to show that he was a partner in Swain's wrong doing.

It is impossible to tell just how much the two men have stolen, but in Swain's case at least the amount is sufficient to make it a penitentiary offense. Swain, by doctoring the books, was able to conceal the shortage from the other employes of the road. Some of the other employes claim to have known for some time of what was going on, but were afraid to tell for fear of the vengeance the two conspirators might wreak on them.

Complications Into Which it Has Draws

Two Young Attorneys. A theater party was given in Omaha a couple of months ago, but the young ladies who took part in it will probably find in this announcement for the first time that behind It all was a story that they knew nothing of. George H. Wright and George H. Mayne are both young attorneys, and they were engaged on opposite sides of a case that was tried in the district court. Wright happened to be going to Chicago while the action was pending, and as there was $15 that was to be paid into court just after his departure he made private arrangements with Mayne to receive and receipt for the amount in the clerk's office, so that he might get the money from Mayne when he came home eather than run the risk of the possibility of some one getting it who might cause him more trouble in effecting a transfer. Mayne and Wright were on the best of terms, and so Mayne decided to give a theaterms, and so Mayne decided to give a thea-ter party while Wright was revelling amid the beauties of the "wooded island" and the "congress of forty beauties." The party was organized and a play in Omaha was witnessed by a number of the young people. The ladies were told that all the expenses were borne by Mr. Wright, and they were loud in their praises of the hospi-tality of a young man who would provide tality of a young man who would provide an entertainment for his friends when he was not there to enjoy it himself. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Wright and an elegantly drawn up copy of it was pre-sented to him on his return from sented to him on his return from the Windy City. This was the first bint he received that he was not to expect to see the color of the money Mayne had collected for him.

The third chapter in the joke was written yesterday when a deputy sheriff called on Mayne at his office and served him with a notice that on or before December I a petition would be filed in the district court demanding a judgment for the amount in issue, "For money entrusted to him by the plaintiff and converted by the defendant to his own use." It now remains to be seen which of the two young men will have the pleasure of the two young men will have the pleasure of liquidating the bills for that theater party which filled the hearts of their young lady friends with feelings of such delight.

DAILY BEE NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

Present Status of the Controversy with the Motor Company.

NOW WILLING TO MAKE A COMPROMISE

Officials of the Road Trying to Fathon Public Opinion-A Proposition from the Company-Probable Action of the Citizens.

The motor company officials have been industrially sitting on the nest for the last three months, and succeeded in hatching out a proposition, which was laid before the members of the city council yesterday forenoon, nicely wrapped up in cotton flannel to prevent it from being frozen to death. It was an ill-favored sort of a proposition, or so it seemed at least to the Bluffites who were present. The meeting was called at the office of the company by Messrs. Guy C. Barton and J. H. Millard of Omaha and N. W. Welis of Schuyler, who composed the committee, which had a consultation at the Grand hotel several months ago with a large number of citizens, who were called in one by one, to state "what was the matter with Council Bioffs."

Council Bleffs."
Mayor Lawrence, City Attorney Hazelton and Aldermen Smith, Hathaway, Jennings. Keller and White were present at the meeting yesterday morning, together with a number of citizens who have interested themselves on the side of the city as against the motor company. The motor men stated that they had been considering the points at issue between the city and the company and they had come to the conclusion that a compromise might not be out of order.

"You people over here have a lot of suits against us." was the substance of their talk; "if you will dismiss all of the suits we will pay for the paying that is now in litigation and everything will then be lovely."

Reason for Their Willingness. Further conversation elicited the information that the motor officials in speaking of the 'lot of suits' that were to be dismissed referred not only to the suit for $10,000 for the paving between the tracks, that is to come up for trial in superior court, and to the paving suits that were brought by Harl & McCabe for 100 or more property owners all over the city, but to the suits brought by Spencer Smith to have the charter annulled and the $50,000 bonus revoked and the damage suits started more recently by the "committee of one hundred" to test the newly passed 3-cent fare ordinance.

The councilmen heard the proposition and then held a consultation to determine what they would do with it. It did not take them long to decide that the proposition was not such a one as the public would ratify, and they so informed the representatives of the company. The general impression seemed to be among the councilmen and the citizens that the officials were simply testing the opposition, with a view to ascertaining just how much rope it would allow the com-

There was very little disposition to yield : There was very little disposition to yield a point on the part of the opposition. The officials stated that it thought very likely a proposition would be forthcoming before many days with reference to a commutation rate between the cities, although it would not give any idea as to the exact date at which this proposition ought to be looked for Something Must Drop Soon.

The city and the citizens together have the company bound up in so much and in so expensive litigation that they think something will drop before long. In case the prediction of the motor officials proves true and a proposition for a commutation rate is made, there is but little doubt of its acceptance. The general opinion seems to be that a 10-cent rate for transients will be satisfactory, providing a 5-cent rate, or one ap-proximating that figure, can be put into force for the benefit of the persons who cross the river every day.

CAN CANCER BE CURED?

Council Bluffs Man's Experience with Various Remedles and Physicians,

Nearly a year ago William Woolner of the Metropolitan hotel came to the office of Dr. Macrae and asked the physician's advice concerning an ulcerous sore that had appeared at the root of his tongue. Mr. Macrae, as is well known, is one of the most competent and careful surgeons in this country, and he made a deliberate examination before he pronounced the ulcer to be a cancer. With his well known honest frankness he told Woolner his true condition, and while not advising him to submit to an operation told him that his only hope laid in that direction, but that even modern surgery could not guarantee a cure. Several subsequent examinations were made in Dr. Macrae's office in the presence of other surgeons, and all agreed that it was a serious case, involving grave problems for surgery and medi-An operation would cost $300, necessitating the removal of nearly all of the lower jaw, disfiguring the patient for life. Dr. Pinney, who was also con-sulted in his office, advised the sufferer to go to Iowa City to be operated upon. Mr. Woolner ascertained by correspondence that this would cost several hundred dollars, besides his personal expenses, and months of increased pain.
"I told the doctors," he said, in speaking of his case yesterday, "that I would let nature take her course and die when my time came. This was my situation when John Peters, the tailor, urged me to go and see Drs. Sweetland and De-I had read a good deal about them in THE BEE, and when Peters urged me to see them I did so, but with no hope in my heart. I had tried all the various remedies, including even electrical and faith cures, but obtained no relief. I had reached a stage where I could scarcely talk and my neck was badly swollen. The cancer had eaten a large hole under my tongue. None but those who suffer and see such a doom constantly before them can imagine the complete despair I felt. When the new doctors looked at my mouth and told me they could cure me I didn't believe them-I couldn't, but I promised to try the new medicine, and I have done so Well, that is just four days ago today, Saturday, and now you can see for your self that I can talk, and if I hadn't told you you would not have known that I ever had a cancer. I am sure the Sweetland Remedies will cure me; I am certain the promises given me by these doctors will be fulfilled. I have simply taken their medicine ten times a day and every day I can feel and see that awful sore shrinking and dying away." Mr. Woolner was told that what he was saying would be published. His eyes brightened and his face lighted up. Print it as often as you want to. It is only the truth and can hurt nobody. first heard of this wonderful medicine by reading about it in THE BEE and I can't say too much."

Mr. Woolner is 62 years old. He thinks his cancer was caused by excessive smoking, and since commencing the medicine he has lost all desire for tobacco. He has been failing rapidly in health for the last year, and it will be a matter of a good deal of interest to note the effect the Sweetland Remedies will have in building up his general health while destroying the cancerous growth that has been so rapidly eating away his life. The case is certainly a very re-markable one and will be watched with a great deal of interest by many others than the friends of the afflicted man.

THIEVING CONSPIRACY UNEARTHED. Two Milwaukee Freight Employes Detected in Deeds of Deviltry.

For six menths or more, past there has been a little scheme in operation at the Milwaukee freight office in this city that has enabled two of the employes of the road to lay up the whole of their month's wages in the savings bank and at the same time to live on the fat of the land and furnish their homes with a good many little luxuries that they would not ordinarily have been able to possess. The announcement of the crookedness of one of them will cause a profound sensation, inasmuch as he is a prominent church member, and is also connected with church member, and is also connected with a number of secret societies. The sensation will be even greater from the fact that his misdeeds have been of so serious a nature that it is hard to see how he can escape a term in the penitentiary.

F. K. Swain, check clerk, and Ed Brown, a truckman, are the two men implicated. Both are employed at the freight depot. About three weeks ago Night Watchman Ed Martin discovered that some wine which had been consigned to the care of the company was going slowly but surely. He set to work to find out who it was that was responsible for the disappearance, and it was not long until he discovered that not only wine, but goods of almost every description that could be used to advantage in a family, that could be used to advantage in a family, were going. He soon found evidence enough to implicate the two men named and he notified the officials of the road a few days

Detective Price of Chicago arrived in the city Friday and after making inquiries determined to arrest both men in the hope of making them confess their guilt. The plan was successful, and when the men were taken into custody they coughed up with such beautiful sweepingness that no further efforts were necessary on the part of the officers. On going into Swain's residence at 1500 South Ninth street the officers met

Mrs. Swain, who at once suspected what was in the wind. "Oh, Fred," was her first remark, 'how many times I have asked you to give up this business." "Fred' looked as though he wished be had taken the advice of his helpmeet, but said not a word.

The officers then began to ask him about the different articles of furniture in the house and found that the carpet on the floor, the curtains at the windows and three bus AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

On looking, about the house fifteen yards of dress goods were found neatly concealed under the kitchen table. Swain also admitted having stolen at different times butter, ham, eggs, cabbages, canned fruit and other kinds of provisions. He said he had been at the business for about six months, but how much longer he did not say. At Brown's house the results were not so satisfactory. All that was found was the other fifteen yards of the piece of dress goods that had been found in Swain's house, and he steadily refused to plead guilty to anything else. This, however, was enough to show that he was a partner in Swain's wrong doing.

Charley Raymer had some fun with the gang over at Swift's packing house Friday noon. For some time there has been a scheme on foot to get some heavy weight to go up against Raymer for a few rounds, but it seemed that none of the boys were anxious for the pleasure. Friday Raymer went to a burly colored man who works at the house and put up a job for him to accept a challenge. The word was passed around from one room to another that the fight was to take place at noon about one mile below the house. All hands were anxious to see the mill and as long as there was to be no admission fee charged the crowd was simply stupendous. Raymer and the yellow boy, surrounded by their friends, started off for the scene of the battle, followed by about 100 men whom they led until tired of walking. A referee and timekeeper were chosen and the mill was all ready to proceed. The men advanced to the center of the big circle and shook hands. That was all. The fight was over and the laugh was on the gang that had followed. It will be a chilly day before Raymer can work the boys again. They say he will have to fight the next time whether he wants to or not.

Not on the Regular Ticket. There was a grand stand rustle made in the ranks of the local democratic nominees for office when it was learned Friday night that the secretary of the nominating convention had pocketed the proceedings and failed to report the names to the county clerk in time to get the names on the regular ticket. The nominees are Lovy and Montgomery for justices and Hanley and Eddy for constables. Mr. Montgomery has been east for several weeks and has not given the matter any attention until today. Levy and the candidates for constable went to Omaha Friday night and filed petitions in order to prevent being shut out altogether. Mr. Montgomery is of the opinion that it is not too late yet for the names to be placed on the regular ticket, and he is in the city today to have the matter fixed up if it is possible. John Carroll was the secretary of the nominating convention, but says the matter slipped his mind entirely.

Caught a Forger. Officer Tom Eminger made a good catch Friday night shortly after 12 o'clock. For several days Chief Becket and his men have been endeavoring to locate Jack Carey, who was known to be somewhere in the city. Carey is wanted on a warrant sworn out in Kansas City, Kan., accusing him of forgery. An hour after the matter was placed in the hands of Officer Eminger the prisoner was behind the bars.

Carey at one time conducted a saloon in this city in partnership with a man named Adams. The firm dissolved and Carey moved to Kausas. It is alleged that on the 10th of this month he forged the name of Catherine Lyons to a check on an Armourdale, Kan., bank, and secured $160 in cash on the same. Carey acted a little stubborn at first, but this morning consented to return to Kansas without the formality of securing requisi-

The man gave his name as Frank A. Miller. For a number of years he has been a hotel clerk in this country. For some time he was employed at Savannah, Ga., later at Trenton, N. J., and lastly at Reading, Pa., which place he left, he says, July 20 to go to the old country and bring his mother, who is now in Maryland, to this side of the water. Since his return, he says, he has been unable to find work anywhere, and came west thinking that he could find employment much easier west of the Mississippi than east of it. In this, as can be easily seen, he was disappointed. Ever since his arrival here, he says, he has persistently sought employment here and in Council Bluffs, not only in his own line of business, but in Communion services will be held at the Presbyterian church this morning at 11 o'clock. ## LITTLE CHILDREN

Rescued from Chronic

And Started Fairly and Squarely in Life With Strong and Healthy Bodies-Gentle Methods That Are Grateful to the Most Timid and Sensi-

When fond and low ar parents see a little one fading beneath the malign influence of a dangerous disease, they suffer a torture compared to waich the physical torment of the child is as nothing. Their only desire is to secure some relief for the tender litt'e painracked body and to conquer. if possible, the malady which has stolen the bloom from its cheeks and the fiesh from its frame. Children suffer and grow used to suffering.

There is not the violent resistance to disease on their part that is shown by older and stronger natures, so that very often an illness conquers them, finding them unresisting victims.

The barbarious methods usually employed in catarrhal diseases make it out of the question to employ them with children. Their delicate natures make them shrink from rough and brutal ways of practice. In these cases the mill and gentle methods of Drs. Copeland and Shepard give the little ones a chance to ret well without being submitted to cruel treatments that are far more dangerous and painful than the disease.

CATARRH OF INFANCY.

At the Age of One Year Little Edith Irelan Was a Subject of Catarrhal Disease-Easily Cured by Methods Causing No Pain or Fright,

Two very grateful people are Mr. and Mrs A. H. Irelan, 27th and Main streets, West Albright, South Omaha. Their signed statement tells all about it, as follows:

"Our little daughter, Edith, has had catarrh two years. It showed on her when she was a mere baby. She is now three years old. She was choked up in the head and alwars drewiing and shuffling, as if her nose and throat and lungs needed cleaning out. In a little time the complaint seemed to creen down into her stomach, for she lost appetite and did not grow and eat like healthy children. She lost all her rosy color, getting pale and all run down. Then she got very fretful and cross, sleeping very little, and became a constant worry and trial to us. To be plain, she was half sick all the time and did not act and play like a child at all. She took whooping cough, and for weeks her body was racked by that distressing sickness. The catarrh and the spasms of coughing nearly used her up. When we took her to Dr. Shepard she was afraid of getting hurt, but after the first treatment and medicine there was no more fear. Everything was so gentle and pleasant—just suited to a little child—Edith began to 'pick up' at once, eating and s coph; well, getting a good once, eating and seep in twell, getting a good color and plenty of flesh and strength. She plays all day long. Her catarrh and cough are gone. We are surprised at the quick and thorough results of Dr. Shepard's treatment. It is just the thing for sick children."

ALLEGED BREACH OF CONTRACT Discord in a School Caused by Expulsion

of Four Students. There is some discord between three students at the Omaha School of Telegraphy and the managers of that institution. J. D. Caldwell and William Fulkerson re cited a tale of woe to a BEE reporter yesterday, to the effect that they had been ex pelled from the institution, because they had complained to Prof. Sherwood over his alleged failure to secure positions for them at the expiration of their term at school. "We each gave him $55 in advance as tuition fees," said Caldwell yesterday. "He agreed to procure us positions as operators at the expiration of seven months attendance at the school. Our time was up some time ago and he broke faith with us. Besides, he does not fully live up to all that he says he will in his circulars. We made a says he will in his circulars. We made a 'kick' last Monday about the matter and four of us were expelled the following day, and we are still looking for the jobs that never came."

The young men expelled state that Prof. Sherwood has no right to retain their money and then refuse to supply the positions promised. They consulted legal advice yesterday and evidently intend to compel ompliance with the terms of the contract. Prof. Sherwood, last night, in speaking of the troubles of his school, said: "Yes, I expelled all four of the young men and would do the same thing again if I had an would do the same thing again if I had an opportunity. These young men entered the school some time ago for the purpose of taking a course in telegraphy. They paid their tution fees with the distinct understanding that when they graduated I would secure them positions. This agreement I make with every student, and up to this date I have sent out hundreds of the best telegraph and typewriting operators.

"These four boys kept on with me, though they were absent during a portion of the course, which interfered with their studies. I told him that he could not hold. per minute, and asked me to procure him a position. I told him that he could not hold down a key, as he was too slow and would be discharged without a trial. A few days ago one of the train dispatchers came to the school and asked if I had a good operator. I had a young man who could send thirty-five words per minute, and he was recommended for the position. This made one of the expelled young men mad, and he at once claimed that I was swindling him. Not wishing to have any trouble I took no notice of the matter, but last Saturday, one week ago, he met a couple of parties at the door of the school and induced them to go to another telegraph colof parties at the door of the duced them to go to another telegraph college, telling them that mine was a swindle. Catarch and Bronchitts Mastered by Experi Treatment Through Correspondence. R. W. fones, a leading citizen or Mussel-

"When I wrote to the physicians of the Copeland Medical Institute for one of their free printed question lists, which I at once filed out and maliced back, so that they could make out the nature of my disease from my answers to the questions, my system had become almost worn out by years of bronchitis, complicated with catarrh of the nose, throat and stomach. I could not derive any sustemance from from what little I are, because my food didn't digest. It would lie like a dead weight of lead on my stomach or turn to wind and gas. I was half the time sick with headache and had wasted away from the chronic cough till I looked and feit like a consumptive.

"When I received my first mich is a consumptive."

"When I received my first package of medicines by express I was so run down that I hardly had hone of ever neing better. But I hadn't been taking them long till I saw spleadid signs of improvement. I was commencing to be restored and rebuilt in every way. If wasn't but a few weeks till I was about over the whole trouble, catarrh, bronchitis dyspepsia and all."

mail freatment for catarrh. This is her idea of its merits:

"Ever since brankte had la grippe, two years ago, his catarrh has been worse. Pernaps it began at that three. Every summer since, he has had hay fever, with distressing cough, sneezing and a choked-up head. His eyes were inflamed, nose closed up, and he never had a good night's sleep such as a healthy boy ought to have. It was plain that he was being poisoned all through by catarrh, I feared that he would never get his growth or would have consumption. I got so alarmed or would have consumption. I got so alarmed at his nuscrable state that I consulted Dr. Shepard a few weeks ago. "Under his perfect system of mail treat-ment Frankie has quickly and wonderfully changed. He success very seidom. His eyes are healed up and all right. He sleeps sound yend wakes up in the morning spiendid y refreshed. His nose is clearer than it has been for months. It don't seem possible there could be such a change in so short a time. I think the medicine he is taking is just what he needed. It is so mild and gentle that a baby could use it. I feel very greatful to Dr. Shepard for saving my boy."
