A large number of Council Bluffs people are expected to attend the football game at Athletic park in Omaha this afternoon at 3 o'clock by the teams of the Young Men's Christian association of this city and Omaha. Both teams are in good condition and the contest is expected to be a hard one. The game will be free to all. Cable cars going direct to the grounds can be taken at Tenth and Douglas streets.

The ladies of the Union Sunday school mission on North Eighth street wish all who have cast off clothing to keep it until it is called for by the committee. The Sunday school is increasing in size and the needs of the little people are urgent. The ladies will get the clothing in order before distributing it, so that the owners will not be obliged to donate it on account of its being soiled or otherwise out of order.

A wood shed in the rear of D. J. Rockwell's residence, No. Third avenue, caught fire last night from some unaccountable source, and for a time threatened to carry off several buildings in the vicinity. The fire department was promptly on hand, and its prompt work prevented a larger and more destructive fire. Mr. and Mrs. Rockwell were away from home at the time, and are unable to give any explanation of the cause of the fire.

"Dutch" Boyington was tried in police court yesterday morning on the charge of vagrancy and ordered to leave the city, with the promise of a larger sum if he would be faithful to obey. The tickets, however, are free and can be obtained at the mission tonight or at the Methodist church tomorrow evening.

The entertainment at the Congregational church Thursday evening was a most successful one in every particular. The church was packed to its utmost capacity, many being unable to find seats. A program of ballads of all nations was presented, the singers being appropriately costumed according to the custom of the countries they represented. Many of the songs were of a little tone, who captured their audience, if anything, more completely than their elders.

Another entertainment was given at the same place last evening at which an attractive program was presented. The principal feature being the mandolin and guitar playing of Prof. Satorius of Omaha and Master Aaron Lyman of this city.

Was Willing to Murder. Bill Brown, a well known tough, went into a colored barber shop on Broadway near the corner of Eleventh street last evening. Harvey Washington, a colored man who works in Omaha, and Brown had a misunderstanding and a number of vilipendents were bandied back and forth. Brown whipped out a revolver and aimed directly at Washington's head, fired. The bullet ploughed a deep furrow on the top of the colored man's head. Washington lost a great deal of blood before a striking could be done to relieve him. Brown's friends took the run away from him and up to a late hour last night he had not been located.

The article in The Bee yesterday morning with reference to the Interstate Bridge company's request of the city council of this city for an extension of the time in which to complete the terms of its charter aroused considerable interest on this side of the river. There seems to be quite a feeling among the leading business men that the company's request should be acceded to in case the demands of the city with reference to that $1,285,000 job in the Hendrick case are met and sufficient proof can be brought forward of the company's intentions to carry out faithfully the work for which the charter is granted.

There is no desire to prevent the Bridge and Terminal Railway company from running its line between East Omaha and Council Bluffs, nor do the business men who are urging the council to take a time about making the desired extension think they are straining all hope of a 5-cent fare between the two cities, as has been charged. They are merely insisting on what they take to be their rights and are waiting for the company to bring forward proof that it is acting in good faith.

Motives of the Company Questioned. "If the Bridge and Terminal company had asked for an extension of six months," remarked a well known citizen yesterday in conversation upon the subject, "the request would seem more reasonable. There is no time for the present at least. And, for that matter, there is no reason on earth why it couldn't have been building the track all these two years and more past, if it really expected to live up to all the provisions of its charter. It looks to me as though the company merely wants to hold its charter until the quo warranta case which is now pending against the Omaha & Council Bluffs Railway and Bridge company is decided. Then, if the charter of the latter company is annulled, the Bridge and Terminal company will have a charter for sale. If not, it won't do any hurt. All the circumstances indicate that there is nothing some sort of an agreement between the two companies, for there has never been the slightest apparent friction between them, in spite of the fact that if the Bridge and Terminal company were to build the track, it would be a powerful rival of the older company."

NICHOLSON WILL BE AN ISSUE. Local Politicians are Looking Forward to Next Spring's Campaign.

The action of the city council in exonerating Chief Nicholson from the charge of drunkenness, which has been hanging over him since August 11, was the cause of universal comment on the streets yesterday. It seems to have awakened a greater interest than any move that was ever made by the council. Strange as it may seem, the great majority of the republicans of the city seem to be in hearty accord with the democratic council, although probably from different motives from those that actuated the council in arriving at its final decision. There is an election next spring at which four aldermen are to be elected. This election is the last proposed by the republicans as the biggest bonanza that has ever struck the republican party in Council Bluffs. There is little doubt that Chief Nicholson will be principal, if not the only issue in the next city campaign. One of the wealthiest citizens of Council Bluffs, Mr. H. C. Scholfield, held a meeting of prominent officers by virtue of his connection with the democratic party, stated yesterday that in his opinion the reinstatement of Chief Nicholson will be principal, if not the only issue in the next city campaign.

The following communication, received at The Bee office yesterday, indicates how the feeling runs among the democrats of the city:

Ought to Exonerate Everybody. COUNCIL BLUFFS, Nov. 24.—To the Editor of The Bee: Now that the delicate job of white-washing Mayor Nicholson has been done, many weeks is over and past and Charles Nicholson has been reinstated in his position as chief of police. It is not in order for the council to do this, but it is in order for the council to do this for the abuse which has been heaped upon August Scholfield last, if anything, the advantage over his superior officers. There was no reason why he should be reinstated, and as against Nicholson. In fact, Scholfield was reinstated because he was drunk, and his reinstatement took place when the chief was supposed to be on duty. Consequently the council had no legal right to dictate to Scholfield where he should get drunk or not. In view of these facts it is not the manifest duty of the council to reinstate Nicholson with his chief and companion? And, while it is true that he did not do it, he did not perform toward Ben Webster, whose name he stirred up all the recent difficulty? The grand jury found that he was not guilty of anything notwithstanding the fact that he was found within a few feet of a building that had already been set on fire twice within the space of an hour on that very night with his pockets full of matches and a lighted cigar. There can be no doubt that his feelings were grievously hurt by all the pain and humiliation to which he has been subjected, and that a fair minded man will say that the city should do what it can toward binding up his shattered feelings. If all means give him a place in the fire department and show him that the city sympathizes with a man who has not only done wrong, but who has had the right to get caught while doing it. Such a move would be the only one that the city council could make for the benefit of the city.

Safe at Last. Zed Bethers, a young man who has a record six years long in the police court of this city, has been missing for some little time past, and no one seemed to know where he had gone. Yesterday Sheriff Hazen returned from Fort Madison, where he went to take John Howard, convicted of burglary, for confinement in the penitentiary. While there he saw Bethers, who, however, now goes by the name of Sam, and gives his residence as Sioux City. He is serving out a sentence for horse stealing.

On his way to Fort Madison Howard told the sheriff he had served terms in the Nebraska and Missouri penitentiaries and is giving the matter an investigation with view to ascertaining how it came that the crews of the two sections had different instructions, contrary to the usual custom.

BOSTON STORE. No Politics in It. COUNCIL BLUFFS, Nov. 24.—To the Editor of The Bee: In his criticism of Mayor Lawrence and City Attorney Hazen in an evening paper, "Democrat" is evidently actuated by partisan motives and is consequently unable to appreciate the efforts of those excellent officials in co-operating with the citizens' movement for a 5-cent motor fare. While it may be true that the executive officers of the city have not acted as promptly as their friends could have wished, we must not forget that this is a very important matter and one that requires careful consideration as well as decision and so far their actions have been characterized by dignity and judgment.

CHAIRMAN AT SOUTH OMAHA. Chief Beckett's Crossed to Encourage People to Retire at Reasonable Hours. Chief Beckett has started out to purify the midnight atmosphere of the city by stopping various lines of dissipation. Young men who have no business on the streets at night are being stopped at 11 o'clock; all women found in wine rooms will be arrested and any saloon keeper who keeps his place open after 12 o'clock at night will be prosecuted.

The principal object is to protect the citizens from footpads and thieves. All strangers will be taken to the station when found prowling around at a late hour, and all men found in wine rooms will be arrested and any saloon keeper who keeps his place open after 12 o'clock at night will be prosecuted.

The man who stabbed Louis Jacobs in a boarding house Wednesday night and was fined $5 and costs for being drunk gave the name of John Laub. His name is not Laub but Altman. About four years ago Altman was convicted of shooting an Omaha pawnbroker named Snyder with intent to kill and was sentenced to the penitentiary. He got eight months off for good behavior and was released only a short time ago.

The fellow had been drinking and was a little mazed as to how he became muddled up, but the police are of the opinion that he tried to whip the wrong man.

CHASED THE OFFICERS. Two Silver City Men Insert Their Heads Into Baker's House Trap.

Constable Baker and an assistant, Isaac Barrett, went to the house of the two men yesterday for the purpose of leaving execution on a horse that belonged to Alexander McKinzie and Dan, his son, two farmers who are recognized by all their neighbors and acquaintances as being exceedingly bad men to handle when they take a notion to be rankankorous. Baker had heard that he was likely to have some trouble, and so he took Barrett along in case of emergency.

When they arrived at the McKinzie mansion and made known their errand the first thing they got out of the men of the house was that they the officers, didn't know their business. They finally got possession of the horse, however, in spite of repeated attempts on the part of the owners to get it away from them. Baker and Barrett finally started back toward town leading the horse behind their buggy, but they had not gone far when the two silver city men came after them with another rig, riding pell mell. They followed close behind for the whole eight miles of the journey, trying to get the horse out of the officers' hands. They were in the purpose of making it break away if possible. It was a race for blood, but neither of the constables at ease. As soon as Barrett and his assistant reached Justice Vieu's office they filed an information charging both the McKinzie men with resisting an officer, and a short time after striking the city both the accused were placed under arrest. They gave bonds for their appearance December 16 for trial and were released.

Destroys a dreadful Poison. In the city yesterday was a man who, for obvious reasons, does not want his name put in print. He is an enthusiastic admirer of the Sweetland remedies. "They cured me of a loathsome disease from which I had suffered for years, and language cannot express my gratitude. I had tried all other systems of treatment and will never again expand the hundreds of dollars and finally sinking down to the depths of despair. The Sweetland remedies from the start reached the disease, and I noted the beneficial effects within a few days. I was not at all alarmed at the quantity of money and began to heal, and now I cannot perceive a trace of the disease. My blood is as free from taint and pure as it ever was, while my general health has been greatly improved by the systematic treatment."

The Sweetland remedies are a positive and unflinching remedy for syphilitic and all venereal poisons. They never fail, and the treatment does not interfere with the business or habits of the patient.
