Charles E. Dolan Resents Albert Einler's Disposition to Prod Him with a Pole-Sent a Bullet Through His Windplpe.

Lancoln, July 13 .- [Special to THE BEE.] -Albert Eisler, a Gorman carpenter, was shot and badly wounded early this morning at the Shakespeare saloon, Thirteenth and P. streets, by Charles E. Dolan, an engineer, who was evicently crazed with drink. At a few minutes before 8 o'clock Ben Floyd, the bartender, and Eisler were engaged in chasing out some files, using in the process towels placed on the ends of long poles. Dolan appeared at the door while they were thus engaged and asked if he could get a drink. The bartender seeing he was drunk told him he couldn't, and he shouted back:

"Do you fellows want some money?"
Floyd replied that he guessed be could use a little in his business. While this conversation was transpiring Eisler approached the door, and as he brought his pole down muscles in the right side, from whence it was extracted. Another shot tore a long scar in the ceiling, but by this time the fellow's thirst for gore was exhausted, and putting the gun in his pocket he walked across the street. Officer Morrissey was near by, and took him in charge. On the way to the station he insisted that the officer was the man who did the shooting, and as proof repreted to the gun the officer. and as proof pointed to the gun the officer had taken from him. Soon after his incar-ceration he fell into a stupor, and could not be roused sufficiently to talk connectedly

CENTRAL CHAUTAUQUA.

Rev. Dr. Franklin on "The Modern Jew and His Beilef."

FREMONT, July 13 .- [Special to THE BEE.] -The great attractions at the Central Chautauqua assembly today were the able addresses of Rev. Dr. Leo Franklin of Omaha this afternoon on "The Modern Jew and his Belief," and the one this evening by Colonel George W. Bain of Kentucky, "Prose Ballads of Memory." The attend-ance is steadily increasing, many coming to spend the last week, which will be the best one of the three, who could not spare more time in the tented city. The success of the Chautanqua financially and otherwise for 1893 has already been assured.

Dr. Franklin begun his remarks by saying that all the prejudice that had existed against the Jews in centuries past was due to a misconception of Judaism and that therefore the opportunity of speaking on the subject assigned was a grand one, mas-much as the enlightenment of the masses on this subject would tend to decrease the pre-judice. "Modern Judaism, or more properly reform Judaism, is distinguished from an-cient or orthodox Judaism in that the former observes the spirit of the law, while the latter laid stress upon the observation of the very letter. With this change in the interpretation of scriptures there entered into the life of the Jewish people a mere progressive spirit, an openness to reason before unknown and an abrogation of unmeaning ceremonies. In its striking outlines reform Judaism is a religion of deed and not of creed and in this resembles the religion of the prophets.

"We believe that every man of genius is inspired. We believe that every man who devotes himself unto the good of others is devotes himself unto the good of others is inspired. We believe that every man whose thoughts are liberal and whose heart is pure and unselfish is inspired. A Homer and a Virgil, a Dante and a Mitton, a Spencer and a Stewart Mill, a Morse and an Edison are as truly inspired with a mission from on high as ever was a Moses, a David or an Elijah. That we admit this does not curtail our admiration for these characters of an our admiration for these characters of cient lore. Theirs was a noble destiny and well did they fulfill it. They were the first upon whom fell the mantle of inspiration, but they have handed it down to future gen-erations. It was also said that the Jew does not represent a race, but simply a religious community. In all else he is one with those in whose midst he dwells. Upon Jesus the Jews look as a great and good man, a reformer who lived far in advance of his age, and the influence of his teachings has been a potent and important factor in shaden potent and important factor in shaping mod-ern civilization."

Funeral of Hon. T. B. Stevenson. NEBRASKA CITY, July 13 .- [Special Tele gram to THE BRE.]-The funeral of the late Hon. T. B. Stevenson occurred this afternoon, and was largely attended. The members of the Otoe and Cass county bar, city council and Knights of Pythias, attended in a body. After a culogy by Rev. G. C. Hall the body was interred in Wyuka cemetery. The procession was one of the largest ever seen in this city. Business houses were all closed during the services.

For several months several persons have been making a determined fight against Ellis & Shultz, a firm of flastings avenue saloon men. The latter were arrested, charged with selling liquor to minors, flued, and appealed to the district court. Meanwhile a resolution was introduced in the city council looking toward a revocation of the license, and unsuccessful attempts were made by the saloon men to obtain an injunction preventing such action. The attorney for Ellis and his partner served The attorney for Ellis and his partner served notice on the council on Monday night that this morning another application for an injunction would be made before Judge Beall. When the time for the hearing arrived it was announced that the saloon men had taken advantage of the repeated delays by the council to sell the entire stock to a man from Arapahoe. But the council concluded to revoke the license tonight.

Mayor Bemis and His Iron Hand Veto Another Bill-Protest Against the Removal of an Arc Light-De-

talls of the Session.

At the adjourned session of the council held last night, the twelve members who were present cut loose and started in to slash the scalps of the members of the Board of Public Works.

Mr. Steel introduced the following resolution which was unanimously adopted:

tion which was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The city has not been able to let any contracts for permanent sidewalks since June I, on account of no specifications being approved; and
Whereas, The city council has unanimously adopted a resolution concerning said specifications; and
Whereas, A majority of the members of the Board of Public Works have refused to obey the mandates of the council, expressed in said resolution, to the great detriment of the city; therefore, be it
Resolved, That if the Board of Public Works does not comply with the directions of the city council in this matter and have the specifications prepared in accordance with the wishes of the council by Tuesday next that the judiciary committee of the city council be directed to prepare charges against the said members of the Board of Public Works who refuse to obey the instructions, with a view to expelling them from office and thus prevent them from clogging the wheels of progress.

The council then paid its respects to the squatters on the bottoms and gave them a scare. By the terms of a resolution these squatters and their habitations were declared to be a menace to the public health.

squatters and their habitations were de-clared to be a menace to the public health. Then, in unmistakable language, it was pro-posed to direct the street commissioner to tear down all of the shantles in the district bounded by Jackson street, the Union Pa-cific railroad bridge, Sixth street and the Missouri river, and remove the occupants to the poor farm, calling in the police force of the city to assist in the eviction.

The members of the council were in no haste to take action, so the matter, was rehaste to take action, so the matter was re ferred to the committee on police.

Increase of Interest on Bonds. When the proposition to increase the rate of interest on the city bonds, from 41/2 to 5 per cent was submitted, Mr. Wheeler, of the finance committee, stated that on account of the absence of the city attorney, he had not been able to make his report.

Mr. Hascall opposed the reduction of the rate of interest. He declared that it was a rate of interest. He declared that it was a direct attack upon the credit of the city; thousands of men had taken their money from the banks and many of them were ready to take blocks of bonds. He urged that it was felly to loan the city funds to the banks at 2 per cent and then go out and sell 5 per cent bonds.

Mr. Saunders was of the opinion that Mr. Hasvall did not take the stringency of the Mr. Saunders was of the opinion that Mr. Hascall did not take the stringency of the money market into consideration. It was better policy, he said, to pay a higher rate of interest, get money and furnish the laborers employment than to suspend all public work until another season. He scouted the idea that there were Omaha capitalists who would take the bonds at 4½ per cent, for they could loan their funds at 10 per cent.

Harris & Co. of Chicago wrote, saying that if the interest could be increased to 5 per cent, they would send a man here to look the ground over, but that they would not touch the bonds if they drew but 4½ per cent interest.

cent interest. W. B. Taylor wrote that he had corresponded with forty-five of his customers with reference to the sale of the $150,000 of bonds. None of them wanted 4% per cent paper, but if the rate was increased to 5 per cent inter-est, some of them might take the whole est, some of them might take the whole issue.

Mr. Prince, in speaking upon the question, said that the difference in interest would be about $750 per year. He thought the best plan would be to pay that amount to feed and clothe possibly 100 families during the coming winter.

Upon being called to the floor City Treasurer Bolln said that it would be impossible to sell a $1\frac{1}{2}$ per cent bond. He had corresponded with all of the bond buyers, but none of them would take them at $1\frac{1}{2}$ in bulk or in small blocks. Mr. Munro urged that the only way to start the public improvements was to re-issue the bonds at 5 per cent and get the noney into Omaha as soon as possible contended that there was money in the city to take the bonds, but the bankers would not let it go. The banks had the money, but their policy was too niggardly to allow them to do anything for the city. They had broken one bank and a score of business houses simply that they had broken one bank and a score of business houses simply that they had broken one bank and a score city. They had broken one bank and a score of business houses, simply that they might draw more money into their own vaults. If there was time to make the experiment, he would like to see the city withdraw its $575,-000 loaned at 2 per cent and test the result. Mr. Hascall still contended that the bond bould be floated at 41% per cent if the experiment was made.

Mr. Wheeler said that the contractors had been to the banks, offering to put up the bonds as security for loans, but not a bank in the city would loan a dollar on the paper at the rate of interest it was drawing. Mr. McLearie urged that it was a business Mr. McLearle urged that it was a business proposition and if the city could not get money it might as well go out of busi-ness. It was absurd to follow out the Has-call idea and try to peddie out the bonds in $100 lots, Men had to be furnished with work and the only way it could be secured was to reissue the bonds.

Mr. Munro thought that it was strange that a city with $575,000 in the bank should suspend all public works. That was too large a surplus, he said, to lie idle, and, for ing out the line of his argument, he moved that the prosecution of the public works on Mr. Wheeler opposed this, saying that the money belonged to the several funds of the city and could not be used for the construction of exercise the exercise the construction of exercise the exercise that the exercise th of sewers and pavements.

Mr. Steel felt positive that if the ordinance was introduced providing for a 5 per cent rate of interest, work could be commenced, warrants could be drawn and they would be paid and the amount taken from the proceeds of the bonds when they were sold. In the most emphatic terms Mr. Wheeler leclared that he would get out an injunction before any work was comme..ced. Repealed the Ordinance.

At the end of a lengthy discussion it was decided to repeal the ordinance providing for a 4½ per cent rate of interest. The committee on finance was instructed to prepare an ordinance fixing the rate at 5 per cent, Instead of the former figure.

This question having been disposed of,
Mr. Munro's motion to start the public

Mr. Manro's motion to start the public works, and issue warrants against the funds in the banks was taken up and passed, Mr. Wheeler alone voting "No."

Fully fifty persons protested against the removal of the arc light from Twenty-fifth and Chicago streets to Twenty-fifth and Davenport streets. That settled the matter, and the light will remain where formerly located.

Robert E. Duncan wrote to the council. saying that Major Furay had requested him to turn over all papers and records pertain-ing to plumbing and street excavations. He ing to plumbing and street excavations. He asked for instructions as to what course he should pursue. Furay is the member of the Board of Public Works by virtue of the provisions of the new charter, which relegated Mr. Duncan to private life and made one of the members of the board a sewer and plumbing inspector. Not knowing just what to do in the premises, Mr. Duncan's letter was referred to the committee on sewerage.

Mayor Bemis vetoed the resolution to pay Charles A. Austin $700 damages on a lot in Shriver Place, caused by the change of grade of a street. The veto was sustained. Property owners waived damages and petitioned for the grading of Locust from Twenty-first to Twenty-fourth street. This was referred.

What the Minneapolls Mills Have Done During the Past Week. The Market. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 13 .- The Northwestern Miller in its weekly review says: It is seldom that the mills make as poor a showing as to flour ground as they did last week. The output was only 133,260 barrels, averaging 23,210 barrels daily, against 159,-745 barrels the week before, 147,390 barrels the corresponding time in 1892 and 189,265 barrels in 1891. The small production last week was largely due to the Fourth coming on Tuesday, all except two of the mills being shut down that day, and a good many on Monday as well. This week will show a heavy increase, as some of the mills whose turn it would now be to shut down on the run every other week are under full head-run every other week are under full headway.

The number running Wednesday was fitteen and they were producing at the rate of 24,000 barrels per twenty-four hours.

If there is any change to be noted in the flour market it is in the direction of quieter trade. Some of those firms who do a good deal of export business report reduction in sales in that quarter. The domestic trade has been poor, and confined largely to regular customers buying in small lots, but there is no change. The foreigners continue to bid for all grades, even including bran and shorts, but their views are usually so much lower than those of the seller as to preclude very free trading. A number of firms are sold ahead on local orders and direct their efforts more especially toward moving patents. The foreign inquiry for low grades helps to keep prices up on that product. The direct export shipments by the mills last week were only 46,620 barrels, against 76,106 the preceeding week.

The majority of deaths of children under five years is directly traceable to the ignorance and mismanagement of mothers. But it is being better and better known that the dreadful scourge, cholera infantum, and similar summer troubles may be prevented by the use of lactated food. In many communities it has reduced the ratio of mortality of infants under five years. It has entered the practical working pharmacopoeia of thousands of physicians. It cannot be too often said that it has sayed thousands of infants' lives and caused as many more to grow plump and active.
