Warrant Issued Against the Man Who Ate Bologna on Rogers' Deathbed.

POLICE HAVE BEEN WORKING DILIGENTLY

Ulaims of Strong Evidence Against the Accused to the Effect that He Killed the Operator-Chief Detective Haze Makes the Complaint.

A warrant was sworn out last evening be fore Acting Police Judge Smith, charging Joseph P. Ward, alias Peyson, with the murder of William Rogers Garner, the unfortunate telegraph operator who was found dead in a room at 1418 Dodge street last Thursday morning.

The complaint charges that: "Joseph P. Ward killed William Rogers Garner by injecting a poisonous liquid in both arms of the deceased with deliberate intent to murder."

The warrant will be served on Ward, who is in the county jail, this morning, and he will have a preliminary hearing at once. The information and complaint was filed by Chief Detective Haze, who has been investigating the case. He says that he is satisfied that Garner met his death through deliberate and foul means.

The result of his investigation leads the complaining officer to believe that Ward thought that Garnor had a considerable sum of money.

The serious charge made against Ward has revived interest in the case and the trial will doubtless attract much attention owing to the peculiarity of the alleged crime.

As has been fully reported in THE BEE, it appears that Garner was persuaded to leave the Houston institute by Ward at an early hour on Thursday morning. It is said that the men drank consider-ably, and wound up in Ward's room on Dodge street.

Dodge street. Ward, who is an alleged doctor, injected several doses of liquid into Garner as he lay on the bed asleep. He said that the fluid was diluted alcohol, but it was developed before the coroner's jury that the stuff was carbolic acid and doubtless caused Garner's death in a short time. The coro-ner's jury recommended that Ward be held for further investigation. The police expect to bring to light some strong testimony against Ward when he comes up for trial.

A telegram from Buford, Ga., was received In Omaha yesterday, stating that the re-mains of Garner had reached Buford and that the funeral would be held at once. Garner's mother, who is in feeble health, is prostrated over the sad fate of her son.

CHILD OF DESTINY.

Deserted By an Unnatural Mother, a Baby Becomes an Heiress.

Two or three weeks ago one of Uncle Sam's cavalrymen, in the brightest of uniforms and with true military bearing, entered the office of the Board of Health and requested to be shown the record of births. He was accommodated and then began a fruitless search for the record he was seeking. He pored over page after page only to be disappointed at each time. A whole forenoon was devoted to wading through the record. He was patient, and at last, being unable to locate that which he was seeking, he called to his assistance Dr. was seeking, he called to his assistance Dr. Towne. With the assistance of the doctor the pages of the big book were again eagerly scanned, but to no avail. The soldier boy was disappointed and he piainly showed it. He departed without telling his story and a few days later reappeared and again searched the record. The result was the same as before.

On this occasion he unfolded to Dr. Towne the story. He says that in July 1890, a wife gave birth to a daughter at the Open Door. The little one was permitted to remain there

Postmaster Clarkson's Opinion of Certain

Local "Investment" Institutions. "I was glad to notice," said Postmaster

As quickly as possible the treasurer and finance committee and other city officials will meet and discuss what is best to be Clarkson vesterday morning,"that Tug Beg is after some of these so-called investment companies that are frauds of the first water There are several of them in the city and they are a disgrace to the community, as they prey on people who live at a distance and have no knowledge of the concerns except the striking representations made in the circular letpapers ters that are sent out. They do not do business here in Omaha, and do not-want any attention from local people, being perfectly satisfied to take what can be confidenced out of victims living in other towns, and generally in other states. "I have put a stop to their sending out their stuff through the mails in some instances and I intend to stop some more of them if it is possible. The first one I tackled was the 'American Bond company,' which was sending out a lot of advertising matter to little towns in Iowa, Indiana and linois. Many of these places were away from the railroad, and it seemed to be the policy of the company to seek investors in out-of-the-way places. Letters were admatter. dressed to 'station agent,' store keeper' or to any one who promised to be in a condition to buy a few 'bonds.' The names of the parties addressed were not known, and the concern depended wholly on the character of the advertising to catch a victim. It was not an out-and-out lottery and I was unwilling to bar out the matter on my own re-sponsibility, so I forwarded some of the mat-ter to Washington and the attorncy general of the United States declared that there was no question but that it all hinged on the ele-ment of chance provided for by the lottery law and that it was not entitled to transmis-den through the mails a. m sion through the mails. "On that authority I at once rejected all such matter, and I noticed that where concerns had been previously getting a dozen or fifteen money orders a day, there was a failing off to almost nothing. These people do not want to do business in Omaha. I have had several letters written to them under an assumed name, but they do not head the several business in the several people and the several business in the several several business. send me any of their matter. In almost every instance the result is the same, and I am informed that if I will send my address they will be pleased to call on me and ex-plain the whole thing, 'as it can be so much night. more satisfactorily explained in that way than in writing.' The fact of the matter is that these concerns are nothing but the lotteries of other days worked over in another form, just to dodge the provisions of the anti-lottery law. Sometimes they manage to keep just outside the line, while at others they plainly violate the law. The American Bond com-pany was started and managed by some par-tice was Shubart A follow normal Notes ties from Shubert. A fellow named Norton was the president, Cloyd was secretary and Argobright was treasurer. Argobright was cashier of the Bank of Shubert, and that was made their depository. The bank failed a little while ago and Argobright skipped out, so that the American Bond company is now little more than a fleeting memory. The plan was to sell $500 bonds payable at The plan was to sell $500 bonds payable at the rate of $1 per month, and as soon as there was $500 in the pool a bond was paid. The bonds to be paid were selected on the multiple plan, either 10, 20, 30, or 10, 20, 40, 80, etc. It was nothing but a lottery, any way one could look at it, but there were plenty of people who were willing to risk their money on it. There are two or three of them that I have now in mind that are frauds of the first water, but for want of direct evidence against them their matter is still going through the mails. The bubble still going through the mails. The bubble is liable to burst at any time, however, and

The monetary question must be settled at once. "So says the" Chief Executive in his document to Congress. The speediest way of settling such a question in our opinion would be to satisfy every creed. According to silverites the white metal is the poor man's money; if so let him have his share and retire. The worshiper of gold who claims a silver dollar worth but 58c is entitled to a privilege of paying 18oc for every dollar he spends, if he is honestly inclined. If the treasury of our prosperous country has too much silver within its vaults, according to the ideas of some, let them dump it in the Chesapeake Bay. If anyone in our vicinity have much silver fetch it for "Safe Investment" to Nebras ag Co.

The way we define the silver question, 4121/2 grains of silver, 9-10 pure, moulded in shape of a dollar, will buy $1.50 worth of goods this entire week.

At this ratio you can buy anything about the house. 'Tis an "Odd and End" sale of Spring and Summer stock, and all goods in every department are "in it."

Later in the proceedings both Dooley and Hubbard were provided with berths for thirty days. The question of the weed cru-sade came up, and this caused the members to conclude that additional inspectors would be required during the next thirty days. An additional reason was given that the board has given permission to the members of the force who have been employed six months or longer to take five days each off on pay. The mother completely deserted the child, and shortly after its birth secured a divorce from her husband, the father of the child. A few months later she was wedded to an Iowa man and is now living with him in the Hawkeye state. She has never inquired after the babe she deserted and its fate is unknown to her. The cavalryman interested himself be cause it was found that the deserted babe is to be an heiress. He refused to divulge the names of the parties and his interest in the matter he did not herald. It is sufficient to know that he commenced a systematic search for the child and at last has been successful. The failure to find the record of the birth forestalled his plans somewhat,but the records of the Open Door furnished the desired information, the chird was located, and the proof of its birth secured. That is what he told yesterday morning. He has found the attending physician, the nurse, and proof absolute he holds to establish the fact that the child is herress apparent of a princely fortune.

The wealth that will fall to the child of 3 summers will come from an aged and infirm lady, whose life race is nearly run. She is the mother of the one who so cruelly de-serted the child and left it to the fate that strangers might provide. The old lady dis-approved of the act and as time grew and life's strings were rapidly being severed she resolved to right the wrong, and caused the search for the child to be instituted with successful results. When her lawyer draws up her last will and testament it will read that all of her earthly belongings shall go to the child. The little one will have a guardian, and when the years necessary have inter-vened and she has ripened into womanhood she will step into a princely fortune, pro-vided by the mother of the daughter who cruelly deserted her daughter and cast her adrift in the world.

LABOR DAY CELEBRATION.

Arrangements for a Joint Program with the Fair Association.

The Labor day management and the board of directors of the Douglas County Fair association arrived at an agreement yesterday relative to a joint program for Labor day, which will come on the first day of the fair. The proposition was submitted by the fair people yesterday, and the union labor folks this morning signified their acceptauce.

The various labor organizations will make their annual parade in the forenoon as heretofore, but in the afternoon. instead of going to Syndicate park or some other picnic ground, as in former years, will go to the fair grounds, where a special program, to be hereafter arranged, will be given. By the terms of agreement the price of admission on that day will be reduced from 50 to 25 cents, and the receipts will be ovenly divided between the fair association and the Labor day management. It is conceded on both sides that this is the best thing that rould be done, as it will give the laboring men and their families an opportunity to see the fair Heretofore liquor has been for sale on the grounds where the picale was held, and many of the picalekers have not only spent their money in accumulating jags, but their families have received no benefit from the expenditure. This year it will be different, and those who go to the grounds will receive more than their money's worth. There will be racing, as all the horses that will partici-pate in the events of the week will be on pate in the events of the weak will be on the grounds, and a special cart for the day will be prepared. The same will be true with reference to athletic sports and other contests, and there will probably be a balloon ascension. The indications all point the finest Labor day program yot offered in Omaha.

NEBRASKA COLUMBIAN EXHIBIT, CHICAGO, Aug. 12 .- To the Editor of THE BEE: The employes here, though not at present in circumstances calculated to make people feel very felicitous, endeavor to be as goog natured and agreeable as possible, but it is not always easy for a hungry map to wear a smile when his heart is sad and his stomach empty. Some of the employes have had no pay since May, and none have had any pay since June, and as all are dependent upon their earnings for the necessaries of life one can imagine something of their condition. They are several hundred miles from home among strangers, without a dollar to pay for food, car fare, room rent, etc., and they feel that it is a great injustice that their pay should be withheld to the point of abso-lute starvation because of a misunderstanding between auditor and commissioner general. They came here in good faith, on contract, to do service for the state, and they think they have a right to expect their pay. Only that loyalty to Nebraska which makes them endure rather than do anything to disgrace the state, induces them to suffer rather than desert their exhibits and seek ther employment or start on a tramphome. Hence they have appealed and are appealing to friends and relatives at home for the loan of sufficient funds to enable them to live until a time when they can secure the pay due them. Considering all the circumstances they are bearing up bravely and striving to be industrious, attentive and genial, when as a matter of fact they have much to make them quite the reverse. So long as a dollar can be borrowed, however, there will be no deserting of the ship and no neglect of duty. The Nebraska exhibits are gotten up for the benefit of all the people, and should not be made a political battle field at the sacrifice of the material interests of the state. Let us fight our political battles on political lines, and let us air our local periods and local prejudices in a less conspicuous place than the great White City. Ali would feel the better for it if they were more zellous in contributing to the success of the exhibits and less attention paid to decrying and belittling. When you hear one complaining of the exhibits, ask him these significant of the exhibits, ask him these significant questions: "What position did you apply for for yourself or friend?" "For how many days did you ask a pass" In almost every instance one or the other of these questions will prove quite pertucat, and almost with-out exception it will be found that the person belitting the efforts of others has himself contributed nothing to the success of the exhibits, which as a whole are deof the exhibits, which as a whole are de-cidedly creditable to the state considering the amount of money appropriated.
