FLEETWOOD'S TRACK RECORD LOWERED

Doble Easily Cuts Three Seconds Off the Mark Without Pushing the Mare-Domino and Dobbins Run a Dead Heat at Sheepshead.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.-Nancy Hanks' trial against the track record was the big feature at Fleetwood park today. Ten thousand people were present to witness the trial. When she strode forth every one present greeted her with voice and hands. Doble drove up to the judges' stand, where he stopped a moment and then walked the queen of the turf slowly up to the starting post. While he was doing this President McKane rang the gong and as soon as quiet was restored said:

"Gentlemen: Mr. Walker wishes me to Introduce Nancy Hanks to you, who will try and beat the track record of 2:00%." Baron Salvia of Italy, deputized by his Jovernment to investigate the trotting in this country, was in the judges' stand.

After some time of exercising, Nancy wheeled at the distance pole. Thrusting forth her nose she began picking up her feet and putting them down again with increasing speed. She was not on parade any more. She had business, and she went about it without any nonsense. Up to the stretch she came with a rush, and at a minute after 4 o'clock she plunged under the wire in front of the judges. Lostering on the outer rim of the track at the upper turn, a horse had been waiting to run after Nancy and make her think she must hustle faster or be overtaken. But she shot past him as if he had been tied to a post. She sped around the turn and the thousands yelled. Through the quarter she sped, lowering ner pace but a trifle.

Peem in a Sulky. Toward the three-quarters the running horse ran upon her and spurred her on into the stretch. At the beginning of the stretch Dobie lay back in his seat and let the mare out to her full speed. She swept into the straight for home with a pace that was Titanic, Her movement was a poem in great action. The delicate shot forth and receded like piston bars, and there came to the eves of e watchers an occasional glint of the waning sunlight on her steel shoes. On she hurried. She was near enough now so the patter of her feet could be heard. Then the eye could see the pinky rim of her eager eyes. Next was heard, but only for a moment, the quick exhaustion of her mag nificent lungs, and then she flew past the stand and under the wire, while the crowd waited silently to hear the result. Doble stopped her at the turn, and then returned to be weighed in with every eye fastened on

Starter Watkins arose to announce the "Nancy Hanks," he said, "first quarter, 31%; half, 1:031%; three-quarters, 1:341%, and a mile, gentlemen, in 2:0634."
As soon as the last word fell from his lids a tremendous roar of applause rolled out of the grand stand. Nancy Hanks lowered the track record by just three seconds, and her reward was $5,000. Results:

Domino and Dobbins Try Conclusions and

End in a Stand Off. SHEEPSHEAD BAY, Aug. 31.-A bluish autumn haze that partly obscured the sun's rays and made an Indian summer day; a track that was perfect and a race, a duel between the greatest 2-year-olds of the season, were the conditions responsible for a jam of humanity that rivaled, if it did not eclipse, the days of Suburban, Brooklyn handicap and Futurity. The crowd was plentifully besprinkled with braves of the tribe of Tammany who, with wampum in their beits, had rallied to do the honor of their great chief, whose peerless steed was today to be glorified or otherwise. Mr. Keene was not looking for matches nor inviting challenges. It was not necessary for Domino to meet Dobbins in a match to establish his fame, but Mr. Keene knew that a match between Domino and Dobbins would make a great stir, would add celebrity and distinction to the meeting and would gratify many thousands he had implicit faith in the ability of Domino to retain the crown of suemacy. So he accepted the chattenge. Mr. Croker, Dobbins' owner, was repre sented by the Dwyers, who made a match on the following terms: Dobbins and Domino are matched for $10,-000, $2,500 forfelt. The race is to be over the Futurity course this afternoon and will be run as the fifth on the program by the condition of day and track. Each colt is to carry 11s pounds, the regular stable weight for 2-year-olds. Taral is to ride Domino and Simus to ride Dobbins.

Thus far this year Domino has started six Dobbins has been at the post eighteen times and has been beaten seven es. His first defeat was in the great American stakes at Brooklyn, when he ran second to Domino, beaten by four lengths. His next defeat was in the great Eclipse stakes at Morris park, where Domino bea him easily by two lengths. Thus it will be seen the colts were apparently the best of the 2-year-olds, with the exception possibly of Senator Grady, who caught Dobbins off in his form and beat him and who has never met Doubles. who has never met Domine

It was after 5 o'clock when the colts were called for the great race. Both horses looked in superb condition. Very little time was spent at the post, the horses being sent away at the second attempt, with Dobbins on the inner rail. Dobbins was the quickest to move with the fall of the flag. At the quarter Domino began to move up. He quarter Domino began to move up. He gained steadily and as he passed the half Domino's black nose showed a few inches to the fore, but Dobbins would not be out and as they swung into the stretch they were running as one borse. Then the mighty struggle began. Both jockeys sat down and rode with all their skill and the noble animals under them responded a will, straining every Neither could gain an advantage and continued as one horse, passing under the wire in 1:12 3-5. Then everybody went crazy. It was not sudden insanity, for it had been gradually worked into force as the magnificent struggle progressed. Men acted like Vassar girls taking their gymnastic trainforses came down the stretch through a series of cheers, howls and that would have deafened one not heated up to enthusiasm.

The horses looked fagged after their terrific race and when it was decided a dead heat and to be run off, Mr. Keene at once declined. The contest was declared no race by the judges, the braves recovered their wampum and tucked it in their belts and the crowd immediately began to lose interest in everything that followed. RACING RESULTS. Meeting at Independence Closes with Some Very Exciting Sport.

INDEPENDENCE, Ia., Aug. 31.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—The largest attendance of the meeting came out to witness the last day's program and was well pleased with the quality of the sport. The two stakes were finished in short order, although there were close finishes in the two heats of the pacing, Webber Wilkes winning each of them by a head in drives that brought the grand stand occupants to their feet. The erratic Maby was on her good behavior in the 2:25 trot after the first heat and won the succeeding three in good style, although Bert Oliver was but a neck behind in the fourth. Summaries:

TRAIN'S SCHEME.

Parsaing His Plan for Sending School Children to the Fair.

George Francis Train delivered another one of his lectures at the Boyd last night. There was a slim attendance and the Citizen held a sort of a levee with his auditors answering different questions put to him. He said he was feeling pretty good over the progress made in his scheme to send a large crowd of school children to the World's fair Mayor Bemis read a communication from Mr. Moss, chairman of the committee on ar rangements, which he asked to be signed and sent to the ministers, so that they might call the attention of the church-goers to the matter and give it greater impetus. "Prohibition does not prohibit," said Citi-zen Train. "Reforms never reform. They always have an ax to grind, and so-called re forms are only schemes of the few to further their political or financial purposes. Temperance reformers are not temperate. I am for free thought? free trade; free silver; free food and free drinks."

He gave his version of the discovery of America and the history of Columbus which was vigorous and unique. He claimed the originated the idea of a world's fair and called Columbus a piratical buccaneer without a vestige of character.
"But the World's fair is the grandest thing ever gotten together on the face of the globe," said the Citizen. "It is marvel-ous. You cannot see all the world, so we brought the world to you, and more than 100 nations are represented there. We want to send 5,000 Omaha boys and girls there. I learned on the quiet today that the Odd Fellows have secured a $5 rate to the A child should go for half fare. This is $2.50, and there you have the question "If any one of you oppose the children in this movement you can never be elected to public office. I know, for I can see ahead." The Citizen will lecture at the opera house at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, and will charge 10 and 15 cents admission. On Saturday night he has called a meeting at the same place to discuss the question of the transportation of the children to the World's fair, and will charge 10 cents admission to defray expenses.

cloths for bathing purposes. Mawher was asked about a board for laying the body out and went to the corn crib and ripped a board off; went to the house, sawed it the proper length and went in to the house with it. Nobody seemed to be able to get the body off the bed. Mawhor put one foot on one side of the corpse and one on the other, and raised it off the bed. He said Mawhor exhibited no emotion whatever. When he came back from calling the doctor. Mawhor met him in the yard and his voice trembled some, which was the only emotion exhibited. The witness neighbored with Mawhor. The prisoner told him after the death of the woman that he was living in Kansas with two daughters and wanted a housekeeper. He advertised and got fourteen answers. The deceased was number 6, and he accepted her and took her home from Kansas City, where she lived, to Axtell, and finally married her.

Cause of the Trouble. On the wedding night the cake was dug into and the deceased was angry over it and blamed Mawhor's daughter. That com-menced the trouble. In Iowa it was kept up over the same daughter. She was sent back to Kansas with a smaller daughter. Mawhor became dissatisfied and planned a separation. He offered to build a house in St. Louis or Kansas City and send the de ceased and children there to live without him, but she would not go. Mawhor planned to leave her. He was to leave the carriage horses lateow, hogs and the crops, and go to Kansas to his daughters. All this was planned unknown to the deceased. Mawhor told the witness that when she came to him she brought good recommendations. He claimed that she told him she kept house for an Englishman in St. Louis whose wife was away two months in the year. During her absence she ruled everything. She said she kent house for is doctor in Kansas City and could have married him, and wished now she had. On account of her con-duct he said his relatives would not associate with his wife; and hence he wanted to separate. She wanted a divorce, Mawhor said, which would cost him $10,000.

On the day of his arrest he said to Harris "What would a jury do if you should tell Harris replied: "They would hang you."
Mawhor said: "The devil, Harris, you know too much."

The two children of the deceased are here and their testimony is looked for with inter est. The coroner startified that Mawhor wanted to know if a dew hundred dollars would suppress the state chemist's report. The court house was crowded today and great interest was indulfested.

ing diversion by raising the royal standard on the island of Maui, drawing troops there, when they intended to blow up the government houses and set fire to the town Preparations were made to prevent the car-rying out of the plot. Admiral Skerritt had been unofficially notified and had ordered the marines under arms and ready to land. The outbreak did not occur, however. It is understood that if it had the admiral w have landed marines and run up the American flag and kept it there permanently This is understood to be the policy of the United States. The admiral, while saying that he acted on his own responsibility, de-clines to deny that such would have been the case. It is the belief in Hawaii that the islands are now practically under the pro-tectorate of the United States.

MATAAFA AN EXILE.

With a Number of His Followers He Has Been Deported from Samoa. APIA, Samoa, Aug. 11-(via San Francisco) -Practically speaking the war in Samon is over, but it is impossible to tell when it may be resumed, as the mere deportation of the rebel chiefs is not certain to have a decisive effect. There still remains a feeling of discontent which may at any time. favorable conditions, assume a serious aspect.
July 26, with Mataafa and daughter and ten of his immediate followers of high rank, bound for Kakaofa island, in the Union

A family named Mangus, consisting of a husband, wife and two children were murdered and several hundred head of stock driven off. The crime was discovered soon after it was committed, and fifty ranch men, cowboys and sheep herders started in pursuit of the band. The Indians were over taken in the mountains and a salemish on sued, which resulted in several on each side being badly wounded. The Indians retreated to their rendezvous, leaving the stolen cattle behind. A call has been made for more government troops to protect the settlers.
