N. N. Norton, a South Omaha man, was arrested yesterday with a horse and colt in his possession that he fails to account for his possession that he falls to account for satisfactorily. The arrest was made at the request of a man named Clark, who lives at Carson. According to Norton's story, he left a horse with Clark, who is his nephew, and Clark traded off the horse for a mare and colt. After ascertaining which was the mare and colt Norton went to the pasture at night and took them out by the light of the night and took them out by the light of the moon. Clark claimed that the horse he traded off was his, at least to the extent of $15, which he claimed for the trouble and expense of keeping him.

A party of young people of Council Bluffs inaugurated a series of parties at Manawa last evening. Mrs. Fannie Smith appeared before Justice Mrs. Fannie Smith appeared before Justice Vien yesterday morning and entered a plea of guilty to the charge of assaulting a small son of Officer Grant. When the case came to trial it was fand to be less serious than was at first reported, and the story as told by Mrs. Smith showed that the boy got no more than half of what he deserved. He more than half of what he deserved. used a great deal of vile and profane language toward her in which he was assisted by his father, and when she was pro tecting her son from a large iron toother seized her wrist in his teeth and bit her till od came. A nominal fine was assessed against her.

Two small boys got into a boat at Cut-Off yesterday and were having a great time when they were discovered by the owner of the boat, John Semple, and ordered to get out. This they refused to do, accompanying their refusal with sundry wavings of the fingers from the ends of their noses. This angered Semple, and he made a dash for the boys, capturing one of them, a son of Julius Kruger. He forthwith ducked him in the water by way of showing him who was the general manager of the boat. Kruger's father filed an information against him, charging him with assault and battery, and Justice Field went to Cut-Off to hear the At the conclusion he taxed up a $5 fine and the costs against Semple.

Two men were passing the Omaha saloon, at the corner of Broadway and Ninth street last evening, when one of them took it into his kead that a third man, who happened to be sitting out in front of the saloon, needed doing up. He accordingly proceeded to the work, but met with an unexpected obstacle. The third party refused to be done up, but on the contrary knocked both of his assail-ants down. They were both arrested and taken to the city jail, where they were booked with a disturbance of the peace. One of them refused to give his name and was so contrary that the jailor was compelled to use considerable force before he could be gotten inside the cell. The other gave his name as Phillip Berka.

BEE NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

John Beima Causes Trouble by Misunderstanding a Court Order.

HE WAS A LITTLE LATE IN REPORTING

Charged with Attempt to Kill the Defendant-Palls to Put in an Appearance and His Ball is Declared Forfetted.

When Judge Deemer opened yesterday's session of the district court in the morning it was expected that the trial of John Bejma, for attemping to kill John Sharpe, would be resumed. But Bejma, or "Bejim miny," as he has been dubbed by the people at the court house, failed to show up and, after waiting an hour, the court declared his bond forfeited and ordered the case continued until the next term. Everyone supposed that the defendant had skipped out to avoid prosecution, but a few minutes after the order of the court had been made he lessurely walked into the court room. He stated that he had misunderstood the time at which court was to open, and thus accounted for his absence. John Linder had signed his bond for $500, but it is hardly likely that the court will insist on his paying that amount, inasmuch as the defendant is again in custody, but he will probably be released upon the payment of the costs. In continuing the case until next term Judge Decmer announced that his bond would be fixed at $1,000, the same amount as at first, before it was reduced in accordance with Benjma's request.

BOUND TO GET AWAY.

McGinty and Meredith Make Another Attempt at Jail Breaking.

Thomas McGinty and George Meredith, the two thieves who were arrested the other day, were sent down to the county fail yes terday for a thirty-day term. Just after they left a discovery was made that showed that their failure to break out of jail two or three days ago by cutting a hole in the rear wall of the building had not cooled their ardor in the least. Deputy Marshal Ander-son was looking about the corners of the jail corridor when he found the remains of au old pair of shoes. They had been cut in pieces and the steel springs had been torn out of the soles. He at once began a search for the springs, and finally found them hidder away in the cell which had been occupied by the two would-be jail breakers. They were tied together by a string, and had evidently been put away with a view to their future use. The shoes were identified as those worn by one of the men while working on the chain gang. It was evident that they had been cut to pieces with some sharp in-strument, and after making an investigation Anderson found that McGinty and Mcredith had borrowed a knife from a colored man, it having been smuggled in in some way. The springs were of the best steel, and would have made saws that would have taken them out of any jail in christendom. After their thirty days in the county jail have ex-pired it is likely that an information will be filed charging them with malicious destruction of property in breaking through the jail

New Bridge for the Park.

Morris Bros., opposite post-

The park commissioners are making some improvements in Fairmount park that will be greatly appreciated by the people of Council Bluffs and Omaha who are num. bered among the regular patrons of the prettiest park in the country. A new road is about to be laid out leading from the top of the bluff overlooking the city to the valley below, winding in and out among the trees and finally reaching the lower part of the park in a circuitous manner, terminating not far from the band house. A fine iron bridge is also to be put in over the motor cut and another road will be laid out connecting with the head of Park avenue. This bridge will be located about 100 feet to the west of the one now in use, and will only be about thirty feet above the level of the "ground floor" of the park, while the other bridge is about seventy feet in height. The foundation of the new bridge is already being laid, and the iron work is expected to arrive here this week, after which the work will be prosecuted as rapidly as possible. The road and the bridge will add about a mile and a half to the length of the Fairmount park drives, and will cortainly make the park even morn and will certainly make the park even more popular than it now is for summer evening drives. The park commissioners have had this road in mind for years past, and have only been waiting until the finances would justify the expenditure before making it.

McClure, the Omaha Train Robber, Makes

a Confession to Chief Scanlan. Chief Scanlan made a trip yesterday to Omaha to take a look at the three men who were captured there while trying to hold up a train. The visit was made for the purpose of ascertaining what grounds there might be for the suspicion that one or more of the robbers had been implicated in the attempt that was made the other night to rob the Kansas City mail train at the Wabash crossing in this city. McClure made a clean breast of the whole affair, and threw light on several features that remained clouded in mystery until now. He informed Scanlan that not one of the five men whom he (Scanlan) had in custody were implicated in the attempted robbery but that cated in the attempted robbery, but that they were all "hobo tramps." He stated that they all happened to be on the tender together when the shooting took place, but said that he himself did all the shooting. McClure has a fresh bullet wound in the arm, which he acknowledges to have re-ceived that night from one of the bullets fired by the fireman.

PEARY PREPARED TO SAIL.

The Lieutenant Starts for the North Pole this Week on the Falcon. PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—The steamship Falcon, which will carry Lieutenant Robert E. Peary and his party to Greenland, left here today for New York. Lieutenant Peary expects to have his preparations for his expedition to the north pole completed in a few days and intends to start for the Arctic regions this week on the Falcon, which has been especially prepared for the trip. The party will not number more than twelve to lifteen. Some of his associates in the former expedition will go with him, including Evrud, who was the lieutenant's companion on his long sledge The expedition will cost about $25,000, and the expense will be borne by Lieutenant Peary from the proceeds of lectures he delivered for this purpose. is reported that Lieutenant Peary's in tention is to determine the detached land masses found by him on his former trip to the north of the main land of Greenland and locate the coast line of Greenland from Independence bay southward to Cape Bismarck. He will go as far north as there is land. Dr. Edward Vincent of Springfield, Ill., who will accompany Lieutenant Peary and his party as surgeon in place of Dr. Cook of Brooklyn, who was on the last trip, is here. It is understood that Mrs. Peary will ac company the lieutenant, besides several of his former servants. Captain Henry Bartlett will be in command of the Fal

Strange Case of Forgery. JACKSON, Miss., June 27 .- W. Fortenbury, who was placed in the penitentiary here for a term of two years, was convicted of a forgery of a most peculiar kind. He was elected a justice of the peace of Marion county. Being a poor man, he had considerable trouble in making his bond. In riding over the county for signatures to the document, which was printed on poor paper, the bond was mutilated. On this account he copied the bond, signatures and all and filed it. While it was admitted nothing felonious was interfied, it was a clear forgery and he was convicted, the judge giving him about the smallest sentence. Persons whom he had angerd in deciding against discovered the forgery. Strong efforts will be made to in duce the governor to pardon him.

Look Out for Mad Dogs.

Several cases of rables have developed in South Omaha within the last few days. Two dogs were killed yesterday and two more yesterday. Owners of dogs should watch them very closely these hot days and keep them off of the streets as much as possible. While Dr. Erahout was passing down Twenty-fourth street this morning a large dog suffering from hydrophobia rushed out and, grabbing hold of the doctor's little and, grabbing hold of the doctor's little house dog, tore it to pieces before the huge whelp could be driven off. The big dog was mad and run the streets for some time before being killed. D. Gray had a pet dog and cat that had played together for years. Yesterday morning he noticed them snapping at each other, and throwing water upon them, the both went into spasms, which was a sure sign that they had gong which was a sure sign that they had gone mad. He had them both shot at once. There are so many children playing about the streets in South Omaha all the time that too much care cannot be taken to prevent these mad animals from doing serious harm. The city dog catcher has a keen eye for all disorderly dogs these days, and if you do not want your canine killed you had better keep Simply Had a Spree. W. C. Gilmore came up from Albright with a few dollars Monday night and rounded up the town. He claimed to have brought $70 with him, but it is more likely the amount was $7, for when he was taken to the station house at an early hour yesterday he had $2.55 left. Gilmore claimed that he had been rolled by Jack Murphy, and Murphy, who had simply been enjoying himself with Gilmore, was also run in. Gilmore's purse was found in Murphy's possession, but he claims that it was given to him by the owner. All hands were simply full of booze, and as no complaint of larceny was lodged all the par ties were discharged.

A boy named Downs, living on Twenty fifth street between M and N, was bitten by a vicious dog owned by Mr. Golden last night. This is the second or third complaint that has been made to the police about this dog and it will be the last. The city dog catcher has been placed on his trail and the dog will be shot down at sight. The boy's was frightfully lacerated.

OWord was received yesterday from the secretary of agriculture at Washin ton that all the foremen in the tagging departments at the packing houses must be reduced to the rank and pay of the taggers. This is done to reduce the expense of the department. Those affected by the order are John Zellers and John McCombs. Julius Rhodes. also a foreman, who was appointed under the former administration, was dropped from the pay roll entirely. The foremen have been getting $1,000 a year and they will in the future only receive $720. The work mapped out for the foremen will now have done by the veterinarians and their as sistants.

Cora Tanner Still Colonel Sina's Wife. NEW YORK, June 27,—Judge Clement of the city court, Brooklyn, has rendered a decision refusing to annul the mar-riage of Colonel William Sinn, the theatrical manager, to Cora S. Tanner the actress. Sinn had alleged as ground for his application that Miss Tanner' divorce, secured in Chicago from Dr. C. Fred Farlin, was not legal. The case will be appealed.

Cut to Pieces by the Blades of the Steamer's Screws or Scalded. NEW YORK, June 27 .- A special cable from Tripoli, Syria, gives the first full account of the sinking of the flagship

About 3 o'clock last Thursday after-noon the English fleet came in sight of Elmina. It was coming from the northeast and making directly for the harbor. The five big ironclads, Victoria, Cam-perdown, Edinburg, Nile and Sansparell, were drawn up in full front. The Victoria was in the center, the Camperdown on her left. When they were within five miles of shore Vice Admiral Sir George Tryon signaled to turn and form in double line. This meant that the Victoria and Camperdown were to go ahead a little and describe a turn-the Victoria turning to the left and the Camperdown to the right-then they would advance side by side in the direction from which they had come. The others would swing into double column. When the order was given the distance between the ships was less than two cable lengths. The execution of the order was easy enough, but extremely difficult for the Burlington Buildings a Model Victoria and Camperdown. In turning their brows were to pass within a few fathoms of each other, even if the movement was executed with the greatest precision. This movement is rarely made and is chiefly for the purpose of expeditiously away from shoaling waters. Whether because Admiral Markham of the Camperdown did not believe that this movement was to be tried when the ships were so close together, or because he thought Admiral Tryon had miscalculated, he did not set about, but signaled that he did not understand.

Victoria. It is as follows:

training the ship commanders to move

It Was a Fatal Delay.

The Victoria and the other vessels had not hesitated. The Victoria began to turn at once, as she still held to the signal. The Camperdown no longer hesitated, but also began to turn. The brief delay, however, had been fatal. The Victoria had nearly turned and the Comperdown, swinging in around, bore down upon her. The discipline was perfect, Admiral Tryon and the officers setting the men an example. As all the other vessels were moving to get in double line behind the two leaders they were bearing down upon the entangled ship and the catastrophe was unavoidable.

As soon as she was struck the Victoria began to forge straight for the shore under full steam. About ten minutes after the blow the Victoria, having got something like two miles nearer shore from the scene of the collision, all at once leaned away over to the starboard and with a great roll and plunge, buried her bow beneath the calm surface of the sea. It was almost instantaneous. There was no chance of escape. Those on deck were plunged immediately into the Cut and Scalded.

A moment more and a new peril, more horrible, descended upon them. The great engines, deep in the heart of the hull and inclosed in water tight compartments, were still throbbing at full speed and the great steel flanges of the twin screws were whirling up in the air. As the vessel sank, the screws came nearer and nearer to the surface and drifted into the midst of struggling human beings.

The vessel sank slowly, and when the screws were low enough to begin to whirl in the water again, the suction had increased until there was a deepening vortex like a maelstrom. At the bottom of this maelstrom the screws were revolving like circular knives. The poor creatures battled in vain against he suction. In a moment or so the knives disappeared and the vortex began to close up. The ship was be-neath the surface just as the whirl was shallowed almost to the surface.

Then there was a muffled sound of thunder, the waters were tossed up and steam burst from them. Again shricks and screams burst from swimmers. The boilers had exploded the sea had rushed into the furnace and the swimmers were beating waves of scalding water. Thus, in less than ten minutes, death in its most awful form attacked the officers and crew of the Victoria-death by drowning, death by the knife-like screws and death by scalding water. With the first under plunge of the Victoria, all the boats were hauled away from the other ships and came straining over the calm sea to save the strugglers These boats were soon picking up those fortunate ones who had got out of reach of the terrible vortex. Admiral Tryon stuck on the bridge and refused to leave 1t. Just before the Victoria made her under lunge he saw what was to happen and issued an order for every man to save himself, but the order never got beyond the bridge.

Here, running sores formed which would scab over, but would break immediately on moving the leg. My mother tried everything she could-think of, but all was without avail. Living Poems Better Than All the Ballads.

of Convenience There is not a vilinge in the United States where the Wells & Richardson

Company is not known. And the demand for their lactated food has been so widespread that it has led them to establish branches in foreign countries. A large and prosperous business is done by their branch house in Montreal.

From their London branch inctated food is sent to all parts of the world, a large trade being done in Southern Africa and in India, and an Australian branch is located at Sydney, N. S. W. From their contrai offices in Burling-ton, Vt., they send their pure food almost everywhere that the sun shines, to gladden the hearts of those blessed with children. It was Longfellow who said: Ye are better than all the ballads That ever were sunt or said For ye are living poems, And all the rest are dead.

And a visit to the big establishment in Burlington, where as the hot weather approaches and infant troubles multiply every effort is made to supply the increased demand for lactated food, gives one the impression that the employes and employed are in full sympathy with the parents, who are their customers. The working force of the company numbers 200 men and girls saying nothing of nearly 100 others in outside employments whose services are constantly required. And there is a singular air of contentedness about them. The friendliest relations exist between the company and the employes. They have their Saturday half-holidays; the buildings are models of arrangement, neat, light and airy, and as convenient as can be made and no one stems to feel that he is doing any druggery. It is a place where willing hands find plenty to do.

It was no longer ago than 1885 that the company first became interested in the manufacture of sugar of milk, which is the basis of the infant's natural food. The company showed its enterprise in locating its co-operating establishment for the making of this sugar in Illinois, where a sufficient supply of pure milk could best be found. Preceding the year 1885 sugar of milk had been made exclusively in Europe, and although many attempts had been made in this country to manufacture it from the whey of our cheese factories, every attempt had met with disastrous failure, and much money had been lost. Unde-terred by other failures, however, it was determined, with the assistance of Prof. Sabin of the University of Vermont, to enter upon the trial of a new cess. This proved very successful. and for several years large quantities of this article have been manufactured. Under the advice of come of the best medical authorities in the country, the firm embarked in the manufacture of a food for infants and invalids, of which this pure American milk sugar should be the basis; and again a professor in Vermont's famous university became interested, and has from first to last had direct supervision of the food. This is called lactated food and has
