

THE DAILY BEE.

E. ROSEWATER, Editor. PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING. TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION. Daily Bee (without Sunday) One Year, $ 8 00

OFFICES. Omaha, The Bee Building, South Omaha, corner 3rd and 25th Streets.

CORRESPONDENCE. All communications relating to news and editorial matter should be addressed: To the Editor.

BUSINESS LETTERS. All business letters and remittances should be addressed to The Bee Publishing Company.

THE BEE PUBLISHING COMPANY. SWORN STATEMENT OF CIRCULATION. State of Nebraska, County of Douglas.

THE BEE IN CHICAGO. The Daily and Sunday Bee is on sale in Chicago at the following places: Palmer House, Grand Pacific Hotel.

Average Circulation for June, 1893, 24,216. The New York Maritime Exchange has passed resolutions demanding the repeal of the Sherman silver purchase law.

THIS week's crop reports are on the whole favorable and indicative of general improvement. Good harvestings will be expected to exert a strengthening influence upon all the industrial and mercantile centers.

FARMERS everywhere will take great interest in the field tests of farm machinery now being made in connection with the agricultural exhibit at the World's fair.

AT a meeting of a prohibitionist mutual admiration society on Staten Island Sunday, Dr. Funk outgined Father McGlynn and Father McGlynn complimented Dr. Funk.

ONE of the Douglas county bonds valued at $10,000, which has been carried as a liability upon the county records since 1887 when it ceased to bear interest, seems to have dropped out of existence.

A STORY is running wild down east to the effect that Secretary Gresham will bid for the democratic nomination for president.

IT is a mistake to assume that the new railroad law will cause an average reduction of 20 per cent in existing freight rates in Nebraska.

AT the dictation of their owners, the railroads, two Lincoln newspapers are clamoring for a man from the western portion of the state for the supreme bench.

THE Santa Fe railroad will issue no more passes to the state officials of Kansas. For this resolve the road is to be commended.

THE coroner's jury investigating the World's fair holocaust of Monday last week has brought in a verdict holding the director of works, the builders of the fatal building and the fire marshal under bonds for action by the grand jury.

THE county agent for outside poor has made a report which shows that the indigent wards have cost the county $7,372.35 during six months of this year.

COMING TO THEIR SENSES.

The decision of the railway presidents to obey the spirit and letter of the new maximum freight rate law, which goes into effect in Nebraska next month, will be hailed with satisfaction by every resident within the state.

The railroads have been urged to take this step largely by considerations of their own best interests. Advice that obedience is the only policy consonant with their welfare has been offered by parties in no way hostile to the corporations affected.

Here, where public interests and railway policy coincide, the course adopted is the only rational course for the railroads to pursue.

The people have a right to take the presidents at their word and to regard the announcement as evidence of a sincere purpose to obey the law.

NEW LEADERS OF THE HOUSE. It is the consensus of opinion among those who have the most favorable opportunity of knowing what is proposed in democratic circles that in the organization of the next house of representatives new leaders will take the places of the men who were at the front in the last congress.

JUDICIOUS AND TIMELY COUNSEL. When people are under the influence of excitement and fear, the man who comes forward with calm counsel and rational admonition is a public benefactor.

DISPATCHES announce that when the railway commissioners of Iowa notified a certain company that it would give a hearing to complaints against a contemplated live stock rate it received a prompt reply stating that the objectionable rate had been withdrawn.

It is worthy of note that Iowa's deadly cholera closely follows the route of the Illinois Central railroad. The identity of paths may have been a coincidence; but it will probably be seized upon as confirmation of the theory that such pestilences are of electric origin and tend to follow the metallic pathways of the railway and the telegraph lines.

Nothing is more characteristic of the times in which we live than the constant multiplication of plans for promoting education. University extension is one of the best.

It is worthy of note that Iowa's deadly cholera closely follows the route of the Illinois Central railroad. The identity of paths may have been a coincidence; but it will probably be seized upon as confirmation of the theory that such pestilences are of electric origin and tend to follow the metallic pathways of the railway and the telegraph lines.

Nothing is more characteristic of the times in which we live than the constant multiplication of plans for promoting education. University extension is one of the best.

It is worthy of note that Iowa's deadly cholera closely follows the route of the Illinois Central railroad. The identity of paths may have been a coincidence; but it will probably be seized upon as confirmation of the theory that such pestilences are of electric origin and tend to follow the metallic pathways of the railway and the telegraph lines.

Nothing is more characteristic of the times in which we live than the constant multiplication of plans for promoting education. University extension is one of the best.

It is worthy of note that Iowa's deadly cholera closely follows the route of the Illinois Central railroad. The identity of paths may have been a coincidence; but it will probably be seized upon as confirmation of the theory that such pestilences are of electric origin and tend to follow the metallic pathways of the railway and the telegraph lines.

Nothing is more characteristic of the times in which we live than the constant multiplication of plans for promoting education. University extension is one of the best.

It is worthy of note that Iowa's deadly cholera closely follows the route of the Illinois Central railroad. The identity of paths may have been a coincidence; but it will probably be seized upon as confirmation of the theory that such pestilences are of electric origin and tend to follow the metallic pathways of the railway and the telegraph lines.

Nothing is more characteristic of the times in which we live than the constant multiplication of plans for promoting education. University extension is one of the best.

It is worthy of note that Iowa's deadly cholera closely follows the route of the Illinois Central railroad. The identity of paths may have been a coincidence; but it will probably be seized upon as confirmation of the theory that such pestilences are of electric origin and tend to follow the metallic pathways of the railway and the telegraph lines.

Nothing is more characteristic of the times in which we live than the constant multiplication of plans for promoting education. University extension is one of the best.

It is worthy of note that Iowa's deadly cholera closely follows the route of the Illinois Central railroad. The identity of paths may have been a coincidence; but it will probably be seized upon as confirmation of the theory that such pestilences are of electric origin and tend to follow the metallic pathways of the railway and the telegraph lines.

Nothing is more characteristic of the times in which we live than the constant multiplication of plans for promoting education. University extension is one of the best.

It is worthy of note that Iowa's deadly cholera closely follows the route of the Illinois Central railroad. The identity of paths may have been a coincidence; but it will probably be seized upon as confirmation of the theory that such pestilences are of electric origin and tend to follow the metallic pathways of the railway and the telegraph lines.

Nothing is more characteristic of the times in which we live than the constant multiplication of plans for promoting education. University extension is one of the best.

It is worthy of note that Iowa's deadly cholera closely follows the route of the Illinois Central railroad. The identity of paths may have been a coincidence; but it will probably be seized upon as confirmation of the theory that such pestilences are of electric origin and tend to follow the metallic pathways of the railway and the telegraph lines.

Nothing is more characteristic of the times in which we live than the constant multiplication of plans for promoting education. University extension is one of the best.

It is worthy of note that Iowa's deadly cholera closely follows the route of the Illinois Central railroad. The identity of paths may have been a coincidence; but it will probably be seized upon as confirmation of the theory that such pestilences are of electric origin and tend to follow the metallic pathways of the railway and the telegraph lines.

Nothing is more characteristic of the times in which we live than the constant multiplication of plans for promoting education. University extension is one of the best.

It is worthy of note that Iowa's deadly cholera closely follows the route of the Illinois Central railroad. The identity of paths may have been a coincidence; but it will probably be seized upon as confirmation of the theory that such pestilences are of electric origin and tend to follow the metallic pathways of the railway and the telegraph lines.

Nothing is more characteristic of the times in which we live than the constant multiplication of plans for promoting education. University extension is one of the best.

It is worthy of note that Iowa's deadly cholera closely follows the route of the Illinois Central railroad. The identity of paths may have been a coincidence; but it will probably be seized upon as confirmation of the theory that such pestilences are of electric origin and tend to follow the metallic pathways of the railway and the telegraph lines.

Nothing is more characteristic of the times in which we live than the constant multiplication of plans for promoting education. University extension is one of the best.

It is worthy of note that Iowa's deadly cholera closely follows the route of the Illinois Central railroad. The identity of paths may have been a coincidence; but it will probably be seized upon as confirmation of the theory that such pestilences are of electric origin and tend to follow the metallic pathways of the railway and the telegraph lines.

Nothing is more characteristic of the times in which we live than the constant multiplication of plans for promoting education. University extension is one of the best.

It is worthy of note that Iowa's deadly cholera closely follows the route of the Illinois Central railroad. The identity of paths may have been a coincidence; but it will probably be seized upon as confirmation of the theory that such pestilences are of electric origin and tend to follow the metallic pathways of the railway and the telegraph lines.

Nothing is more characteristic of the times in which we live than the constant multiplication of plans for promoting education. University extension is one of the best.

It is worthy of note that Iowa's deadly cholera closely follows the route of the Illinois Central railroad. The identity of paths may have been a coincidence; but it will probably be seized upon as confirmation of the theory that such pestilences are of electric origin and tend to follow the metallic pathways of the railway and the telegraph lines.

Nothing is more characteristic of the times in which we live than the constant multiplication of plans for promoting education. University extension is one of the best.

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE-THURSDAY, JULY 20, 1893.

The Lincoln organ of the impeached and acquitted stage officials throws out this fling at the impeachment managers: "There being some of the impeachment fund left over after the acquittal of the members of the State Board of Public Lands and Buildings, it is not at all extraordinary that the lawing is to go on until the last dollar is absorbed."

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

It is generally suggested that the hoarding of currency, both by the banks and by individuals, may cause an unusual call upon the government to meet the demand for currency a few weeks hence, and while this is not assured, it is deemed expedient to be ready for it in case it should come.

NEBRASKA AND NEBRASKANS.

Mrs. Kate Gillette Bates, a Beatrice woman, is to join an opera company. The mill is to be built at Opa Center if the citizens will raise the required bonus.

The explosion of a lamp nearly caused the death of 10-year-old Horace Miller of Arapahoe. The child's right hand and arm are badly burned with spots along the side and neck.

While two families were enroute by prairie schooner from Wyoming to their old home in Arkansas it became necessary to break camp on the prairie.

More cases are reported in the river with cholera. The cholera is spreading rapidly.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

St. Edward, Neb., July 17.—To the Editor of The Bee: Such scurrilous flings at the old soldiers, the defenders of our country in its time of adversity, as appeared in the supplement of yesterday, in which the venomous tongue of the pension hater spits its poison in the suggestion that the treasury would furnish themselves with "wigs and pare their curls," is disgusting.

AFTER A PENSION FRAUD.

Discharge Papers of George M. Hoag of Omaha Used. HIS NAME HAD BEEN SKILLFULLY ERASED. Leopold Friedler Attempted to Manipulate the Scheme—He is Now a Fugitive—Sergeant-at-Arms Valentin to Be Retired.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE BEE, 513 FIFTH STREET, WASHINGTON, July 19. The authorities are looking for one Leopold Friedler, a German, upon the charge of attempting to defraud the government. It is alleged that several days ago Friedler applied to the Treasury department for certain arrears of pay and bounty, filing an alleged discharge paper to the effect that he had served in company G, Second regiment, New Hampshire volunteer infantry. Upon an examination of the paper it is alleged that some other name had been erased and Friedler's inserted. Further investigation convinced the authorities that George M. Hoag of Omaha had lost the paper and other pension papers in 1887 and that Friedler, coming into possession of the discharge paper, erased Hoag's name and inserted his own. It is said that Friedler was a lieutenant of pension attorneys of this city, but that he became convinced that something was wrong and so notified the authorities. Friedler is supposed to be in Virginia near this city.

Will Relieve a Nebraska Citizen. Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate E. K. Valentin will join the great army of ex-officers on August 7, and will return to his home in West Point, Neb. Mr. Valentin has two sons, Wash and Ed, who have been enjoying lucrative