DAILY BEE NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

Serious Charges Made Against Members of the Fire Department.

CAUSE OF SEVERAL MYSTERIOUS FIRES

Firemen Accused of Being Responsible for Many Confligrations that Have Occurred of Late. Several Suspicious. Circumstances.

Ben Webber, a young man who has been 'subbling" on the fire department for a few weeks past, is under arrest and it is a serious charge to which he will have to plead. And there is a probability, too, that the difficulty in which he now finds himself will be shared, at least to a certain extent by some of the members of the city fire department. Shortly before II o'clock Wednesday night Officer F. M. Scanlan, who is doing special work in the eastern part of the city, chanced to pass an old building that was formerly used as a marble shop on East Broadway near the corner of Benton and discovered that it was on fire. He extinguished the blaze, which was in the southwest corner of the building, and passed on, thinking but little more about it. Half an hour later he repassed the same place and found the fire again burning. He put it out once more. Just as this happened Officer G. L. Martin and his son, Officer G. N. Martin, who is doing special work, heard two men running down Pierce street. It did two men running down Pierce street. It did not occur to them that anything was seri-ously wrong and so they made no effort to stop the fugitives, although they followed them on the run. The two men who were ahead dashed into the rear door of the Upper Broadway engine house and shutting the door after them passed up stairs, as Martin could see through a small window in the rear of the building although he could the rear of the building, although he could not see plainly enough to recognize the two men. The door locked when it shut and he could not go any further, and so Martin the younger, ran around to the front of the building to see that no one escaped that way.

Caught Under Suspicious Circumstances. Scaulan then went to lunch, leaving Newt Martin to watch the scene of the fire. About three o'clock Martin was rewarded by the sight of a man coming up the street. He slipped steathfly into the passageway between the marble shop and the building next door, but almost immediately came out again. Just as he emerged from the place again. Just as he emerged from the place Martin collared him and demanded to know his business. He was considerably surprised to find that it was no other than Webber. His hand was in his pocket, and he seemed unwilling to take it out. He at last did so, however, after repeated orders from the policeman, and in it was what looked like a bundle of paper. It proved to be filled with "waste," similar to that used at the engine houses, and the whole was saturated with kerosene. By an order from Chief with korosene. By an order from Chief Scanlan he was allowed to go home, but about 3:30 o'clock he was found by the offi-cer asleep on a pile of hay in the engine house and was arrested and taken to the

When the officers searched the haymow for Webber they were surprised to find Chief Nicholson also asleep on the same pile of hay with Webber. Appearances indicated, so they claimed, that he had been drinking. They had no specific charge against him to make and so they allowed him to go home as soon as he recovered. It is learned that Webber, Miles Schofield, another fireman at the Upper Broadway house, and Chief Nicholson spent most of the afternoon and the evening, until 9 o'clock in Omaha together. o'clock in Omaha together.

Created a Sensation.

The affair created a tremendous sensation The affair created a fremendous sensation in official circles yesterday, and it was no trouble to find those who charged the chief and some of the members of the Upper Broadway engine house with complicity in Webber's misconduct. That Webber should be so much at home at the engine house, and that two men should be seen running away from the fire into the back door of the engine house made things look desided. engine house made things look decidedly shady at least. The chief was seen yesterday and emphatically denied having any connection with Webber's midnight busi-ness. He also denied that he had been drinking a drop on the night previous, or that he was any drunker then than when the conversation with The Bre reporter took place. He stated that he had never had any use for Webber, and accompanied his statement with a good deal of profanity, which was intended to strengthen his re-

Webber was kept in solitary confinement yesterday so far as any one but police offi-cers were concerned. Just what he might have to say cannot be learned direct from him, but is it reported on good authority text he made statements which implicate number of the members of the fire depart-ment. He stated that he was encouraged to enter the business of setting fires by "the boys" at No. 4, who told him that if he wanted to have the size of the fire department increased the best way to bring it about would be for him to go and start some fires. He claims to have had an understand-ing with Chief Nicholson that he should have the first vacancy that might occur on the force and that in case an increase should be made in the department he should be the ### first to profit by it. Denounced by the Chief.

Webber has never been on the department but once, and that was when Charles Sander-son, captain of No. 1 hose house, was in In-dianapolis attending the Grand Army reunion. The chief says he never had any use for "the - - ," referring to Webber, and that when Sanderson went to indianapolis he didn't want to appoint Webber his substitute. Sanderson told him, how-ever, that Webber owed him some money and he didn't expect ever to get it unless he got it in that way. For that reason, he says, he appointed Webber Sanderson's sub-

A sensation was caused by the announce ment that certain members of the fire de-partment had been guilty of starting fires in order to give the department more work to do, in the hope that the number of fire and might be increased and their friends might have jobs at the city's expense. No fireman was ever convicted of the offenses charged, out there was such a stir about it that the efforts were no further made. Lately it has been noticed that fires have been more frequent than usual in the vicinity of the Upper Broadway house, particularly fires which bore all the outward symptoms of having been the work of incendiaries. Had the attempts made Wednesday night been successful it is hardly likely that the fice would have been extinguished without a ter-rible loss of property. The building is situated in a thickly settled neighborhood, and with the terrific gale that was blowing, a large fire would have been almost an inevitable occurrence.

The first result of Webber's disclosures to the authorities came to light yesterdny afternoon about 5 o'clock, when an officer went to No. 4 hose house and placed Chief Nicholson and Miles Schofield, James O'Brien and Peter Kuykendall, members of department, under arrest. Informations had previously been filed in the office of the city clerk by City Attorney Hazelton, charging them with conspiracy to commit arson.
All four of the accused gave bonds, a number of leading democrats putting up enough to secure their release until this morning, when the case will come up in police court. Webber is still in jail.

Action of City Authorities.

As soon as the case was reported to Mayor Lawrence he called together a meeting of the city officials and the matter was laid before them at a star chamber session at the city building. A meeting of the council was decided upon for this evening, when a number of matters will be brought to the notice of the council by the mayor. It is also stated on the best of authority that some action will be taken toward purifying the action will be taken toward purifying the fire department. A number of heads will be clipped off, and this will complete the duty of the council. From that time on the responsibility for hunting out and punishing the guilty ones will lie with the courts.

Nicholson's Time in Omaha. Officer Wistt was sent to Omaha yesterof such a character as to deceive the public into the belle? that he was. He went into a clothing store, picked out a hat and put it on, and ordered the proprietor to wrap up his cap. The storekeeper did so, when Nicholson calmly ran his fist through the hat he had just purchased. He then picked up his cap, threw the remnants of the hat he had bought on the floor, and was about to walk out when the storekeeper called him back and asked him if he did not mean to pay for the hat. He replied no in an insult-ing manner. The storekeeper ran out on the the street and found a policeman, who con-ducted the fire chief back to the store and made him pay for the ruined hat under threats of arresting him. On one occasion he was so polsy on the street that another policeman threatened to run him in. "I'd have you know," said Nicholson, drawing himself up to his full height, "that I am chief of the fire department in Council Biuffs."

"I don't care if you're chief of police in Omaha," was the reply of the bluecoated man: "if you don't behave yourself I'll run

Attorney for the Motor Company Wants : New Trial in the Wilkins Damage Case. A motion for a new trial was filed by the plaintiff in the suit of I. S. Wilkins against the motor company yesterday in district court. The motion is supported by the affidavit of the foreman of the shops of the Omaha and Council Bluffs Motor company, George C. Benedict. He alleges that he had a conversation with W. H. Wiswell during the fall of 1892, in which Wiswell gave it as his opinion that the motor company ran its cars in a reckless and negligent manner; cars in a reckless and negligent manner; that the motor company had no right on the streets of the city of Council Bluffs. He said that if he had his way about if he would tear up the track and drive the company out of the city. Wiswell was a sewing machine agent and was making a business call on his wife when the conversation referred to took place. Wiswell was afterwards drawn as juror in the case in question. The motor company's attorney also files an affidavit in which he says that also files an affidavit in which he says that Wiswe'l told him, when examined for Wiswe'l told him, when examined for admission to the jury box, that he was not prejudiced against the motor company. He claims he did not know of the above men-tioned conversation until after the verdict of the jury had been handed in, awarding Wil-kins a judgment of $2,500.

Curcago, Oct. 12 -Men, of sporting pro livities will be deeply interested in the folowing letter from the pen of "Gentleman" Jim Corbett, which appears in the Record this morning under date of York, Pa. He

My Dean Sin:-Your recent letter asking My Dean Sin:—Your recent letter asking me to write something about myself was duly received and I snatch this first opportunity I have of doing so. I appreciate all of your past kindnesses, and will do the best I can to give you interesting matter.

I have been doing light work at Asbury since August 20 and have got myself into very good condition and am at present out on the road with one of Mr. Brady's companies softening up a bit. We are touring the state of Pennsylvania for one week and next Monday, October 16, I will commence next Monday, October 16, I will commence steady, rigorous preparations for my coming contest to take place December 18 at the Coney Island Athletic club. As you are fully aware, my training quarters are situated at Asbury Park, about a mile from the cottage where I trained for Sullivan. The present quarters are known-as "The Farm" and have been formerly used as a road house by Russell Mallick. The property covers eight acres and is shielded from all winds by many trees. I have three cottages; one is used for cooking and the principal's sleeping quarters, another for a gymnasium and the third for general use. have a billiard room with billiard and pool tables, a croquet ground, quoits, a safety bicycle, a racing shell, as "The Farm" bor-ders on Dell lake, and I have two miles straight away, a punching bag room, a wrest-ling room, pulley weight, wrist machine and an immense hand-ball court 50 feet long, 24 feet wide, 28 feet high, as perfect as any ball court in the country.

My companions are Mrs. Corbett, Miss Blanche Howard, who is a companion of my wife, William A. Brady, William Deiancy, John Donaldson, John McVey, my brothers, Joseph and Tom, Dennis Costigan. and Jack Dempsey, who has been with us for three weeks. My daily routine: Rise at 7:30, one-half hour on shell on lake, short walk, breakfast at 8:30, one-half hour at wrist machine, one-half hour at pulley weights, one-half hour at punching bag, one-half hour to three quarters of an hour wrestling, rub down, lunch at 12:30, rest to 1:30, ten mile walk varied with running, one hour hand ball, one-half hour in shell, more wrestling rub down dunger at 6 o'clock bit. wrestling, rub down, dinner at .6 o'clock, billiards or down to the town of Asbury in the evening, bed at 10:30.

I keep this up every day but Sunday. I suppose you would not consider this let I suppose you would not consider this letter complete without some reference to my opinion of my chances with Mitchell.
Well, I simply have this to say: I will do my best to win. I consider Mitchell a very hard man to beat. He is very intelligent, well versed in all ring tactics, very strong and full of endurance. He is not clo—in fact, in the prime of life—has not dissipated one-tenth as much as needle say, he has is one-tenth as much as people say he has, is the father of four children, has had oceans of ring experience, and last, but not least, has the advice of Jack McAuliffe, the Ameri-can lightweight champion, who has had a splendid chance to study my style when he seconded John L. Sullivan against me; also the aid of Jim Hall, the wonderfully clever middleweight, who sparred with me and whom I have always given the credit of being one of the cleverest men I ever met.

Mitchell is no doubt as clever as I. So it settles itself down to this: I have youth, height and reach on my side; Mitchell has strength and narder punching ability on his side. I expect him to fight for my body. I also expect the contest to be a very long one, say forty rounds, and the better general

I think the match will positively take place at Concy Island: I hope to enter the ring weighing about 185 pounds.

There seems to be a decided difference of opinion as to the present condition of Jack Dempsey. Now, I have known him for ten years and I know that he has fully recovered from his late illness. He has worked with me, walked and boxed with me for the last month, and with eight weeks training will be fit to give any 142 pound man in the world a very stiff argument. I would like to see Jack fight and win once again, as I consider him the greatest of all the present day fighters. I studied his style and copied it to some extent, and any time he meets a man size or weight he will be a safe man to bet on.

AFTER THE PENNANT.

Omaha's High School Eleven Will Start for the Honor Tomorrow. The way in which the High school boys are practicing football tactics out at the Young Men's Christian Association park every afternoon bodes ill for the Plattsmouth High school boys when they come up here Saturday to play the opening game of the series which decides the Interscholastic championship of Nebraska.

Gordon Clarke, the captain of the Omaha leven, is keeping the boys hard at work and is confident of victory on Saturday afternoon, when the two teams will line up as follows: Plattsmouth. Forthing Sullivan Trover Streight .Quarter-back Left end... Left tackle Whipple Left guard. Right guard. homas Right tackle Ayers oster Right end Sheidon Substitutes: Newell, Carkins; Field, Cross.

Clarke, the full-back, is a careful captain and when he "bucks the line" he is sure to get through. His weight is 131.
Young is a new player with the Omaha High school boys, but has won laurels with the Kemper Hall team. He weighs 139.
Burdick is a well formed athlete and will gain many a yard for the purple and white before the season is over. Weight, 145 Whipple is a tricky youngster, small, lithe and active and weighs 125. Van Camp is another new player and a good, steady man, weighing 140.

Gardner is a good all-around man, with fine dodging abilities. He weighs 140. Stokes' avoirdupois, combined with steady playing, make him a player above the average, weigning 205. Cowgill is a short, heavy-set fellow, with the buildog air so essential to a foot ball player. His weight is 138.

Purvis is very quick to get started and swift of foot. Weight, 131. Ayres is always in the right place at the right time. He weighs 185. Sheldon is one of the most valuable men and last year was the terror of all the end men that opposed him.

An intelligent understanding of the rules and earnest practice characterize the team as a whole and if kept up will in all proba-bility give the pennant to the Omaha High
