FRANK BANDHALER FRANK THOMPSON The republican city convention met vester day afternoon at Washington hall, and the matter of nominating Mayor George P Bemis for a second term was merely a question of the time necessary to legally go through certain formalities, as the convention was for him by a handsome majority. The entire field was against him, but he mustered the necessary votes to very comfortably defeat the combination that was put up against him. The convention an exciting one, because of the intense interest manifested by participants, but the utmost fairness prevailed, and no bad blood was engendered. It had been believed by the oppo sition to Bemis that he would not be able to poil a majority on the first ballot, and the intention was to held the friangle firm for several ballots, hoping to discourage some o franchised corporations of the city had made a vigorous fight against the Bemis delegates in several of the wards, but to no avail. At 2:20 Chairman Beindorff of the city central committee called the convention to order, and the roll call was read by Secretary Messick.

Phil Winter named John C. Wharton for the mayor's supporters and pave the way for the nomination of Mercer or Churchill. The temporary chairman, and W. J. Connell named T. K. Sudborough. The total vote gave Sudborough fifty-one and Wharton thirty, but before the result could be announced Winter renewed his ob-jection to the vote of the Fourth ward. After a lively battle T. K. Sudborough was elected temporary chairman. The vote was a fair test of the Bemis and anti-Bemis forces, and the anti-Bemis mirority set out most determinedly to overcome the odds against them.

Settled a Squabble.

Mr. Winter dilated on the alleged irregularities of the election beard in the Fourth

Mr. Cornish argued that it was the generally followed rule of procedure to allow desegates who have duly authenticated credentials to sit and participate in the pre-liminary organization. He said that if the course being followed by the opposition was to be generally observed, it would be pos-sible to disfranchise any ward by getting up a fictitious contest, and such a thing as a fair and honest convention would be entirely out of the question. Finally, after the discussion had been prolonged nearly an hour, the chair ruled that the Fourth ward delegation could not vote on the temporary chairmanship. Connell appealed from the decision of the chair, and the appeal was put to the house. The convention was against the chair, and the decision was not sustained, even without the vote of the Fourth.

The previously barred-out vote was then included in the figures on the secretary's table, and Sudborough was declared elected temporary chairman.

Winter moved the appointment of a committee on credentials, on which all the wards with the exception of the Fourth should have a representation. Connell amended with a motion to include all the wards, and the amendment carried by a viva voce vote Wood appealed from the decision chair, but the chair was sustained on roll call by a vote of 57 to 23.

John T. Yates and J. H. Chapman were elected secretaries, and the following were appointed a committee on credentials: R. K. Paxton, John Hoffman, W. B. Peyton, W. J. Connell, C. H. Willard, Chris Specht, H. E. Cochran, J. W. Furnas, I. R. Andrews, After a long and tedious wait for the an pearance of the committee on credentials a motion prevailed allowing the cadidates for mayor to address the convention

Kyner's Ill Timed Threat. Jim Kyner waited for no further invitation, but immediately proceeded to tumble himself into the breach. He climbed upon the platform and said that he had no speech to make, but he wanted to give the conven-tion a word of warning. He insisted that he offered it kindly, earnestly and sincerely. He had been a republican from boyhood, and all that he owned was here in Omaha, so it was natural for him to take a deep interest in the welfare of this city and the repub-lican party. "But I serve divine notice upon you," he tragically declared, "that if Bemis is nominated for mayor I promise him a most glorious defeat." This declaration brought out a few cheers from the anti-Bemis delegates and a crowd of strikers in the employ of the street rail-way, electric light and water works companies, who had been run into the conven-tion for the purpose, but the cheers were drowned in a storm of hisses that swept through the convention hall. The hissing continued for fully two minutes, and when quiet was finally restored Kyner was livid with rage. "Geose hiss," he shouted, "and so do snakes and fools. I am not here as the authorized spokesman of any order or circle of any kind, but I know whereof I speak when I say that it is not within the power of the party to elect Bemis. For two years Rosewater has been mayor of Omaha, and it is time for him to go out of office."

Rebuked with Hisses.

Again the volume of sharply rebuking hisses swelled upon the air, and, despairing of accomplishing the object for which he mounted the platform, Kyner quickly slid

For several minutes pandemonium held undisputed sway in Washington hall, for when the cheering and hissing subsided the several factions untethered their voices and called londly and long for their respective candidates. When the chairman could make himself heard he asked that the con-vention quietly listen to the candidates who had been invited to speak.

J. C. Wharton said that there was no oc casion for personal allusions, and he wanted all to go out of the hall determined to do all in their power for the nominee. He had his individual preferences, but if the con-vention should say otherwise he would be for the nominee whoever he might be.

Speeches from Candidates.

Again the calls for the contending candi-dates broke out, and after the needless expenditure of a great deal of vocal power, penditure of a great deal of vocal power, the convention greeted the appearance of Dr. Mercer, who spoke for ten migutes.

Next came Mayor Bennis, who said he was glad to meet such an enthusiastic audience. This was the third convention he had ever attended in his life, the first two having been held two years ago. He did not think it "necessary to talk of his politics or his platform, "For the last two years," he said, "my speeches have been action, and it seems to me that actions speak louder than said. "My speeches have been action, and it seems to me that actions speak louder than words. It does not matter to me who is nominated today; I will extend to him the right hand of fellowship, backed up by lots of brotherly love, honesty and truth. It does not seem to me that the kind of republicanism that predicts either glorious or inglorious defeat could be a winning kind of republicanism, if we were all built that way."

He Marched Through teacher.

He Marched Through Georgia. Then came A. S. Churchill, was told how he carried a musket through Georgia. He eulogized the republican party, and declared that the world's tomorrow was what all should be interested in, claiming that the man who did not thus look ahead was a short-sighted representative of the age in which he lived. He hoped the convention would act wisely and promised the nomines, whoever he might be, his best endeavors.

Last of all came F. P. Davis, who said he had always been a republican and believed in republican principles. He wanted to see union in the convention, for in united action there was strength.

T. W. Blackburn humorous v. moved that

T. W. Blackburn humorously moved that cominating speeches do now close, and; after a short wait, the committee on credentials came in with its report.

The report favored seating the acting delegates from all the wards except the Fourth, and the majority of the committee was in favor of seating those also, the minority ob-layer of sealing those aixo, the minority ob-jecting.

Cornish amended with a motion to adopt the majority report, and another wrangle ensued as to whether or not the Fourth ward should be allowed to vote. The convention, on roil call, in which the Fourth and not par-ticipate, gave that ward the right to vote, but the delegation relaxation is a contract. but the delegation voluntarily retrained from taking part in the voting until a sub-stitute admitting both the contesting dele-gations with a half vote each had been de-feated and the majority report adopted by a vote of 40 to 23. Then the delegation was vote of 40 to 23. Then the delegation was declared seated, and from that time it took part in the voting.

The list of delegates was read, and then Cornish moved to make the temporary organization permanent. Woods objected, and insisted on the calling of the roll, which resulted in the completion of the organization by a vote of 53 to 28. A motion of the anti-Bemis men to adjourn until 7 o'clock was defeated on roll call by a vote of 27 to 54, and it was decided to proceed to the nomination it was decided to proceed to the nomination of mayor, nominating speeches being dis-

Nominated on First Ballot.

Winter wanted an informal ballot, but it was knocked out on roll call by a vote of 39 The roll was finally called, resulting in the omination of Bemis on the first ballot. The wards voted as follows:

First, 9 for Bemis; Second, 6 for Bemis,
2 for Mercer, 1 for Davis; Third, 9 for Bemis;
Fourth, 9 for Bemis; Fifth, 3 for Bemis, 1 for Winter protested that it was not unanimous and appealed from the decision of the chair. Roll call was demanded and Winter's ward, the Ninth, went solidly against him. He insisted on the polling of the delegation in order to get a chance to record his vote against making the nomination manimous, but the rolling of the chair was accomplete. but the ruling of the chair was overwhelm-ingly sustained. With the main fight dis-posed of, the remainder of the business of the convention was rapidly transacted. Other Nominations.

For city comptroller, the Second ward presented the name of M. H. Redfield, the Seventh offered Theodore Olsen, and the Fifth presented E. D. Simpson. Olsen received 43 votes. Redfield 31 and Simpson 6. The nomination of Olsen was nade unanimous. For city clerk John Groves received 47 votes, Beech Higby 31 and Van Lady 2. The nomination of the present incumbent was made unanimous. City Treasurer Henr Bolin was nominated for another term b acclamation. For police judge Judge Lou Berka received 71, Charles F. Kempfer and the nomination of the former was made

Next on the call came councilmen-at-larg and Benedict, who represented the minori delegation from the Fifth ward, wanted the choice of the various wards, as expressed

Ernest Stuht endeavored to obtain reco nition, although not a delegate, but was sa down upon with a vigar that disarranged the capillary cable that anchors his cranic iemispheres together.

It was finally decided to indorse the re spective choices of the other eight ward and consider the Fifth by itself. Redma declared that the fight in that ward ha been Bemis and anti-Bemis, but the othpart of the delegation protested that it we nothing of the kind, as Kyner and an vner was the issue.

HOW PLEDGES WERE THRO AN TO THE WIND

Tabulated Statements of the Soveral Ballots, Showing Where the Treachery that Deleated Maxwell Got in Its Work on the Susceptible.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 7 .- | Special to THE BEE. |-The last of the delegates to the two state conventions have gone home and if some of the conversations that were heard in hotel rotundas, on the curbstone and on the depot platforms are any criterion by which to judge, there will be some wholesale lying indulged in by delegates from more than one of the counties when they attempt to square themselves with their constituents for the shameless betrayal of the trust reposed in them. Many is the delegate who has been taken to task today by some of the faithful who died in the ditch with Maxwell, and they have not hesitated to make their charges of treachery in language that could not be mistaken. But it must not be supposed for a moment that the guilty ones admitted their culpability. They stood up brazenly and protested that they had carried out their instructions, and in the absence of figures with which to prove the falsity of their statements, they succeeded quite weil on the whole in running their stupendous bluff. There is little doubt that it is their intention to square themselves when they get home by insisting that they were among those who stayed with Maxwell to the last, trusting that there will be nothing at hand with which their statements can be successfully refuted.

these traitors to cover up their treachery by a general denial of it, it may not be amiss at this time to present the official figures of the various ballots taken in the nomination of a candidate for supreme judge, that some o the republican voters of the state who sent delegates instructed for Maxwell may know delegates instructed for Maxweil may know how grossly they were betrayed.

The counties instructing for Maxweil were: Buffalo, Burt. Butler, Cass, Cedar, Colfax, Cuming, Custer, Dakota, Dixon, Filimore, Frontier, Garfield, Howard, Jef-ferson, Lincoln, Madison, Merrick, Perkins, Pierce, Polk, Rock, Sarpy, Thurston, Wash-ington, Wayne, Wheeler, York, Here are the tell-tale figures:

ENDORSED THE BAR NOMINEES.

Democrats in Convention Assembled Concur in the Choice of Attorney.

The three legal gentlemen whose names were selected by the members of the bar of the Fourth judicial district as proper parties to sit upon the bench and administer justice were nominated by the delegates to the democratic judicial convention, which con; vened in the Board of Trade rooms yester-

This convention was an hour late in convening, but after it got down to business S. R Rush was elected chairman.

Everything was harmonious enough until Edgar Howard, chairman of the Sarpy county contingency, threw a bomb into the camp by moving that the convention proceed to the nomination of three democratic candilates for the position of judges of the dis-triet court. This was the rock upon which harmony was wrecked, for in an instant a dozen of the members of the Douglas county delegation were upon their feet, clamoring for recognition. W. S. Shoemaker caught the eye of the chairman and was given the floor, from which he proceeded to lash the ditor from the Pappio to the queen's taste. He said that the bar, which was composed of both democrats and republicans, had unanimously selected W. C. Walton, E. R. Duffle and W. S. Curtis as nonpartisan candidates, and the the con-vention which had named the delegates b the judicial convention had instructed all of those delegates to vote for the nominees of the bar meeting. Mr. Howard, he said, was a member of that convention and sat sub-missively by and accepted the position of a delegate, never objecting to the instructions It was bad grace for the gentleman to kick over the traces, especially as he had been a party to loading the delegates down with the instructions.

Upon closing his remarks Mr. Shoemaker moved as an amendment that the word "democratic" be stylcken from the motion. T. J. Mahoney reviewed the action of the bar meeting and in an extended speech urged that it was for the interest of the people of the four equaties that there should be good judges upon the beach and removed as far as possible from the slums of politics.

Then the matter was fixed up and it was decided that the nominees should stand as the nominees of the democratic convention.

Howard went down in the whirl, while Mr. Mahoney placed before the convention the names of the nominees of the bar meet-Again Howard Jumped to the front and camed B. E. B. Kennedy, T. J. Mahoney and Charles Offutt for the same positions. Mr. Mahoney refused to allow the conven-tion to vote upon his name, and at the same time saying that both Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Offutt participated in the bar convention and were too honorable gentlemen to pose before the people as boiters.

A vote being reached, 103 ballots were cast for the candidates of the bar, with the ten Sarpy county delegates voting for the men who had been nominated by Mr. When the result was announced the chairman of the Sarpy county delegation declared that he would declare war, and that he would see that there was another ticket in the field.
