Two Men Who Had a Lock Are Now Very Carefully Locked Up.

THEIR LITTLE GAME WAS TOO OLD

Course Work of a Couple of Alleged Confidence Sharpers-Saloon Keeper O'Connor Refused to Be Victimized-They Will Be Prosecuted.

A couple of confidence men were nabbed by the police yesterday, and prospects appear to be very good for sending them over the road. Heretofore men who were caught to ting a trick have been able to escape punishment, their victims being residents of other places and preferring to accept a little balm for their wounded feelings in the shape of a cash settlement rather than take the trouble of forcing the dupes to a trial. H. L. Laflesh and J. J. Shepard were the names given by two men who arrived in the city yesterday morning and made a tour of South Main street. The former carried a little brass lock while the latter did the innocent stranger act. tried to work nearly every saloon on Main street, and finally dropped in on Mike O'Connor, who was the last one they tried their game on, and probably the last one they will try it on for some little time. After the usual preliminaries had been gone through with Laffesh bet $50 that the lock could be opened, and Shenard took him up. Laffesh unfortunately did not have the cash, but he had a check for $500 which he was willing to leave with O'Connor as security for $50. O'Connor worked his customer deep notification. customer down until he was willing to accept $10. About this time Officer Wiatt happened along, and as soon as Laffesh's en-dorsement was secured he was turned over to the officer and taken to the city jail. Shepard, his confederate, accompanied im, but he was not locked up at once. While the police were investigating to find out whether he was really an accomplice or only an innocent granger, as he claimed to be, he was allowed to sit in the general office at the police headquarter. During his stay there he was allowed to go alone into the wash room for a few minutes. Some tim before his arrest he had run across the officer in charge of the chain gang, and his heart being overcome with sympathy for the poor men who had to work, he took them to a saloon near by and bought each of them a glass of beer and a plug of tobacco, squandering $5 cents in the operation. Officer Whatt no-ticed, when he paid the saloon keeper, that he had a roll of bills in his hand. When he was finally searched at the police station he was found to have less than $5 in change in

Tom King's Penchant for Hunting Board ing Places Causes Him Trouble. Some men would enjoy the scusation of seeing half a dozen ladies after them, but Thomas King, a dried-up specimen of man who blew into town yesterday, enroute from nowhere, is not built that way. He not only had half a dozen ladies after him, but the men, children and dogs who joined in the chase swelled the number to about 200. Lust Wednesday King cailed at the residence of A. D. Hooker on Fairview avenue to see about a place to board for himself and three of his friends. The story he told about himself was satisfactory to the lady of the house, and a bargain was strack, King agreeing to call in the morning and pay his bill in advance. Just as he was leaving he accidentally learned that Mr. Hooker was one of Sheriff Hazen's deputies and left the house in great haste, jump-ing over the porch railing. Yesterday afternoon he called at Mrs Hoagland's residence, on the corner of Fourth avenue and Tenth street, and told the same story about himself and his com parions and made the same sort of Dargain. While he was there it happened that Mrs. Hooker and two other ladies called. The ecognition was mutual and King again found his legs dragging him away in great haste. When Mrs Hoagland had been tole of Mrs. Hooker's experience with the un baste. known she stepped to the door and asked him to return. Instead of complying he broke into a run and it was then that the chase commenced. No Change Allowed. One of the principal items of business brought before Judge Macy in the district court yesterday was the argument of the motion for a change of venue in the divorce case of Jennie Babcock against Plympton Babcock, which was mentioned in yester-day's Brz. The attorneys for both sides did some very energetic work for the clients, but at the close the court held that Mrs. Babcock's residence in Council Bluffs was in good faith, and not simply for the purpose of securing a divorce, and decided that the case must be tried here. Babcock then filed a resistance to the plaintiff's demand for temporary alimony, in which he tried to show that she had no need of support dur-ing the pendency of the suit. This part of the case will come up in court this morning.

Nearly 100 sturdy redskins, principally from the state of Nevada, have come down into the valley to make enough money to purchase their winter sup-oly of provisions. Notwithstanding the fact that there are many idle white men in town, Chinese laborers are daily carried to the hop ields in great numbers.

A couple of old men, aged about 70 years, who had been travelling from the south, made a camp in the Adelaide mining section near Pass Robles, Cal. During the night one of the men, who was blind and very feeble, died, and the other, whose name is King, states that he is a mineralogist and is on his way from Arizona. He had with him a box containing rubics, free gold and quartz to the value of $20,000. This King claims as his own. An inquest was held on the body and a verdict of unknown death was ren-
