

senate again, forty-eight senators answering to their names.

Daylight Aroused Them. By this time the day had blotted out the garish yellow light that illuminated the chamber. Vice President Stevenson had risen and expected that the senators would be reading the morning papers, were chatting with a fair degree of sprightliness and the senate seemed once more thoroughly alive.

At 10:30 Mr. Allen had held the floor since the previous session. He had been placed in the chair by the speaker, Mr. Martin, and was addressing the senators on the subject of the repeal of the silver laws.

At 11:30 Mr. Allen had held the floor since the previous session. He had been placed in the chair by the speaker, Mr. Martin, and was addressing the senators on the subject of the repeal of the silver laws.

At 12:30 Mr. Allen had held the floor since the previous session. He had been placed in the chair by the speaker, Mr. Martin, and was addressing the senators on the subject of the repeal of the silver laws.

At 1:30 Mr. Allen had held the floor since the previous session. He had been placed in the chair by the speaker, Mr. Martin, and was addressing the senators on the subject of the repeal of the silver laws.

At 2:30 Mr. Allen had held the floor since the previous session. He had been placed in the chair by the speaker, Mr. Martin, and was addressing the senators on the subject of the repeal of the silver laws.

At 3:30 Mr. Allen had held the floor since the previous session. He had been placed in the chair by the speaker, Mr. Martin, and was addressing the senators on the subject of the repeal of the silver laws.

At 4:30 Mr. Allen had held the floor since the previous session. He had been placed in the chair by the speaker, Mr. Martin, and was addressing the senators on the subject of the repeal of the silver laws.

At 5:30 Mr. Allen had held the floor since the previous session. He had been placed in the chair by the speaker, Mr. Martin, and was addressing the senators on the subject of the repeal of the silver laws.

At 6:30 Mr. Allen had held the floor since the previous session. He had been placed in the chair by the speaker, Mr. Martin, and was addressing the senators on the subject of the repeal of the silver laws.

At 7:30 Mr. Allen had held the floor since the previous session. He had been placed in the chair by the speaker, Mr. Martin, and was addressing the senators on the subject of the repeal of the silver laws.

plain his refusal. This he did, saying that he considered the amendment important to be passed upon without debate.

On a motion to excuse Mr. Dubois the senators answered and the vote resulted 21 ayes and 29 nays.

Mr. Dubois' name was then called, and notwithstanding the vote of the senate, he did not express to the roll call.

Here followed a discussion as to whether Senator Dubois could be compelled to vote, and the mechanical parliamentary questions which were involved, but the issue was quickly dropped.

Mr. Dubois sat in his seat all the time, and his name did not appear in the list of the voters who voted. Neither did the names of several other senators on the silver side who were present all the time.

While this discussion was in progress the hands of the old senate clock were moving on, and the hour of 10 o'clock saw several senators present who had not been in the chamber for several hours.

Some of them sat at all during the night. Many of them voted on the motion to lay the Peffer amendment on the table.

At 11:30 Mr. Allen had held the floor since the previous session. He had been placed in the chair by the speaker, Mr. Martin, and was addressing the senators on the subject of the repeal of the silver laws.

At 12:30 Mr. Allen had held the floor since the previous session. He had been placed in the chair by the speaker, Mr. Martin, and was addressing the senators on the subject of the repeal of the silver laws.

At 1:30 Mr. Allen had held the floor since the previous session. He had been placed in the chair by the speaker, Mr. Martin, and was addressing the senators on the subject of the repeal of the silver laws.

At 2:30 Mr. Allen had held the floor since the previous session. He had been placed in the chair by the speaker, Mr. Martin, and was addressing the senators on the subject of the repeal of the silver laws.

so and he would now return to it and proceed in a quiet way for the next few hours.

Another call was had at 4:15, forty-five senators answered and the vote resulted 21 ayes and 29 nays.

Mr. Martin continued. At 5:05 p. m. he said he would close his speech for the present, with the hope that he might continue the discussion at some future time.

Mr. Morgan, democrat, of Alabama gave notice of an amendment to the repeal bill, prepared by him and by the representatives of his state, Mr. Pugh.

Mr. Morgan said that the amendment provided for the coinage of silver dollars of 412 grains, which, together with all silver dollars of 412 grains and less.

Mr. Morgan said that the amendment provided for the coinage of silver dollars of 412 grains, which, together with all silver dollars of 412 grains and less.

Mr. Morgan said that the amendment provided for the coinage of silver dollars of 412 grains, which, together with all silver dollars of 412 grains and less.

Mr. Morgan said that the amendment provided for the coinage of silver dollars of 412 grains, which, together with all silver dollars of 412 grains and less.

Mr. Morgan said that the amendment provided for the coinage of silver dollars of 412 grains, which, together with all silver dollars of 412 grains and less.

Mr. Morgan said that the amendment provided for the coinage of silver dollars of 412 grains, which, together with all silver dollars of 412 grains and less.

Mr. Morgan said that the amendment provided for the coinage of silver dollars of 412 grains, which, together with all silver dollars of 412 grains and less.

shamefully abused individual, while Cunningham repeatedly declared that the defendant treated him as a prisoner.

He testified that he had no respect for a criminal, and that other than the fact that he should always consult his own convenience, rather than the wishes of a person who had wronged him.

Since his return to the county jail, Cunningham has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail.

He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail. He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail.

He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail. He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail.

He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail. He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail.

He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail. He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail.

He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail. He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail.

He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail. He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail.

He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail. He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail.

He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail. He has been in the custody of the sheriff, but has not been in jail.

up, just as did the collections of the month, at the same time that Scott took his departure.

It is in evidence that he drew out the money that was in the Stuart State bank a week before he fled.

On arriving at Sioux City Scott looked up a fax sale purchaser by the name of Thompson, who had bought the bank.

One of the most serious phases of the shortage is the condition in which it leaves the district schools of the county.

The school district of O'Neill suffers to the extent of $10,000 and it is stated that the term will be shortened here.

What has become of the stolen money is a question that all are trying to solve. It is not believed by any one that it is hidden away in any one place.

It is positively reported that Scott lost considerable money in the game of roulette.

It was ascertained by the commissioners in the case of the failure of Scott to furnish a satisfactory bond.

But that is anticipating the story somewhat, as another mandamus case was started in the court on Monday.

When the Holt County bank failed on July 2, Scott was refused by the bank.

When the Holt County bank failed on July 2, Scott was refused by the bank.

Errors in settlement of first term. Total balance due. Refuting a stander.

The honest, law-abiding citizens of O'Neill and the banks have been doing a gross injustice by some of the reports that have been circulated in connection with this matter.

It is in evidence that he drew out the money that was in the Stuart State bank a week before he fled.

On arriving at Sioux City Scott looked up a fax sale purchaser by the name of Thompson, who had bought the bank.

One of the most serious phases of the shortage is the condition in which it leaves the district schools of the county.

The school district of O'Neill suffers to the extent of $10,000 and it is stated that the term will be shortened here.

What has become of the stolen money is a question that all are trying to solve. It is not believed by any one that it is hidden away in any one place.

It is positively reported that Scott lost considerable money in the game of roulette.

It was ascertained by the commissioners in the case of the failure of Scott to furnish a satisfactory bond.

But that is anticipating the story somewhat, as another mandamus case was started in the court on Monday.

When the Holt County bank failed on July 2, Scott was refused by the bank.

Grand railroad bonds. Special issue. State apportionment school fund.

Balance. Errors in settlement of first term. Total balance due. Refuting a stander.

The honest, law-abiding citizens of O'Neill and the banks have been doing a gross injustice by some of the reports that have been circulated in connection with this matter.

It is in evidence that he drew out the money that was in the Stuart State bank a week before he fled.

On arriving at Sioux City Scott looked up a fax sale purchaser by the name of Thompson, who had bought the bank.

One of the most serious phases of the shortage is the condition in which it leaves the district schools of the county.

The school district of O'Neill suffers to the extent of $10,000 and it is stated that the term will be shortened here.

What has become of the stolen money is a question that all are trying to solve. It is not believed by any one that it is hidden away in any one place.

It is positively reported that Scott lost considerable money in the game of roulette.

It was ascertained by the commissioners in the case of the failure of Scott to furnish a satisfactory bond.

But that is anticipating the story somewhat, as another mandamus case was started in the court on Monday.

Boyd's New Theatre. Thursday, Friday, Saturday & Sunday. Oct 12, 13, 14 and 15.

Boyd's New Theatre. Wednesday Evening, Oct. 18. Lecture by the Noted Orator.

Boyd's New Theatre. Myths and Miracles. Box Shows Open Tuesday Morning at the Fox Theatre.

Boyd's New Theatre. 15th Street Theatre. Tonight and Saturday Matinee.

Boyd's New Theatre. The Tornado. Matinee Saturday. Any seat in the house.

Boyd's New Theatre. Popular Public 15th Street Theatre. Myths and Miracles.

Boyd's New Theatre. A Railroad Ticket. Matinee Wednesday and Saturday.