Theodore Parker, a huckster, met with serious accident at the Northwestern rail way crossing on Broadway yesterday morn-ing. He was driving across the tracks and did not notice the approach of a freight train that was backing down. It struck him before he could get off the track. His wagon was smashed to pieces and his horse slightly injured, but the driver jumped in time to escape injury. The jump was a leap for life, for Parker did not notice the approach of the train until the car had struck his wagon.

elevating and inspiring. However, he would be a carping critic to find fault with this new instrument, which is undoubtedly one of the best in the city. Mr. Taber, who nes given the best years of his sojourn in Onesha to the elevation of organ music in this community, had the really great pleasure of taking himself by the han't and saying. "I told you so." The labor of love in giving organ recitat after organ recitat to empty pews not only in his own church, but elsewhere, had its roward last night when a magnificent addience gave the young organist a rousing reception. For his opening number Mr. Taber played he battle march from "Rienzi," but the keys were stiff and he had to resort to his stops offener than is usually necessary in big organs to get the flute, piecolo and clarate effects, which somewhat marred the rendition of the composition. For his second number he played the brilliant adatiio cantabile by Haydn and won a royal round of applause, his technique and thorough mastery of his instrument standing out prominently. For an encore he gave the "Funeral Murch of a Marionnette" by Gounod. His third number was Salome's beautiful and highly ideal "Offertory," in D flat," played wonderfully well; then came the always popular "Poet and Peasant" overture, fluxing with the "Posthade in F" by Gade to show off the volume of the organ. Miss Brown, a newcomer to Omaha, sang everal numpers, showing a rich though ight sourano, which she used musically, her olgreest number being Brahm's dainty "Lullaby." Miss Reater, who has been heard in concert a number of times and is one of the best contraitos in the city, sang Meyer Hellmand's "Magie Song" very sceptably, but her encore, "Rock a ye Bady," by Morris, won all hearts by the effective manner in which it was given. it Causes comment,

There is much comment made by the parents of children who live over near what is known as school district No. 3. The teacher in that school vesteritay informed a number of them that they would either have to stop attending that school or pay a tuition of 75 cents a month. When the youngsters went home last night and related what had been told them to their parents it caused some lively debates. It appears that the children spoken to live

Seventh Day Adventists in Session.

SEDALIA, Mo., Sept. 14.-The annual state encampment of Seventh Day Adventists began last night at Forest park. three miles south of the city, the introductory being preached by Eider W. S. Hyatt. There were about 600 visitors on the grounds, who occupy more than 100 family tents, while the services are held in a tent that seats 1,500 people. Nearly every section of the state is represented, but much the larger number come from northern and western Missouri. When the encampment was held here a year ago sensational reports were sent out regarding the doctrines of the Adventists, and, to prevent a repetition this year, Elder Hyatt has ssued an order that reporters' seeking information must be sent direct to him and under no circumstances must any brother or sister divulge the beliefs of the sect. Elder Hyatt has selected his

"appears this rule:

"It is not always enforced, but when you come to employ several thousand persons it is necessary to have s me rules which can be made use of in emergencies. Besides, a circus is not a charitable organization, but a pure business enterprise, and if employes become dis abled through misfortune, the exigencies of their work or their own folly, the employers cannot undertake to sustain the loss. Every little expenditure counts is so big an undertaking, you know, and it is impossible to pay anything for nothing. "However, what I wanted to say was this: That rule was the result of an experience with a man who got the better the management once. That wa back in 1876, when the circus was mak ing a tour of the world. Among the performers was Jim Robinson, the great rider. He was a big star, and had been engaged at a salary of $500 in gold a week. There was an understanding about the salaries of the others, as re gards pay when not performing, but none as to his. Well, when the circus left Australia for India, Mr. Bailey figused that Robinson would be paid over $2,000 while doing nothing, the time of the trip being estimated at thirty-two days. Mr. Bailey didn't think Robinson was worth as much as that, so he tried to break the contract. He took pains to dilate upon the heat of India and the dangers to which riders especially would be exposed there, Robinson listened very patiently while Mr. Bailey dilated the terrors of the Indian climate, the dangers of the jungle, the bad quality of food, the poor hotel accommodations, and every other direful subject that Mr. Bailey's fertile brain could suggest, but when Mr. Bailey hinted that it might be wise for Robinson to give up his contract, the latter replied emphatically: "'Mr. Bailey, you can pitch your tents in hell if you want to, but I'll ride there for $500 a week in gold.' "Mr. Bailey gave up the attempt to frighten Robinson off, but the clause quoted has appeared in every contract

He Was an Expert Crook. DULUTH, Sept. 14.-Frederick Kravenbuhl, the man to whom the W B. Gregg policies were made payable, who escaped from the officers Monday night, is wanted for several other things. As secretary of the Lackawanna iron company he issued stock of the company and forged the name of ex-Mayor M. J. Davis as president. Only two certificates treated by him this way have been discovered. They were for 250 shares. The greatest fear is felt, not for stock that he may have issued in this way, but for old stock that he should have canceled but which may have been put on the market again. An expert has been set to work upon the books, and until he
