoon, and afterwards sealed up in a tin box by a workman. a tin box by a workman.

Saw a Light.

Robert Malone, chief of the fire department, testified that at 3 o'clock that morning he came from the fire to his house just to change his clothes. Ho saw a light in the council chamber, and at 5 o'clock, when the fire was out, he went to his sleeping room in the city hall, and when he passed the door of the council chamber the light was still burning. He looked in, but saw no one. The chief's testimony was corroborated by that of Firemen Haviland and Bjorkman.

At 5 o'clock the evidence was all in and the case was submitted without argument. About 7:30 the jury returned into court with a verdict of acquittat. Hussey will leave tomorrow morning with his father for his old home in Dayton.

Easy of Access,

C. G. Bullock, agent of the school board, testified that several precincts had not turned in their school ballots, and he went up to the city hall the day after the canvass to look for them. The boxes containing the bailots were piled in a semicircle inside the row of councilmanic desks. He helped himself to the ballots he wanted, which had been thrown in with city envelopes. He noticed that the envelopes of some were torn. VanDuyn and his deputy were in and out, and at times as many as fifteen or twenty people were in the room. There was parently no restriction as to toying with

The law states that if it can be proven that ballots have been left where they could have been tampered with, a recount must be refused. The developments have created considerable of a sensation in the city. Attaching Their Property.

MOSHER WILL PLEAD GUILTY

Significant Remark Made by the Bank Wrecker Yesterday.

CERTAIN CHARGES TO BE DISMISSED

Final Evidence in the Case Received from Washington-The Bank Wrecker Declares His Intention of Facing the Music Tomorrow Morning.

As nearly as can be ascertained from intimate associates of both sides, and in the obsence of positive assurances from the principal actors, who are not disposed to be at all communicative, it is at last practically certain that Charles W. Mosher, the wrecking president of the Capital National bank, will stand up before a jury in the federal district court and plead guilty to several of the charges in the indictments against him, in consideration of certain others being dismissed, and will then receive the sentence of the court.

Mr. Mosher had breakfast with an exstate official yesterday, and upon parting with him said: "Well, good bye. I probably won't see you again for a good while, as I am going before the federal court tomorrow morning and plead guilty."

Prosecutor Baker's Notion of It. It has been conceded by Prosecuting At-torney Baker from the start that there were a number of charges that could not be sus-tained by positive proof, but that there were others from which there was no escape un-less the proposition to commend the proposition to the propositi others from which there was no escape un-less the proposition to compromise was ac-cepted. It was stated that the charges of fraudulently diverting the money of the bank, while undoubtedly based on actual fact, were somewhat short of positive fact, but that the falsification of the books and records of the bank, the issuance of fraudulent certificates and the deception practiced to mislead the other the books and records of the bank, the issuance of fraudulent certificates and the deception practiced to mislead the other officers of the bank, as well as the bank examiner and the comptroller, could be readily proven. It is in the air around the federal building that it is to these latter charges that the blea of guilty is to be made, and it is likewise rumored that, in consideration of this plea, the minimum sentence, five years in the penitentiary, will be imposed.

No such arrangement has been definitely made, as the court does not make deals of that kind, but if that is the understanding between the prosecuting attorney and the defense, it is safe to say that it will be pretty nearly carried out, as the recommendation of the prosecution along this line would receive considerable attention.

Attorney Baker and Mosher were in close consultation for over an hour yesterday. Mr. Baker was asked about the situation, but said that there was little information to be given out. He said he "hoped" the defense would conclude to enter a plea of guilty, as it would result in saving considerable time, as the case of the United States against Mosher was one from which there was no escape, and the defendant would have to take his medicine. He had hoped, in the interest of the depositors of the bank, that the offer of a compromise would be accepted, and he had given the defense very opportunity to bring about such of the bank, that the after of a compromise would be accepted, and he had given the defense every opportunity to bring about such a state of affairs, but it had been unsuccessful, and he should perform the duty devolving upon him as prosecuting attorney. He had postponed the taking up of the case as long as possible without allowing it to go over the term, and he felt that this was extending as much sourtesy to the other to go over the term, and he felt that this was extending as much courtesy to the other side as was proper for him to do. He intil mated that the case would be taken up to-morrow morning. When asked how long it would last he replied that he could not say.

Has no Chance to Escape. To a lawyer, who came in afterwards and asked what there was in court to be disposed of before he could take up a civil case, the urbane prosecutor replied that he could get ready to go ahead at once, as "very little time would be occupied in disposing of the remainder of the business of this office for this term." which goes to confirm the rumor remainder of the business of this office for this term," which goes to confirm the rumor that the Mosher case will be quickly dis-posed of this morning.

It is understood that evidence on the

of the prosecution, which has lacking, has been secured from been lacking, has been secured from Washington, and that there is no loop-hole through which the bank-wrecker can escape, even if he concludes at the last moment to fight the case to the final ditch.

It is stated that the federal statutes prescribe the same minimum penalty, five years, for all of the crimes alleged against Mosher, and that he cannot escape a sentence to the pen for that period except on the single charge of issuing fraudulent certificates of deposit, for which the penalty is a fine of $1,000. The prosecuting attorney was asked about a plea of that kind, and he said that he would not accept a plea like that alone

Yesterday morning about 8 o'clock people in the vicinity of the city hall were startled by two shots being fired in quick succession, and the city employes fairly tumbled over each other to reach the outside of the building while the excitement was on. The horse had started at Nineteenth street, and as he came down Farnam the officer discharged his firearm twice in the hope of stopping him. DEPEW ON THE OUTLOOK.

Promises Excursion Rates to the World's Fair-Business Getting Better. Chicago, June 16.—Hote Chauncey M. Depew arrived from New York today to visit the fair. In course of a conversation with a reporter, Mr. Depew was asked what his road and other eastern roads proposed to do in regard to the question of popular excursion rates to the World's fair. He had this to say in reply: "We shall make an excursion rate that will be satisfactory to everybody and, I believe, that all eastern railways will do the same when the proper time arrives. We shall run weekly or semi-weekly excursions to Chicago which will not in any wise interfere with our regular service. Up to this time any attempt on the part of the railroads to any attempt on the part of the railroads to run such excursion trains would have been at a loss and no railroad company will enter into any business which does not promise to make an adequate return. Now that the exposition is completed, Chicago can look forward to a tremendous inpouring of the people from all parts of the country and she can feel assured that the railroad companies will do their duty to bring the people here will do their duty to bring the people here as quickly and as comfortably as is within their power.'

Speaking of the financial condition of the country, Mr. Depew said: "It is largely a matter of sontiment. The people believe there is enough money in the country to do business on—there is enough; but if, on the other hand, they have an impression that there is not sufficient money they withdraw their savings from the banks, lose their interest, which the banks cause and the partners. their savings from the banks, lose their interest, which the banker gains, and the next day, when they discover that the bank is safe and that the business world has not collapsed, they carry their savings back to the bank again. I believe that the financial stringency and scare is about over. Among the moneyed men in the east there is a unanimous feeling and desire for a special session of congress, and that just as quickly as possible. National relief is needed to reestablish a feeling of security. As to the Sherman bill, there is a demand for its repeal, though the desire for this repeal is a matter of sentiment, and not based on any apparent necessity—at least that is the way I look at it."
