Guy Andrews was arrested last evening on a charge of drunkenness. While he was at the police station a friend of his called on him and pointed him out to the police as having robbed him of $10 during the after-noon. He claimed he was drunk and Andrews agreed to take him home. Instead of steering him in a homeward direction, however, he took him into a neighboring barn and took advantage of his befuddled con-dition to go through his pockets. When last seen the friend, who had within the last few hours become sober, was on his way to the city clerk's residence to file an information.

HE IS ALSO SAID TO BE A DEFAULTER

As Chairman of a Committee of the Treaband He Collected the Proceeds of a Ball and Applied Them to His Own Use.

Fred Krueger, an employe of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, is missing, and it is the Treubund society of this city that is the principal mourner over his temporary denise. A ball was given by the society a couple of weeks ago and Krueger occupied the position of chairman of the committee on arrangements. He had the job of receiving and disbursing the money. He did the receiving in first-class shape, but when it came to disbursing be dian't seem to be a shining success. The merchants who furnished stuff for the ball have been complaining that they did not receive their pay, and early in the work it developed that Krueger had skipped the town.

He has been gone as a marky as can be

He has been gone, as nearly as can be learned, ever since last Thursday. That day being pay day, he drew his check and sent being pay day, he drew his check and sent his wife and youngest child to Logan, where they had friends. When they had been dis-posed of he locked up his bouse, which is at the corner of Avenue I, and Tenth street, and left for parts as yet unknown. He and his wife are said to have had considerable domestic trouble, and she is not supposed to know any more of his possent whereabouts know any more of his present whereabouts than any one else. At soon as the fact of his disappearance and shortage became known the members of the Treubund held a meeting and struck his name from their rolls. They then appointed a committee to investigate the case and find out if possible whither the bird had flown. The doings of this commit-tee are carried on with the most scrupulous secrecy, and the members thereof refuse to state whether or not they have secured a trace of him.

Krueger is thought to have neglected to settle a number of his own bills in addition to those of the society, and there will be quite a shortage all around. It is believed the amount he took with him belonging to the society will amount to not less than $150. The society has arranged to pay all claims which its chairman failed to meet, and so preserve the good name of the order. Krueger will be remembered by many as having sued the city not long ago for $10,000 damages on account of the death of his wife.

Why Raise Insurance Rates?

It is reported that the fire insurance com panies are about to put up the rates, and have already increased the price of certain risks in this city to such an extent as to amount practically to prohibition. One of the prominent citizens of Council Bluffs has been in correspondence with a well known insurance inspector in another state, and the following has been received from him with reference to the action of the com-

"Why raise the rates? This is a pertinent question and the insurance companies should not hesitate to give their reasons for this action on their part and show conclusively that it was necessary.

"Not but that these corporations have a right to place any price they choose upor their policies and the people have a right to pay or not pay the price asked, but this question is pertinent, because for years the public has given full sway to the leading companies who are now giving the rate thumb screw a round turn. The public has allowed them to combine for their selfprotection against competition, and now these companies should give an account of their stewardship in this rate matter. As far back as we have any reliable record, being from ten to fifteen years in some states to as high as thirty years in others, we have a loss ratio to premiums paid of 54.7 per cent for the United States and Cauada, Last year was exactly an average year. Below is given a table of statistics covering a sufficiently large field in the northwest to fur-

Iowa	23 21 11 16 11 11	38.2 58.3 43.7 41.0 44.3 36.8

Allowing that the losses have been un usually heavy this year thus far it is not possible that the loss ratio will be raised bove a general average of 47 or 48 per cent. Then why raise the rates 20 per cent or more on business risks?

"There is no getting away from these figures; they are absolutely correct and speak for themselves."

It had its first trial at the last term, which resulted in a verdict of eleven to one in favor of the plaintiff all the circumstances indicating that the old juror had reasons of his own for wanting to see the railway company win. The case will undoubtedly last several days.

Yesterday morning the case of Ross against Boren was disposed of. The evidence was all submitted Monday night and a motion to take the case from the jury was argued. Yesterday morning the judge took it from the jury and instructed for a verdict for the defendant. Fight for Corporation Interests.

NEW GAS LEAKS FROM AN OLD METER

Further Discussion of a Famous Franchise-Hascall Criticises the Courts - Several Vetoes by the Mayor-Routine Business Transacted.

I. S. Hascall, "the laboring man's candidate," and his followers in the council, scored another victory at the meeting of that body last night for the Omaha Gas Manufacturing company. They did not have a walk away, however, and adroitly shoved the entire responsibility of the action of the combine on the judiciary. Mr. Hascall worked the racket that the court that had issued the restraining order had committed the greatest of trickery in the entire proceedings and that the combine was free from jobbery and as white as the driven snow. The fight was a lively one and the parliamentarians were in their element. All of the members made speeches, and some of them indulged in several. The trouble was started by the city clerk returning the veto of the mayor with an endorsement that the papers were handed him at 8:15, after the council had adjourned.

Mr. Hascall objected to the papers being Mr. Hascan to secret to the papers being received and was supported by Mr. Wheeler.
Mr. Howell said that there was no objection to receiving the papers and placing them on file. He intended to sustain the veto of the mayor, but would ask no member to vote upon the question until the injunction was dissolved.

injunction was dissolved.

President Bechel ruled that it was not in order to receive the papers, where a member objected, unless the council voted that the same be considered.

Mr. Munro raised the point that no one knew what the papers, contained and, they knew what the papers contained and they should be read for information.

should be read for information.

Natural gas was turned loose for a few minutes. it was Mr. Hascall, "the laboring-man's candidate." He said the paper could not be received, as the charter provisions prevented it. He talked against time, and said that "Judge Maynard in his palmiest days in New York was never guity of such trickery as was that of the court enjoining the council from passing the courter. the council from passing the ordinance over the veto of the mayor.

Mr. Prince said that the minute the papers were received they became subject to legis-lative action and the courts had enjoined the council from enacting legislation on the sub-ject contained in the papers.

Discussed the Injunction.

Mr. Howell believed that the papers could legally and should be received by the coun-cil. He inquired of the city attorney whether with an injunction standing over the council the papers could not be received and placed on the table until the injunction was dis posed of.

Mr. Connell said that the charter pre vented the message being received, while the order of the court prevented the veto being acted upon except in one manner. He thought the council was in a dilemma and was in danger of violating either an express provision of the charter or order of the

Mr. Saunders said that he did not believe it proper to receive the papers owing to the injunction, as he did not desire to place himself in contempt by voting upon any consideration of the same.

Mr. Elsasser inquired of Mr. Saunders if he would vote to receive the papers after the injunction was disposed of. Mr. Saunders replied that his action would depend upon the circumstances.

Mr. Elsasser insisted that the papers should be received and action taken as soon as the courts had passed upon the motion for a permanent injunction. Mr. Munro said that the council wes pur-suing a peculiar course. The members did not know what was contained in the papers and could not act intelligently until the papers had been read for information.

Provision of the Charter.

Mr. Wheeler read the provision of the char ter covering the question of votes. He said the opponents of the franchise bad left one end of the bag open. They had enjoined the mayor and council from doing a thing, but had omitted the city clerk, whose duty was to certify the measures becoming law, when the mayor had not sent in a veto. He asserted that the mayor had neglected to place a veto in the hands of the council previous to adjournment and consequently it

Mr. Steel was surprised that any member of the council would profess belief that the measure was a law and he knew that no court would sanction such procedure as had characterized the course of the gas ordinance. He said that the mayor's veto was in the hands of his secretary and ready for presentation previous to the adjournment of the council. Mr. Steel asserted that the uncil had not metat the regular hour and that the clock was too fast. President Bechel replied that the council was called to order at 8:03 o'clock, the time being shown by the clock, He said that the intimation that he had tampered with the clock was false.

Mr. Steel denied that he had ever in timated that the president had tampered with the clock and had only asserted that the timepiece was too fast.

Mr. Parker came to the rescue and said the clock showed the same hour as his time piece on the night in question.

The call of the roll was then ordered. Mr. Edwards explained his vote by saying that he believed in one department of government respecting another. For that reason he thought the papers should not be received until the injunction had been passed upon. Mr. Elsasser arose to explain his vote. The president thought Mr. Elsasser had talked enough and the gentleman from the Second contented himself with casting his

Mr. Jacobsen said that according to the opinion that it was wrong to vote one way and it was wrong to vote the other. Consequently he would vote to not receive the papers. The vote was proceeded with and resulted as follows: Yeas-Elsasser, Howell, Munro Steel-4. Nays-Back, Bruner, Edwards Hascali, Jacobsen, McLearie, Parker, Prince Saunders, Specht, Thomas, Wheeler, Beche Later a communication from the mayor was received calling attention to his veto of the gas ordinance on November 21.

As quickly as the communication was rea: Mr. Steel moved that it be received and placed on file. The president said that if placed on file. The president said that if there was no objection such action would be taken.
Mr. Steel then moved that the veto of the mayor be taken up. Mr. Hascall objected and moved that the communication, pre-viously ordered filed, be rejected. His motion was put and prevailed.

Here the council got badly mixed, and Mr. Steel's motion to file the mayor's communica tion went glimmering under a ruling of the Another motion by Mr. Steel was not put to a vote. At the time the mayor vetoed the gas ordinance he also vetoed a resolution upon another subject. Mr. Steel's motion was to take up that resolution, and after a spirited fight the regular order of business was proceeded with upon motion of Mr. Has-Several Vetoes by the Mayor.

Mayor Bemis vetoed the ordinance creating paving district 575, and the same was sustained. Also a resolution to relay the pavement in block 15f, and pay for the same from the general fund. The veto was not sustained. A veto of a resolution ordering the grading of Ninth street, from Bancrof to Harker's subdivision, was also sustained Other vetoes were disposed of as follows:
Ordering water hydrants on Thirty-third street, south of Burt; on Fifteenth, south of Williams, and repealing ordinance No. 3,025.
Not sustained. Ordering paving contractor to grade the sidewalk space on each side of Half Howard from Twenty-sixth to Twentyeighth street; sustained.

The mayor appointed J. S. Miller to act as city prosecutor during the absence of Mr. Cochran. The appointment was confirmed.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Associated Charities I resent an Enj yable Entertainment at Bauer's-Gossip. A large and select audience assembled at the Associated Charities entertainment at Bauer's hall last night. The principle obentertainment was to get the better class of citizens interested in the work of charity, and judging from appearwork of charity, and judging from appearances this was fully accomplished. The meeting was a success in every detail. Owing to the sickness of Mayor Walker, Judge Fowler presided. The first number was a song by the Presbyterian quartet, composed of Miss Glasgow, Miss Griest, J. C. Carley and James Smith. The individual members of this quartet are recognized as being among the best singers in the city and their efforts last evening were heartly appreciated. Next singers in the city and their enorts last evening were heartily appreciated. Next came a recitation by Dr. L. A. Merriam of Omaha, entitled "Nature, Voices." The doctor well searned the hearty applause he received. Rev. R. L. Wheeler sent his regrets and following his place on the program was a musical turn by E. M. Bonnell. gram was a musical turn by E. Bein-dorff of Omaha, who also has a large class of pupils in this city, rendered a very difficult se-lection on the piano, which was well received. He was heartily encored and gave a second selection. Mr. Beindorff recently returned from Germany, where he spent four years under the leading professors of Leipsic. Rev. H. J. McDevitt, as a member of the committee, gave an intelligent outline of what the society proposed to do, and spoke eloquently in favor of perfect organization to look after the unfortunate ones who might need assistance at the hands of the many who have plenty. Mr. Bonnell sang "I am Thy Sentinel" splendidly, and for He was heartily encored and gave a second 'I am Thy Sentiner' splendidly, and for an encore gave 'Down by Daddy's Mill,' Mr. Bonneil was certainly a favorite with the audience. Mr. John Rush of Omaha told of the good the Associated Charities had done in Omaha and encouraged those who had started in the good work to push ahead. Although Rev. J. F. Ross came well down on the program his remarks were closely fol-lowed and his suggestions togical. The program ended with a song by the Presbyterian quartet, and the general impression that the entertainment was a pleasant one throughout.

Mother and Three Little Ones Perish in ; Big Oil City Fire. Oil City, Pa., Nov. 28 .- One of the most destructive fires that have visited Oil City for many years started this morning in Hugh Shield's restaurant building, and the whole block between Center and Sycamore Elm and Railroad streets, was soon reduced to ruins. There were four distinct buildings in the block, namely: The Braun & Schweiger, the Shield, the Buffalo House and the Griffith block. All were twostory frame buildings and the lower floors were occupied by various stores, markets and saloons. The money loss is estimated at upward of $100,000 without insurance. The horrible and deplorable feature of the fire is the loss of human life. Shortly after the flames had been got under control it was reported that Mrs. Shields and three of her children had perished. Mrs. Shields was seen on the sidewalk-with her babe in her arms shortly after the alarm was sounded. It is supposed she missed the other children and rushed back into the building to find them and was overcome by the dense smoke. There were several narrow escapes, one or two persons having to jump from the upper windows, but all are accounted for but Mrs Shields and children Up to I o'clock tonignt the bodies of Mrs.

Shields and her three children had not been recovered. Scores of men have been at work all day searching for the bodies of the missing ones, but the heat was so intense that it is feared that they have been completely inciderated. Those who lost their lives are: MRS HUGH SHIELDS, aged 36 years, FANNIE SHIELDS, aged 14 years, CHARLES SHIELDS, aged 5 years, MYRTLE SHIELDS, aged 9 months. The losses will foot up over $95,000, with insurance of $47,500. The origin of the fire is unknown. Forty minutes after the discovery of the fire the block was a mass of glossof grains.
