After Being Out a Short Time the Jury Comes to an Agreement.

LAST DAY OF THE CELEBRATED TRIAL

Noisy Demonstrations of Approval When the Verdict Was Heard Made by the People in the Court Room-The Judge's Charge.

New Bedrond, Mass., June 20 .- At the opening of the Borden trial this morning District Attorney Knowlton resumed his argument in behalf of the commonwealth. He addressed himself to the motive for the murders. He pointed out the enmity of Lizzie toward her stepmother as sufficient motive for her murder, and said her killing necessitated the killing of her father, a stern man, who knew of the enmity and loved his dead wife. The only way for Lizzie to possibly escape punishment lay in killing ber father. This theory was the only one which would consistently account for the double murder taking place over a period of an hour and a half between the

The speaker continued, arguing that the silk dress produced by the defendant was not the dress worn at the time of the murder. The two versions of the burning of the defendant's dress were irreconculable. He discussed the defendant's conduct since the murder and declared the story told by Matron Regan and afterwards denied by her about the quarrel between the Borden sisters was true. He said the production of the hatchet was no part of the government's case.

Her Visit to the Barn.

Continuing he said: It was one of the very hottest days in the hottest summers we have ever known and you are asked to believe that she left her work at the ironing board and went up into the hot barn. You were there in that barn and you know what it is even on a cool June day. She told Offi-cer Harrington that she could not hear any-thing, any noise, because about the control of the could not hear anything, any noise, because she was up in the loft. This the only place, the hottest about, where she could get and not hear anything. In all your observations have you ever heard of an attempt to create an alibi which was more strange than the circumstances of this one? That barn alibi will not stand.

We come back and find her father dead and a story on her lips which has no vestige of truth in it. He then commented on the old and dusty condition of the barn and of the first keen-eyed people who found no tracks there. He also dismissed the state-ment of two boys who yent to the barn to eat their dinner because it was cool. He referred to the visit to the cellar as an evidence of Miss Borden's nerve. How she could have avoided getting blood on her clothes the jury could answer, because they were neither women nor murderers.

There was somewhere in that house a Bedford cord dress stained with paint and a dress which, stained as it was, was good enough to wear for a-mourning dress, and when the officers came there on Friday it was a singular thing that this dress, after being kept all through those months, was burned on that Sabbath. Lizzie had been told on Saturday night that she was guilty, and on Sunday she burns this dress.

Mrs. Rengan's Statement.

He referred to the statements of Mrs. Reagan as illy advised, but while enterprising and officious reporters and friends made her take it back she never did under oath.

troduced the hatchet with which the murder was committed. We don't say this small hatchet did the business, but we think the handle was broken off, not accidentally, but in order to make the least showing of splin-ters. It has been shown that it had been wet and then rubbed in ashes, and it had been shown that the blade fits almost miracu-lously into the holes in the skulls. We do not say it was the hatchet. We find this woman was killed at 9:15; that she had not an enemy in the world; that the house was guarded day by day; that falsehoods, the very essence of this case, were told by that We find that this girl bad considered thest to look after her father, who would know who did the first deed upstairs. He had covered up the previous burglary in the house, but upon this he might not be so close mouthed. And without opening her mouth, except to tell this story of the barn and even her remonstration when officers tried to search her room; we find her in a house where is a hatchet which could have done the deeds; then we get hatred, malice, falsehood, absurd and impossible alibis, fraud charged on the officers in the dress matter, and we can the climax by showing that there was a burned which we wanted and they would not give us.

What is the defense? Nothing, nothing: What is the defense? Nothing, nothing; I say again, nothing. Some dust thrown in our faces. Some absurd stories about drunken men of pale and irresolute men walking the street in broad day light and of fighting dogs. Our case is proven. Let mercy be taken care of; act as you would like to think of having acted when you stand before the great white throne. before the great white throne.

Recess until 1:45 for lunch.

The court came in promptly at 1:45, every seat in the room being occupied as usual. The chief justice then addressed Miss Borden by name, teiling her that she now had a voice and could say to the jury what she chose to say. She arose somewhat agitated chose to say. She arose somewhat agitated and said to the jury: "I am innocent, but I will leave my case in your hands and in the hands of my counsel.

Judge Dewey's Charge. Judge Dewey then charged the jury. read his charge rapidly and among other things embodied therein was the caution to take a decision only upon the law and the evidence given. The court defined the different degrees of murder and said the degree is to be determined by the jury. The goverament claim that you gught to find that those murders were deliberately premedi-tated. In considering the evidence you must needs have several legal princi-ples in your mind. One is that of the presumption of innocence, and this presump-tion is to be considered in the light of evition is to be considered in the light of evi-dence, and it is a principle founded upon that benificent law which says every man is innocent until he is proven guilty. The character and previous life of the defendant must always be taken into consideration, and I understand that the government allows that there is nothing in defendant's past life previous to arrest to be doubted. Recall the case, the court said; put one part with another, and see whether you can conceive at this time this defendant had toward her stepmother a feeling that could be properly called hatred. If this conception is not warranted by the evidence, then it should not have weight in your mind.

There Must Be No Doubt.

The government claims those acts come under the head of murder in the first degree. The law claims that, in order to prove this, everything claimed must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt Continuing, it was stated that the governcontinuing, it was stated that the government presents this case on circumstantial evidence. If the evidence left the jury in reasonable doubt as to whether she was where her father was when he was murdered, then the doubt would be fatal to the government's case. It was understood by the court that the government claimed that an essential fact was embraced in the note matter; that she had made statements which she knew were false when she was which she knew were false when she was making them. There are three grounds to base this on: First, the man who wrote it; second, the man who brought it has not been found; and third, there was no note.

What motive had defendant to invent a

LIZZIE BORDEN ACQUITTED to say, to invent that which, at any time, might be brought against her? It is said no letter was found.

Possibility of Two Assassins.

But contemplate the possibility of there being another assassin. Might it not be a part of the scheme of the assassin! Might he not have come on her when the note was there at hand, might he not have had reason to remove it as one of the links! In circumstantial evidence unless every link holds good the chain is worthless. (Here the court gave several illustrations of his meaning). The jury was asked to bear in mind the supposed facts that the defendant had no blood on her clothes when seen first and no blood on her clothes when seen first and there was nothing to connect her with the murder so far as outward appearances went. In order to warrant conviction it was not in-cumbent on the government to show that she cumbent on the government to show that she alone had the opportunity. Was the defendant in the house when these people were killed? Are the views of the experts correct! Was this defendant capable of doing this work? The government claims that she was not in the barn at the time she said she was, and makes other charges which the jury must carefully weigh for their actual weight. The jury was again cautioned against receiving statements for facts.

Calling attention to medical experts, the court seemed inclined to place small reliance upon them, as a general thing, and the jury upon them, as a general thing, and the jury was given to understand that it must give to expert testimony just as much weight as it thought it ought to receive.

The jury was cautioned against not noting in any way the fact that the defendant did not take the stand.

The court said the burden of proof is on the government and the defendant is not obliged to shoulder any of it. The jury was not to deal with the evidence in a captious spirit. If not legally guilty, you are to say so. The jury was asked to think over carefully whether a person contemplating a murder would be likely to tell a friend of it or predict it in any way the very day before hand. In the matter of dress the court asked the jury to say whether it could extract from all the descriptions of the dress enough knowledge to make it valuable

"Not Guilty" is the Verdict.

At the conclusion of the charge the attorneys consulted a few moments. The jury was allowed to retire and counsel agreed upon what exhibits were to be put into to the case, after which it was brought in again, the oath administered by the clerk of the court and the jury took the case.

It was just 4:40 o'clock when the spectators, who had kept their seats patiently during the retirement of the jury, noticed a movement indicating its return. A movement ment later the twelve men filed into their seats and were polled. Miss Borden was asked to stand up, and the foreman was asked to return the ver-dict, which he announced—"Not guilty."

Then all the dignity and decorum of the court room vanished. A cheer went up which might have been heard half a mile away through the open windows and there was no attempt to check it. The stately justices looked right ahead at the bare walls luring the tremendous excitement, which during the tremendous excitement, which lasted fully a minute.

Miss Horden's head went down upon the rail in front of her and tears came where they had refused to come for many a long day as she heard the sweetest words ever poured into her willing ears. Mr. Jennings was almost crying and his voice broke as he put his hand out to Mr. Adams, who sat heavt to him and said "Thank God" while he put his hand out to Mr. Adams, who sat next to him, and said "Thank God," while Mr. Adams returned the pressure of the hand and seemed incapable of speech. Governor Robinson turned to the rapidly dissolving Jury as they filed out of their seats and gleamed on them with a fatherly interest in his kindly eye and stood up as Mr. Knowlton and Mr. Moody came over to shake hands with counsel for the defense. Soon as possible the hall was cleared, which was a hard task, since everybody wanted to shake hands with Miss Borden. When the spectators had finally gone she was taken to the room of the justices and was taken to the room of the justices and allowed to recover her composure with only the eyes of friends upon her and in the care of devoted admirers. At the expiration of an hour she was placed in a carriage and an hour she was pinced in a carriage and driven to the station, where she took the train for Fall River, her home no longer, probably, but still her only objective point for the immediate present.

USING THE KNIFE.

Transcontinental Rates Cut by the Great Northern Again. CHICAGO, June 20 .- The Great Northern put the knife into transcontinental rates again today by announcing a rate of $51 first class and $33 second class from St. Paul to San Francisco. This includes berth and meals on the steamer from Scattle to San Francisco. This move on the part of the Great Northern will drag the Union Pacific into the fight without delay unless that road is prepared to sacrifice its Portland business, which of course, it will not do without a fight. As soon as the passenger meeting in Denver adjourns and matters are settled in transmissiouri territory, the Union

The Atchison today announced that it would put into effect at once round-trip rates of one and one-third fare from Texas points to Chicago. The deductions are made entirely in the south, that the rates in the Transmissouri and West Passenger association territory are slightly over the regular Chairman Caldwell of the Western Passenger association has decided that roads accepting business from the Canadian Pacific are entitled to the regular traffic rate of $11.50 for the haul from St. Paul instead of $9.50 ,the World's fair rate. This is a de-nial of the requests made by the Canadian Pacific, but as the Great Northern has already shut it practically off from the Chicago business the matter is of not great im-

Considered the Chicago Rules.

DENVER, Colo., June 20.—The second day's session of the Transmissouri association and the Colorado-Utah committee opened this morning at the Brown Palace hotel with an increased attendance. The early morning trains brought Howard Paine, of the Missouri Pacific; Edward Lomax, gen-eral passenger agent of the Union Pacific; J. P. Lamb and S. H. Hutchinson of the Union Pacific.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman D. B. Caldwell. The business transacted so far today consisted of the reading of the rules adopted at the Chicago meeting, and which were under consideration at yes-terday afternoon's session. Shortly after 5 o'clock this afternoon a recess was taken until 8 p. m., when the work will be resumed

At tonight's session the modification of rules was practically completed. The changes are of no material interest to the Tomorrow the local agents of local lines at Colorado common points will attend the meeting at which time the rules will be fully explained to them, so as to prevent any possible misunderstanding.

All of the agents will then be required to sign the agreement and also a certificate to the effect that the rules are understood by them. This is done in order that there shall be no pleading of ignorance in the future if any of the rules are violated.

Will Run Excursion Trains.

NEW YORK, June 30.—The general agents of trunk lines met today and decided to recommend the executive committee of trunk lines a special rate for the round trip to Chicago and return on special World's fair trains. These trains will consist of passenger coaches only, but will run as express trains, making the trip each way in about thirty hours. They will leave New York in the morning which will bring them in Chicago the following afternoon. The tickets will be good for ten days.

MEETING OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

State Managers Discuss the Situation at Des Moines-Some of the Timber from Which Candidates May Be Selected.

DES MOINES, June 20 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-The republican state central committee held a session here today and decided to hold the next state convention in Des Moines August 16. Ex-United States Senator James Harlan of Mount Pleasant was selected for temporary chairman and recommended ex-State Senator J. S. Lawrence of Sioux City for permanent chairman, thus recognizing the prohibition and antiprohibition wings of the party. F. F. Merriam of Hopkinton was selected for sergeant-at-arms and the following committee on arrangements named: C. M. Junkin of Fairfield, W. H. S. Mathews of Des Moines and N. N. Jones of Atlantic.

The committee discussed neither candidates nor platform, members of the commit-tee saying they did not think it lay within the province of the state committee to consider those matters that are essentially sider those matters that are essentially convention business.

Among the gubernatorial candidates likely to appear before the convention are ex-Auditor Lyons, ex-Secretary of State Jackson and ex-State Senator Lafe Young. The platform will be moulded on national lines as much as possible, with only an incidental expression of prohibition with a cidental expression of prohibition with a view to making a campaign, looking for its results to the election of a United States senator by the next legislature to succeed Senator James F. Wilson, Among the other candidates for the latter position are Congressmen Gear, Hepburn and Hull.

SWINE BREEDERS IN SESSION.

Iowa Association and Experts from Other States Meet.

DES MOINES, June 20 .- [Special Telegram o THE BEE.]-The annual meeting of the National and Iowa Swine Breeders associations met in joint convention here today. The following program was carried out this afternoon: Address of welcome, Henry Wallace; response, B. R. Vance; president's address; D. L. Howard, "National Association;" W. H. Morris, "Is Line Breeding Beneficial:" W. M. McFadden, "Manage-ment of Sows Not Owning Pigs at Farrow-ing Time;" discussion, appointment of committees.

Tonight the program was as follows:
"America's First Love, the Chester White."
B. R. Vance; "Method of Conducting Winter
Sales of Brood Sows." C. L. Shaul; "Iowa's Wine Exhibit at Chicago, 1893." W. M.

Last year the national convention was held in Lincoln, Neb., in connection with the Nebraska State association and proved to be of unusual interest and profit to both breeders and farmers. The Nebraska delegation, which numbers twelve or fourteen, arrived this morning, headed by H. E. Heath, managing editor of the Nebraska Farmer, published at Lincoln. Kansas, Dakota and other western states are fairly well repreother western states are fairly well represented, while lowa is represented by district delegations throughout the state, about seventy-five altogether.

Interesting lows Event.

DES MOINES, Ia., June 20 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-An event of more than unusual interest was the unveiling of the large portrait of ex-Governor Samuel J. Kirkwood in the executive rooms of the state house this afternoon. The painting is from the brush of George W. Yewell, formerly of Iowa City, but at present an artist in New York. The legislature at the last session appropriated $800 for the painting and requested Governor Boies to select the artist.

Quite a number of officials were present.

Colonel Peter A. Dey, who was chosen to present the portrait to the governor, did so in a brief and happy address. The governor responded in an equally felicitous vein.

Letters were read from ex-Governor Caracteristics. penter and Judge Robinson and also from ex-Governor Saunders of Nebraska. These gentlemen had been invited to be present to make addresses. Their letters were highly eulogistic of Iowa's famous governor. The only ea-governor present was Congressman John H. Gear of Burlington. The governor's room was crowded with state officials and other prominent persons. Ex-United States Senator George G. Wright of this city presided. Ex-Governor Kirkwood was unable to be present by reason of illness.

Kind Greeting for Cornell Boys. MOUNT VERNON, Ia., June 20 .- [Special to THE BEE.]-The Cornell College club of Chicago has generously provided for a headquarters in the Iowa building at the World's fair for all Cornell friends. There is a desk and register at the headquarters with an attentive clerk, who will be ready from now until the close of the fair to give all needed information and assistance. The club has also provided for a Cornell reunion June 21, at 2 p. m., in the assembly hall in the Iowa building, to which every friend of the college, old and young, is invited. There will also be an evening session June 23.

Barnab, of Providence, R. I., voluntarily surrendered his bond and returned to jail late this afternoon. The doctor did this in order to give more weight to the habeas corpus proceedings which will be began by his attorneys in a few days.

The release was asked mainly on the ground that there were no legal reasons for a continuation of the case, as no appropriation has been made by the Board of County Commissioners, and also that the doctor should have been tried at the present term of court, instead of having his case postponed until September.

JOINED IN A BIG CONSPIRACE.

Customs Officials Dismissed by the Secre-

Washington, June 20.-P. H. Winston, United States attorney; T. R. Brown, United States marshal; Andrew Wasson, United States collector at Port Townsend, Wash.; C. J. Mulkey, United States special agent, and six special inspectors of customs in the Puget Sound district, have been dismissed by Secretary Carlisle for having taken part in an extensive conspiracy to smuggle opium and Chinamen into the United States in that district. The re-ports to the secretary show that this has been going on for several years, in connec-tion with private parties operating from Victoria, B. C. It is regarded as one of the greatest conspiracies unearthed by the gov-ernment for a long-time. Other dismissals are in contemplation and the matter will eventually reach the courts.

Ordered Home WASHINGTON, June 20 .- An order directing the cruiser Atlanta to return to the United States was issued at the Navy department today and cabled to Captain Bartlette at Greytown, Nicaragua. She was ordered to Nicaragua early in May when trouble was first reported there and her orders to return home indicate that trouble in Nicaragua is at an end. But it also indicates something further. Captain Higginson's delay in sailing, for which he was so severely censured, may be shown to have been justified by the condition of the ship, which is soon to be overhauled.

They All Gave Bond. Washington, June 20.-Colonel Ainsworth. William E. Covert, superintendent of the Ford theater building, and Francis Sasse, its engineer, appeared voluntarily in the criminal court before Judge Comas and gave onli in $10,000 each for their appearance be-fore the grand jury. Mr. Dante, the con-tractor, was not able to appear in court, but his sureties went to his house and qualified there in the same amount. Where the Accident Happened.

The accident happened upon what is known as the Bay Ridge division of the Manhattan railroad and about half a mile from the little town of Parkville, which is at the junction of the roads running to Coney Island and Manhattan Beach and Sheepshead Bay. This division after leaving Parkville passes under a viaduct of the Coney Island road. The fatal train reached this point about 6. It has left Sheepshead Bay race track about 5:45. The crowd aboard were men, women and children who had been to witness the Suburban. train consisted of six cars, the front and rear cars being closed, the others open. Every seat was taken and men stood in the asiles of the closed cars and shoulder to shoulder upon the platforms running along the sides of the open cars. It was a good natured crowd, most of the passengers said afterward. Those who had backed the winning horses were jubilant over their success, while those who had lost were making merry with others who were in the same plight.

Everybody seemed merry, and the uppermost thought, perhaps, of the whole train was to get back to New York as quickly as pessible The train, which was going at full speed, suddenly gave a jerk and a jolt. The engine and the first two cars ran along upon the track dragging behind them the other cars of the train bumping and rolling along the ties up the very mouth of the tunnel. Then the engine and the two cars that jumped the track broke loose from the others and were carried along by their own speed clear through the tunnel and twenty-five feet be-yond. The other part of the train, first dragging itself half through the tunnel. Seized With a Panic.

No one knew what had happened so quickly had the fatal accident occurred. People jumped from the train and fell upon the em bankment to be bruised and cut by the cars Others were carried along upon their bodies rubbed and bruised when the train many stopped the cooler heads began to lend assistance to the wounded who lay along the track. Those fatally wounded were immediately trans-ferred to the hospital. Policemen who had arrived immediately sent orders to Brook lyn hospitals for ambulances, which soon began to arrive.

World's Congresses Consolidate. CHICAGO, June 20.—Owing to the small at-endance the three World's congresses on banking, railway commerce-and insurance were consolidated today, all meeting in one hall. Lyman Gage, general chairman of the congress, called the meeting to order. Banking and finance, he said, has more than ordinary interest as the recent wave of financial trouble has swept over the world, causing much anxiety. Men had tried to do business according to methods that were not wise, and this caused the re action. Mr. Gage announced that Senator John Sherman, who was expected to be present today at the congress and to read a paper, could not attend. Addresses were made by Charles B. Parsons of St. Louis, assistant chairman of the bankers congress, and Bradford R. Hodges bankers congress, and Bradford R. Hodges of New York City.

John P. O'Dell of Chicago followed in an address. It was the feeling that at this time there should be held a congress of bankers occause there was needed all the cool judgment, all the prudent advice possible to allay the inflammation in the public mind on financial questions. Mr. O'Dell apologized for any seeming lack of attention to the visitors on the part of Chicago bankers on whom were constant demands to meet the financial storm now raying. financial storm now raying.

After Mr. O'Dell had concluded, the bankers congress closed and the railway con-gross went into session. Captured in the Act. Lincoln, June 20 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-Roy Long, a teamster, was detected at 11 o'clock tonight by Officer Ben-ninghoff in an attempt to rob the grocery store of Fullington Bros., at Nineteenth and O streets. He had cut away the serien door and hid behind it as the officer approached. When dragged out of his hiding place and taken to the station he admitted that he was trying to effect an entrance.

INDIANS KILLED BY SOLDIERS. Troublesome Times Reported at the

Cheyenne Agency. Sr. Paul., Minn., June 20.—A Pioneer Press special from Miles City, Mont., says: There is trouble at the Cheyenne agency. An enlisted Indian at Fort Keogh got permission to visit the agency. He overstayed his time, and a detachment of Indian troops went after him. He refused to return and his Indian friends declared they would not let him be taken. The commandant at Fort Keogh requested Agent Tulley to make the arrest, but Tulley declined. Last night Licutenant Marshall and his Indian cavalry troop w. s ordered to make the arrest. Orders were sent to the company at Lame Deer to aid if necessary. Orders are to make the arrest and call for all troops necessary. Rumor has it tonight that a fight has occurred, and that five Indians have been killed at the agency, but the authorities at Fort Keogh refuse either to confirm or deny

CHURCH HOWE ON POLITICS. He Thinks the Situation in Nebraska is Slightly Mixed Cmcago, June 20.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-Church Howe of Nebraska, for twenty-two years past a member of the state legislature, is at the Palmer house. He said today: "Political affairs in Nebraska are considerably mixed. The recent impeachment proceedings against three of the republican state officials has damaged the republican state officials has damaged the party. The democrats are divided into two factions, one under the leadership of Secretary Morton and the other Governor Boyd and Congressman Bryan, and the breach is growing wider. I believe the populists will retain their present strength. They are not holding as many meetings as in the past, but they have an efficient organization and are gaining much efficient organization and are gaining much strength through the silver agitation. Within the last month a movement in that direction has begun which looks like an effort to form a new party in that state on that issue, headed by Congressman Bryan, and many democrats and republicans are going with it."

JUSTICE BLATCHFORD'S CONDITION.

Fatal Results Not Apprehended-The l'atient Very Weak. Newport, R. I., June 20.—Dr. Rankin has made a statement concerning the condition of Associate Justice Blatchford. He says the judge suffered two slight shocks, but is now doing well, though quite weak. There are no dangerous signs at present, though, like all cases of this kind, there is a possibility of a fatal stroke at a moment. The patient still retains his mental faculties, but is unable to sign his name, his son and the doctors assisting him in completing some urgent business. Washington, June 20.—No information has been received by the officials of the United States supreme court regarding the reported serious illness of Associate Justice Blatchforch at his Newport cottage. When the justice left Washington he was in his usual health. The statement that he suffered slight shock of paralysis while in Washington is incorrect. The belief here is that his condition is not so serious as stated.

SATOLLI HEARS FROM ROME

Papal Endorsement of Fourteen Propositions

Submitted by the Ablegate.

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND ALSO ENDORSED Catholic Parents Urged to Give Catholic Schools the Preference-Mgr. Satolli,

Dr. O'Gorman and Bishop Scannell Interviewed at Length.

Upon arising in Omaha yesterday morning Mgr. Satolli was pleasantly surprised by the receipt of a letter from the pope in which all the fourteen propositions made by Mgr. Satelli had been endersed by the highest authority of Catholicism.

Mgr. Satolli was congratulated in unstinted terms for the clear translation of the precepts of which he is such an eminent teacher and believer.

Bishop Scannell of this city also received a letter from Cardinal Gibbons which set forth the text of the pope's letter and instructions as to the raling made on these propositions. Both letters are in Latin and as their reverences found their time fully occupied by devotional and other exercises yesterday they have not as yet had time at their dis-posal to make a literal translation of the contents. But enough was learned to know that the letter to Mgr. Satolli was congratutory, and that of the Bishop instructive.

Will He Sent to All Hishops,

Will He Sent to All hishops.

A verbatim copy of the pope's letter to Cardinal Gibbons will be sent to every bishop in the country in a short time, as it is considered of such a complimentary nature that it would be embarrassing to Mgr. Satolli to circulate the document.

In speaking of this letter, flishop O'Gorman, who is confidential companion of Mgr. Satolli, on his western tour, said: "The letter is addressed to Cardinal Gibbons, and through him will be addressed to all the bishops in this country, if he has not already done so. It is a letter endorsing the papal delegate, and under the circumstances it is the place of the cardinal to distribute it. The eatire contents of this letter cannot be made known until the cardinal makes them public.

Endorsed Fourteen Propositions.

"Enough of the letter to Mgr. Satolli is ranslated, however, to know that the pope's letter is an endorsement of the fourteen ropositions presented by Mgr. Satolli at thep meeting of archbishops in New York last November."

vember."

Bishop O'Gorman said that Mgr. Satolli and party would leave for St. Paul this morning and after a short rest would journey to the Pacific coast, visiting Helena. Butte City, Portland, Scattle and San Francisco. After about six weeks visit in the west they will return to New York. He said that while Mgr. Satolli was a close student, he had developed into an enthusiastic traveler and was enjoying the best of health.

The party are much pleased with the western country, and this will not be their last ern country, and this will not be their last

Position on Parochial Schools. In the letters sent out by Cardinal Gibbons it is learned that the position of Mgr. Satolli in urging Catholics to send their children to Catholic schools has been sustained, but at the same time a refusal to do so will not be considered an offense to the church, and absolution will not be denied those parents who seek other educational institutions for their children.

This decision is in the nature of a com-

This decision is in the nature of a com-promise on certain other propositions and is believed to have been based on numerous letters from bishops of this country.

The present endorsement of the pope is also said to be a re-endorsement of the posi-tion of Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul which was presented before the papal throne in Rome and is known as the liberal school of the American church.

After the appointment of Archoishop Satolli as ablegate to this country, with full plenary powers, the pope issued an order that the decrees of the plenary council held m Baltimore in 1834 shall be in force as follows: Command to Catholic Parents. "Not only out of our paternal love do we exhort Catholic parents, but we command them by all the authority we possess to preserve a truly Christian and Catholic education for the beloved offspring given them of God, born again in baptism unto Christ, and destined for heaven to shield and se-cure them throughout childhood and youth from the dangers of a merely worldly edu-cation, and, therefore, to send them to parochial or other truly Catholic schools."

Mgr. Satolii Endorse L Under the ruling of Pope Leo, which has been in force for some time, bishops are permitted to enter into such agreement and arrangement with the civil authorities as are best calculated to preserve the morals of the children and teach them to become good Christians.

Mgr. Satolli is considerably clated over the endorsement of his propositions and was congratulated by Bishops Scannell and
