BEE NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

Results of the State Chemist's Examination of Missouri River Water.

REMARKABLY FREE FROM IMPURITES

Exhaustive Tests Prove that the Water Supply is Pure and Wholesome and that the Deadly Bacteria is Absent from It.

The state chemist has made his report on the condition of the Council Bluffs water supply, and those who have been mixing a little ryo with their drink lately in order to destroy bacteria may now go back to aquapura as a beverage, for the state chemist says that not only is the old Missouri all right, but that particular part of the Misspuri that is dealt out to its patrons by the Council Bluffs Water Works company is also all right. His investigation was made with samples from a yard hydrant at Twentieth avenue school, the near the pumping station, a hydrant at Schneider's drug touse store, a fire hydrant on Nine-teenth syence and another on Scott street, both the latter being known as "dead ends. where the water is often allowed to stand in the pipes for quite s while. The report consists of a lot of figures which would mean little or nothing to the average reader, but the general effect of the ligures is to show that all the scare about impure water was unfounded. The analysis shows no harmful bacteria in the water, and the nitrites, or the partially exidized products of decaying animal matter, and ammonia, which comes from the decay of animal matter or the mixing of sewage with the water, are present in so small quantities as to be absolutely larmless, both together being less than three-tenths of a grain to the gallon.

Too Much Mother-in-Law.

The old story of the man who has too much mother-in-law was told in police court yesterday morning. Mrs. J. Moore came up from her home in Hastings to visit her daughter, and that was when the trouble commenced. According to the story which she poured into Judge McGee's sympathetic car yesterday morning, she tried to induce her daughter to go home with her, where upon her daughter's husband, whose name is Derward Gladwin, declared that she should not leave the house, threatening to bill her if she insisted on going. She wisely decided to send her regrets home, and confided in her mother the reasons for her doing so. Mrs. Moore immediately started out to bring her son-in-law to a realizing sense of his duties in the case, and before night-fall had him behind the bars of the city jail on a charge of threatening to kill. The sensational features which the case promised seemed mostly a minus quantity when the handle came of restaurant tity when the hearing came off yesterday, and a continuance was granted, with the understanding that Mrs. Moore should go

Horse Thief Eilers Brandishes & Gun and Makes His Escape.

Deputy Sheriff O'Brien returned from Dow City yesterday, but he failed to bring back James Eilers, who stole Paul Bouquet's horse last Sunday. He also failed to bring back the horse, but neither of the failures are to be laid at his door. Eilers was at Modale and in the custody of the officers, but as they were rustles and up very well on the latest fashions in horse thieves, they let him get away. Eilers told them a long story about the horse which, by the way, was not Bouquet's at all, and did not resemble the missing animal any more than any one of a thousand that might be picked up any day. The man in charge answered the description, however, and so the outfit was gathered in. Shortly after his arrest they took Eilers down to the stable for something or other and while there he asked permission open his valise, which he had left there, and get his pocket handkerchief. Not suspecting anything they granted his request, but when Eilers brought his hand out it con-tained the queerest and most frightful hand-kerchief they had ever seen. It was in the shape of a gun about a foot long and looked as though it would be of more service in shooting burgiars than in wiping the perspiration off an honest brow.

'Well, gentlemen, I think I will bid you an affectionate adieu," was the fellow's remark as he shoved the gun in their faces and com-menced backing off. The officers did not tell him that the gates of Modale were at his disposal, but their actions proclaimed the fact in loud tones that the the fact in loud tones that they did not wish to throw a straw in his way They turned and ran in the opposite rection from where Eilers and his On were holding their soiree, and the time they made would have brought Nancy Hank's hairs in sorrow to the grave. Eilers lost no time in making good his escape as soon as the coast was clear, and sought refuge in a wilderness of willows where he might stay till the day of judgment and not be found.

The horse, it seems, was one which he had gotten in exchange for the one he stole at Bouquet's stable. The officers have not the Bouquet's stable. The officers have not the slightest doubt that Eilers is the man who committed the double murder in Cannon City, Col., and for whom $2,700 was offered. The coolness and nerve with which he made his escape show him up as a desperado of no mean talents, and the universal opinion is that the officer who next tries swords with him will have his hands full. If Eilers is really the man he is thought to be he has the best of reasons for wanting to get away, and can afford to take a good many risks in resisting arrest. A man giving his name as Angus McDonald was brought down from Dow City by O'Brien and landed in the county jail, charged with stealing M. Weatherbee's The horses returned home last even-McDonald has been bound over to the grand jury by the justice of the peace at Crescent City.

WORK OF THE CITY COUNCIL

Adjourned Meeting Held Last Evening to Handle Unfinished Business.

No Vetoes Startled the Connellmen at Last Night's Session-Assistant Plumbing Inspector Agreed Upou-Proceedings in Full.

The city council met in adjourned session last night and transacted routine business. besides favorably considering Mr. Saunders' resolution looking to municipal ownership of the water works plant.

Those present were Councilmen Hascall, Elsasser, Jacobsen, Specht, McLearie, Steel Thomas, Saunders, Bruner, Wheeler, Howell, Prince, Back and President Bechel. The regular order of business was taken up, in spite of the protest of Mr. Wheeler, who insisted on going on from the point where the council left off the previous evening, in order to avoid another flood of vetoes. He was assured that there were no vetoes, and communications were taken up. The bond of the Interstate Complete Electrical Construction company in the sum Weideman, was approved. A letter from the Crane Elevator company asking how the city hall elevators were running and how often the cylinder packing had to be replaced was referred to the committee on public property.

of $2,500, with Ernest Peycke and Conrad

Gottlieb Storz asked relief for damages caused by the street at Eighteenth and Dorcas being below grade and causing the washing away of his lot, which he had raised to grade at a cost of $2,000 by order of the council. Mr. Wheeler insisted that the council was not to blame for the acts of providence and objected to granting relief The matter went to the committee on side. walks and bridges.

Hascall served formal notice on the coun cil that the city electrician was not an individual altogether to his liking, and introduced a resolution requiring that official to show cause at the next meeting why he should not be proceeded against for willful neglect of duty in not requiring the railroad companies to put in electric lights ever various crossings, in accordance with an ordinance passed nearly three months ago. The gentleman from the First said, in sup ort of his resolution, that the electrician that it would involve litigation, nd this was not a sufficient excuse saunders wanted it referred, and so die beeht and Jacobsen, but Steel and Parker th waxed indignant over the failure of the electrician to carry out the orders of the

Mr. Hascall insisted that there was some thing about it that did not seem to be generally understood, as it was a principle that he was contending for. The electrician would not give the electric light company the order for the lights because they were to be 2,000 nominal candle power. Such conduct as this on the part of a subordinate was simply outrageous. He consented to strike out the clause referring to an investigation, or making it look too much like a prosecution.

Finally Referred to a Committee. After talking the matter over fully it was found that the ordinance ordered lights at every block along the alley between Izard and Nicholas, up which the Missouri Pacific has a switch track to the Linseed Oil company's works, although no cars pass over it at night and the committee had only recom-mended one at every other block. The members could not understand how the mistake was made. They thought it unwise to be severe on the electrician for being slow to plunge the city into litigation by trying to establish such a string of lights, and Hascall's resolution was referred to the com mittee on gas and electric lights.

The Board of Public Works was instructed to make a number of minor repairs.

Mr. Back introduced his usual grist of resolutions, calling for a score of expendiwere adopted, but the council finally concluded that it was grading the entire First ward in job lots, and religiously placed the remainder on file.

Mr. Saunders introduced a resolution calling for the appointment of a committee to confer with the water works officials looking to the purchase of the plant by the city, in view of the fact that the two factions of stockholders are fighting between themselves and there is a movement on foot by the bondholders of the concern to have it sold, while one faction headed by Mr. Venner is trying to let the matter go to foreclosure, freeze out the Illinois faction and the small fry, and then reorganize the company under the name of the Omaha Water Works company, with a bonded in-debtedness of $6,000,000, instead of $3,500,000 as at the present time. The gentleman from the Fifth had a copy of the circular issued by Mr. Venner to the stockhoftiers of the company, which he read. and which is outlined in another column. Mr. Saunders talked very earnestly in support of his resolution, and urged that this was the city's time to get possession of the plant, as the charter provides that under ordinary procedure to purchase the plant it would have to be appraised, and as no appraisers would fix the value at less than the bonded indebtedness the city would have to pay an enormous price, if it waited until after the reorganization, with a bonded indebtedness of $6,000,000.

Regards it as a Golden Opportunity. He said that it was now to be decided whether the city was ready to purchase the plant, and to find out whether it could be secured for a reasonable price. He was satisfied that the plant could be built for less than the original cost, which was $8.000. 000, but the bonded indebtedness was $3,600. 000, and he believed it could be bought under foreclosure for less than that amount was certain that it would be easier for the city to float its 4 per cent bonds than for the new company to unload at 6 per cent, and he asked the adoption of the resolution calling for the conference committee.

It was unanimously adopted. The assessment of Pease Bros. was reduced from $1,500 to $800, and that of the Omana Tent and Awning company from $3,000 to $1,192. John Grant was allowed his 15 per cent reserve on five-year guaranty on paving on Twenty-ninth and Tenth streets, amounting to $9.871.62. The assessment of the Carpenter Paper ompany was reduced from $10,000 to $6,000 The report of the committee favoring the passage of the ordinance appropriating property for the North Omaha boulevard was committee of the whole to consider the barbers' Sunday closing ordinance, with Howell in the chair. The barbers' petation asking for the passage of the ordinance was read, after which the remonstrance was heard. The first had about 100 signatures and the latter about half that number.

An opinion of the city attorney was read. holding that the ordinance in its present form would not stand, as it would clearly be class legislation.

Mr. Elsasser wanted the ordinance re ported back for passage. Mr. Specht said the $50 penalty was too severe and no conrictions could be secured under it Mr. Wheeler read from the statutes show-ing that the fine could only be from $1 to $5, and that "a man who conscientiously ob-served Saturday as the Sabbath couldn't be restrained from working Sunday." He insisted that the ordinance was drafted in the especial interest of that class so as to give them a monopoly of the Sunday shaving. Saunders was favorably disposed toward the ordinance, but was fearful that it was class legislation.

On motion of Mr. Edwards the ordinance was referred back to the committees on police and judiciary to report at the next meeting, and the committee of the whole arose and reported to the council. The re-port was adopted unanimously.

The proposed plumbing ordinance, creating an assistant plumbing inspector, was re-ported on favorably.

The committee on paving, curbing and guttering reported in favor of changing the asphaltspaving inspection ordinance so as to have the inspection made by the chairman of the Board of Public Works instead of by the city engineer, and have the inspection made every June and November and the report made to the council.

Branded as a Screaming Farce. Several of the members wanted to hear from the city engineer, who promptly char-actorized it as a mammoth farce, as it was designed solely to help out the Barber As-phait company in the allowance of its semiannual repair bill. It would tend to have the streets repaired once in six months, leaving them possibly in bad shape ten months in the year, if t'iey got them in good WATER AND LIGHT FULLY CONSIDERED shape to stand inspection every six months

Wheeler insisted that the ordinance was unconstitutional in every section and should be recommitted. The duties of all the officers were set forth in the charter, and he didn't believe one was any better than another. Mr. Howell moved to recommend it with instructions to report a change calling for mouthly reports to be made by the city en incer and chairman of the Board of Works. Howell's motion was defeated, and on motion of Mr. Steel the report of the committee was rejected and the ordinance recommended for passage.

Steel subsequently moved to add the name of the chairman of the Board of Public Works, and Wheeler tried to get in the street commissioner as well, so as to con-form with the charter.

The city engineer was called for again and he said that it was the "veriest bosh" and he said that it was the "veriest bosh" to cite the charter provisions as to the duties of officials as the charter stated distinctly that they should also perform, in addition to the duties enumerated, such duties as the mayor and council should impose, and it was the first time he had ever heard the council's right in that respect questioned. He did not object to acting in conjection with some one object to acting in connection with some one but thought large bodies moved slowly. and the larger the committee the less certainty there was of getting the work promptly done.

Mr. Squires Substantiated It.

He called upon Mr. Squires to say if he ould name any instance where the city engineer had unjustly discriminated against the Barber Asphalt company in the past year and a half.

Mr. Squires admitted the city engineer's statement in the main to be correct, and said he could not name an instance. He made a short statement of the Barber com pany's honest intentions of not allowing the whoels to touch the concrete foundation in the future. Mr. Steel withdrew his motion to add the chairman to the inspection committee, and Wheeler's motion to add the street commisoner was defeated. Wheeler moved that the contract for curbing Military avenue be laid over for one week as the bonds will not be sold until next Monday, and bonds were not funds, but the idea was not popular, and Hugh Murphy's contract and bond for the same were ap-

The council refused to adjourn, and Wheeler and Parker were excused.

The street car transfer ordinance was recommended for passage, with the addition of a transfer from the South Omaha line going south to Farnam street going west at Fourteenth and Farnam

Mr. Wheeler tarried to ask that it be re committed, as he bad some points to make, and could prove that the city was asking too much of the street car company. Mr. Prince took the same stand, while Steel and Mc Learie opposed it, but it was recommitted

The chair appointed the following committee on the water works matter: Saunders, Edwards, Hascall, Wheeler and Bechel. Au adjournment was taken until next Fuesday night.

Contractors Have a Scrap. George Parks and Ed Brennan were i choots for repairing the Q street viaduct. It seems that the two did not get along very well. At one time Brennan gave notice to the council not to pay over any money to Parks individually or he would hold the city responsible for the entire debt. A week

ater he notified the council that matters

had been amicably arranged between him self and Parks and that insofar as he was concerned the council might pay Parks any mount it saw fit.
Last Monday night Parks handed in his final estimate for the work and the bill was allowed. Yesterday Parks went into the city treasurer's office and secured his warrant for over $500. Brennan followed him in and when the document was handed over both the contractors grabbed for it. Parks was the quicker of the two and secured the prize. Brennan was wrathy and Parks hit him a swipe over the head with a ruler which he picked up in the office. Tom Hoctor separated the men and they left the office. But this was not the end of the scrap. Later in the evening the men met again on the street and it is said that Brennan got considerably the best of a brief fisticuff. Parks claims that Brennan did not keep his agree
