The work of grading Cochran park, the new park in the western part of the city, has been completed and the commissioners are now talking over plans for making it an attractive resort. There will be about $1,000 left in the fund which was set apart for beautifying the place after all bills have been paid for grading. Early in the spring trees will be set out and walks laid out. One plan that has been suggested by Commisier Casper is to have the park filled with paths and the space not occupied by walks taken up with grass plats and shade trees. He considers this preferable to the arrangement of Bayliss park, where much of the grass is dying out on account of too much shade. The regular meeting of the park commissioners will be held tomorrow evening, when it is probable that this mat-ter will come up for consideration.

Arrangements Made for the Funeral of A. B Enderton Today.

HIS STANDING WITH HIS EMPLOYERS

One of the Firm Testifies to the Dead Man's Honesty and Reliability-A Tribute to fils Worth and Character.

The funeral of A. B. Enderton will take place this afternoon, Rev. J. H. Davis offciating. It will be under the auspices of the local council of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. Services will be held at 2 o'clock at his late residence, 913 Third street, and at 2:30 o'clock at the Broadway Methodist church. The following gentlemen will act as pallbearers: O. D. Wheeler, C. R. Frank, F. W. Spetman, O. H. Brown, Peter Smith and W. Arnd.

Judge Nathaniel French of Davenport vice president and secretary of the Eagle Manufacturing company, is in the city, hav-ing come to attend the funeral services. He was met by a BEE reporter yesterday and in reply to a question as to the standing of Enderton with the company he represented

he said:
"His death is a great loss to us. He was not only a good business man, but thoroughly reliable and honorable in every way; none could be more so. His unswerving devotion to our interests through the many years he was with us gained and kept our entire confidence. Through his unceasing efforts and unfailing loyalty to our interests he was largely instrumental in building up our business. As an instance of the method and diligence he exhibited in his business, although he died suddenly, his accounts and business are left in the best possible shape—everything straight and correct, no loose ends to be tied up or tangles to be straightened out "He was with us in Davenport only last week, and we arranged with him the plans for the coming year's business, securing his services for another year, as we had been in the habit of doing each year. He seemed cheerful and hopeful, but complained that he had been suffering from insomnia for some

"I cannot account for his suicide on any ground except that insomnia had affected his mind. Many goods traits of character had made the other officers of the company and me his personal friend."

A Talk with Mr Mace. There are no two persons more talked about in Council Btuffs and Omaha than Drs. DePew and Sweetland; and there is no system of medicine that has created more interest among the people and the physicians than the Sweetland Specific Remedies. The many remarkable cures that have been reported in THE BEE have challenged attention and investigation. People have been incredulous and loth to believe the published reports and have made close investigations, only to find the facts understated instead of overdrawn. Physicians have examined many of the reported cases, and the patients when called upon for an explanation could only say, as did the blind man of old, "Whereas, we were once sick

One of the encouraging indications of better times is the scarcity of awelling houses for rent. A case was brought to light yesterday where a man and his family, who have just moved to this city to make it their home. have been scouring the city, looking carefully over every desirable part, for a place to live. As yet they have been unable to find what they want, although they have had every rental agency in town helping them. Events Last Week Which flelped to Make Time Pass Pleasantly. Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hazelton entertained a party of friends last Friday evening at their nome on South Seventh street. It was an informal affair and the number of guests was not large, but those who were there were admirably entertained. One of the features of the evening was a contest in the poetical line between the guests. Cards were passed around somewhat similar to dance programs, on the first page there being inscribed a couplet having some refer ence to poetry. The second page was blank, and each guest was requested to write the name of some object on the card he held. The cards were changed and each one wrote a question with reference to the name he found on his new card. Another change, and then each one was required to write a short poetical effusion on the subject thus furnished. Many of the verses were exceed ingly bright and all were entertaining, all though some of the guests who did not hap pen to have their rhyming dictionaries with them would have preferred to saw wood rather than to squeeze a stanza out of their unaccustomed brains. Dainty refreshments were served.

Miss Ella Luring's Sunday school class gave an entertainment last Friday evening at the Broadway Methodist church. It was in the form of a "Japanese wedding," and all who took part were in full oriental costume. Had it not been for the unmistakably American faces that peeped out from under American faces that peeped out from under the gaudy foreign head dresses, the guests who were not in the secret might easily imagined that they had been suddenly transferred to the Asiatic isle.

On the same evening the young ladies of the Unity Guild gave a pleasant party at Masonic temple. Like all of the entertainments given under the auspices of this or-ganization, it was attended by a large crowd, and one that was bent on having an evening of pleasure. A startling occurrence took place on East Pierce street last Tuesday night, and one of the motormen on the Council Bluffs & Omaha bridge line still has trouble in keeping his hair in a reclining posture. The train was running along Pierce street when the motorman was startled by seeing the form of a man standing in front of him on the track. He saw nothing of him until the train was a short distance away, and by the light of the headlight he could see that the form swayed about considerably, as though the intellect that occupied the top story had been somewhat befuddled by too close communion with John Barleycorn. The motorman reversed his current with all the speed possible, but it was too late. There was a collision in which the motor came off best. The form of the inchriste went down, and as the wheels kept turning the horror-stricken motorman heard the bones crunch as if they were between the jaws of some wild beast.

As soon as the train could be stopped the motorman and conductor got off and went back to see if the man was indeed dead. The form lay on the track and the wheels had left a deep imprint in the body. There was no movement or sign of life, and when the men went to pick the body up they shud-dered. But when they lifted it from the ground it came up so much more easily than they had expected that their backs nearly snapped. They made an examination, and from the crevice which had been made in that mortal frame by the cruel wheels instead of blood there issued forth a lump of hay that might have been valued at the rate of $6 per ton. And then they remembered it was Hallowe'en. The boys who had planned the loke had passed a string over the trolley wire and by means of this they kept the scarecrow in an upright position until the motor struck it.

A similar joke was played on another train crew on the east end of the bridge and with the same result.

Knights Templar. Ivanhoe commandery of Council Bluffs held its annual election of officers Thursday, November 2. Those holding positions are among the active working members, whose e is expected in any of the bodies of which they are members and on whom the success of the commandery largely de-pends. It seems to be an easy matter for many of the members to forget that a duty devolves on them more than the mere re-ceiving of degrees. The inculcation of the enets of the order may become an old story but they are of that character that have stood the test of time from the past ages down the centuries to the present time-charity and protherly love. The presence of many would not only encourage the at-tendants, but help to build up our order, reaching out into fields of usefulness that it is now impossible to cover.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: W. J. Jameson, eminent com-mander; Victor Jennings, generalissimo; George W. Lipe, captain general; C. E. Walters, S. W.; J. C. Mitchell, J. W.; Rev. E. J. Babcock, prelate: J. B. Atkins, treasurer; H. A. Cox, recorder; M. Duquette, standard bearer; D. H. Plie, sword bearer; P. H. Wind, warden; S. S. Nash, sentinel.

After the business of the evening was finshed the sir knights, with their wives and indy friends to a goodly number, repaired to the banquet room and participated in the good things provided, and from the appearance of the tables when they withdrew, evidently to their entire satisfaction, for more than an hour was spent in eating and sociability and all voted the evening a pleasant one and happily spent. When he quit the audience was still smaller. His speech was a repetition in substance of that which has been delivered by Governor Boies all over the state, and as the governor's speech was anything but new when he delivered it here, by the time Hayes had half finished the audience found it rather monotonous. Many left the hall during the speech and the windup of the campaign was anything but a howling success.

Two of the Arkansas Desperadoes Are Now in Custody.

How the Robbers Relieved the Passengers of Their Wealth-Uonductor McNally's

Heroic Death-Identity of the Captured Outlaws.

LITTLE ROCK. Nov. 4 .- Two of the Oli phant train robbers were captured at James town, thirty miles from the scene of the robbery, at 5 o'clock this afternoon. They are now at Batesville. One of them is said to be Jessie B. Roper, who shot and killed Sheriff Byler of Baxter county a year ago last June and for whom there is a reward of $1,500 dead or alive. It is believed the other five will be captured before morning. A man giving his name as J. T. Pollard was arrested at Fisher today upon suspicion of being implicated in the robbery. His clothes were covered with mud and he could not give a satisfactory account of himself.

The chief of police was visited by a man calling himself J. R. Lemons, who said he knew the man who shot Conductor McNally. Lemons claimed to be a railroad man and arrived in the city at 2 o'clock this morning. He said he had conclusive evidence that a man named Case shot McNally, but he refused to disclose his evidence. The chief began an investigation, and from what he has carned he thinks Lemons knows some hing about the men who participated in the robbery. Some startling developments are ooked for.

Excitement Ran High,

Not since the day when the assassination of John M. Clayton was announced on the streets, has such intense excitement prevailed in this city as was caused this morning by the news of last night's train robbery at Oliphant, an exclusive report of which was telegraphed abroad by the Associated press. The robbery occurred at a little lovely station in Independence county and a more desirable place for a holdup could not have been found. Oiliphant is situated in the midst of the largest and densest cane brake in the state of Arkansas. For fifteen miles on either side of the road is one con-tinuous mass of almost impenetrable woods. It is thought some of the train robbers are in this canebrake.

There is little doubt that the robbery was committed by a band of men experienced in this business. The engineer of train No. 51 says the men who ordered him to throw up his hands showed they had had experience with train robbery before. The train had not fairly stopped when the robbers began firing a fusilade of shots from their Winchesters.

Captured the Trainmen.

Two of the men jumped on the engine and Engineer Harriett and Fireman John Quaries found themselves looking down the muzzles of Winchesters. They were ordered to disof Winchesters. They were ordered to dis-mount and made to accompany the robbers. The brakeman and porter were also captured and placed under guard, Mc-Nally, the conductor, only escap-ing and the whole crew was forced to go through the train in advance of the robbers. They tried to make the engineer and fireman open the express car, but these men declined. When the door had been opened they endeavored to make Quarles open the safe, but he told them he had noth ing to do with the safe. The robbers in quired for the messenger, but Quarles did not know his whereabouts. Quarles said the men took watches as well as money, but if a men took watches as well as money, but if a passenger handed over a bad timepiece it was handed back to him.

The men finally recognized Express Mes-senger Moore, who was standing in the car with the engineer and fireman, and com pelled him to open the money safe. There was another safe in the car containing jew elry, but this was not touched by the robbers.

All the time the robbery was going on inside the train the four men stationed outside kept up a fusilade. The express car was perforated with bullets, fully 200 shots

Went Through the Coaches. When the robbers had fluished holding up the express car they went into the coaches. The other four were still on the outside, two on each side of the train, shooting and swearing. The robbers marched the train crew into the car in front of them. Each man had both hands up. The porter came in first and was frightened nearly to death One man took position on one side of the coach near the door and leveled his Winchester at the heads of the row of passen gers on that side of the car while another took charge of the other half of the coach in a similar manner. The third man-and he was a vicious-looking, bloodthirsty fellow, at least six feet tall-took position in the Leveling his revolver at the heads of the passengers, he informed them that they had better proceed to give up their valua-bles. He then proceeded slowly along down the aisle, relieving every man of his valua-Conductor McNally's Death

Mr. Waterline of Memphis, was a passen ger on the train. Speaking of Conductor McNally, he said: "McNally, the conductor. was one of the bravest men I ever saw While all the shooting was going on outside and in the face of three or four Winchesters, he drew his revolver, walked to the rear platform of the baggage car and took his stand. It was evident from the determined look on his face that he meant to defend his train even at the risk of loosing his life. When he reached the platform he stepped down on the steps, grasped the iron railing with his left hand and began firing. He only fired one shot. Just as he was about to fire the second time, a bullet from one of the robper's Winchesters, which had been aimed deliberately at him, struck him is the abdomen just below the navel. man was just behind him and he fell into his arms. He was conscious only a few moments before he expired. He wished to notify his sister in Cleveland, but died before he could give her name and address." Refused to Rob the Women. No idea as to the amount of booty secured can be given, as the express people refuse to talk. The robbers did not molest the female passengers and in several cases declined money from the male passengers on the ground that they were working men and could not afford the loss. In several in-stances they returned small sums ranging from 25 cents to $1 to their victims to get breakfast with. The robbers told the passengers they wanted only good watches, and when a passenger handed over a cheap watch it was handed back to him.

An inquest was held over the remains of the dead conductor this morning, and a ver-dict rendered in accordance with the facts above related. Mr. McNally was a member of all the Masonic orders, both York and Scottish Rites, and was a thirty-second de-gree Mason in good standing. The only gree Mason in good standing. The only relatives he is known to have are a sister, Mrs. Kate Shehon, Cleveland, O., and a niece, who resides in Cincinnati. The remains were taken charge of by the Masoni

A special from Batesville, Ark., says: The There are some doubts about Roper being the name of one of them. He is sullen and stubborn and says nothing. A large lot of watches, jewelry and some money were taken from them

It is reliably stated tonight that the entire amount of money secured from the express company's safe will not exceed $500.

TENNESSEE'S TRAIN ROBBERS. How the Piot to Rob the Knozville & Ohio

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 4 .- The plot to rot the express train at Coal Creek on the Knoxville & Ohio last night, originated with F. W. Gording, who served for a long time as delivery clerk in the express office here. Jim Smith, who gave the plot away, is a barroom loafer. He paid dearly for it, as he is in the hospital here and will die. Gording belongs to a respectable famthat once possessed considerable wealth. He is in the Knoxville jail Policeman Atkin, who was shot in the elbow in the fight with the would-be robbers, had the ball extracted from his arm today,

TRAIN ROBBERS CAPTURED WHY THEY ADVERTISE

A Fair Question, Often Asked in Good Faith, Candidly and Plainly

STORY OF THE HOLD UP AT OLIPHANT "Why wouldn't Drs. Copeland and Shepard be just as successful without advertising? I'm sure the patients under their care are constantly sending their friends and neighbors to be treated. I don't see the need of their advertising at all." These remarks were made by a patient under the care of these physicians, and contain a certain element of truth.

This is the answer:

Drs. Copeland and Shepard advertise because they can reach a greater number of patients by so doing, and by securing this great number of patients they can afford to treat them at a nominal rate, which could not otherwise be done. This is the secret of their advertising, and scarcely a town within a radius of 250 miles of this city but has its quota of grateful patients who daily attest to their friends and the public the beneficial results of their treatment. Drs. Copeland and Shepard know that they are do ng good in this community. It is the sick and unfortunate people they alm to reach and please, not physicians.

Their success has been won by honest, hard This is the answer:

Their success has been won by honest, hard Their success has been won by honest, hard work, by genuine methods, by undivided and devoted study and experience. This is the record of their training and experience, this the evidence of their skill. They are here to cure sick neopic, and that they do cure them, even after the efforts of others have proved powerless, is attested by the numerous statements published each week.

Both Class Presidents. Dr. W. H. Copeland was president of his Dr. W. H. Copeland was president of his class in Believae Hospital Medical Colore, New York, where he graduated, the most famous institution of its kind in the country. Dr. Shepard's credentials are no less abundant and unqualified. He was the president of his class at Rush Medical College, Chicago, the most noted medical college in the west. TWO LETTERS.

Describing Results. William L. Dungan, of Hawthorne, Wis., In writing to Dr. Copeland for mail treatment on eptember 2 last, spoke of his trouble thus: September 2 last, spoke of his trouble thus:

"My illness began with the grip last March.
It left my system badly run down. I have ever since had a bad daily headache, beginning at 7 or 8 in the morning and lasting till I or 2 p m. During that time there is always a dreadful aching of the eyes and a pain at the bridge of the nose and in the cheek bones, while my forchead, just over the eyes, is very sore to press againsi—sore to the touch, while the headaches last there is an awful, horrid smeil in my nose. I also suffer from debility and the night and morning cough left by the grip.

"I wish to take treatment with you by mail, as I am told the Copeland mail treatment is the best, and I enclose your small fee to pay for a month's treatment, advice, medicines, etc."

Two Weeks Later,

September 19 Mr. Dungan wrote to tell how he was getting along:

"I have been really surprised at the progress "I have been really surprised at the progress I have been making under the mail treatment. The Copel nd system is just what everybody says it is. I have been taking the medicines but two weeks, and feel that I am getting weil fast. The horrible smell has gone from my nose and the terrible pains from my head. I think a week or two longer will bring me an absolute cure."

Large Fees Refused. NO PATIENT IS PERMITTED TO PAY ABOVE A LOW RATE A MONTH, INCLUD-ING ALL MEDICINES AND EXPERT and although painful his wound is not considere 1 serious. Superintendent Spaulding of the Southern Express company speaks in the highest terms of the coolness and cour age of the Knoxville police, who were in the express car when attacked by the robbers. Had not the express and railroad officials been apprised of the attempted robbery and provision been made to prevent it, it would doubtless have been successful. There was comparatively little currency in the express car at the time.

FOILED THE TRAIN ROBBERS. Efforts Made to Hold Up the Missouri Pacitic Train from Lincoln. NEBRASKA CITY, Nov. 4 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-An attempt was made to hold up the Missouri Pacific train from Lincoln this evening near Union. As the train left the depot for the water station two colored men, one of whom was recognized as John T. Gonas of this city, jumped on the engine and demanded of the engineer that the train stop. Brakeman Harpe happened to be near with a ready revolver and sent three shots after the highwaymen.

They then disappeared in the darkness. Pursuing the Highwaymen.

Union, Neb., Nov. 5.-[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-A posse was immediately organized at Union after the attempted train robbery and are now in pursuit of the would-be highwaymen. If caught they will probably be roughly handled. STONE MUST HANG.

Murderer of the Wrattan Family Sentences Washington, Ind., Nov. 4.-Today at noon James Stone pleaded guilty to having murdered the six members of the Wrattan family in Harrison township, this county, September 18. The time consumed by the court in impanelling a jury, hearing the evidence and the passing of the death sentence was only three hours. Williams, Kais. Clark, White, Cosby and Yarborough are the STRIKE MUST CONTINUE.

Mine Owners and Miners in London Fail to Reach Any Settlement.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The conference between the mine owners and the delegates of the striking miners was concluded this afternoon. No settlement was arrived at and it is understood that the negotiations will not be resumed and that the strike will continue This onsatisfactory ending to the conference has caused much excitement and disppointment in many circles. A large crowd of people which was outside the place where the conference was held awaiting news of the negotiations expressed considerable dis-approbation when it become known that the strike must continue, for it means high prices for coal and more misery for many suffering families.

"I suppose these headaches, which used to keep me abed sometimes for three or four days were caused by catarrh of the stomach. I must have swallowed considerable of the poisonous catarrhal matter from the head without knowing it. My stomach was at times sore and tender. At other times there would just be a distressed, bloated-up feeling.

"The next thing I had was heart trouble. The bronchial tubes had become badly inflamed. There was first a burning and soreness right I chin I the breast bone and a contracting and tightening of the chest that prevented me from drawing a full breath.

"I didn't cough much, but I suffered great distress. The sbooting pains ranning through the chest would ran to the left side. Sometimes they would take hold of the heart and aimost twist it out of place, they were so hard.

"My arms and hands had spells of getting numb and dead. I would often plunge a pin right into the flesh, drawing the blood freely, but I felt no pain whatever. I seemed perfectly paralyzed in these parts. At such times it took long and sovere rubbing to put any feeling into my limbs.

"The effect of the treatment I had from Dr. Shepard was to check and cure the catarrhal adment, to correct and streat then the heart's action, and to build me up every way. He relieved me of my distress. It wasn't long till I was a very different woman, and I have good reason for my great faith in Dr. Shepard and his way of curing chronic diseases."
