Ira Jones had some trouble with Frank Cooper a few months ago as the result of an alleged intimacy on the part of Cooper with Jones' wife. On trial Cooper was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and spend fifteen days in the county jail. Yesterday morning Jones commeaced suit in the district court to recover $10,000 damages from Cooper for the alienation of his wife's affections. All parties are from Neola.

In spite of the duliness of the times there In spite of the duliness of the times there is a good deal of building going on in various parts of the city, and more yet will be done in the near fature. E. A. Moorehouse has just had plans drawn for a new frame house on Frank street to cost $2,000. A. E. Brock will build another to cost $3,000 on Binff street just west of John Bennet's residence on Willow avenue. Thomas Pelling will put up an $800 frame cottage on East Pierce street just above L. A. Casper's house.

Mrs. Fannie Smith, interferced in a payish

Mrs. Fannie Smith interfered in a boyish fight yesterday afternoon and is now under arrest for assault and battery. Her boy was engaged in a squabble with a number of others and she undertook a contract to settle them all. Among the crowd was a small sen of Officer Covalt of the police force. She picked him out and winding her delicate fingers about his jugular, proceeded to choke him. Covalt happened to be at home and rescued his son from what he is sure would have been Mrs. Smith's death grip in another minute. The boy's neck was found to be bady lacerated and was bleeding profusely. An information was filed against Mrs. Smith in Justice Vien's court.

Superintendent Stone and Motorman Parr Indicted by the Grand Jury.

BOTH ARE CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Three Counts in the Bill Against the Super-Intendent-Quickly Arrested by the Sheriff and Promptly Released on Bail-The Details.

The grand jury, which has been holding a special session for several days past, returned its final report yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock and was discharged by Judgo Deemer. Two indictments were returned, and they were the two that the Council Bruffs public has been looking for anxiously ever since the Main street motor tragedy in which E. F. Holmes lost his life. The jury made an exhaustive investigation of the facts, and about forty witnesses testified so that there can be no complaint that the work was not thoroughly done. The two parties indicted were A. K. Stone, the superintendent of the motor company, and Herman Parr, who ran the car which collided with the Burlington freight. Stone is indicted on three counts, the indictment charging him with gross and criminal negligence in failing to make proper rules for operating the trains so as to insure the public safety, and for falling to compel the men who ran the trains to stop at railway crossings and flag their trains. Both men are indicted for manslaughter.

Shoriff Hazen arrested Stone at the office and boarding a motor, paid fare for himself and his passenger up town. At the same time Deputy Sheriff O'Brien started out to get Parr, who was running an Omaha motor. He put him under arrest but allowed him to run his train until he was relieved by another motorman. Whether he paid fare for himself and his prisoner while he was waiting for the relief has not been ascertained. Both men were taken to the office of the county clerk, where their bonds were fixed at $1,500 each. John T. Stewart, the president of the company, signed the bond in each

Conneil Bluffs. WENT TO ILLINOIS.

Corse Payton, an Actor Wanted in Council Bluffs, Skips for Illinois.

S. T. Smith, a traveling man who makes his headquarters in this city, has been tearing up a good deal of ground of late over what he claims is the kidnaping of his two children, Florence and Sammy, aged 8 and 6 years respectively. Smith travels on the road selling electric belts, and as his business kept him away from home nearly all the time he hired Winnie McDonala to take care of the children and to make his electric belts in the meantime. His chituren are considerably better known than he to the public of Council Bluffs on account of their proficiency in dancing as they have appeared on the local stage a number of times, always making great hits.

About a month ago the Corse Payton Comedy company was at Dohany's, and during their engagement little Florence did a spe-cialty act at one of the performances that took the eye of the manager to such an ex-tent that he made an offer for the services of the two children and their nurse. The offer was accepted and the three left with the company, with the understanding that the engagement was only to last three weeks, inless the children wanted to make it longer it the end of the time specified.

at the end of the time specified.

Smith had been away from home and, according to the story told by Miss McDonaid, had neglected the children shamefully, at one time failing to write home for more than seven weeks. About the 1st of April he sent $10 home. Of this amount Miss McDonald used $9 in buying material for more belts, and had only $1 left with which to buy the necessaries of life for herseif and the children. She wrote to him repeatedly for more money, but he failed to send it, and she was money, but he failed to send it, and she was About two weeks ago Smith foundout that Contrary to the usual custom among officials, the chief replied by wire that he could not arrest him, as there was no charge mentioned. He volunteered the information, however, that Payton would not leave.

Hazen left for Des Moines, and when he arrived there was surprised to learn that about an hour before he reached the city, Payton and his company had left the city for Bloomington, Ill., where they had an engagement of a week to fulfill.

trouble was the announcement that ex-Congressman Thomas Bowman had espoused the cause of A. W. Rickman, who is the latest candidate for the place to come to the front. This was followed quickly by another announcement to the effect that Mr. Bowman had sold his interest in the Globe, the official organ of the democracy, and that Mr. Rickman was the purchaser. It was known several months ago that Bowman was very anxious to sell out, but the man Man of Destiny to Press His Luck to the Utmost Limit.

was very anxious to sell out, but the man was very anxious to sell out, but the man who would buy his interest did not seem to be forthcoming. When these two reports were made, one right on the heels of the other, it did not take the democrats who had been favoring the candidacy of some other man long to surmise that there had been something in the nature of a seal between Howman and Rickman he which the former GROVER'S FRIENDS SAY HE'LL RUN AGAIN

It Will Be Easy Enough to Overcome Tammany Antipathy, They Say-Possibilities of Carlisle and Gresham Being Candidates Discussed.

CHICAGO, June 26 .- The Record's Washington correspondent telegraphs his paper this morning thus:

something in the nature of a seal between Bowman and Riekman by which the former was to endorse Riekman's candidacy with the administration and Riekman was to buy the Globe at its owner's figures. Up to within the last few days it was commonly supposed that S. B. Wadsworth held the inside track in the race for the postoffice, and his friends lost no time in letting their wrath come to the surface. In this they were ably assisted by the anti-Bowman faction of democracy, which has been very poverful in a number of election campaigns and things took on an intensely lurid hue.

The report that there was any deal be-There are friends of Mr. Cleveland who do not hesitate to say that he will be put in nomination again. To the suggestion of the third-term antipathy supposed to be held by Tammany people the answer is made that another election The report that there was any deal be-tween Bowman and Riekman is denied em-phatically by Judge J. E. F. McGee, who occuwill not be a third consecutive term, the intervention of Mr. Harrison rendering phatically by Judge J. E. F. McGee, who occupies a position of vantage on the inside. He states that after Bowman had sold out his paper to his partner, J. B. Weaver, he came to him and offered him his support if he would become a candidate for the postmastership. But McGee was not thirsting for office just at that time and he refused Bowman's assistance. He is positive that if Bowman had sold out his paper at that time to Riekman with any provisions on the side relative to the postoffice he would not have been able to offer him his support so unreservedly as he did. He also says that it was not for some time after Bowman sold out to Weaver that Riekman bought in.

Riekman corroborates this statement and scouts as ridiculous the idea that there was any deal between himself and Bowman. He that objection practically void. gentlemen who talk in this way for Mr. Cleveland belong to New York state and have been identified with Mr. Cleveland's fortunes since he was governor. They are disposed of resent the idea that there are presidential candidates among the members of the present cabinet, but they are forced to admit that either Gresham or Carlisle would have a strong following in the convention. Among Kentuckians Carlisle for the presidency is announced and no secret is made of the intention to give him the delegation from that state, if possible. But this is on the theory that Mr. Cleveland's present term will also states that in his opinion E. S. Gilbert, a third applicant for the position, had a better chance of success than Wadsworth, but in an unwary moment admitted that he thought the honor lay between himself and Wadsworth. From this it may be seen that Rickman, who is not in the habit of talking miles. end his public career, and that to propose Mr. Carlisle for Mr. Cleveland's successor is not disloyalty to the presi-

The Gresham boom, if such it can be called, has less positiveness in it. In fact Mr. Gresham's future is discussed in a speculative way. The friends of Mr. Gresham say that if the general is not appointed to the supreme bench, after Cleveland-whom the Gresham men also regard as being out of the race—he is the one candidate who can draw more strength from the republican side, while holding the democratic vote. The recent illness and prospective retirement of Justice Blatchford points out a way for Gresham to the supreme bench, and as he is not a man of fortune, nor one whose ambitions would not be satisfied with the highest judicial position, it is admitted to be possible that he will thus be taken away from among the presidential candidates

It will be noticed that in this gossip only the names of those directly connected with the present administration are used. No note is taken of outside candidates, who, in fact, have nothing to do with this interesting political situ-ation, it being held that the democratic candidate for successor to Mr. Cleveland will be a member of this administration.
