Grand Chief Ramsey Suspends the Charter of the Omaha Division O. R. T.

POSSIBILITY OF A BATTLE IN COURT

Omaha Operators Secure Legal Assistance and Will Prosecute the Grand Chief-Ramsey Makes a Statement -Tempest in a Teapot,

The trouble existing between the Omaha division of the Order of Railway Telegraphers and the grand chief, D. G. Ramsey of Vinton, Ia., has broken out in a new spot. Last night the grand chief of the order arrived in the city, and at once went to the hall of the local order in the Continental block, where a meeting was in progress. While ho did not remain until the adjournment of the meeting, he remained long enough to revoke the charter and take away the authority of the Omaha division, leaving it powerless and and a wreck.

In speaking of the matter yesterday, Mr. Ramsey said: "For more than one year I have been the grand chief of the order, and or to that time I was the assistant to the

Some fifteen years ago I met a bareand having a warm spot in my heart for the had a took him into an office and secured him a position, but like the serpent, he turned and tried to sting the hand that warmed and fed him. For a time be worked in offices about the country and finally drifted into newspaper work, be-coming a reporter on an Omaha dally. How He Came to Join.

"One year ago I met him and on account of the kindly feeling that I had toward him, I advised him to join the Order of Railway Telegraphers. Acting upon my advice, he became a member, and two months later commenced putting down his lines for the editorship of the paper which is published by our order, a position that is worth $2,000 a year. The proposition came to me and I at once advised the rejectment of anything of the kind, being of the opinion that he lacked the ability and also feeling that he was too new in the order to be given so Important a position. Immediately after that this young man declared war. He said that this young man declared war. He said that he could control the Omaha papers, the Associated press and that he would crush A. D. Thurston, the grand editor, and myself, and that in the end he would have the editorship of the paper. When the grand convention was held at Toronto, young man was present, accompanied by a manager to run his campaign and work in his interests. He had a man to place him in nomination, after which he went to his tent and indulged in a fit of the sulks over his defeat. Thinking that I was wholly responsi-ble for his failure to secure the plum and in order to turn me down, as he he says, he was instrumental in having charges preferred, alleging that I had been a party to the squandering of the funds and that I was not a fit person to hold the position of chief. These charges went to the regular investi-gating committee, which in due time re-ported that they were without foundation. flad a Relapse.

"Not satisfied with the findings of the regular committee, othis man gathered his few followers about him and asked to have the charges referred to a special committee I joined in the request and when the report came in, it was similar to that presented by the regular committee. As convincing evidence that the committee acted honesti and fairly, I want to say that one of the members of the committee was the gentle man who placed me in nomination for the office of grand chief, which I snow hold. That seemed to satisfy the mind of the reporter-telegrapher and he acted like a friend, so much so that at the close of the session he made the presenta-tion speech for the ladies of the order who gave me a token of appreciation and re-membrance. Upon his return to Omaha the old animosity which he bore me broke out anew, and again he declared he would do me up and crush me from the face of the earth. Gathering a few discharged and sisted by others, he tried to work up a new order, but in this he did not succeed, though he turned the Omaha local lodge against me and the other head officers.

Order of Railway Conductors and Vice President Howard of the Order of American Railway unions are against me and would be pleased to see me dethroned is all bosh and silly twaddle. Both of those gentlemen are my staunch friends and together with the presidents and vice presidents of half a dozen other unions we have gained thirty five schedules during the past year, while this self-constituted leader who works on an Omaha paper has done nothing but try to disrupt all federations and bring about a conglomeration of unions, enlisting with him a few disappointed followers and Eugene V. Debbs of the Order of Railway Firemen. "I leave for my home this afternoon, taking with me the charter of the local organization, which wipes it out of existence until such time as the men can conform to the rules and order of the supreme lodge, when

It may again be issued. I do not do this on account of any personal feeling, but simply because there is something rotten in the local lodge. I do this because the local lodge has violated the rules in every respect. The local officers have ignored the grand secretary and have have ignored the grand secretary and have refused to turn over the funds, some $600, which belong to the supreme lodge, and not only this, but I find that the funds have misappropriated and that everything is in bad shape.

May Go to Court.

It is stated on excellent authority that the anti-Ramsey faction of the Order of Railway Telegraphers have engaged W. G. Gurley, an Omaha attorney, to take the case into the courts. It is also rumored that a strong effort will be made to have Ramsey suspended or restrained from acting as grand chief until the matter is settled.

Held a Conference. Instead of leaving for his home in Iowa yesterday as he had fully intended, D. G. Ramsey, grand chief of the Order of Rail-way Telegraphers, together with the grand way Telegraphers, together with the grand counsel of the order, G. W. Burnham; Grand Secretary-Treasurer J. Weatherbee, held a conference with W. F. Gurley, who has been retained by Omaha division No. 2 to prosecute the charges brought by the division against the head of the order. The conference was not marked with any degree of excitement on either side. Grand Secretary Weatherbee quietly remarked that if Division Secretary F. E. Gillaland did not turn over all books, papers, vouchers, etc. in his possession an action of embezziement would be brought in the loward courts against the secretary, who resides courts against the secretary, who resides

Mr. Ramsey, who left late last night, said Mr. Ramsey, who left late last night, said to the representative of The Bee: "Having suspended the charter of Omaha division No. 2 of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, my dufy is at an end. Mr. Burnham and Mr. Weatherbee will be here to receive the answer of Mr. Gurley, whom Mr. Gillaland and the other recalcitrant members have employed. To set the members of the division at rest. I desire to state that all of division at rest, I desire to state that all of them will be transferred to the grand division pending the settlement of the present difficulty or the creation of a new division. So far as charges having been preferred against me, that hardly de-serves reputation, because I would not be here acting in my official capacity, with power to revoke aux charter, if there had been articles of impeachment filed. There is little new to add, but unless we have some satisfactory accounting for $600 of protective money we shall bring suit against the bondsmen of those controlling

Smith Makes a Statement.

In reference to the statement by Mr. Ramsey that the movement against him was the result of spite work on the part of a member of the local division, because Ram-sey had refused to render him assistance in the organization, Carl Smith, the accused member, said last night:

"There is no truth in this declaration on the part of the grand chief and that there is no truth in it is evidenced by the fact that white it is the effort on his part to make it appear that I am alone in this fight, not only the entire Omaha division but a large number of the divisions in other parts of the country are assisting in the dethronement of a man whom we do not believe to be fit to be at the whom we do not believe to be fit to be at the head of the order. It is very convenient for him to show that I was an aspirant before the last convention, but that fact does not explain the hostility to him of entire divisions in all parts of the country. The only reason that I have been at all prominent in this matter is that shortly after I became a member of the Omaha division I discovered that reason existed for believing that the dues I was paying into the order were not being properly used by the grand officers,

"Some of the best members of the order have expressed to me their full sympathy in the movement which they assumed that I the movement which they assumed that I was leading, although it was not I, but the division of which I am a member. Secretary Gilliand, Chief Telegrapher Martin, Assistant Chief Burke and every man, in fact, from the chief to the outside sentinel, was a supporter of the reform measures, and I was not the man who introduced all of them, al-though I did not hesitate to express myself upon them. I regret that so much of the se-cret work of the order must be made public, but I cannot consent to permitting misrepresentation to be made sentation to be made.

"Now then, in relation to Ramsev teaching me telegraphy. He did teach me, or rather he permitted me to remain in his office and learn by doing the usual share of his work and for that he was paid $5 a month regularly. I do not feel like a smake that has been nursed in a boson to sting that heaven when Leadershale how well he that bosom when I contemplate how well he was paid for his instruction.'

Mr. Smith submitted a verbatim copy of the report of the special investigating com-mittee appointed at the Toronto convention to review the report of the grand executive committee. Space forbids extended men-tion, but the substance of it embodies a criticism on exorbitant expenditures and ex-travagant methods of some of the grand

VICKORY'S VICTIM.

High Eagle, the Indian Soldier, is Rapidly Improving and Will Recover.
Through the kindness of Lieutenant Colonel Hartsuff, post surgeon, a BEE reporter was yesterday allowed to interview High Eagle, the Sioux soldier who was shot in the back by J. H. Vickory. Mr. High Eagle was found comfortably located on a cot in the hospital and was breathing what he called "strained air," from the fact that his bed was entirely surrounded with nice, clean mosquito ne ting. The patient was aroused by the hospital steward and told the following story, speaking in pure Sioux: "Three of us were out walking and we "Three of us were out walking and we went into that place to lay down in the shade a moment, when a man with a gun ordered us out. None of us understood what he meant except by his motions and we started as soon as we could. While I was climbing the hedge I was shot in the back. That is all I know."

One of the hospital stewards tells a slightly different story: He says that when High Eagle was brought to the hospital he vomited a great deal, throwing up about a peek of grapes and a lot of green apples. Post Surgeon Hartsuff said that about thirty-seven "No. 4" shot entered the Indian's body and were scattered from the shoulder blades down to the calves of the legs. Quite a number of the shot have been taken out and the doctor now hopes to save his patient's life.

Before the Indian company was paraded last night THE BEE man went through its quarters and found everything very quiet. The Indians seemed utterly indifferent to the sufferings of their comrade and spoke lightly of his injuries. Thoughts of revenge on white men seemed to be furthest from their thoughts.

Those Who Stayed at Home Will Welcome the Miiwaukee Contingent.

Further information received from the Omaha turnverein team at the Milwaukee tournament states that by the capture of the eighth first-class prize by the home team they will occupy either fourth or sixth rank of 133 participating societies. Of 30 points in the different exercises 27½ were made by Omaha, and the latter was only outstripped by teams from San Francisco, Portland, Elizabeth and Brooklyn who, by reason of longer distance to the contest grounds, ob-tained several points before the start.

At the Baerenriege's meeting at Germania hall last night a committee was named to make necessary arrangements for the proper reception on the turners return, and in case he return is not made in a body, the victorious athletes are to be given a "comers" at Germania hall next Wednesday.

Judge Benecke is in receipt of a postal ard from Herman Schaeffer, the 250 pound wolrdupois weight champion of the Omaha Baerenriege. It conveys the intelligence that he was warded first prize on recitations at the National Bundes tournament in Milwaukee.

"The Wolves of New York" will appear it the Farnam Street theater for one week, commencing next Sunday, July 30. The Newark Journal has the following to

"Of all Leonard Grove's plays, 'The Wolves of New York,' presented in this city for the first time last night, is the best. It contains the elements of great popularity, and it was received with the greatest enthusiasm by a large audience. The play is very realistic, and portrays the snares and schemes which entrap the innocent in the metropolis. Never before has a representa-tion of the betting habit been so clearly pictured on the stage, and the view of a race pool room, in full blast, brought down the house last night." Ames moved to 1617 Farnam.

He says he proposes to add a feature to the balloon ascenposes to add a feature to the balloon ascen-sion and parachute drop business that will be one of the most taking of any of the aeronauts in the country. It is a double chute drop. A new balloon is being made which is to be more than twice as large as the one now in use at Courtland beach. Two parachutes are to be attached; Miss Gribble and Mrs. Zelno are both to ascend together and Mrs. Zelino are both to ascend together and at the signal both will detach their parachutes and begin the race to carth. He thinks this will be a big card and one that will draw more than double the crowds that go to see the ascensions which now take place nightly. The new balloon is expected to be completed in a day or so.

COLORADO PILGRIMS. Commissioners Decide that This County

Can Extend No Further Help. The commissioners of this county are debating a question which they think has assumed a most serious aspect, and one which they declare they will be called upon to face soon and dispose of in some manner that will not bankrupt the county. This question is simply what will be done with the Colorado box car tourists who now happen to be journeying east in search of employment and funds to keep them from starving Until the Denver authorities succeeded in making a $5 rate for the shipping of these people to Missouri river points, the commissioners of this county felt no alarm, but upon learning that such action had been taken and that thousands of them were t be sent as far east as the river, their minds inderwent a change and now they are of the opinion that unless some steps are taken Douglas county will have a great number of needy persons upon its hands with the coming of winter.

Commissioner Livesey, chairman of the committee on charities, said yesterday that already many of the Denver miners were dropping into the city and that all of them were without money enough to buy a meal of victuals. They were willing to work. but there was nothing to do, not even enough for the actual residents of the city. Discussing the matter further, he urged that he could not blame the Denyer author-ities for wanting to get rid of the men, but there was no reason why they should be cared for by the taxpayers of Douglas county, people upon whom they could have no claims.

In other words, the wife, Cecelia, declares that her husband has gambled and that in doing so be has lost his roll of hard earned wealth, which instead of going over the green cloth of the fare table should have een used for the support of the family. She alleges that between November 7 892, and April 15, 1893, Henry spent consid erable of his time in the gambling rooms of the Diamond, and that at the latter named date, which was the time when he quit the game, he was a loser to the tune of $696.35 in cash, to say nothing of the days and nights which were lost in trying to win back the money. The petitioner fails to say that Henry was robbed, or that he was short carded, but she does aver that he nnocent man, and that owing to that fact he knew nothing of the gambling devices and was whipsawed at about every turn of the box. Now at this time the plaintiff ask: for a judgment for the sum which her erring husband gambled away.
