COUNTERFEITHERS AT WORK FTAKE WARNING! Forty years ago the site of Omaha saw a stream of emigrants crossing the Missouri river with their household goods. women and children in wagons, starting out on a journey of six months across the desert wastes Uncle Sam's Golden Eagles Being "Queered"

bound for Oregon, braving death at the hands of the savage Indian, tempting the fates of starvation and lurid thirst, to reach that land of promise. A thousand dangers lurked in wait to slay. The bones of thousands of the brave, the stalwart the weak and innocent have long since mingled with the dust along the trails and the story of the pioneer of the path-less way to the Pacific has became the cherished folk lore of an empire.

Progress.

Twenty years ago Omaha had become a city of importance and the railroad had swept aside the dangers of the path to the Pacific. Population has grown npace till 3,000,000 of happy and enter-prising people now dwell in the country which was then a land of promise and now a hand of realization, where the rewards of industry are the largest and the joys of life the most complete on earth. While the callroads have swept aside the dangers by the way, they have not removed the terrors of the long ourney to the distant land.

This is for the people of that country themselves to do. Now they come among us in the progressive spirit of the age and pledge them-solves to prepare homes there for such as choose to come and occupy them. With the railroads they make the change from the storm-driven and cold scourged regions of the east the sunny vales and fruit-laden hills of the Pacific coast a pleasure journey, with peace, plenty and happiness at the end. The Stearns Fruit Land company, whose representative is now in Omaha, is one of the active agencies in the modern development of emigration. Its homes lie within sight of the great city of Portland at the western terminus of the Union Pacific railroad. That city has a hundred thousand inhabitants and s as progressive and strong in proper-tion to its size as any of the cities of the dississippi valley. There can be no listake in accepting the terms offered by this company. Its operations are open and known. See its representative at room 1, First National bank building, Omaha, or address the company at Port-

About one month ago the police were not on the trail of spurious coin shovers, and the latter skipped for pastures new. It is now believed that a regularly organized gaug of coin counterfeiters is operating in Omaha and that nuless prompt measures are taken to break it up that many mer-chants will suffer.
