E. D. Pratt and J. M. Counsman Enter the Race for 'Van Camp's Shoes. Last Saturday when John Jenkins was nominated by the republican convention as the candidate for the office of county commissioner from the Fifth district he had no idea that the position was such a rich plum and that it was the envy of so many other republicans. Since that time, however, Mr. Jenkins has discovered that there is to be a three-cornered fight in the republican ranks and that two other men o same political complexion as himself are after the same office. Yesterday Jacob Counsman and E. D. Pratt both of the Fifth district, filed their petitions in the office of the county clerk, show ing that they had been induced to enter, and that they would make the race with Jenkins. Both of the men were candidates before the convention, but there neither of them succeeded in getting a vote. Sunday they got out with the necessary petitions and after securing the necessary lifteen signers each, they bared their breasts and now they will have their names on the official ballots.

Pratt comes from the Sixta ward and was Pratt comes from the Sixth ward and was before the primaries, but there he captured only 05 of the 700 votes cast.

Aaren Hoel filled a perition yesterday with the county cierk statistic that he would run for the office of county commissioner in the Fifth district. Hoel went before the democratic convention for endorsement, but was knocked out was knocked out.

For months the people of the western end of the county have been annoyed by thieves to such an extent that they have become desperate. Last week two horses, one belonging to J. P. SCENES DURING HIS WONDERFUL SPEECH

Senators Who Sought to Entrap the Junior from Nebraska and How They Fared -Weicott's Ludicrous Blunder-Comments of Repeat Papers.

The performance of Senator Allen of Nebraska is considered the most remarkable in the history of the senate. Previous to this, writes the correspondent of the Globe-Democrat, Senator Faulkner was the record breaker, he having held the floor for thir teen hours during the long debate on the force bill. The conditions then were entirely different. Fully two-thirds of Mr. Faulkner's time was spent in his seat resting while efforts were being made to secure a quorum. Before that time the longest speech within the recollection of senators. was about ten hours duration, and was delivered by Garrett Davis of Kentucky during the reconstruction period. Mr. Allen took the floor at 5:15 in the afternoon, and without any interruptions, except such as were purely accidental, he had the floor all night, He proved himself an able and indefatigable talker. At no time did his voice fail him, and even when the clerk was calling the roll to secure a quorum he stood erect and ready to proceed with his remarks. Not for one moment did he falter; not for one moment did he lose his self-possession; not for one moment did he show that he was talking against time. Clad in a park suit, his collar being adorned with a black tie, in the oppressive atmosphere of the senate he did not weaken for an instant, but with great vigor elucidated his financial views. He concluded his speech on the stroke of 8 o'clock, having thus been on the floor for fourteen and three-quarter hours. During that time he occasionally sipped from a cur of tea, but this was his only nourishment. When he this was his only nourishment. When he finished his eyes were as clear and his voice was as strong and his gestures were as vigorous as when he took the floor. His respites were few, and when he sent to the clerk to have read certain excerpts; but even then be remained upon his feet, without the slightest evidence of fatigue.

Soon after closing Senator Allen disappeared. At 3 in the afternoon he returned to the senate chamber with the evidence of having taken a bath and a nap and put on fresh linen. He was congratulated as a world breaker.

Reflections on the Sun. Prior to a roll call, and while Mr. Allen was speaking, there was an amusing inci-dent. Mr. Dolph had a collequy with Mr. Allen, which lead Mr. Allen to say with up-lifted finger: "Does the senator dispute that the sun shines? "Yes," replied Mr. Dolph, "I do-tonight.

The senator has mistaken the gaslight for sunlight, and that is what he has done as to currency." [Laughter.]
Then Mr. Peffer came to Mr. Allen's support to "set this matter right," as he said, by means of a formidable looking volume, whereupon Mr. Dolph began to retreat rapidly towards the cloak room, to the un-concealed amusement of his colleagues. Mr. Allen appealed to him to remain, and Mr. Dolph, remarking apologetically that he had not intended to go out of earshot, returned to his seat just behind Mr. Peffer who proceeded to read to him many sta-tistics relative to the volume and description of government currency issue since the beginning of the civil war. A Spat with Hoar,

When Mr. Allen had spoken eight hours Senator Hoar suddenly started up, rubbed his sleepy eyes and came down the aisle into "The senator from Nebraska," he said, there was no overpre duction. Does he not regard his speech as an instance of overproduction?" Everybody was surprised at the question No one more so that the senator from Ne-

"Oh, no," replied Mr. Hoar, still rubbing "The question is certainly too insulting for me to answer," said Mr. Allen.
"Don't answer it then," snapped out Mr.
Hoar, and he went back to the cloak room.

"Does the senator mean to insult me?" he

It Was His Own. Bringing his fourteen hours speech to a close Senator Allen of Nebraska changed from his extempore manner and read his peroration. It was a polished effort, and Mr. Wolcott, who had been at his desk for some time preoccupied with something that had diverted his attention, suddenly rose

"May I ask the senator from what he is "A slight production of my own," replied Mr. Allen, whereat the senate, quick to catch the humor of the situation, broke into a hearty and rather unsenatorial guffaw. Mr. Wolcot, was evidently taken aback and embarrassed when he saw the blunder he

"Hilked it extremely," said he, "and was auxious to know what it was." Mortgages and the Yankee,

Mr. Allen made the statement, in discuss ing the condition of the country, that the mortgages on the farms in Kansas. Nebraska and other western states were paid off by means of foreclosures. Mr. Squire (rep. Wash.) took exception to this, and said statistics showed that these mortgages were paid largely through the sale of the products of the farms. He denied the accuracy of Mr. Allen's statements, so far as his state

"It is true in a degree of your state, and of every other state," said Mr. Allen. "And I defy you to prove it!" retorted Mr.

Atlen not to include his state, a request that started Mr. Allen into a discussion of the condition of the farmers of New Engiand, in which he asserted that the farms of Connecticut had been abandoned and were now being occupied by French Cauadians, while Yankee workmen were being sup-planted by "debased labor." This brought Mr. Hawley to his feet in a short but emphatic defense of the character of the people of his state. It was true that there was an indux of foreigners, but it was an in dustrious population, rooting itself into the soil and becoming solid, substantial citizens of their adopted country.

"Don't you disturb yourself about the debt of the Yankee," said Mr. Hawley, as he watked down the main asie, "Put lein upon a bare rock and he'll make mosey trading if there is any one else on the rock. Turn him out of the union and he'll ret back again and add to the wealth of the country in coming back."

Newspaper Comment. Kansas City Star: The laurels which Mr. Morgan of Alabama has so long held as the longest winded orator in America have been stolen from him by Mr. Allen of Nebraska. who spoke continuously for fourteen and one-quarter hours.

Chicago Herald: A talk of fourteen hours is like the breath of the morning to Senator Allen. It is half that quantity of silence which would force him to vote for any measure for which he might have retained sufficient strength to lift his voice. Chicago Times: For any purpose of states-manship, for legitimate business of the senate of the United States, William Vincent Ailen of Madison, Neb. is impotent; but for the purposes of a dime museum William Vincent Ailen of Madison ought to be a drawing card.

Globe-Democrat: Senator Allen has talked nore hours on a stretch than ever did Chay Webster, Calboun or any other of the men of half a century ago whom we have been call-ing giants in oratory and debate; therefore, according to populist ideas, he must be a greater statesman than any of them. Buffalo Express: A man who can talk for fourteen and three quarters hours without a len, the world-renowned freak whom the populists of the great state of Nebraska have sent to represent them in the United States senate!

New York Evening Sun: Mr. Allen, sena-New York Evening Sun: Mr. Alien, sena-tor for Nebraska, is certainly one of the men "piugless word spouts whose foundations are deep within their lungs," of whom Oliver Wendell Holmes speaks. All through the dull and weary night he has held the senate in chains by his ceaseless flow of words.

Kansas City Times: History tells us that Allen has been a base ball player and a lawyer. In one he got his physical endurance, in the other his verbal. One is still the great American game, the other a great American calling. Allen is an example, a horrible example, of what excess in these noble professions will bring. sions will bring. Minneapolis Times: Mr. Allen, who spoke longer against the repeal bill than any one clae, has been a senator a shorter time than most of his colleagues. The traditions of the senate are saily ham-mered out of shape. It used to be that a senator voted five years before he spoke once. Now he talks five years and then moves to adjourn. Kansas City Star: The next time Mr

Allen enters into competition against the flight of time he should entarge his reading privileges with selections from Burton's "Arabiaa Nights," or Voltaire's "Candide" or the "Decameron" and other instructive writings. This will insure the presence of a quorum and add to his reputation as stickler for senatorial courtesy.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

It is reported on good authority that in Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll's five lectures delivered in the Auditorium in Chicago last season the gross receipts amounted to more than $25,000. This is perhaps more money than was ever before drawn by any orator for the same number of speeches. Ingersoll, as a celebrated showman has said, is the greatest "one-man show on earth." Tomorrow night he will deliver his new lecture, entitled "Myth and Miracie," at Boyd's new theater. The sale of seats opens this

One of the most interesting announcements for the coming season is the engare-ment at Boyd's new theater of Thomas Q. Scabrooke and his opera company and ballet in "The Isle of Champagne," by Charles A. Byrne and Louis Harrison, beginning October 19, for four performances and Saturday matinee. No more brilliant success has been obtained for many years than that achieved by Mr. Seabrooke in his delight-fully quaint and humorous impersonation of the character of King Pommery II, the exalted ruler of "The Isle of Champagne," whose inhabitants are supposed to have been ignorant of the use of water as a beverage until accident opens their eyes to its luxurious advantages. The sale of seats for the entire engagement of the Scabrooke Opera company will open at 9

Superstition Defied in the Naming of a New Engine House. Yesterday forenoon the firemen at No. 3 engine house on Harney and Eighteenth street were kept busy putting together and polishing up the new La France steam fire engine, which arrived late Saturday evening.

The steamer is known as the "Continental," and bears this name in its side. It is a good second class engine and will be expected to do some good work. Chief Galligan expects that the new engine will pump 750 gallons of water a minute from four streams of hose from hydrants.

As soon as the new engine house, at the corner of Fourteenth and Harney streets, is completed, which will be in about ten days. the engine and water tower will be placed in commission and will answer all down town alarms. An engineer from the La-France works at Elmira will arrive here to-day and then a test will be made to determine what the engine can do. Chiefs Galligan and Salter appear to be well pleased with he new piece of machinery and think that the engine will greatly assist them in fighting fires in the business portion of the city The new house on Harney street will be numbered 13, and besides the big engine and water tower the small 400-gallon engine which was recently repaired, may be placed

NEW CASES COMMENCED IN THE COURTS

W. G. Stoane of South Omalia Accused of Winning the Love of Another Man's Wife -James Mullen Asked to Heal Damaged Reputations-Court Notes.

The scandal mongers of South Omaha have a sweet morsel which they are rolling under their tongues, and as a result socially the town is snaking from center to circumference, all on account of a case which has found its way into the district court, where it is known as Heary Little against William G. Sloane. In this action the plaintiff sues. the defendant for $5,000, charging that not many months ago, by reason of his acts, he (the defendant) allienated the affections of (the defendant) allienated the affections of Mrs. Little, and thereby caused her to bring a divorce suit with a view to severing the bonds of matrimony, thus breaking up a happy family.

People who know all of the parties concerned do not hesitate to denounce the suit against Sloane as a blackmail, instituted for the purpose of getting some blood money, and that if a trial is ever reached it will be proven to be such.

broven to be such.
Whether or not the Littles lived as happily as birds in the same hest is not known, but it is known that last July, Nellie Little commenced suit in the district court of this county, and that in her pe-tition she asked for a decroe of separation and the restoration of her maidon name. In the petition she alleged that Little had been guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment; tha he had struck, bruised and beaten her, and that upon one occasion he had driven her into the street, compelling her to remain out of doors for a long period of time, notwith-standing the fact that the weather was bitter cold.

Clams She Was Swindled.

Twelve jurers, assisted by Judge liopewell, are trying to determine whether or not Ciara Williams was swindled when she bought a tract of land in Texas a couple of years ago. She claims that she was, but the defendants, Fred King and J. P. Mailander, claim that she was not and aver that she got the full worth of her money.

As told by the petition, the story is to the effect that the plaintiff was the owner of a lot in South Omaha, and that one day Mailander happened along and told her that he was the agent for some land in Texas. and that it was a bargain. He declared that he had a tract of 640 acres, which in the markets of the world would sell for $2 per acre, and that all of this he would trade, even up, for the South Omaha lot, assuming a mortgage which aggregated some $500 to say nothing of the interest which was past due. Relying upon the statements of Mailander, the pinintiff made the trade and took a deed for the Texas land, King executing the same. Shortly after this the plaintiff concluded that she would do a little Texas farming, but before preparing for the seed time and the harvest she concluded to make a little investi-gation on her own account, and, in doing so, she avers that she learned that King did not own an acre of land in the whole of the state of Texas. She further avers that she learned that if King had owned the land which he averred was his, it would have been worthless as that particular section of country was out on the plains, where it had not rained since the oldest inha ant could remember. At this time the plainth, wants damage in the sum of $1,280 and the return of her South Omaha property.

For Damaged Reputations.

Jointly and severally William Q. Wallaco and his wife Josephine have asked the court to compel James Mullen to pay them the sum of $10,000, with which to heal bruises and a couple of damaged reputations. Thu wife alleges that last Priday, while she was wife alleges that iast friday, while she was in her own house and was conducting herself in a proper manner, with force and arms Muhen entered the promises, where he assaulted her by wedging her between the door and the casing, thereby bruising her person and causing her great pain. The husband's cause of action is that on the same day when he was sitting in his own house, with violence and a great noise. Mul-len broke in, and with angry words declared that he could whip everybody in sight.

Wants More Money Last week the case of Ingre Madsen against the Omnha Street Railway company was tried in Judge Duffie's court, where the plaintiff recovered judgment for $1,000 in an action brought for $12,200. Not satisfied with the fladings of the pary the plaintiff will now ask for a new trial, charging that the jury was influenced by what appeared in the newspapers, which gave a history of the case and the accident which brought about the litigation.

Minor Court Matters.
In the action brought by Anna C. Christiansen against Edward Callahan and others to recover $20,000 damages alleged to have been sustained by reason of having been ejected from her East Omahn possessions, the jury last week returned a verdict for $15,000 in favor ofplaintiff. Yesterday the attorney for the defendants asked for a new trial, alleging that the verdict was contrary to the law and the evidence and that it was not spatially be any of the that it was not sustained by any of the tes-timony produced at the trial. Judge Hope-well, before whom the case was tried, will hear the arguments for the new trial at some future date. Judge Duffle went to Burt county yester-day where he will hold court during the week, and in the meantime Judge Ferguson of the equity division will preside over the third division of the law court.
