Sheriff Conningham Tatks.

Cunningham was seen in the Millard earlier in the evening by a Ber reporter and was asked to tell about the capture of Scott. He said: "I had received a description of scott and was looking for him, I was re turning from California with a prisoner and while stopping at Rincon, N. M., I saw Scott get out of the sleeping car and go to the lunch stand. I wired the sheriff of Holt ounty and asked what reward was offered or his arrest. The sheriff replied $1,000. would not bother with the case for that amount and they increased the reward to $2,000. They I began trailing him. I followed him to the City of Mexico and from there to Juarez in the state of Chihauhau, traveling 1,300 miles.

"I arrested him in the hotel at Juarez after getting the drop on him. He was armed, and when I covered him he said: Your name is Cunningham. Well, you have got the advantage of me.' "I went before the jefe politice and filed a complaint against the prisoner and he held Scott for me. Scott employed five attorneys to get a release, but President Diaz and the governor of Chinauhau assisted me. and on August 28 the jefs politics of Jaurez received an order from the governor of that state turing the prisoner over to me.

"I received valuable assistance from Sheriff Simmons of Et Paso, Tex., in getting Scott back to Nebraska, and I want to say right here that the telegram from El Paso stating that he was afraid that I was going to beat him out of his share of the reward is

"We are working together in this and other cases. On our way to O'Neill we stopped in Kansas City and escaped the reporters and a habeas corpus. This is the first time I have been interviewed. We kept Scott in a steeping car and locked the car when we came through Omaha to avoid any papers which might be in the hands of officers waiting for us.

"When we got to O'Neill the people at the depot cheered for me and threw up their hats as an expression of their approval of my bringing Scott back. I was well treated while there and the story that I was afraid of any personal barm is a fake. If those those people think I don't go prepared, look

While in the City of Mexico Scott gave $30,000 to a broker for safe keeping. Since getting the cash the latter has skipped the country. We have a clew to the brok and I expect to arrest him on my return and secure the money for Holt county. But you must say nothing about this, as it will be a give away.

Scott Was Traveling Alone.

"When I arrested Scott he was traveling alone. He was very nervons until we reached Nebraska and he met J. H. Uttly. I was luck to capture him and get him safely back here, I think.

Tonight a friend came to me and told me that Scott had many friends in Omaha who might cause us trouble. Well, we are law abiding citizens, but if they jump on us there will be some hot work, for we are prepared to protect ourselves at any time. We advised to leave here this afternoon, but I am not going until 10:30 tonight.

"While at O'Neill I learned that Scott's shortage was from $94,000 to $104,000. He forfeited $20,000 bonds. Akin was arrested by myself and Sheriff Simmons on a warrant sent us by County Attorney Murphy of Holt He was indicted for aiding and abetting a fugitive from justice to escape.

Vig.lant Has a New Bowaprit and is Ready for the Wind and Waves.

Dunraven Hopes for a Gale in Which to Try His Boat's Weather Qualities-Complains of Interference by Excursion Steamers.

BRITISHERS PRAYING FOR HIGH WINDS

New Yoak, Oct. 10 .- The new bowsprit that takes the place of the one that was sprung in the Vigilant's race Monday against the Valkyrie for the America's cup was in position this afternoon and the third race of the match will be sailed tomorrow. The Valkyrie never turned a rope in her work of Monday, so, of course, she will be all

Lord Duncaven, Designer Watson, Captain Cranfield and Sailmaker Rabey are all praying for a heavy wind. They claim, and with truth, that the Vigilant's superiority m half a gale has not yet been proven in a race between the conts and they want a chance in that sort of weather before they admit that the American model is better than that of the English. No just comparison can be made between what the Valkyrie did in English waters on a hard blow and what the American boat has done

In her own waters.

The only way to compare the boats is at a time when they are racing together over the same waters, with the same winds, and above the same tides and currents. The cications tonight are that there will be about the same strength of wind tomorrow as prevailed on Monday, but from a north resterly direction. If the wind is from the northwest the eachts will start on a run to leeward the first fifteen miles and beat the Dunrayen Makes a Kick.

Lord Dunraven bore the defeat of his boat ike a true sportsman. There was not a shade of annoyance in his manner as he greated a reporter at the Hotel Waldorf and frankly discussed the incidents of the day. "As the result of the race I am satisfied that the Vigilant is the faster boat at the weight of wind which prevailed. In heavier or lighter weather the Valkyrie might make a much better showing. The unfortunate part of the day was the interfering done—innocently enough—by excursion steamers Now, while I honestly believe that the Vig liant would have beaten me under the most favorable conditions for a good race, nevertheless, but for those excursion steamers she certainly would not have finished more than five minutes ahead at most. It seem too bad, after coming so far for a fair race. to encounter this serious annovance.

"What I wish is a fair test of merit with the American boat, which cannot be secured while racing in the midst of a fleet of stemmers. It will be hard for the public to estimate the retarding influence of their wash. Yachtsmen, however, do know how hard it is sailing in rough water, and will understand the difficulty under which the Valkyrie labored when I say that her decks were frequently under the water from the wheels of passing steamers. So serious is this annoyance and so fatal is it to a fair test of speed that could I have foreseen this I would not have consented to race in these crowded waters. With the spiendid breeze we should have had a magnificent race. think it is very probable that we wil win the next race, but to capture the cup must take three straight races, and-well, the prospect is somewhat dublous.

May Abandon the Pursuit.

Throughout the interview the earl was courteous and unemotional to a degree, but there was an inflection in his voice which told of utter disgust when he spoke of in trusive excursion boats. He professed himself entirely satisfied with the manner to which the Valkyrie was acting, and that he had no idea of trying any new experiments in the coming race.

Lord Dunrayen says he has not decided to build another boat for competition next year. Yachtsmen in New York are convinced that will never send over bare ar boat that has not a centerboard, and such a departure from English tradition would be too radical for British pertinacity to digest. The wise ones say there never again will be challenger for "the America's cup from ingland. The same persons said the same hing when the Thistle was so badly beaten by the Volunteer, and their opinion is only given for what the reader may think is worth.

All Gumbert Gives the Bostons a Beating at Lincoln, Oct. 10.—[Special Telegram to Tan Ban.]—The 1,100 local fans who went out to Lincoln park this afternoon to witness he game put up by the Bostons and All Americans were treated to an exceptionally ne game of ball, considering the fact that it was purely an exhibition affair. The game was played with a snap and vigor seldom witnessed in exhibition contests, and noth teams played with as much earnestness as if the National league championship depended upon the result. The feature of game was the fine work of Hoy, the mute, whose hitting and base running aroused the enthusiasm of every lover of the national name. Gumbert pitched a fine game for the All Americans and was given excellent sup-port. Stivetts was hardly up to his usual mark, although his work with a few exceptions was good. Ganzell put up his usual excellent game. There was an entire absence of horse play and the unanimous verdict of the local sports who witnessed the contest was that the teams are not in the hippodrome dusiness. After the repeal of the Sherman law the After the repeal of the Sherman law the reformation of the laws relating to coinage becomes a duty devolving upon congress and is not at present a subject for action or interference. It remains to be seen whether congress will act as wisely as the president has done. Promptly repeal the Sherman law, give nature a chance to get back to her normal condition, restore confidence in the normal condition, restore confidence in the ability of the government to maintain its financial policy, help the crippled banks to resume, light again the fires in our furnances and start anew the wheels in our factories. Then let congress pause and reflect.

Senate as a Bar to the House. In conclusion, Mr. McPherson said: "Of what use is a legislative body that cannot act as the majority desires! That a majority of this body should be allowed to stand as a bar to the other branch of congress in giving effect to the will of the majority of the people is not to be endured, and the senate nust find a way to exercise its constitutiona functions or cover itself with contempt.

When Mr. McPherson concluded

speech Mr. Stewart, republican, of Nevada asked whether he accused the misority in the senate on the repeal bill of attempting to thwart the will of the majority other than by legitimate debate.

Mr. McPherson replied he had not yet made such an accusation, but he did not know what he would do before the debate

Mr. Stewart then argued as to the im portance of unrestrained debate in senate, expressing the belief that government would be a monarchy today had t not been for the senate.

Mr. Stewart drifted into a general free coinage speech, but Mr. Cockrell, who had yielded the floor to Mr. McPherson, became impatient and Mr. Stewart observing it soon took his seat.

After Mr. Cockrell had spoken nearly two hours, Mr. Allen of Nebraska called at tention to the fact that only eight senators were present and the presiding officer directed that the roll be called. Just a quorum responded and Mr. Cockrell coninued his speech.

Mr. Cockreil read extensively from reports of the international monetary conference of 1867 to show the part taken by Senator Sherman, who, he said, had never been given proper credit for his efficient work in aid of the establishment of the single gold stand-ard. To that conference the United States sent Samuel Ruggles as its, representative, but Senator Sherman was in Paris at the time unauthorized and he was introduced to the conference. That was the only opportunity the United States had to secure an international bimetallic agreement, but it was rejected and Senator Sherman was m responsible for its rejection than any other "International bimetallism is a mere dream," he declared, "We might just as well seek an international language. International bimetallism was prevented when the language of the world was confused at the Tower of Babei."

"Do I understand," asked Mr. Hawley, that the senator from Missouri claims the nations of the world generally are opposed to international agreement? "I have not yet Tound a solitary nation in If the international conferences," replied Mr. Cockrell, "which was willing to give up its monetary system for any other that was

On the con-trary the depreciation had been caused, he said, by legislation closing the mints against silver. In substantiation of this statement, Mr. Cockrell, apparently with great satisfac-tion, read from a speech of Senator Sherman, made in April, 1876; in which that sen-

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.-Opinions differ as nuch as to the probable length of the coninuous session as they do as to what the result will be. The silver men are counting upon its continuing for forty-eight hours and are making their plans accordingly. Estimates of the number who can be relied upon to refuse to make a quorum range all the way from fifteen to thirty. MELLO AGAIN OPENS FIRE

ICONTINUED FROM FIRST PAGE. ing the case once more. The special meeting of the cabinet, which had been called for tonight to have counsel present the ar gument why Weeks should not be delivered up to the United States authorities represented by Detective Sergeants Vongerichten and Reilly, has therefore been indefinitely postponed. No doubt another meeting will be called as soon as the president recovers. Will Consider Home Interests.

Rodriguese is an able lawyer himself and is not likely to be influenced by the arguments of counsel to do anything not for the best interests of Costa Rica in her friendly relations with the United States. The course of the Costa Rican authorities in the Weeks case is causing a great deal of surprise. They assured United States Consul Williams when they first agreed to detain Weeks here under surveillance in his hotel that they would surrender him to the United States government as a matter of courtesy upon the arrival of documents from Washington proving the fact that the fugitive had been indicted in New York for a crime which would have been extraditable had a treaty of the usual kind existed between the two nations. Disappointment and surprise are generally expressed therefore at the failure of the Costa Rican authorities to comply with their promise. now that all the conditions they at first stipulated for have been fully conformed with. Resident Americans here have felt that they are losing ground in popular estimation and that the prestige of their government is being weakened by this disrespectful dillydallying with a case which can be of little importance to Costa Rica, but is of great import to Americans. reatures of the Case.

President Rodriguese yesterday assured Fernandez, Weeks' lawyer in his fight aginst extradition, that the case would be carefully weighed in the cabinet on the basis of international law and precedent only. He promised Fernandez, moreover, that a decision would be arrived at regardless of the couflicting influences brought to bear upon him in the matter, regardless of the so-called custom of extradition through international courtesy and without taking into consideration at all the local sympathy which Weeks has succeeded in arousing among native Costa Ricans, who insist that he should not be extradited as long as no treaty exists between the two countries or the United States is unwilling to make a promise of reciprocity, should the occasion arise.

Conditions as Calcutated by the Statistician of the Department of Agriculture.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 .- The October returns to the statistician of the Department of Agriculture make the general condition of corn 75.1, against 76.7. The highest rate of yield is in New England, eastern, extreme western and mountain states, and lowest in the central, west and southern states. The small yield is the result of the drouth during the fall, which caused poor germination and growth the severe winter following causing con-siderable winter killing. The low condition on many states is the result of a dry spring The yield would have been much less had not much of the worthless wheat been plowed and the ground put in other grains. The quality in the eastern, southern and Pacific states is up to an average, while in the states from which the commercial supplies are received it is below an average. The states reporting the lowest averages as to quality are:

The tragedian was evidently at his best and received several enthusiastic curtain calls; His superb presentation of Richelieu met with popular ap-proval throughout. Bulwer's historical play, with its many climaxes of thrilling effect, gave the conscientious tragedian an excellent opportunity to display his antity. n this ne did not disappoint the audience n the Garden of Louvre scene his profi

Mr. Frank Hennig as Count de Baradas appeared to much better advantage last evening. Mr. Hennig has a splendid voice.

He is a much better Baradas than a Richmand. He seems to have a clearer concep tion of the former character and does not overreach himself.

Mr. Eagleson as Louis XIII was acceptable, Mr. Edwin Arnold as Chevaller do Mauprat deserves favorable comment. Miss Florence Rockwell, a young lady with a bright histrionic future, presented the character of Julia in a pleasing manner.

W. B. BERRY FILLED WITH GUN SHOT

Particulars of the Affair and His Recent Sudden Departure Cause Some Comment-Taxpayers League Futty Organized-Notes and Personals.

W. B. Berry, formerly of the firm of Persons & Borry of this city, is lying in a painful condition from a gun shot wound in his left side at the home of Mr. Wilcox, a farmer living four miles out of Ida Grove,

Mr. Hadlock, a cattleman from Ida Grove was in South Omaha last evening and gave out the first information of the affair that reached the general public, although the shooting was known of by a few Berry'sr friends and was kept awfully quiet. When the news spread around last night the affair furnished gossip awfully quiet. or the entire town. Mr. Berry was well known here. He was recently in the real estate business in South Omaha.

But meager details of the shooting could be learned by Tus Bur reporter last night. The act was committed about one week ago. It seems that Mr. Berry left South Omaha rather suddenly. His business matters were all straight, but he made up his mind in a hurry to get away. In fact he had a man make out deeds for all of his property in blank and they were filled somewhere out side of Omaha. He did not say goodby or inform any of his many acquaintances tha he intended leaving until after he had gone

Story of the Saooting. From Omaha, Council Bluffs, or wherever he started, he went direct to lda Grove to spend a few days of rest on the farm with Mr. Wilcox, father of the gentleman who succeeded him in business here. On the fternoon of the shooting Mr. Berry said to Mr. Wilcox that he had seen some quail out in the cornfield and asked him if he had a shotgun he could use. Mr. Wilcox gave him the gun and Berry started off alone. This was about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Berry had not returned by supper time and the family became alarmed. An hour later a small searching party was made up and the fields in the neighborhood were scoured for the lost man. About 9 o'clock a son of Mr. Wilcox went to the house and found Berry there. He said the gun had "kicked" and he wanted a doctor. Mr. Wilcox got on to a horse and started to town for a physical started to the said the grant had "kicked" and he wanted a doctor. Mr. Wilcox got on to a horse and started to town for a physical started to the said sician. On the way he met his father, who went on home and found that Mr. Berry was suffering from a bad wound in the breast near the heart. Mr. Berry's wife and father-in-law were telegraphed at Gardner, Me., and came on at once. Bert Wilcox of this city received a letter from Mr. Berry yesterday in e stated that if the load had went in a little deeper they would have been "strew-ing flowers on Willy's grave." Bert says be believes the shooting was accidental and re grets very much that it occurred. Mr. Berry has many friends in this city who will rejoice at hearing of his speedy recovery. Frank Broadwell left here Saturday night for Ida Grove and writes back that Mr. Berry will be able to continue his journey east inside of a week.

Mr. Hadlock says the report that it was a case of attempt at suicide was current in Ida Grove. If this is true the friends of Mr. Berry in South Omaha state they have no idea of the cause. It is certain, however, that at the time Berry left South Omaha he appeared to be very much worried about something. Olt was evidently not over money matters, as the young man was fairly well supplied with finances, and his father-in-law, in whose employ he was soon to enter, is quoted as being very wealthy. Berry was never accused of being stingy, and some of his acquaintances even went so far as to refer to him as a sport.

Taxpayers League.

There was a largely attended and interesting meeting of the Taxpavers is held in the city council chamber last night. A dozen or more new names were added to the membership.

Speeches were made by J. J. Breen, Dave Anderson and others in the interests of the taxpayers and against reckless expenditure of the city's money by extravagant city of-ficials. Mr. Breen made a strong argument in favor of the league. He said it was the thing for the men who had to pay the taxes. It gave- protection to all, and did not interfere with any individual rights. He said he had looked over the records of the city and found some startling facts. Hack hire had been paid out of the city treasury, one man had drawn two salaries, and other things could be found that were equally as unjust The organization of the league would retoo high in this city at the present time Articles of incorporation were read adopted. The capital stock is placed at $300

Magie City Gossip. J. W. Sipe and family are home from a pleasant visit with friends in lown. Pete Anderson escaped from the county hospital yesterday and was captured in South Omaha.

John Varak, who has been living at Twen neth and O streets, was taken to the county iospital yesterday.

John Kelley, a boy 6 years of age, was re-ported to the police last evening as lost. His home is at Twenty-sixth and O streets. Neal Corcoran, the man who assaulted harley Haves with a loaded cane, has been placed under arrest, and his hearing will take place on Thursday morning. Lester Reece was brought to the police station last evening by his mother, who re-quested that he be locked up. The lad had run away from home, and his mother says he has passed beyond her control. An effort will be made to send the boy to the reform school. Councilman Schultz is being discussed for mayor next spring. Some of Schultz's friends have dubbed him the "watch dog o the city treasury." He has demanded a checking up of the city treasurer's books, and the work will be done as soon as Mr. Hector gets home from the Chicago fair.

NORTH DAKOTA'S DAY.

Residue of Monday's Crowd Swelled the Gate Receipts Yesterday. Cincago, Oct. 10 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE |-North Dakota was fortunate in Chicago day. While there was an overflow crowd, almost equal to the population of the state, the visitors had to celebrate in a park that was scattered with rubbish from one end to the other. For that reason Governor E. C. D. Short-ridge led his people into the North Dakota building among the flags and paims that had been placed in honor of the day, and there the celebration bogan at 11 o'clock. After a brief statement concerning the North Dakota exhibits at the fair by the president of the board Governor Shortridge made the address of the day. He reviewed, in a measure, the history and resources of the state and expatiated on the glories of the exposition and the part his people had taken building it.

After a reading by Miss Alice Clemner of Grand Forks ex Governor A. H. Burke made a short speech. Miss Minnie L. Benham of Devil's Lake read a fow selections and the ormal program closed with music.
A general reception for Governor Shortidge and his staff followed, many prominent North Dakotans being present. This even-ing there was a formal reception in honor of
