Boyish Nuisances.

Four small boys are in the city jail as the result of teasing an old woman, Anne Coppenhoffer, who lives at the corner of Avenue G and Sixteenth street. They have been making life miserable for her, breaking windows, pulling up the sidewalk and doing other acts of deviltry. She finally lost patience with them and filed informations, which led to their arrest. There are seven in the gang, but only Harry Mack, Ernest Minnick, Jesse James and Harry James have so far been found by the officers.

Yesterday afternoon another depredation by some of the members of the same gang came to light. S. Reeder, who keeps Arcade hall, on West Broadway, called at the office of the city clerk and filed informations for the arrest of the two James boys and Sherman Harding, charging them with stealing a blanket. The members of this gang, all of them not more than a dozen or so years of age, have caused the police an almost endless amount of bother, but have escaped serious punishment by reason of their youth. It is highly probable that they will find themselves on the way to the reform school after they have a hearing in police court.

Ball Has More Trouble.

S. L. Ball, the piano salesman who was charged with embezzling $61 belonging to the Mueller Piano & Organ company, had no hearing yesterday as was expected. He claimed that Mueller owed him all the money he had collected for him and $80 besides. This little dispute was settled before the time rolled around for the preliminary examination and the defendant was discharged for lack of prosecution.

During the day he had more trouble and from a direction that he did not expect it. There has been a suit for rent pending against him in the district court, and Mr. Hoagland, his landlord, had an idea he was covering up some of his money. He accordingly made a motion asking that Ball be brought before Judge Smith for an examination to see just what his assets were. Ten o'clock was the hour at which he was commanded to appear, but he did not appear. Deputy Sheriff Harrington was sent up to his house armed with a bench warrant and Ball came. He was asked to show cause why he should not be fined for contempt in refusing the order of the court, but the explanation he gave was not satisfactory. He was fined $10 and costs. After putting $18 into the county treasury he was discharged.

NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

A. B. Enderton, a Well Known Citizen, Commits Suicide.

REASONS FOR HIS ACTION NOT KNOWN

Well Liked and Popular, His Awful End Comes as a Shock to the Community —Circumstances Surrounding the Sad Affair.

A. B. Enderton, the manager of the Eagle Manufacturing company's warehouse in this city, committed suicide in Fairmount park yesterday noon. W. M. Sawyer, a High school boy, who lives at 810 Leavenworth street, in Omaha, was passing through the park on his way from his boarding place on Graham avenue to the school when he ran across the body of a man lying prostrate beneath a clump of trees near the band stand on the top of the hill. He investigated sufficiently to find that the man was dead and then ran to the water works office near by and sent in a telephone call for the patrol wagon. The coroner visited the scene and the remains were taken to Estep's undertaking rooms to await the holding of an inquest.

When the body was found, at 1:05 p. m., it was still warm, and death could not have occurred long before. A gaping wound in the right temple, from which the blood was still flowing, told a tale of violence. The dead man was lying on his face, where he had fallen when the fatal bullet entered his brain. Lying underneath his right knee was a 38 caliber revolver of the American bulldog pattern, with one chamber empty. In the pocket of the dead man was found about $4 in cash, which went to show that he had not been killed from motives of robbery.

Plain Case of Suicide.

All the investigations that were made showed conclusively that it was a case of suicide, although the efforts to find an adequate cause for the rash act were not very successful. Enderton returned recently from Davenport, where the company he works for has its headquarters. After his return he was talking with some of his intimate friends and mentioned the fact that his employers had expressed themselves as highly pleased with the way in which he was conducting their business. He has been with them about nine years, and during that time has gained a reputation in the city, as well as with his employers, for being scrupulously honest in money matters. Such a thing as there being a shortage in his accounts, which might have led him to commit suicide, is scouted by all who know him.

His one fault has been that of indulging in intoxicating liquors. It is said he has been drinking more or less for the last three or four years, and although he did not make a practice of getting drunk, he drank enough so that it showed on him.

By the side of the body, as it lay under the trees in Fairmount park, there was a note, which, when opened, was found to read as follows:

I love my family and cherish them. I commit them to Almighty God for protection. I invoke His endless love to guard them through life. Forgive me, Almighty God, for my last act. ENDERTON.

His Society Connections.

The dead man was a prominent member of the local council of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, and was a past grand master. He carried $2,000 insurance in the order. He also had $2,000 with the Guaranty Home Life association of this city. He left a wife and five children, the oldest of whom is 15 years of age. They lived at the corner of Third street and Ninth avenue. Enderton's enthusiasm for the United Workmen manifested itself in many ways, and one of his last acts was to stop a well known gentleman on Broadway yesterday noon and ask him to let him take in his application for membership in the order. A few minutes later he talked with D. W. Foster, a printer, at the corner of Broadway and First street, but neither of these gentlemen noticed anything strange in his actions. He must have gone immediately after his conversation with the gentlemen to the park and sent the bullet crashing through his skull.

Died in Convulsions.

Lucy, wife of Alfred Banks, a colored man, who lives at the corner of Avenue L and Eighth street, died about midnight Wednesday night under rather peculiar circumstances. She was about to be confined, and Mrs. Giles and Mrs. Burke, two of her friends, were at the house during the night. They attended her as well as possible, but her case seemed to be beyond them and they sent for Dr. Bellinger. He refused to go to the house, but handed Banks a prescription, which he took to a drug store and had filled. A dose of the medicine was given her, but ten minutes after she had taken it she went into a convulsion. Dr. Bellinger was again called for and he again refused to come. Banks then went for Dr. Macrae, jr., who went to the bedside of the woman. Before he arrived she had had another convulsion and was dead. To satisfy his own curiosity Dr. Macrae secured a copy of Dr. Bellinger's prescription, so as to ascertain if it contained something that was likely to cause convulsions. He stated, after examination, that there was nothing of a harmful nature in the medicine if the druggist put it up as the prescription called for.

The funeral will take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the African Methodist church, corner of Sixth street and Avenue D. Rev. Lisbon, the new pastor of the church, officiating.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA.

Rumors of Reiser's Condition—Mrs. Rudiger is a Physical Wreck.

Every day the report is started on the street that Reiser has died. At no time since he was taken to the hospital has his condition been so critical as it was ten minutes after he was shot. The fact is he has rested fairly well since being placed in the hospital and the nurse who is attending him is of the opinion that he will live. It is true the wound is a dangerous one, but physicians say they know of worse cases than Mr. Reiser's where the patient has lived for years.

Mr. Reiser has written considerable since he was shot. Just what he has written is not known. It is presumed that he is giving instructions as to his business affairs. He has sealed what he has written, with instructions that it be not opened unless he should die.

Through an attorney it was learned that Mrs. Rudiger is suffering from a fever. She has broken down physically considerably since placed under arrest. Mr. Rudiger still makes his home in South Omaha. He is assisting his wife's attorney as much as possible and proposes, he says, to stand by her until the case is ended. Rudiger has not worked any at the packing house since the day after the tragedy.

Among the Breakers.

"Among the Breakers" was produced by a home talent dramatic club in Bauer's hall to a large audience last night. The drama is an old one, but the fact that the cast was made up of home people made each incident more appreciated, and, taken altogether, the production was good. If the fiddle had played the same air Charley Ferrell was singing when he rendered "After the Show" the turn might have taken better, but he finished three verses and escaped without assault.

The Omaha Banjo club very kindly came down and lent their assistance to the entertainment. It is composed of Messrs. Gellenbeck, Strohm and Miller.

The entertainment was given under the auspices of Clover Leaf camp No. 8, Royal Neighbors of America, the managers being Mrs. O. E. Walker, Mrs. S. R. Hathaway and Mrs. Post. The cast was made up of Frank Hart, Frank Gosney, A. L. Hunter, Fred G. Etter, Charles Ferrell, Tom Smithson, Miss Marion Thompson, Mrs. F. H. Hobick, Mrs. M. E. Hart and Miss Franc Jacobs.

Rose Florence, the woman who was fined $9 for committing an assault upon an old woman in a Railroad avenue dive a few nights ago, has been taken to the county jail. The police will make an effort to see that she does not make South Omaha her home in the future.

The police are on the lookout for a thief named David Clark. Clark is wanted at Lincoln for stealing $50 worth of clothing. He is a butcher by trade, but is said to be an all around thug and loafer. His great ambition is to thump a piano in a dive where there are women. He was headed for South Omaha when he left Lincoln.

NOW FOR THE TARIFF.

Work Upon the Reform Measure to Be Pushed Forward.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—There was a rumor flying about last night that a disposition had been manifested opposing any adjournment or recess in congress. It is not thought to extend to the house, although there was some talk about taking a recess until December, when the tariff bill would probably be ready to report. The men charged with getting up a tariff bill are anxious to have it in the house at an early day and will rush it through with all possible speed. This has been known by the republicans, who know it has been the desire of their political opponents to have the tariff bill go into effect as early as possible, so that they may go before the people and explain it. If it could be passed in time to go into effect the last of May, or not later than the last of June, congress may adjourn so that the democrats could at once go upon the stump, they would be able to overcome before election the dissatisfaction which must necessarily prevail after a change in the tariff policy. All these calculations may be upset by the senate, as that body will have to either take a recess or adjournment, which ever may be decided upon.

Interested in His Case.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 2.—The French ambassador at Washington has interested himself in the case of Noel Maison, the French anarchist convicted in the county court here last week of murder in the first degree. It has been represented to the ambassador that Maison is poor and friendless and that if he had money to procure certain witnesses he could establish his innocence. M. Patenotre delegated Leon Porteres to investigate the case.

Maison was convicted of killing Mrs. Sophie Rees. It was alleged that Maison and a companion named Breysse, now in jail, were engaged in an anarchistic plot to blow up the Canadian public buildings and that Mrs. Rees was killed because she accidentally discovered the secrets of the anarchists.

Desert Lands.

MADE A HURRICANE FIGHT

Ike Weir and New Zealand Billy Murphy Come Together at Boston.

SOME HARD AND VICIOUS SLUGGING

Six Desperate Rounds in Which Science Was Thrown to the Winds—The Spider Knocks Out His Game Little Opponent.

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Ike Weir, the Belfast Spider, and Billy Murphy of New Zealand fought five murderous rounds at the Cribb club tonight. Murphy was knocked clean through the ropes in the sixth round, and although his seconds picked him up and thrust him through the ropes, Referee Johnnie Eckard of the Coney Island Athletic club awarded the fight to Weir. Both men were badly used up and Murphy had to be carried from the ring. His face showed marks of the terrible punishment, while Weir was scarcely disfigured.

Before the Weir-Murphy fight Mike Sears of Leadston, Me., champion bantam weight of New England, and Dave Ross of Somerville fought nine vicious rounds. Both men were badly off when the referee gave the fight to Ross to prevent interference on the part of the police.

Then the Weir-Murphy fight came off. Weir's seconds were Billy Hennesey and Louis Hodgkins. Behind Murphy were Johnny Griffin, Jim Gibbons and Jimmy Gorman.

Here the Trouble Began.

Murphy led off the fighting with a vicious blow on Weir's face. Weir retaliated and the skin came down off Murphy's eye and the blood flowed. Then there was some hot fighting, with Weir stepping around the ring and practicing his famous jig step. Murphy got into him on the neck with his right and Weir fought savagely, getting in fully a half dozen blows before time was called. No advantage for either man.

In the second round Murphy hit Weir with his right and Weir chased him around the ring and got in his left on Murphy's jaw. The men grappled. Weir got in a swinging right hand blow on Murphy's other eye, and both were black and bloody when time was called.

Weir led off in the third with a vicious blow on Murphy's jaw and he fell on the ropes. Murphy grappled, showing signs of weakness. Weir got in two blows in quick succession on Murphy's face that staggered him. Then they clinched and Weir went down. His second called foul loudly. When they came up again time was called.

Knocked Through the Ropes.

Weir started the fighting in the fourth round with a blow on Murphy's nose and Murphy retaliated and knocked Weir through the ropes with a blow on the neck. Weir recovered and came up with blow after blow on Murphy's nose and face and Murphy clinched to save being knocked out. Several times it looked as if he would drop, but he held up until time was called, clinching to save a knockout blow.

Weir fought savagely in the next round. It was a vicious round. Murphy slashed right and left and Weir began to get groggy. He dodged Murphy's blows and fell several times to avoid punishment. Murphy was fighting desperately all this time. He got in a blow with his right on Weir's neck that stretched him on his back. He got up to his knees and waited until the timekeeper counted nine seconds, then he struggled to his feet and Murphy sent him down again with a blow on the same place. Weir struggled to his feet and the two men clinched. Science was nowhere and foul blows were frequent. Weir was pretty far gone when a third blow from Murphy keeled him over just as time was called.

More Vicious Fighting.

The men came from their corners somewhat freshened in the sixth round. They sparred cautiously and then slugged viciously. Weir got in a swinging blow between Murphy's eyes and he dropped like a log through the ropes and upon the floor of the hall. His seconds picked him up and pushed him through the ropes, but it was plain he was beaten and Referee Eckard gave the fight to Weir.

Ryan Won in Two Rounds.

WATERBURY, Conn., Nov. 2.—Tommy Ryan, the champion welterweight, knocked out Harry Jamison of Bridgeport here early tonight in two rounds.

Walter McNally sparred Danny Retzel two rounds, when the referee declared the contest a draw to save police interference.

NOTHING SENSATIONAL IN IT.

Directum Wins His Match Race with Mascot in Hollow Style.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The driving match between Directum and Mascot, which, it had been said, was going to be the most sensational event that ever took place between harnessed horses, proved to be no sensation at all. There were between 6,000 and 7,000 present.

After the first heat, during which Mascot broke badly twice, and when the sports began to see, or thought they saw, that the pacing champion was not himself, it was hard to get even money on the black horse. After the second heat the odds turned to 100 to 80 on Directum's winning three straight heats.

Directum won the toss for the pole and when they were sent away in the first heat on the second scoring Directum got pretty nearly half a length advantage. Kelly was holding Directum's reins and Andrews drove Mascot. The horses had not made over 100 yards when Mascot threw up his heels in a shameful break and lost five or six lengths by it. Kelly at once took Directum back and held him close until Mascot recovered and got within a length of him. Mascot broke again and lost more ground, and Directum had things his own way to the finish, which he passed at least five lengths in front of Mascot. Time was 2:10¼.

Directum got a little the best of the start in the second heat, too, and held it easily. Kelly was taking things easy with Directum, knowing that his adversary could never overhaul him, and while Andrews tried his best, Directum passed under the wire four lengths ahead. Time: 2:07¾.

In the third heat, as in the others, Directum was from a neck to half a length in advance when the word "go" was given, and that advantage he increased to a good length before the first turn had been rounded. Mascot hung on like a good, game horse. Andrews drove him cautiously. The pair went for half a mile with Mascot's nose well on the wheels of Directum's sulky. Mascot showed a good heart and steady movement, as he attempted to improve his position. Kelly made a slight demand on the black horse, whose movements had been simply perfect from the time he first made a scoring under the wire, and the trotter shot ahead like a good fellow, and within the next 100 feet left plenty of daylight between his driver's back and the horse trying to win $5,000 from him. Going up the hill on the off side of the track, Directum increased his lead, always going easily and smoothly, more like a machine in his perfect motion than a living thing, and when Kelly had secured three lengths advantage he let up a little bit on his charge. Mascot, however, kept going all the time and when they came into the stretch Mascot had again lapped on the leader. Kelly gave another little push to his horse, but Mascot continued to cling. Kelly then saw he would have to drive to win, and for the first time during the match he compelled Directum to exert himself. The black responded splendidly and opened a gap of perhaps half a length of daylight between his sulky and Mascot's nose. This was at a point within 100 yards of the finish. Andrews, although he knew he was beaten, kept his gelding moving, but could not decrease the lead. The time was 2:08¾, a second lower than that of the second heat.

Another interesting event was the ten-mile trot of Pascal, the holder of the record for that distance made at Stockton, Cal., of 27:23¾. Today Pascal made the distance in 26:15, thus knocking off one minute and eight and a quarter seconds from the world's record and that on the usually slow Fleetwood track. He trotted off the miles as follows: First, 2:32½; second, 5:04½, third, 7:38; fourth, 10:13; fifth, 12:51½; sixth, 15:31½; seventh, 18:10½; eighth, 21:49¾; ninth, 23:32½; tenth, 26:15.

Another record was beaten today, that for the members' cup, 2:19½. Matthew Riley's team, Clayton and Reference, made the mile in 2:18½.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Nov. 2.—Greenlander trotted two miles today in 4:34, which beats the stallion record and comes within half a second of the world's record, made by Nightingale last season. Nancy Hanks and Arion will be shipped to Boston tomorrow and Manager will also be sent home. The track was in no condition for record breaking and Mr. Doble deemed it inadvisable to start them.

Payton Leads at Pool.

The second night's play in the continuous fifteen-ball pool match between Ed Johnson and Fred Payton took place at Foley's popular billiard rooms last evening in the presence of a crowd of spectators numbering several hundred. The night's work, it can be briefly stated, was a surprise to the lovers of the game, Mr. Johnson falling off in his play fully 50 per cent on his game of the previous evening. As a consequence, after being far in the rear, Mr. Payton overhauled his scientific opponent, and then ran away from him like a thoroughbred would run away from a dray horse. In justice to Johnson, however, it is but fair to state that he was not only out of form, but was seriously indisposed, and felt like forfeiting the 100 points without touching a cue. Tonight, he says, if he is at himself, he will make ample amends for last night's shortcomings.

Last night play began at promptly 9 o'clock, with Johnson leading off. Payton followed with eight on the break, Johnson holing the remaining seven. After the initial frame the South Omaha kid played a good strong game, and the score at the close was as follows: Payton, 107; Johnson, 77. Total: Payton, 195; Johnson, 182.

MATT AKESON'S MURDERERS

Identity of the Men Established by the Omaha Police, Who Know Them.

H'D SERVED SENTENCES IN JAIL HERE

Seen Yesterday at the Bridge Over the Platte at Ashland—Posse on Their Track—Condition of the Wounded at Akeson's.

The Omaha police believe that the two men who murdered Matthew Akeson near Weeping Water Wednesday evening are men with whom they have had some experience in an official manner not long ago and they have a good description of the supposed murderers.

One of them is a fellow who went by the name of Harry Hill while here. He drove a hack at night, and roomed at 1019 North Sixteenth street in Mr. McCormick's house. The other man was arrested at one time with Hill as a suspicious character. He was also a hack driver and is thought to be "Jumbo George."

One night during the latter part of September Detectives Savage and Dempsey saw a man trying to work a drunken stranger on Douglas street. The detectives caught the man in the act of trying to defraud the drunken man and they locked him up. He gave the name of Harry Hill. He was sentenced to twenty days imprisonment and served the time in the city jail. As soon as he got out he began his old tricks, and Detectives Hayes and Hudson arrested him again. After being liberated this time Hill left Omaha, and this is the first that has been heard of him since then. As soon as a complete description of the murderers was sent to Omaha yesterday, several officers who knew Hill and his pal were positive that they are the men who committed the cold blooded crime near Weeping Water. Officers all over the country have been notified to look out for these fellows and it is thought that they cannot escape detection for any length of time, as the cold weather will drive them to seek shelter.

Trail of the Murderers.

Last night M. Warner, the station agent at Bagley, Ia., telegraphed Chief Seavey that two men who exactly answered the description of the men as published in the papers had passed the depot. He wired for instructions. The telegram was forwarded to the marshal at Weeping Water.

About 10 o'clock Dick Berlin of South Omaha notified Police Captain Mostyn of this city that he had seen two men who acted suspiciously about 6 o'clock in the evening. Mr. Berlin was hunting on the Platte river yesterday near Ashland. He started for town about dusk to catch the train for home, and when he got near the bridge this side of Ashland he saw two men standing under the structure. As he approached the bridge the men crossed to the other side as if they wanted to escape being seen. When Berlin got on top of the bridge the actions of the men were such as to cause him to give them particular notice and when he looked over the railing they started back to the other side where he could not see them. Mr. Berlin came on to South Omaha and when he heard of the murder he told of seeing these men. After hearing a description of the murderers he was sure that they were the men whom he saw under the bridge. The officers at Weeping Water were notified and a posse of deputies were sent out at once with orders to bring the suspects in, dead or alive. At a late hour last night no information had been received from the posse. If these are the men they cannot escape, as descriptions of them are in the hands of the officers in all the Nebraska towns.

Description of the Men.

The Cass county sheriff has offered a reward of $250 for the capture of the murderers, and in a circular to police officers furnishes the following description:

"One large man, weight about 200 pounds, nearly six feet in height, brown hair, slightly turn up nose, coarse voice, dressed with jeans pants, coat torn, light hat with high crown, smooth face. The other is a tall, slim man, weight about 160 pounds, dark hair and mustache, walked very straight, six feet in height, wore striped pants, cutaway coat, black eyes, with downward look.

ASSASSIN STILL AT LARGE.

The night watchman at the sewing machine factory, while coming into town this morning at 5 o'clock, reported seeing two men who answered the description of the murderers, walking up the railroad track. A large posse was organized and scoured the country for a few miles each way, but failed to find a trace of the men. No other clew has as yet been discovered.

PEIXOTO BUYING SHIPS OF WAR.

Reported Purchase of Several Vessels Built for the American Navy.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The Brazilian government has acquired the magnificent steamer Britannia of the North Atlantic Steamship company's fleet. The price paid for her was $225,000.

All sorts of rumors are afloat, says a morning paper, in the mercantile circles of the southern part of the city which have dealings with South America, regarding the Brazilian revolt. The most sensational story was in regard to the departure of the new Brazilian fleet from this port. It was to the effect that Admiral Mello would send the Republica up to intercept El Cid and the rest of the new Peixoto fleet as soon as it got off shore. Admiral Mello has an agent in this city and is kept well informed of all that is going on here.

Negotiations are in active progress, according to another paper, for the acquisition by the Brazilian government of the three new warships, Montgomery, Machias and Marblehead, which were built for the United States navy. Two of these three ships are still in the hands of the builders. The Machias is the only one in commission. The Montgomery is at the yards of her builders, the Columbian works, Baltimore, Md. The Machias is at the Brooklyn navy yard. She has not been finally accepted by the Navy department, although she has just completed her trial. The Marblehead is at the foot of East Seventeenth street, East river, at the docks of her engine builders, the N. F. Palmer, jr. company. The purchase of these ships could not well be interfered with by the United States Navy department. The builders contracted to build the craft within a stated period. In signing the contract, each of the firms was assured by the Navy department of being accorded payments equal to one-tenth of the value of the ships. These one-tenth payments were to be paid as soon as one-tenth part of each ship was completed.

Antonio de Castillo, consul general in New York for President Peixoto's government, sailed today on the Wadsworth for Pernambuco, Brazil. Although it is said he is in poor health, it is considered significant he should leave in so critical a time for his country. Men acquainted with Brazilian affairs say he is going to Brazil upon some very important mission, probably regarding the purchase of ships for the navy.
