"BILLY THE BRUTE" SKIPS TO CHICAGO

Officers Hot on His Trail-Mr. Christenson Swears Vengeance-Blacel Will Not Die-Minor Mention from the Police Station.

The police claim to have discovered the brute who assaulted 14-year-old Christina Christenson of Council Bluffs on Sunday night in an alley near the Mercer hotel is this city.

The accused is William Roberts, who lives at Eighteenth and Martha streets. He has collected the money coming to him from a paying contractor and fied the city. Officers are hot on his trail.

Additional facts gathered by the officers Sunday night and yesterday are that Christina came over to Omaha to meet sister and go to Courtland beach. There was another girl with her sister. On their arrival at the beach the two girls met Ollie Horton, Will Roberts and another young fellow whose name is un known to the officers. They scraped up an acquaintance with the two older girls, but Roberts did not make much of an impression on Christma. About 10 o'crock the entire party came down town on the same car, and when the girls got off at Fourteenth and Douglas streets Horton and his unknown friend took Christina's sister and her friend home, leaving Roberts and Christina at the corner. It was then that Roberts induced the young girl to walk down street with him to the place where he committed the Yesterday Detectives Savage and Demprestorday Detectives Savage and Dempsey went to work on the case and they disclosed the identity of the young ruflian before evening. They went to Christina's sister, who works for Mr. Holmes at Eighteenth and Binney streets and got a good description of her escort, who turned out to be young Horton.

Will Roberts had spent the evening at Courtland beach and said that Horton had made some remark about going home with a girl who lived at the last named corner. This gave the officers something tangible to work on, and they found that Horton and Roberts worked for a paving contractor in South Omaha. They went there and found that Roberts had been there and collected his pay. They went to the home of the young man and were informed that he had come home, packed his grip and had not been gone more than twenty-five minutes. His mother said he remarked that he was going to the World's fair. Identified the Picture.

The officers secured a tintype of Roberts which had been taken with two other young men. This picture was taken to the police station and handed to the girl. She was asked if she knew any of them. She imme-diately placed her finger on Roberts' likeness and said: "That is the man who as-

The identification was complete, and Detective Dempsey went to Council Bluffs to watch all outgoing trains, while Savage kept watch on this side. They did not catch the young man, but officers all over the country have been notified and he cannot long escape apprehension. Christina's father and sister read of her misfortune in The Beg and visited her at the matron's office, where she remained all day. They were much excited and the father de clared he would take the law into his own hands if he should meet Roberts. MURDERED ON THE STRIP.

First Tragedy to Occur Among the Home-

neekers. ARKANSAS CITY, Aug. 28,-The first murder perpetrated on the Strip since it has been closed by troops occurred Saturday morning twelve miles southeast of here. The body of M. Jaggerson, a man 60 years old, who came here in May from Iowa, was found two miles from his camp. There was a large, ragged hole in the back of this head, having evidently been made by a large rifle ball. Jaggerson has been on the Strip ever since May, camping with a man named G. M. Gwinn and his mother. They have been making hay and selling it in Arkansas City. There is much mystery as to the killing. There is an organization, which makes it part of its business to go after sooners wherever found, and it is likely that some of its members are held responsible for Jaggerson's death. No inquest was held, as Coroner McDowell, who went after the body, has no jurisdiction in the Strip.

Old-timers here predict that there will be many more personal encounters and more bloodshed at the opening of the Strip than when Oklahoma opened. The country is full of sooners, and the feeling against them is very strong. If any of them come out to register they will be closely watched and will be prevented from re-entering if possible. There is said to be a sooner scheme on foot, however, by which parties outside the Strip will get certificates for sooners now in and take them in, the scheme being used to get townsite locations. The sooners are located mainly along Turkey creek and other small streams running into the Ar-kansas river and along the borders of the Ponca and Otoe reservations. The sooner question has demoralized honest home-seekers. The troops are very inadequate to handle the matter, as only one troop of cavalry, containing sixty men, is here to handle the whole Strip, but the four troops of the Third cavalry ordered by the depart-ment at Washington to proceed from Fort Riley to the Strip will have much to do to heck the sooner movement.

Fifteen hundred people will start from Denver in a day or two to locate on the strip. They are not unemployed, but have denty of money and intend going into new towns. Two hundred carpenters from Chi-cago and Kansas City came in this morning with tools, tents and horses. They will locate in new towns and be on hand to commence building operations. The baggage department of the Santa Fe is receiving an odd as-sortment of freight, chiefly composed of provisions, in their baggage cars. It is the property of homescekers and was checked through from points in the east. The owners evidently thought that provisions were scarce out here. The Missouri Pacific brought in three car loads of boomers this morning, one from Missouri, one from Wis-consin and one from Nebraska. Boomer wagons pass almost continually through the own on the way to camps along the rivers. The trains continue to come in crowded with nen of all conditions who are encumbered with baggage and who belong to the town

serious Charges Made Against Some of Its Members

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 .- Immediately after roll call in the national commissioners meeting Commissioner Mercer arose to a question of privilege and made a vehement denial of the charges made against him that he attempted to extort money from an exhibitor. He concluded by asking that a committee be appointed to investigate the charges.

Commissioner Beeson then took the floor and denied his guilt in the same matter. A resolution was adopted calling for the appointment of a committee of six to make inquiry into the scandal. In compliance with this action, President Penn appointed with this action, President Penn appointed Commissioners Tousley, Twing, Massey, Exall, Allen and Wiggins on the investigating committee. Mr. Higbee declared the charge to be false. He said it would be absurd for him to ask a bribe of an exhibitor with whose department he had nothing to do.

Secretary Dickinson received a letter to-day from Acting Secretary of the Treasury Hamlin, in, which the latter informed him there was but $95,000 of the money appro-priated by congress for the expenses of the Columbian commission remaining unused.

This being the case, and as the act of congress required a final report of the results after the close of the fair, another session would doubtless be necessary and funds for the expenses should be reserved for their navment. He therefore recommended to payment. He therefore recommended no further expenses be incurred at the present time. The letter was referred to the financial

a Rigid Investigation. Following in the footsteps of former city councils, a committee consisting of Councilmen Munro, Howell and Wheeler met in one of the committee rooms last night at the city hall for the purpose of investigating charges that had been made against Street Commissioner St. A. D. Balcombe. In detail, these charges were to the effect that Mr. Balcombe had had favorites in the street gang and that many of the men had been driven about like slaves.

Last night's meeting developed the fact that Joe Kent, the street commissioner's superintendent, was the street commissioner in fact and that he was the man who had been plying the slave driver's lash, if any

John Penny, a foreman who had worked under Kent and who had been discharged, was the first witness placed in the box. Kent had told him that he proposed to make a gang of ten men load a wagon every four minutes and that if they did not do that they would be discharged and no questions asked. One night he told witness, that he was laid off because there was no work. The next morning a number of new men were given employment. In fact, witness thought a great many of the old time men had been fired. Kent had entire enarge and Balcombe was never on the work.

The witness denied that he had ever gone upon the streets making charges against his superiors, though he knew of his own knowledge that Kent kept men and boys to carry beer, and that upon one occasion he was drunk. Mr. Penny denied that the members of the street gang ever employed boys to carry beer for them, as charged by Kent. Kent visited Penny where he was worl ng on the street and told him that his services would not be needed any longer. "How do they work the men?" asked Mr

"The men have to be on the work on time and work ten hours, or they are docked, answered Mr. Penny.

"Are they not paid by the hour?" asked Major Wheeler. "Yes, they are, and get pay for the time they work. I was always particular to give the men just the time they worked." Witness had talked with Major Balcombe, who told him that he had nothing to do with the work, as everything was in the hands of Kent, he never visiting the handling of the men. Nels Peterson had been in the street commissioner's gang for one year. Kent told him that there was not enough work and some of the men would have to be laid off. Witness had always put in ten hours, was paid by the hour and for the time he worked.

W. E. Allen had worked in the street gang for two months and under Kent two days. One day he was in Dave Rowden's gang and laid off an hour to help an old soldier help make out his pension papers. When wiceess returned Kent laid him off, when wheness returned Kent laid him off, telling him that he had been intoxicated. This the witness said he denied and demanded an investigation, which he never made. Kent, however, told him that no other man would take his place, but, not-withstanding this, witness was allowed to remain idle after several new men were set to work. Prior to Kent's administration witness had worked ten hours per day, the time dating worked ten hours per day, the time dating from the leaving of the tool house, but after that, time commenced when the men reached fourteen hours per day.

A. D. Kengam testified that he had been on the street gang for several months. He had worked under Kent for the period of two months, when he was discharged to make room for a new man. One Monday night witness was laid off and the next the work, thus putting in from twelve to morning a man named Duggan took his place. Kent told witness that he was laid off in order to make a place for a man who bust been idle for more than six months. Witness was paid 30 cents per hounfor himself and team. There was never any talk about shortening the hours in order to give work to more men.
